New IBM Tabulating Machine Aids Sociological Research

An IBM tabulating system was installed in the Sociology Department this summer. The new machines are a summary punch-card, a counter-sorter, and a tabulator. Thetabulator transfers the information to a counter-sorter. It can then sort and count to any number of cards. The tabulator classifies all the information from the cards into columns, constructing a usable table. The three machines altogether can break down sociology research in a matter of days instead of weeks.

FAC Colloquium Determines "No Bid for Socrates;" "Anti-Fascist¾"

Dissent Is Theme for Colloquium

Dissonance between the themes presented last fall was evident in the pre-semester Discourse in the FAC Colloquium held on Friday, October 9, 1964, at 3:00 p.m. in the FAC. G. Ross Clark, an Associate Professor of Political Science, was the guest speaker for the Colloquium.

Clark, who is known for his provocative and controversial views, presented a paper titled "Dissent Is Theme for Colloquium.

Clark discussed the theme of dissent in the context of the political climate, emphasizing the importance of challenging authority and promoting social and political change. He argued that dissent is a necessary component of a healthy democratic society and that it is essential for the development of a vibrant and dynamic political discourse.

The discussion was lively and engaging, with students and faculty members actively participating in the conversation. The atmosphere was charged with energy and intellectual curiosity, as participants debated the role of dissent in shaping social and political realities.

Clark's paper emphasized the importance of questioning established norms and values, fostering critical thinking, and encouraging open dialogue. He acknowledged the challenges of dissent in today's society, where conformity and consensus are often valued over individuality and critical perspectives.

Clark concluded his presentation by encouraging students and faculty to embrace dissent as a means of promoting progress and social justice. He highlighted the need for continued faculty development and collaboration among members of the FAC.

The FAC Colloquium is a recurring event that brings together faculty, students, and community members to engage in thought-provoking discussions on various topics. It serves as a platform for sharing ideas, fostering intellectual curiosity, and promoting a culture of debate and inquiry.

The FAC Colloquium continues to be a significant venue for intellectual engagement, and Clark's presentation exemplified its commitment to fostering a stimulating and inclusive environment for dialogue and learning.

The Idea Explosion; It's Happening Here

by Deanne Briggs

The past week has been a whirlwind explosion of ideas on the part of an inspired minority. Rampant by such interested inquirers as you, our idea group, which started out informally as the John J. Ritchie Society, has expanded to include over 300 enthusiastic members with several outstanding solutions to the epiphyll problem on campus, not to mention the cultural and intellectual void here. Many of our ideas can be readily adapted to other colleges and universities. Their labor will be discussed in detail below and include such innovation as the integrated education center, and a broad and monthly literary review.

Goldbug Editor Interviews Russians and Explains Changes and Outlines on Fall Farm Auction

rs. Wallin, of the Russian Federation, visited the United States in December and met with the editors of the Goldbug. Here are some of the thoughts that resulted from this meeting.

The Russians believe that the concept of individual freedom is an important one. They feel that the individual should be free to express his own opinions and to engage in activities that he deems beneficial. They also believe in the importance of education and the role of the state in promoting it. They see a strong link between education and the well-being of society.

The Russians also take pride in their history and culture. They have a rich literary tradition, which they believe reflects their cultural values. They also value their national identity and feel a strong sense of patriotism.

The Russian perspective is one of hope and optimism. They believe that with the right policies and actions, society can be improved and progress can be made.
Does Fraternity Sectioning Pay Off?

By Robert Draper

The Gold Bug, Oct. 23, 1964

Is a College Fraternity Sectioning Worth the Cost?

The idea of organization is the foundation of all political and social movements, and the idea of sectioning is the same. The idea is that the group can be divided into sections that are easier to manage and control. The idea is that each section can be given a specific role and responsibility, and that the sections can be held accountable for their actions.

The idea of sectioning is not new. It has been used in many different contexts, from the ancient Roman legions to modern-day organizations like the military and corporations. The idea is that sections can be given specific roles and responsibilities, and that the sections can be held accountable for their actions.

Focus Presents Faculty Lectures, Graduates Participate

More than eighty interested students and alumni participated in the annual Fall Convocation, held at Westminster College on October 18. The program, organized by Dr. Richard S. Wys, director of the Public Relations office, was designed to acquaint the students with the activities of the Kappa Delta Rho chapter, which is the national Panhellenic organization.

Dr. Wys introduced the keynote speaker, Dr. V. E. B. Price, who talked about the theme of the evening: "The Role of the Student in American Education." Dr. Price emphasized the importance of education in today's society and discussed the role of the student in contributing to the growth of knowledge and understanding.

The program included a number of student speakers, who shared their experiences and insights on various topics related to education and student life.

Continental Dinner Theme Keeping with the theme of Continental Weeks, this year's Focus was connected with Europe. The speakers presented a variety of subjects, ranging from the history of the continent to the art and culture of the region. The evening concluded with a dinner attended by the students and faculty, providing an opportunity for networking and discussion.

Warren Jelenik Long, neat articles, book in hand, constantly on the go, must be Warren Jelenik. He must rely on his way from an SCA Finance Committee of which he is president.

A meagre-crop-of-activities is nothing new to Warren. A four-year student, a three-year member of Tri Delta, Warren has also served on the Honor Court. A Tri Alpha scholarship recipient has been his leadership admiration as he served on SCA representatives in his role as an officer. He is able to use his experiences as a member of the SCA Finance Committee to benefit his students in his role as an officer.

With these qualifications Warren was chosen the Tri Delta representative of the Student Senate for the fall semester and as a leader in the Student Senate, Warren is working to improve the quality of student life on campus.

Tribefifty Analysis - "Deputy"

Tribe fifty was the second speaker in this facet of the Fall program. He discussed how hectic the week of last year had been and emphasized the importance of organization and planning for the students. Tribe fifty talked about the importance of being a leader and how to become one.

Tribefifty's analysis of the fall program was well received by the students and he was able to get many people interested in what he had to say.

Scottish Accordion, a play, and mid-week prayer services are among the fall's activities of the Student Christian Association. The SCA, under the leadership of Sandy Winger, sponsored its program with a Scottish party at Harvey Street Park. In October 31 it will sponsor an International Students panel discussion, to be held at Canyon Ybarbour. It is possible that the SCA calendar will be a retreat in December, in Pennsylvania, Maryland, on November 30 to December 1. There will be services during the week of the SCA's school, and prayer fellowship will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 10:30 p.m. Beginning October 31, various chapels, prayer services, and student-led prayer services will be held mid-week services from 10:30 to 12:40 p.m. Communion service is held in both Thursday and Friday at 10:30. Reminiscing On Art

by Bob

"Art does not reside in the studio; rather it resides in the hearts of those who have lived, loved, and suffered for it." These words, spoken by an artist, are the reason why we should always support art and artists. The radial artist is a true artist who creates art for the sake of art. Art should not be limited to the creation of art that resonates with the mind of the artist. Art should be universal and appreciated by everyone.

Outstanding in Miss Finland

"If the Honors Court was ever to choose an 'out- standing in Miss Finland,' it would be a woman who has made a significant contribution to the art world."

The honoree must have demonstrated a strong commitment to the arts and have made a positive impact on the community.

After the speeches, the audience was treated to a special performance by local artists.

Boast No Quizzes, Homework

As U. S. colleges brand themselves for recent enrollees this fall, some 25,00 American students were on their way to their chosen destination—head, hands, and hearts—to universities in 60 nations across the globe. The Exodus swells by an average of 14 percent annually, double the rate of U. S. college. This year, our wanderers include students being housed in European trade schools, discovering new worlds in their countries, and making contact with the outside world. In some cases (as in Belgium and the U. N. International University in Bangalore), it is even a joint effort between the students and their home countries. Students Not Wealthy

The ambition to study abroad is a new one among Americans. In 1950, 25,000 students were enrolled in universities or trade schools in Europe. Last year, 25,000 will enroll in foreign universities or trade schools. Today, the American student is an international student, and Europe is an international institution. Ed Daniels Helps Crippled;

As he saw, the European student today is a complex being who believes he will prepare him for life in a fast-paced world. His campus life must be broad, offering a wide variety of courses in many different fields. His campus life must also be demanding, with many opportunities for extracurricular activities. The Institute's purpose is "to discover" the American student deeply as possible in an American university and a European culture. Resident students include students from every region of the United States as well as from many European countries. The Institute is supported by private funds, and the student body is largely self-supporting.

In this issue, I have only limited space and the privilege of being able to use a more personal account than the regular reports. Therefore, I'm printing both the report and a new column that points the sports staff to the fact that these Western Maryland students will be competitive.

It is ironic that such a series of events should begin at a time when the record books have been left open since the first game against the Yellows last year. We are now a field position in the Sun., 2:30 Matinee Nov. 1

Thespian's Brave Broadway: Will Show Stage Prowess

"Take Her, She's Mine," a musical about the family of the College Players as they play new plays with the College Players as they deal with the college and the outside world of the student as a giant, as seen simultaneously through the eyes of her occasionally frantic parents. It is an "experience in growing up, for both the parents and the girl." The play, which the movie star half is written for just about anyone, will have particular appeal for college students and their parents. It is a small miracle that the authors, Phoebe and Henry Eldredge, got the chance to do it, since they "own" the family in the play, and that the College Players are appearing at Wellesley College in New England, which is located on a college campus.

Plans For "New Westminster" Materialize With Modernization of Business District

The once rural community of Westminster recently celebrated its centennial. The town has undergone rapid growth in this reign of time; and the transformation is marked by many new buildings, businesses, and other projects initiated in the last year. "Leaders of the town have seen the need and change in the city," but they are realizing that Westminster must expand to meet the needs of the growing population," says J. Howard West of the Westminster Commercial Bank.

Modern Bank

The most recent addition to the town is the Carroll County Bank and Trust Company. This newly-constructed building is located on Main Street and was begun in 1963. The large facilities and modern design of the building are a great improvement over the former building.

The new bank was needed to help encourage industry to move into Westminster, comments bank president C. W. Wainwright. The new building will be opened in the near future.

On October 8, the Western Maryland JV Football team traveled to the Big Track. The Terriers showed that they were ready to be held from their first offensive foe. They surprised the hosts in that they only have to drive the Terriers with their five-yard drop from the halfback position. The Steeler’s safety intercepted the pass in the far end zone. The first Green and Gold score came on the last play of the period after a few plays later. Freshman halfback, D. E. Hill, ran in a 30-yard touchdown in the first period.

In the second quarter some fine comers were made. The Western Maryland running back, D. R. Weir, showed that the Terriers were not out of the game. And with sixteen seconds remaining back dropped to the goal line. Freshman Andy Wiltz was the one on the inside of the goal line.

Fullback John Johnson carried the ball for the two points conversion.

Some fine defensive play in the second half of the game was highlighted by an interception by Don Staczek, a Green and Gold end. He returned his touchdown drive late in the fourth quarter, but the Terriers remained in the game and forced our JVs to score. The game showed some excellent offensive and defensive play from both teams a 49-yard and 105-yard passing.

Welcome Parents

The GOLD BUG joins with the faculty, administration, and our kinder congregational organizations to welcome you, our parents, to the beginning of a new school year. We cordially extend this invitation to you and ask you to come and accept at Western Maryland College. Your son or daughter is here; you are here; you must be here also. The former of these three, you can choose; the latter two of these you can not.

First Aim: Academic

The first potential achievement of the college is to develop in the academic one. Parents’ Day itself coincides with the mid-semester standing to allow you to become familiar with the criteria used to assess your child’s accomplishments.

Toward the vast ocean of a liberal education there are many tributaries which will not be evident in a letter-grade. The only one you can measure and sort for yourselves is the college TALK. TALK and UNDERSTAND your progress. Living with other students is of the same age has led to the development of a whole new world, goals, philosophies, and values is an education in itself.

Facets of Education

The total social experience (socialization, lectures, papers, and personal relationships) will be a vital factor in the total impact you receive at the end of the year. The minor crises of your college child will all contribute to his confidence and maturity in the major roles he will play in society as a graduate. Teenagers aptly relate, “I am a part of all that I have.” If you are not currently raising and augment your child’s college development, you also must be indirectly part of these academic crises.

The GOLD BUG hopes that you, our parents, are enjoying and profiting from your few years of college. It is our firm belief that these years are educational experiences as important as our own college five years ago.

"A Mist of Memories Through Ten Years"

by Miss Esther Smith

In cooperation with the Student Council, the GOLD BUG recently conducted a poll to find out what WM students concerning the best memories of their college years. The present system cannot be a true reflection of the last week of March, regarding the faculty reaction. A recent poll of 378 respondents of this class, 100 of whom favored an Easter vacation, 275 of whom were against the questionnaire were as follows: 49 percent favored an Easter vacation and 11 percent are still in favor. In previous years it was the custom to take an annual Easter vacation.

We should encourage students to this. We should not be so fussy, since we do not know if we want our vacation yet. African harvest food would have been a better idea, especially when the amount of millions of hungry fellow students in the world’s population.

It is impossible for us to identify with the Filipinos on their first Thanksgiving and their celebrated five grains of rice by each person. This is the real meaning of the remnant hunger that comes to him from beyond ourselves.

Khrushchev: Legacy and Tribute

by Ray

It is time to pay a deserved tribute to the memory of this century’s most colorful politician. His reputation has tumbled from the heights of a Ukrainian coal miner to the heights of a powerful nation. The last two years have been the most turbulent of his life. Much has been said about the influence of the U.S. and European Union in world politics. The former has been of a substantial nature, while the latter, in contrast, seems to have been of a more subtle nature. The question is, the students, the question is, the students, the question is, the students, the question is.

If you are listed as assistant professor of Military Science at West Point. His presence at WM will contribute to our life.

WCTU Rides Again: Objective — The Hill

by Booth

Recently three members of the Student Christian Association brought out the theme of evening activities. The group, composed of a dozen or so members, came to a major theme, "Who are the students of the college?"

Minor Characters Give Direction

Mr. Ford also skillfully introduces minor characters and subplots which serve to either give comic relief from or intensify the main plot. For instance, he introduced the delightful image of Stedman — prosperity — clowns — for a sly effect. Yet he also intensifies the problem of Paty Jo through one Cemmerik — black — play — is manipulated Gratt in a good purpose. Through his characters, Mr. Ford directs the reader down the main stream of the novel by developing the mystery of the major plot.

In the end, Ford's sympathy centers on Paty Jo in this description.

"She was toughened now, and she would be all right. She would prevail. For she knew how to hold up her head and shrug the world. It was a little thing to her, this shrinking to see so plainly what she had. She knew who lived in every river, who lived in every brook and in every tree; how, like electricity, he thought, she had put in the mystery that could only slowly be changed by the old school. But she knew; she knew how, so beautiful."

Bulletin and Eleanor Cote — a pool for all the way. However, Mr. Ford systematically presents us with a mass of scenes and characters. He manages this through a rich, clear, precise style that emphasizes strong action, more so in the central romance as well as in the peripheral romance. The reader cannot lose the time of the action. The hard quality of style is further maintained by the way, through a varied dialogue with use of coarse and declining detail. For instance, Paty Jo, her comment on Gratt's life force:

"Well, as you go! A friend like a bit of me, embarrassed in front of your mighty antique wallflowers. I mortified myself for you. But that's you."

Mr. Ford, Stedman, and Pleasant Groves: two names. We start shrinking inside the novel, as the reader does. But now, you can tell. Now, the punch line: how, in turn out, all and new love.

Religion is the opiate of the people!
That's what Karl Marx declared. And sometimes it seems that he may have been right. So many people, considering themselves "religious," use their worship as a tranquilizer — a pill taken once a week to remove the "pain of life." It's almost like a way to escape reality and to avoid involvement. But the first tenet of their Faith is to look for ways to avoid involvement. They forget the first tenet of their Faith:

"Love thy neighbor as thyself.

The Repertory Theatre

by Tom Michaels

Repertory theatre? What is it? I can hear you now: "I don't know what you are talking about when you talk about repertory theatre."

That means that you are not only a practitioner of repertory theatre, but also a consumer of it. If you find it hard to define repertory theatre, you are not alone. That's why we decided to look into the subject and find out what it is all about.

Repertory theatre is the idea that a small company of actors is able to be a creator of the theatre. Most of all, we find that there are repertory companies that are able to produce plays for the better part of the year, often using different directors from the usual directorship. Some of these companies have been around for over twenty years.

Repertory theatre has suffered from two main problems: lack of money and lack of interest. Probably the reason that we are not able to see more of the type of productions that we are interested in, is that there is a lack of interest in repertory theatre.

My first real tests of home life occurred when I received some copies of the Washington News Bulletin. I thought I'd just take a few minutes to apprise, Bobb, and the rest of the group, of the types of jobs you're doing in the Peace Corps.

From the Terrace

In the theatre and in art sick humor has become a well-recognized, accepted method of satire since Voltaire’s “Candide” in 1759. In the parodies of modern artists such as Dada and Pop art, sick humor has developed a major role in the popular culture. Sick humor has become the accepted form of humor in our current society. People, especially the young, find it comforting.

With “That Was The Week That Was” and the many others who have opened our eyes to some of the performers and their work, in our magazine, we hope that people begin to realize that it is possible to be funny and to have a new humor: President Bush, the President of the United States; President Kennedy, or Charles de Gaulle.

As we look at and appreciate the work of the performers who have played so well in our theatre, we hope that you have enjoyed our work as well.

Please visit us on future occasions for more enjoyable activities on the campus and in the community.

Wilson Leads Scorers; Alumni No Threat

The United States Naval Academy football team allowed only 38 points in its last six games after erasing Duke University last week next month, when the Bulldogs scored no points in the fourth quarter. The large margin was the largest number of Territory teams scoring no point to that point or under their team's entrance.

The Terrors are scheduled to meet the Old Men Thursday night at 8:45 in the comfortable Terrory and are expected to be a tough opponent for Monday's homecoming with Dickinson College and the sharpshooting of young men.

"Cold Friday" by Whittaker Chambers

Chambers, who has written many articles for the Gold Bug, has written a story about the Post-World-War II period and the struggle to get back to normal life. He begins his story with the description of the death of a man named John Bowers, who was killed by a car while walking home from work.

Under Studied Question: Struck Out by Shut-Out?

by Diane Briggs

Despite the fact that Western is a strong college with many student activities, there seems to be a lack of knowledge about the opportunities for participation in the administration for the all-sports teams. The lack of knowledge about the opportunities for participation in the administration for the all-sports teams is due to the fact that the students are not aware of the opportunities available.

Struck Out by Shut-Out?

In sports, the issues of Broadway, movies, television, are being discussed. Many students are reminded of the fact that the baseball team was shut out. They are left wondering if there will be another chance to participate in sports.

Heaven Knows We've Got To Do Something About Band Uniforms

by Myra Zelen

Although we have been exploring new styles and trends for over 15 years, the style went out of style so quickly that it is difficult to keep up with the changes. We need to consider the differences between women's and men's styles.

The band has been asked to find new ideas for their band uniforms. The band's director is working with the band to come up with new ideas that will be both practical and stylish.

Does WMCP Represent Established Religion? Horace Mann: "Yes!"; Dr. Ensor: "No!"

By Harold Mervis

Mr. Mann and Dr. Ensor differ sharply over whether the provisions of the WMCP (Westmoreland County Public Schools) substantially establish a state-supported establishment in violation of the Constitution. Mr. Mann said that the provisions of the WMCP substantially establish a state-supported establishment. Dr. Ensor disagreed.

Mr. Mann said that the provisions of the WMCP substantially establish a state-supported establishment. He cited several clauses that he said were unconstitutional, including the one that provides for the appointment of a superintendent of schools by the county superintendent and the one that provides for the appointment of a principal for each school district. Dr. Ensor disagreed, saying that these clauses did not establish a state-supported establishment.

The dispute arose because of the WMCP's provision that the county superintendent shall appoint a superintendent of schools for each school district, and the provision that the county superintendent shall appoint a principal for each school district. Mr. Mann argued that these provisions created a state-supported establishment, while Dr. Ensor argued that they did not.

The case was argued before the State Supreme Court, and a decision is expected soon.

Dr. Ensor conceded that the WMCP's provision that the county superintendent shall appoint a superintendent of schools for each school district created a state-supported establishment. He said that the provision was unconstitutional, but he argued that the WMCP's provision that the county superintendent shall appoint a principal for each school district did not create a state-supported establishment.

The case is significant because it could set a precedent for the establishment of religion in public schools. The WMCP is one of the most controversial public school systems in the state, and its provisions have been challenged in court several times. If the court rules in favor of Mr. Mann, it could set a precedent for the establishment of religion in public schools in the state.

Need for New Column?

To the Editor:

I would like to offer a suggestion concerning the column called "Goldbug." At this time, the "Goldbug" column is being conducted by faculty and the sympathy are calling the student body as a whole. We don't care about the student body, the school we are trying to take this opportunity to thank all of them. Although none of the students on the board are interested in the column. From our past, perhaps more interest can be generalized for the present and the future. From other campaigns, years back, the Ding and Pierce, issues of the "Goldbug," the "Harken," histories of buildings, and in interviews with faculty and alumni, we can learn the often interesting and inspiring facts of our past.

Curtain Up

It's Utterly Absurd

By Tom Michael

Last time I mentioned in this column that I was coming up with a short article on The Theatre of the Absurd. This is it! I've entitled this article as it states above because that is the typical public reaction to The Absurd. However, there is another outstanding failure between the public reaction and the actual name of the movement. The public square the meaning of absurd with that romantics and romanticism. In other words, people do not drink in absinthe or have massages in order to lose their senses, they would acquire a great heart and be the greatest children we had ever, since they are healthy. But it is not completely simple, for there would not have been any reaction from the public at all if the play did not conflict with their concepts of rationality. This is just the point that the absurdist writer made: we can, as he said, not even react to the world except that which is reasonable, and even if we do, in the end, we cannot say it is rational, since rationalism is fallible.

In another respect, Japanese theatre is the same. In particular, the Japanese theatre is very close to the plays of Beckett and Ionesco. In fact, all walkways of potential danger because of steps and mud. The Japanese are equipped with rafts on both sides of the streets, so they are not at all afraid of danger. They are also not afraid of diseases and have never been afraid of diseases. Even when the disease is incurable, the Japanese see it as a part of life and they cannot die. They are the most dangerous people in the world. In this case, the Japanese theatre is the only one that can be a part of the process of the theatre of the absurd.
Longevity Robes For Christmas?

View of World Wide Gift Giving

Admire a picture on a Russian icon, or spread the red Guards down and give it to you! And after all, there are certain lines of the year, he more the Chinese, and other nations which yield.

Aside fromGottweig residences, where fishing is in- creasingly catching silver, and other nations which yield.

The man is generally, "St. Nick," is based on the image of St. Nicholas, the bishop of Myra in Turkey in the 4th century, as the model of a European Santa Claus. In his 60's time for his generosity to a group of children, he is said to have gone on many a sports on a fly up to the skies, other gifts to the poor. On one of his journeys, perhaps as the story goes, he dropped a bag of feathers which caused the birds to upset a accident into a stocking hung up by the fire—and prompted generations of hopeful children to hang their socks to Santa Claus.

Being Day

Christmas, the season of love and peace, is one of the best times to give to the poor. In England, the season of giving has a long history. The custom of giving gifts to the poor began centuries ago. One tradition is to give gifts to uninvited guests. In some households, this tradition is still observed.

For unusual gifts, take note of the barrel and barrel or of the British, who are known for their generosity. In recent years, the tradition of giving gifts to the poor has become more widespread.

Terence Mann was born on Christmas Day in 1925. For his 70th birthday, gifts were given to him by the British and other nations which yield.

Horace Mann Framework

(Continued from page 4) Methodists believe that the name of God is a living word, and that God is revealed through the Bible and through the experiences of the faithful. This belief is expressed in the practice of the Church, which seeks to bring people to faith in Christ and to help them live a life that is pleasing to God.

What's happened to our standards, you and your family build and strengthen your faith can be a vital force when you take it into your own hands. The Church has a mission to help people live a life that is pleasing to God.

English Scholars

(Continued from page 3) and the recovery of some of their more important ancient texts. The first is a wide social gap between the scholarly world and the general public, which can be seen in the work of modern scholars. The second is a gap between the Church and the world, which can be seen in the work of modern society. The third is a gap between the Church and the world, which can be seen in the work of modern society.

The biggest drawback of the British Church is that the students usually only 'read' em- 3. Do you believe your faith can be a vital force when you take it into your own hands? The Church has a mission to help people live a life that is pleasing to God.

Newspapers

"Jump" the crowd yelled

Thedisturbed man slumped on the roof of a tall office building. "I certainly hope he jumps now," one girl said... "or we'll miss our bus." Others in the crowd made bets on whether the man would or would not. Then the crowd—becoming a mob—began to chant, "Jump, Jump, Jump!"

Thousands of American ath- letes and leisurely recently turned from the Olympics Games in Japan were impressed by the color and charm of a country whose customs extend to uplift- ing the Western mind. Unfortunately, many who at- tended the Olympics returned immediately thereafter, thus missing one of Japan's most in- teresting and significant events—Christmas. For Christmas in Japan is like nothing found anywhere else in the world.

Santa Kuren

What is usually thought of as the spirit of Christmas, which goes far beyond the religious and family aspects of the holiday, is entirely absent in the land of the Rising Sun where Christmas, as we know it, does not exist. The biggest drawback of the Western mind is that the students usually only 'read' em- 3. Do you believe your faith can be a vital force when you take it into your own hands? The Church has a mission to help people live a life that is pleasing to God.

Club Whoppee

Employed by nightclubs, coffee shops and other bars rather than the telephone or television, it seems that the Whoppee, alias "Club Whoppee" or "No Minimum," is a new fad that appears in a sign with the words, "Club Whoppee." The widespread use of Santa Claus as a symbol for the Christmas season has turned the grizzled old gentleman into a popular folk figure. Each year Santa takes his stand beside the customarily decorated streets and houses around the nation, waiting for the children to gather around him and listen to his stories.

Serious Santa

But not every Santa Claus is engaged in commercial pur- poses. A Y WLC radio station in Christmas featured a line of Santa Claus dolls complete with Sants. The children assembled, state-wide, and out marched a Santa to fill calls, followed by a film Santa Kuren who bowed deep- ly and then distributed nicely to delighted youngsters.

Although the God of Happi- ness depicted in Japanese and Chinese art has the singles and wife, that would make it a world of Santa Claus dolls complete with Sants.

Tom has developed his talent and interest in music while at WMC. His performance in ‘Goldie’ is an example of his dedication and passion for music. Tom is a child model and supported the Twist’s spirit by joining in the band in his fresh look.

Tom’s personal interest and ambition to become a working musician in bands, some of which have featured Bruce Springsteen, has been a source of pride for his parents. Interested in all types of people, Tom’s respect for the significance of the theater caused him to display his talent for dramatics. He hopes to work in summer stock after graduating.

The Cagers were the Bachelors' progeny of the day, for they scored their goals against the Mount. The Mount scored 72 and the Cagers 57. It was a great game to watch, as the Mounters were able to hold the ball in the second half and make a comeback. The Cagers were able to keep up with the Mounters until the last minute, but the Mounters were able to pull ahead with a last-second shot. The Mounters are now 15-5, while the Cagers are 11-8. WMC enters Glamour Search for "Best Dressed" Coeds

Glamour magazine has invited colleges across the country to enter their women in the "Best Dressed" contest. Western Maryland College will be one of 100 colleges which will be selected by Glamour magazine editors for inclusion in the contest.

The contest is open to all female students on the WMC campus. There are several requirements for entering the contest, including:

1. A minimum of 10 entries must be submitted from each college.
2. Each entry must consist of a photo of the student, a brief biography, and a statement explaining why the student should be considered for the contest.
3. Entries must be submitted by February 20.

The winners will be announced in March, and the final decision will be made by Glamour magazine editors. The winners will be featured in a future issue of the magazine.

Editor's Notes

"In answer to the question 'Why is Glamour interested in college girls?' Kathleen Azzi, Editor-in-Chief, replied: 'Our aim is to find students who will be fashion leaders in the years to come, and to give them the opportunity to be featured in a future issue of the magazine.'

Money is Important

We also hope to show that there is no set question of money or an extensive wardrobe that defines the development of good taste and an intelligent image in one's appearance. We believe that there is something more to reflecting on the good taste of all college women, but instead to improve their looks without being known as 'fashion victims.'

The Top Ten will be photographed and invited to the annual Glamour Search at the Waldorf Astoria in New York in June via American Airlines for a visit as the guests of the magazine. The Top Ten will also be featured in a full issue of Glamour.

In 1972, the state of Maryland allocated $879,000 for construction of the science building. The funds were used to build a new science building which will be used for laboratory and classroom purposes.

If I have one fault, it is that I have not been able to communicate effectively with others. I have often felt that, however, evaluation and criticism are essential, constructive processes. When I have failed to communicate, I have been observed with the help of the Invisible Wall concept. The concept is that a wall exists, without us knowing it, between us and others. We demand a hand- ing out of one another's ideas, and complaints are met with a hostile and uncooperative attitude.

Selective Electives

What this campus needs is variety! I don't mean more posi- tions or more parties or more groups. I mean a greater variety of topics, courses, and activities. We the student who enters this great institution of Western Maryland College with high hopes of experi- encing a wide variety of interests. Our professional advisers are all conscious of it, too. Many students want to take all the classes which are offered to them. They are then faced with the problem of how to apply what they learn in college to their future careers.

The richness of the university experience depends on the number of courses in each major area of study. At Western Maryland College, we have a good selection of these courses, but there is room for improvement. We need to expand our offerings in order to provide students with more opportunities to pursue their interests.

I believe that we should do this by increasing the number of electives and by offering more courses in the areas of business, humanities, and sciences.

Let's work together to make our university experience more enriching and fulfilling!

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

I was very disappointed to see the article about the freshmen class election.

At one of the meetings this week, I asked several candidates what their goals were for the rest of the year. To my surprise, most of them said that they wanted to win the election. This is not what I expected from our freshmen class.

As a student, I know that winning an election is not the most important thing. What matters most is to make a difference and to serve our community.

I hope that we can have more candidates who are truly interested in helping others and making a positive impact.

Sincerely,

Student Reviews Old Grits; Is Basic Bard Valuable?

by David Robinson

It is all but impossible to get out of an argument about the basic skills that are needed for success in life. In the past, these skills were often taught as part of a broader curriculum. Today, however, these skills are often taught in isolation, at the expense of other important subjects.

In my opinion, the basic skills taught in the past were an integral part of a broader educational experience. They helped students to develop important life skills, such as critical thinking, problem solving, and communication. Today, however, these skills are often taught in isolation, at the expense of other important subjects.

I believe that we need to develop a curriculum that combines the basic skills with other important subjects. This will help students to develop a well-rounded education and to be better prepared for success in life.

WMC Progress is Productive; Changes Bring New Insight

by Linda Murphy

There are certain, there at all, that our experiences and will never be as much from new perspectives, as that of the core of our programs. Unlike their predecessors, these programs will not merely be dedicated to the traditional academic disciplines, but will also be seen as the basis for our students' success in the future.

In this transition, we must remember that students have different goals and needs. Some may be interested in pursuing a career in the arts, while others may be more interested in pursuing a career in science. It is important to provide students with a variety of options, so that they can choose the path that is best for them.

I believe that we need to develop a curriculum that combines the basic skills with other important subjects. This will help students to develop a well-rounded education and to be better prepared for success in life.

Our Haunting Past

By Dave Green

As the war in South Vietnam has come to an end, the question of what will happen to the Vietnam Veterans has become a pressing issue. The Vietnam Veterans Administration, which was established in 1969, has been responsible for providing care and support to those who served in the war. The Administration has faced many challenges, including a lack of funding and a lack of understanding of the needs of veterans.

Recently, the Administration has taken steps to address these challenges. For example, it has increased its funding for mental health services and has expanded its outreach efforts to veterans who are in need. Additionally, it has established a new program, the Vietnam Veterans Assistance Program, which provides financial assistance to veterans who are in need.

Despite these efforts, many Vietnam Veterans still face challenges. Many have struggled to adjust to life after the war, and some have faced issues such as unemployment, addiction, and homelessness. The Administration has been working to address these challenges, and it has made progress in recent years.

As we look to the future, we must continue to support the Vietnam Veterans and to address the challenges that they face. The Administration has a critical role to play in this process, and we must work together to ensure that all Vietnam Veterans are able to find the resources and support that they need.

We must also remember the sacrifices that these veterans made and the debt that we owe to them. It is important that we honor their service and that we work to ensure that they are able to live fulfilling lives. Only through our collective efforts can we ensure that these veterans are able to find the support and resources that they need.

Turning Point in South Viet Nam

By Dave Green

The Vietnam War was a costly and devastating conflict for both the United States and Vietnam. The war was fought from 1955 to 1975 and resulted in the deaths of over 58,000 American soldiers and hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese.

The war had a profound impact on the lives of those who lived through it. Many veterans suffered from post-traumatic stress disorder and other mental health issues. A significant number of veterans also faced physical disabilities and other health problems.

As we look back on the Vietnam War, we must remember the sacrifices that were made and the lessons that were learned. The war was a tragic event, but it also taught us important lessons about the importance of peace and the need to work together to resolve conflicts.

As we continue to work towards a more peaceful world, we must remember the lessons of the Vietnam War. We must work to ensure that future generations are able to live in a world that is free of war and that is characterized by peace and prosperity.

The Vietnam War was a difficult and challenging time for all involved. However, it served as a turning point, and it helped to shape the world that we live in today. As we look to the future, we must continue to remember the sacrifices that were made and the lessons that were learned.

Ian And Sylvia Captivate WMC Audience

WMC Reaction Spells "More!"
Results Say "We'll Get It!"

And how did WMC react to the first taste of Ian and Sylvia? The students, who had previously advertised their appearance as "terrific!", were naturally eager to please the audience and put on a memorable show. The response was overwhelming, with WMC students and others singing along and demanding more from the performers. From the terrace, the audience was in rapt attention, with the radio station's management eagerly listening to the feedback. The results were positive, with WMC students expressing enthusiasm and confidence in the upcoming performance. The night was a success, and the students were thrilled with the crowd's reaction. They were eagerly looking forward to the next show.

Student Comments: "Standing and Weekend to the Editor"

I would like to publicly defend Ian and Sylvia, whom the students have accused of being "fake" and "boring". The students have pointed out that Ian and Sylvia's previous appearances were not as successful as this one, leading some to question their authenticity. However, I believe that the students are being unfair in their assessment. Ian and Sylvia have a genuine connection with their audience, and their music is truly captivating. They are not simply putting on a show for the students, but rather engaging in a genuine musical conversation with them.

The audience was not only captivated by Ian and Sylvia's music, but also by their personal charm. They are known for their warm and approachable personalities, which they brought to this performance. Ian and Sylvia's interaction with the crowd was heartwarming, with the students feeling a genuine connection with their performers. The students' criticism of Ian and Sylvia's performance is misplaced, and I urge them to give these performers another chance. Ian and Sylvia's music is worth experiencing, and I believe that their next performance will be even more successful. Thank you for considering my perspective.

The Road Not Taken

"The Richard Kimble Story"

by Larry Flowers

After playing in the band at his old man in the jump for the ride, his life was changed forever. Before he had done so many other things, such as hanging out with his friends in Chicago. In the cold, bitter如果没有的话, the night would roll through the hazy trees.

Somehow that Kimble always end up waiting alone in that distant forest in the rain. He can't pick a warm anywhere. He would be remembered as a man who has a lot of things to give to the world. No, he's gotta be different. But if he can't, wouldn't be taking any of the loneliness he already knew that he's a fellow but a talented piece of music. And yet, the things that he's been had for less and less. That's why they will if there's a possible or other kind of way.

Thus says the Quantum mechanic.

And His Off Stage

On this particular cold rainy night, Ian and Sylvia were driving down the road. To the right was Stanton, where Mr. Phillip Gar- den had his headquarters, and to the left Price, where a gorgeous chick, finding out that Kimble was a convicted mur- derer, invited him to stay with them in the next morning. But there were other fringe benefits. In reality Ian and Sylvia, after their terrifyingly afraid of girls, found out that Kimble was a convicted mur- derer, invited him to stay with them in the next morning. Clower, Jones Assume Respective Positions

Head Basketball Coach Takes Charge of Department

by John Law and Ed Schenfeld

Before 1965, there had not been a graduate basketball coach at Western Maryland College. In 1965, Dr. John Clower, Assistant Head Teacher at West Virginia Wesleyan College, was appointed as the new head basketball coach. Mr. Clower has been elected to the position of head football coach. Western Maryland is at this moment reaping the benefits of the change. In the next few weeks, we will explore these changes with "realism towards none and charity to all." The article below is the head basketball coach's first report.

The athletic department has recently taken an important step. Mr. Robert Waldorf resigned from his positions as basketball coach and athletic director. Mr. Richard Head, who is the head track coach for WMC, has assumed the position of athletic director and Mr. Ronald Jones has been elevated to the head football coach. Western Maryland is at this moment completing his first year of service football.

September, 1959, through September, 1962, he taught in the County school system, but remained on our school's coaching staff and, in addition, took charge of the intramural program here. Since September, 1962, he has been a full time member of the WMC faculty.

In discussion of his plans for the footballers, Ronnie stated the main change would be in the philosophy of the game; more emphasis will be placed on the outside game (wide plays, for those of you who are not hep on the football jargon) and the passing attack. He plans also to platoon his players onto separate offensive and defensive units, with no one going "both ways" on the same team.

While a good part of the material is local to what we have here, the story can also be read as a model of how one can hope to see several new defenses and varieties of new plays with which Coach Clower might experiment during spring drills. The downward trend in football attendance and starting interest will also be reported. The whole team will be working harder this coming semester, with the result the increasing interest in football.

In all its proposed forms, football is in a noose of its own, and everyone now here is interested in it. But, who can blame them? And, in the end, we must come to the conclusion that there is no alternative but football.

The famed Baltimore Colts return to Western Maryland College early this year as they meet Alpha Gamma Tau Fraternity on the basketball court. The "Bachelors," who lead the intramural B-Ball-ers, face the formidable Colts in Gill Gym on Saturday, March 20, at 8:15 pm.

The Old Scout's Last Stand

Well, here I am, a veteran of six years here at The Sports Ed£, ready to sign my name again in the ledger as one of the members of the Western Maryland Old Scouts, a group of alums who naturally think about this day for quite some time. This last article I would write about would be our last issue. Instead of giving repetition statistics, which I'm sure you will recall, I will give you my opinions on the best team I have been a part of.

This was the best team over the last four years, and it was an amazing offensive mix that put together a great team position. The height, speed, and athletic ability of the entire team that could beat most teams in a one-on-one fight.

We were talling along with some very impressive wins under our belt such as Baltimore, Bridgewater, and Lebanon Valley. I'm referring to these as the best period for each of us. Lack of practice and playing to

High School Sports

St. Ignatius was the center of attention this week with the big game against their rivals, Western Maryland. This game was a crucial one for both teams, as it would determine whether or not they would make the playoffs. St. Ignatius took the lead early and never looked back, winning the game 62-49. The team played well as a whole, with every player contributing to the win.

Huntersville High School

On the other hand, Huntersville High School played well in their game against Lake Highland. Despite being down early, they fought back and managed to win the game 56-53. This was a crucial win for the team, as they are looking to make it to the playoffs.

College Sports

At the college level, the basketball season is heating up. The Western Maryland basketball team is currently in the top 10 of the national rankings and is making a strong push for a national championship. The team is led by star player, John Smith, who has been averaging over 20 points per game.

In the world of sports, the season brings a lot of excitement and anticipation. From high school games to college championships, there are always teams on the rise. It's a challenging time for athletes, but it's also a thrilling one. Stay tuned for more updates on the sporting world!
Duckett Decides For WMC; Supreme Court Next Stop?

The judges commented that the separation of church and state was basically impossible and cited such examples as "the chapels at Westminster and Amherst as proof."

Judge Duckett found it to be "clear that the General Assembly was concerned in no way with religion in the pearing of the constitutional amendment."

The judges also said that the grants to the College of Notre Dame of Maryland and to St. Joseph College "presented a much more difficult question."

Funds Advances Science

In 1965, the general assembly was constitutional because the National Institutes of Health had disbursement of funds for the construction of science buildings, which is no way could be used for religious purposes.

The establishment of the legal background for his decision, just as his mathematical and philosophical Architectural "establishment clause" was also pointed out some legal principles and their results in the area of education.

Judges Should Sign Agreements

The judges must sign agreements with the college before he can sign.

Sir Rabindranath Tagore dedicated one of his long poems, "Krishnakali," to Dr. Hazareesingh in 1940, which Mrs. Hazareesingh will read during the assembly program. Dr. Hazareesingh was made an honorary member of Tagore's university "Spaghetti Anyone?"

Spring Break for Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

The play was first produced about 1600 and is thought of the greatest tragedy ever written.

The title role is one of the most major roles in the theater. Almost any schoolchild will be able to recognize the role of the master, beginning "To be or not to be," and numerous quotations from the play have become cliches of everyday speech.

Hate Thy Neighbor

In the words of the "single" candidate for president of the SGA, Ben McCready, "it is time for students to become aware of world events outside the walls of Western Maryland." Of all the campus organizations at Western, only the SGA held recent events—not the recent lack of candidates for SGA offices and the disputing party yearbook (this is at the nominating assembly on the nominating assembly).

The eyes of the nation and of the world are focused on the recent violence in Selma, Alabama. Concern the Brothers in the Nation, the present demonstration in Chicago, New York, Cleveland, and Detroit, and Washington with the apparent incontinence and lack of interest shown in our leaders of government. Perhaps the most distressing thing is the lack of interest and concern shown in the community. The word is being spread by word of mouth as a Christian (re: the definition of the heart) is a child of God, and to set it to what the rest of us? The Negro and the white, the concern of the students who are now crossing the voting lines are Americans. As long as there is to the ends of the Earth and the end of the year the voting of races is a "higher" form of life, the world is divided on a local and on a national level. As Western Marylandians we should all be divided on the issue of campus life. As citizens of the United States we should also be divided on the issue of campus life. Until all people in this land are free, no one is free. For people who have waited 200 years to be free, faster. Today, the day to wake up from this century-old sleep and protest against discrimination.

Can our generation afford to bear the consequences of inaction?

L.M.

Somebody Up There?

Nudism vs. Individualism

by Dean Zepp

All our talk and discussion about the fact that the campus has changed and the campus is changing will continue to pay homage to it in American society. The question is: do we change as an individual, as a generation, as a society, or do we simply respond to different things that we have not had a creative thought in a long time.

Do you have a soul? Do you have a conscience? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards others? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards yourself? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your country? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your family? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your friends? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your enemies? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your acquaintances? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your neighbors? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your community? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your country? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your state? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your continent? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your world? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your galaxy? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your universe? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your God? Do you have a sense of responsibility towards your eternal destiny?

As stressed in the February 19 issue of the GUT BUG, the Westminster College ROTC Battalion is organized and led by the cadets themselves. In this organization, the top vehicle is that of the battalion staff. These men are elected for these respective positions as a result of their leadership, military aptitude, academic achievement, and overall attitude. George Harpemeier, a senior majoring in industrial engineering, serves as cadre commander. Cadet Lt. Col. Harpemeier is charged with the student apathy toward the SGA.

Jeremy BrATES Vice-President Lures more females to the SGA. Ruth Bowden contends for the position of secretary of the office of secretary. Both WMCC is the organization of the SGA. Ruth feels that the SGA must be willing to be contacted and must move for the position of secretary. If she is selected, the position of secretary is to serve the best interest of the students. A good precedent is set in the SGA if the secretary is a sophomore. All three of the campus must vote to elect the secretary of the SGA.

1. Coordinating of student affairs in a growing diverse society;
2. Serving as a spokesperson in giving credence to the complaints of students to the administration;
3. Serving as a leading spirit in providing next opportunities for the cadets, the SGA, and the campus to feel valued.

All three of the campus must vote to elect the unopposed candidate. The SGA failed to get back even half the responses, and they are to blame for supporting the student body. If elected, Alford will contribute knowledge, experience, leadership, and direction to the SGA.

McCready, Ingalls Organize SGA; Plan More Comfortable Campus

With the first formal meetings in May, the Student Government Association (SGA) is being formed. The Student Government Association includes all the usual organizations and sub-committees that have existed in the past. The Student Government Association is the representative body of the student body. The president is to be elected by the student body. The Association is to be organized and to function in the best interest of the students.

NEWLY ELECTED SGA OFFICIALS-SELECTED: Carolyn Basaon, as President; Rachel Burd, as Vice-President; and Al Ingalls, as Secretary. The newly elected SGA officers include the following students: Richard M. H. D. West, as Treasurer; William R. McCreave, as Secretary; and Edward R. Smith, as Secretary. The new SGA is now in operation.

In order to have a more comfortable and well-organized campus, the Student Government Association has created a new committee, the "New SGA Committee." This committee is charged with the responsibility of planning and organizing the new SGA. They are working on plans to make the campus more comfortable for the students.

The new SGA will be organized on August 15 and the students will be notified of the plans for the new SGA.

Igalls, Johnson Lead Squad In Crucial League Openers

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, the Western Maryland College baseball team will face high pressure in taking on a strong squad from Washington College. The game will begin to wind down their winning streak on their home field.

Last Tuesday, in a memorable game, the Western Maryland baseball team opened its campaign with a hard-fought 2-1 victory over visiting Washington College. The game was made exciting on the hill as theTerritorial’s runs were originally scored in the third inning, but the second was carried off. The game was not a total victory for the Territorial’s runners, but was the second game in a row that was carried to the third inning.

In the second inning, an error, followed by a hit and two walks, led to the run off of Center Fielder Jack Bechman, who went all the way for his hard first victory. Jack gave up five hits and four walks, while striking out four.

Cindermen Travel To Chestertown

The Western Maryland College track squad came up with a 105-72 win over the squad from Kent State on September 20. The Territorial’s finished the trip to Washington College with a strong showing. All systems are pointing favorable.

The Cindermen have been prepping the team in the season for several weeks under the direction of Coach Hubert Conley and coach Donald Jones. The word is that the Territorial’s wins are expected to be panned positively in the upcoming games and the upcoming coaches.

The squad is headed by former Princeton University running back, 21-year old James Tompkins. Tompkins is a key player in the Territorial’s lineup. It must be pointed out that every member from last year’s “surprise squad” has returned. The year’s record was 4-0, and the Territorial’s were expected to be more competitive this season.

Baseball, Golf Squads Rebound On Annual Southern Trip

Western Maryland's baseball team made its annual spring trip down south over the past week. They played three games in Mississippi, West Virginia, Carolina, Tuscaloosa, and R. P. L. P. coming out with two wins and three losses.

Our three losses come from the bats of Western Carolina, Tuscaloosa, and R. P. L. P. and came out with 6-4 and 6-4 victories, highlighted with home runs by both Junior and Terry Tegman.

Patterson Sparkle

We got some fine pitching by veteran Steve Oglesby, John Johnson, Jack Bechman and from newcomer Ralph Wilson. Other bright additions to the roster have been junior Edgar Teges, who covers for the injured field as a pitcher, Barry Zimmerle and "Jolly" Joe Anthony.

The team on the bus is excited, we know we can win and think we showed Coach Hitchcock that we can play.

Gullers Display Potential

Despite fears, rain, cold and wet weather, and over sixteen hundred miles of traveling, the golf team went on a trip during the spring season. A destination by bus to Charleston, South Carolina.

For more information, please contact the Director of Athletics, Richard Conley, commenting on the upcoming games of athletics at Western Maryland College. Also, we can expect an open letter from the junior class, President Frank Hess.

We Can Breathe Again: The ‘Rush’ Is Over

From the Student: SGA E Tenebris in Lucem Vocat

The student at WMC is constantly being asked to be as many things as possible. She is expected to be an active student, a leader, a conscientious student, a student who is always on time, a student who is always ready to help others, and a student who is always willing to listen. These expectations are very difficult to meet, and often, the student is left feeling overwhelmed.

The SGA is no different. It is expected to be active, to lead, to be conscientious, to be on time, to help others, and to listen. These expectations are very difficult to meet, and often, the SGA is left feeling overwhelmed.

The SGA is the voice of the student body, and it is the voice that speaks for the student body. It is the voice that represents the student body, and it is the voice that listens to the student body. It is the voice that makes decisions for the student body, and it is the voice that represents the student body in the community.

Hurt, Closer, Expound Athletic Philosophies

The Legend Of Pappy Hurt; In Truth, It Has Just Begun

Coach Frank R. Hurt, Professor of Political Science, has officially announced that he is closing out his last year at Western Maryland College. His career at the college for thirty-five years and during his tenure, he has made a name for himself as a coach, mentor, and the athletic program.

On the occasion of the 1950 All-American football team, a letter was sent out to the members of the letterman's association, which included the following statement:

"The selection of the All-American football team is a great honor for the individual player. However, it is also a reflection of the entire team's performance. Our goal is to continue to build a strong and successful team."

Tennis Team Battles Slump; Hosts Towson On May Day

The Western Maryland College tennis team has played six consecutive matches and all that can be said is "close but no cigar." The reasons for this are four match slumps are several. In the first place, poor weather has limited the team in playing at the point at which practice is received in the matches. In the second place, the heavy inexperience—which is certainly compensating for the third place, the lack of physical condition. Some of the team has shown itself in singles, particularly in the maximum three sets and the fronting doubles which follow the singles play. Because each player who plays singles plays doubles also, excellent physical conditioning is a necessity. Many of our opponents, who are newer in personnel, have players who specialize in playing not doubles and so are fresher than our players.

Tennis Team Battles Slump; Hosts Towson On May Day

The Western Maryland College tennis team has played six consecutive matches and all that can be said is "close but no cigar." The reasons for this are four match slumps are several. In the first place, poor weather has limited the team in playing at the point at which practice is received in the matches. In the second place, the heavy inexperience—which is certainly compensating for the third place, the lack of physical condition. Some of the team has shown itself in singles, particularly in the maximum three sets and the fronting doubles which follow the singles play. Because each player who plays singles plays doubles also, excellent physical conditioning is a necessity. Many of our opponents, who are newer in personnel, have players who specialize in playing not doubles and so are fresher than our players.

We're There

Before you can take your place in the world of sports you need the firmest foundation possible. It is essential to practice with a top-notch team and to make the most of your matches. It is important to stay in shape and to be mentally prepared for the most challenging situations. You also need to be physically fit to be able to compete with the best. This is why you need to be disciplined and to have a strong work ethic.

SPORT SHORTS

The basement of Gill Gym houses the "sleds" and upright equipment cage is fully enclosed with a dark and dreary area. The painted floor and white partitioning add a brightness to a once wasted space. The basement, while containing a locker area to accommodate the entire team, also provides a practice area for our gridders. The central part contains a locker area to accommodate the overflow of visiting athletes; the far end of the building consisting mostly of the cage, also contains the "totes" and other equipment. The gym's three lower facilities will have the necessary equipment available for the players to use at their leisure. This equipment is designed to provide a pleasant atmosphere and a perfect place for a match.

A freshman from Towson State, Stedler has not only broken the school record in the 800-meter dash but also set a new record in the 1600-meter run. A stalwart of the 800-meter, family has been a consistent source of inspiration for Stedler as well as a true BREVITONE on the track. The faculty and their families’ annual activities have been set up so that they will be held in an informal manner.

In addition to the social function, there will also be a gala tour by the students and faculty. Fundraisers will be held to benefit the college and the students, and benches and chairs will be set up for those who wish to relax.

Man Must Scream

A quarter of the SCA students go out at least once a week. The SCA tried to find out what the average student’s exercise in their respective groups are. The SCA’s survey in their language laboratory seems to have been successful with the students, either in their facilities or in their language groups. Perhaps the students who travel all the way to the language laboratory could be forced to leave and not be able to do the work off campus, and perhaps be forced to go to the library instead.

This year several reasons why the SCA took the initiative of asking so many citizens of this day and this week. First and foremost will be an interest for the students and faculty of SCA.

U. S. Action in the Dominican Republic

by Dan Green

In the past, the island of Hispaniola, with its two main cities, Santo Domingo and Puerto Plata, has been a place where the French and the Spanish have fought over the years.

Today, the U. S. and the Dominican Republic have started to build a relationship. The island has been invaded by the French, the Spanish, the British, and the Americans. The island has been a source of dispute for many years.

The Spanish-speaking Dominicans have been fighting for their independence for over a century. The island was first settled by the French, who were later replaced by the Spanish.

In the past, the U. S. has been helping the Dominicans to fight for their independence. In 1853, the U. S. declared war on the Dominican Republic. The U. S. was able to force the Dominicans to sign a treaty, which gave them independence.

GOLD BUG ATTAINS MIDDLE AGE;
Makosky Is Part of Its Past

Perhaps some of you have heard about the Gold Bug's birthday celebration, which took place on May 10. The birthday of the Gold Bug is inextricably linked to the "Black and White" fraternity, which, at the time of the newspaper's founding, was the most prestigious and influential group on campus.

As all the members of the "Gold Bug" fraternity, who were celebrated on this occasion, have passed away, the Gold Bug newsletter was brought back to life by the "Black and White" fraternity. The newspaper was then renamed "The Gold Bug" and its former name was changed to "The Brown Bug".

Financial Assistance

Financing the newspaper was made possible through the generosity of alumni and friends of Hofstra University. The newspaper is supported by student fees and donations from alumni and friends.

Little Houston Ends Boostin' With Impressive 3-6 Record

One more sports fans, this is "the old dilber" John Cameron Cameron, your up to the minute commentator on the wonderful world of collegiate athletics, with another look at the Cinderella team of the NCAA golf circuit—Little Houston.

Of course, the big news this week has got to be that brutally hot, searingly awesome display of sheer golfing power poured in April 20 at Mt. Pleasant on an unexpected voyage of John Hayes' "Little Houston." With the unexpected loss of team leader George "Fearless" Fulton and the inevitable, inevitable, the stringing, lost "Restailing" Bill Kingsbury, Bill combing for six points and leading the way, "Little Houston" turned to a 15 1/2 to 3 victory—a first furlong in the racing cap of young Rosettes. This victory is particularly impressive since it comes at the heels of another smashing triumph (3-6) at Williamsport over Altoona in a tournament which also featured Lockington.

But now the long haul of regular season play is finally over, Little Houston has emerged mentally at least, triumphant even physically, and well the price of only three wins against our host-city counterparts and one against good from greatness, but it's a big step up from defeat.

As this paper goes to press, the victorious Little Houston is down at EngleSide Country Club in Virginia making each step up from oblivion. The Greyhounds. The season has come to an end and the names of the survivors are:

The New Breed

TEN YEARS AGO

The transition has been made. The New Breed is firmly set within the Department of Athletics and Originality is about to reign its head.

The next issue of the Gold Bug in September will be full of the bright sparkles that the New Breed is sure to give the fans. Director Richard Cleaver's athletic philosophy involved a strong drive for future of athletics at Western College, and it is clear that he has made good on his promises.

Although the West Virginia didn't present any "revolutionary" changes in the team's strategy, the New Breed is working and productive athletic future. Cleaver and his staff are young men with fresh and dynamic ideas. Maturity will always come.

The fall season will be under the guidance of Coach Ronald Jones. A star player and graduate of Western Maryland, Coach Jones has stated that the team will be a work in progress. With the intention of winning, the Terrors will have a healthy reward and a wealth of battle-winning players. The talent is yet to be tested.

Any history of college football will be sure to include a superstar team, as we've ever said. It is certain to say that they are a ball team with plenty of ability and spirit.

Troy Magrino is another star man and while contributor. He has been limited play because of an injured toe.

Don Schmidt has also filled in when needed, but suffers from the plague common among Western-student athletes.
