Dear Western Marylanders,
Your years is really such a short time! It's hard to believe that it has all passed so quickly. But at times, examinations and term papers seemed almost unbearable; at times we longed for home folks and home cooking; and sometimes college life seemed to be such an ivory-towered existence that we itched to get out into the "real" world. In the midst of the crowded schedule that makes a senior year, we have worked to create this record of our college life — of our campus, our teachers and friends, and our activities.

DEDICATION

Because in this, your first year at Western Maryland, you have given us unstintingly of your time and consideration in the hope that we might have the strength and reality of purpose to face with courage the foibles of an intolerant world, and optimism that we are to have a share in rebuilding a starved and neglected humanity, as we leave our beloved Hill, your guidance will be among our sharpest memories.

Because in working with us and for us in all things, you have come to be our guide, our mentor, and, above all, our friend, we the Senior Class of 1948, gratefully dedicate to you our ALOHA.

that "new look" on the Administration Building is almost symbolic. This year we welcomed Dr. Encor, our new president. And there were many new faces on the faculty too. We said goodbye to our old friends, the Bartholfs, and

But we could still laugh at Bennighof's jokes and wonder if Marshall would come through with a pop quiz. And we still brewed the midnight coffee over Whitfield tests and spent long afternoons in the library preparing collateral for Miss Robb.

THE FACULTY

Our faculty has been an integral—but very personal—part of our four years on the Hill. We are indebted to its members for their excellent academic leadership, but our memories will extend far beyond that. For in a college such as Western Maryland, there is an unusual opportunity for a deeper relationship between student and instructor. And we have found in our faculty that deeper relationship—guidance, encouragement, inspiration, and—greatest of all—friendship. Therefore, as we go forth in these days of faltering ideals and teetering traditions, we pay tribute to these friends, whose ideals we may carry with us always.

As a class, we have certainly had varied college careers - interesting, though - and at times rather painful.
For a large percentage of us were detained along the way - courtesy U.S. Armed forces. And we who remained behind witnessed drastic changes in Western Maryland. It could hardly have been called a co-ed school in our freshman year, but, now, with reinforcements of men from former classes, we have finally reached our destination, not only with a more normal balance between the sexes, but with a somewhat higher age level and a greater maturity.

SENIOR CLASS

President	Carlo Ortenzi
Vice-President	Don Brohawn
Secretary	Susan Steelman
Treasurer	Dorothy Scott
Historian	Christine Royer

We, the class of 1948, look back without regret upon four happy, eventful years at Western Maryland. We began those four years by breaking a record; ours was the distinction of being the largest freshman class to enroll on the Hill. In spite of the abnormal situation which still prevailed because of the war, we entered with zest and enthusiasm into all aspects of our long-anticipated college days. Without difficulty we soon became oriented to our new life, passed good-humoredly through the humiliations of "rat week," and accepted gratefully the good advice of the upper classmen. Caught in the whirl of fast-moving days we worked and played with equal vigor. We won the championship in girls' basketball, sponsored a successful Valentine dance, went to sorority rush parties and teas, and with much joy heralded VE day. And then the year ended, and we went away, leaving behind our lipstick marks in Albert Norman Ward.

1945 found our class depleted in number but still strong in ambition and zeal. Some of our sophomore pride was pricked by the trials of sorority "ratting" and "hell night." We saw our life ebb slowly back to normal with the return of many veterans. We supported spiritedly our new basketball team and cheered them on proudly to second place in the Mason-Dixon Conference. We saw fraternity rooms re-open, we welcomed appreciatively the new rec room, and we brought life to a spring weekend with our gala Sophomore Follies.

1946 found us on the verge of resuming a normal ratio between the male and female population. It was our "back to normal" year, and with great excitement we witnessed our first Terror football game. A precedent was broken when, for the first time in the history of Western Maryland College, girls took over the job of leading the cheers before an enthusiastic crowd of rooters. Vetville became a new addition to the college campus. The social calendar expanded its margins, and with the Junior-Senior Prom and the rose-cup ceremony, we bade farewell to our friends, the seniors, and looked hopefully toward our last year.

1947 found us ready to face the challenge of being the leaders. It was a year of many "firsts." We welcomed a new president, we groaned and sweated through our first exams, we tried our hand at the teaching profession, we sang carols through a dark, cold morning. It was a year of activity. We cheered our teams, from our first football game with Harvard to our new spring sport, lacrosse. We worked together on plays, we applauded our music students, we went to pep rallies and formal dances. We worked seriously, realizing we must leave the security of college life to face the realities of a confused world. Sentimentality will not blind us to our discouraged moments, our disillusioned days. But we are proud of our records, proud of our achievements, proud to claim Western Maryland as our Alma Mater. We leave with the hope that our successors will keep alive the spirit of the class of 1948.

Sergeant-at-Arms	HAROLD HAMMARGREN

Let's think of the Class of '49 as a new plane cruising through a college career. The take-off was made in September of '45, when we as freshmen came to the Hill. We looked over our new transport and then went through an orientation period, during which we were assigned our reservations, course of journey, and pilots. Everyone was in high spirits then—we were going to soar high and in four years land in a Utopia. Yes, we thought the position of a college graduate was more or less the greenest of pastures.

After the take-off, the crew was organized—elections brought forth the class of officers, and an advisor was selected to aid in rough weather. Sailing would have been smoother during those first few weeks if the upperclassmen hadn't closed in with "rating", social pressure, and longstanding customs. Why, our crew wasn't the most important on the journey after all—we were only the newest plane, not yet battered by ill winds! After we had adjusted ourselves to the hardships of our position, we found that all was not work on our journey—dances, class picnics, dorm parties, and traditional organizations made wonderful scenery. The first really rough weather was mid-semester grades which brought us out of the clouds a little and dented the polished surface of our craft.

We arrived on campus in the fall to find our plane waiting, refueled with school spirit and plans for better grades. This time it was our privilege to do tail-spins around the frightened freshmen. The courses were harder now and many passengers were forced to open their chutes, but those remaining assumed a greater share in leadership and managing college activities. Then the Class of '49 dropped a rocket on the campus, lighting it up with all the sparkle and zest that a sophomore show could add.

On the third run we were glad to board the plane once more, still a sturdy plane but one that after two years of experience knew where high mountain peaks and swift downdrafts would ensnare us. We were proud to welcome the new head pilot, Dr. Ensor, this year and felt safe in putting our transport under his charge. Then some unexpected rough weather came upon the scene—final exams! Never having encountered anything of its kind before, we made an emergency landing, refueled with cramming and determination, and then flew low for a whole week, hoping the winds would be favorable. It was rough, but a long weekend gave sufficient time to mend the broken props. The sunny skies were ahead—the gala Junior-Senior Prom, rose-cup ceremony, and various spring festivities were on the chartered course. Why, it wasn't so bad after all; that is, after the dark clouds had passed.

We're not a shiny new transport now. The polished surface has worn off, leaving a weather-beaten, yet sturdy, body ready to take lead position in the formation next year—lead position in that flight which will ultimately lead to a college diploma and greener pastures.

Two years of our history at Western Maryland have passed. It is difficult to ascertain such a quick passage of time but easy to remember the numerous events that have taken place. Each year has given us a store of experiences that all too soon become memories.

In September we came back to re-enter what we now call home. When we registered this time we were familiar with Western Maryland, with its traditions, and with its personality. As freshmen we felt as though we were on the outside looking in, but as sophomores we felt more like a major part of the whole.

Now it was our turn to initiate the freshmen and then extend the olive branch by giving a dance for them at the end of rat week. Now we were able to become members of the sororities or fraternities and enjoy more social life. We were well represented on the football and hockey field and in the other sport activities, and claimed a share of glory in the dramatic presentations. We too helped to defend the campus the night a rival school threatened to invade the Hill during the football season. We flourished our first year as upperclassmen.

In the fall we opened new textbooks, entered new classrooms, and became acquainted with the new faces on campus. During the winter, we struggled through exam week, had the usual difficulty of making those eight o'clock classes, and still wondered at how quickly ten o'clock came. It wasn't long before we were again fighting the usual spring fever epidemic and longing to desert our books to watch the ROTC drills and to view the campus as it came back to life. The seasons passed—each one a period of new events that are so soon memories.

Our history has been an active one. We have not only gained prestige our first year as upperclassmen—we have gained a large part of the knowledge and the truth for which we are searching. Our attitudes and our concepts have been changed or enhanced by our acquaintances with people and with books. Our foundation is firm for the building of our next years on the Hill.

Our class history began on Registration Day when we, the class of '51, made our presence known to the Hill. Immediately we were eager to become part of the one big happy family that exists here.

The first week was set aside as an orientation period; this consisted of assemblies, tests, and formal and informal get-togethers. One by one, the upperclassmen returned to inform us of the various professors' whims and peculiarities. Before long, the girls were confronted with "Rat Week".

Two big moments of this week were the outdoor variety show and the show held in Blanche Ward, at which time certain freshmen imitated various sophomore girls. With the end of initiation, we settled down to some serious thought of our first college classes.

Gradually, we learned the traditions of Western Maryland College and were anxious to carry them out. We familiarized ourselves with the grille, the "rec" room, Carpe Diem, Margaret and Earl's, and the kicking post.

With the beginning of the pigskin season, we displayed our school spirit and never-dying faith in our team members. Very few will forget those Friday evening pep rallies, especially the parade downtown preceding the Homecoming game. Despite the rainy and bitter weather on Homecoming Day, we did our share in cheering the "Terrors" on to victory to uphold the tradition of never having lost a Homecoming game. Several of our classmates earned positions on the varsity teams; we have reason to be proud of them. The intramural teams seemed to hold their own in competition with the other classes, and each season they aim to improve. Our class produced an ample supply of cheerleaders, as well as athletes.

Many have taken an active part in college life by participating in such organizations as the Choir, Glee Club, orchestra, Student Christian Association, Student Government Association, Gold Bug, and International Relations Club.

Time passed swiftly, and Christmas vacation approached before we knew it. We were given our first chance to experience what college life was like on the night before vacation; some did so by writing term papers, which were due before we knew it. All were eager to get home, but after the first few days, we just couldn't wait to return to our newly acquired friends and home. After Christmas, we were faced with our first semester examinations, and then the receiving of our first college grades.

Spring arrived eventually and with it—spring fever. The campus became a place of beauty, as the spring flowers bloomed and the trees began to blossom forth. We were caught in a constant whirl of spring activities and social functions with the formals and May Day exercises.

And now, as we finish the first chapter of our life on the Hill, we look forward with anticipation to Chapter Two in search of further scholastic, athletic and social achievements.

FOREIGN STUDENTS

The year of 1947-48 has been one of international significance for the world, and has brought to the Hill students from all corners of the globe—from China, Greece, Holland, Poland, Puerto Rico, and Sweden. We at WMC are grateful for this opportunity to study and live together, for in so doing we have learned to respect and to understand better the thoughts and the customs of those from other lands. In the grille and the classroom, in bull sessions and in club meetings, we have rubbed elbows and exchanged opinions and smiles with an ever-increasing recognition of the bond that binds us all together—that of being a student.

YVONNE DeJONG

Vivacious Yvonne has a legal home in both the Netherlands and the United States, and can decide to be a citizen of either country when she comes of age. Her academic studies at WMC center around English and psychology, but in dramatic art lies her hope for a career.

YI-YUAN YU

No undergraduate is pleasant, twenty-four-year-old Yi-Yuan Yu. He received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering from the Tientsin University before he left China, but decided to spend a year on the Hill studying math, physics, and German before transferring to an engineering graduate school.

MAIDA CHING

Smiling little Maida first came to the Hill in the summer of 1947. She was born in Hawaii of Chinese parents and has attended the University of Honolulu and Armstrong Junior College in California. Merry eyes and a charming manner make Maida a welcome addition anywhere.

REYNALDO GARCÍA

Puerto Rico's contribution to the campus is nineteen-year-old Reynaldo García, who has completed his freshman year as a pre-med student. Ray had made numerous visits to the United States with his father, and had little trouble adjusting to college life here on the Hill.

HELEN BETH LINDAHL

Helen's glowing smile and friendly manner have made her a real part of college life at WMC. An exchange student, she came to the United States in September, from Katrineholm, Sweden, to study for a year. Always busy, she counts among her hobbies horseback riding, reading, skiing, and swimming.

CHRISTOPHER NIKOLAKOPOULOS

A familiar campus figure since '47 summer school, "Chris" came to WMC from the University of Athens. He plans to complete his undergraduate education in the United States and then make his way back to Greece via Paris and other European centers not yet visited.

STEFAN WINIARZ-DJETER

Stefan is a day student commuting from Sykesville, where his parents are employed as doctors in the hospital. He arrived from Poland only last summer and, at present, is studying math, science, and French.

This new post-war schedule really doesn't leave much time for extra-curricular activities, but it's surprising how much they've perked up this year. The new student governments, working together, went a long way in bringing about much-needed campus reforms. All year Gold Bug and Aloha Typewriters, feverishly turning out copy. The plays and concerts were notable both for quantity and quality. And the college welcomed two new official organizations — our broadcasters and debating team.

The major task of the student governments this year was the preparation of a new constitution, under which both councils would be empowered to act as a single body. The great majority of the work was done this year in combined meetings and results indicate that such a reorganization is desirable.

A sympathetic administration has greeted sincere student efforts to accomplish desired ends with wholehearted cooperation. The college installed drinking fountains in the classroom and library buildings in response to our suggestion.

In order to increase the publication of news, both a calendar of events and a daily bulletin were posted in the game room. Several student assemblies were sponsored in which issues of both a campus and a national nature were discussed. We revised the voting techniques on campus elections by initiating an individual balloting system to replace the customary mass balloting procedure. The system, while more difficult to administer, proved worth the extra effort both in volume and validity of voting. Management of the coke concession at varsity games passed this year to the student governments, which assigned equivalent portions of the season to the four fraternities for their benefit.

The old tradition of a bonfire and pep assembly before the Homecoming game was revived. We distributed desk blotters to each person on campus early in the year, and sponsored the informal freshman get-acquainted meetings during Freshman Week. Tournaments were sponsored in the early part of the year and attracted both novices and sharks in bridge, pinochle, pool, and pingpong. A new juke box was installed early in the second semester in the game room.

A partially successful effort to flood the tennis courts for ice skating occupied the weeks immediately after the beginning of the second semester.

Both men and women flocked to see the annual Women's Student Government-sponsored movie, "The Women."

As the year drew to a close, the student governments worked together to make this year's May Day the memorable occasion it has always been in the traditions of the Hill.

Only a parent can fully understand what it is to rear a child; only that person who has helped create a yearbook can understand what that creation entails. The yearbook is "born" in the mind of one or more persons . . . it is carefully planned for in advance, just as a child is carefully planned for by its parents.

Even the most cautious and well-considered plan for growth, however, must meet some rough water. The child will face never-considered difficulties; his progress in life may, perhaps, cause his parents to throw up their hands in dismay. Desperation can come to the yearbook staff when apparently insurmountable difficulties loom ahead. College life has a way of stultifying even the most "foolproof" yearbook schedule.

Many dreams have a way of coming true. The parents see their child begin to fulfill their hopes and expectations. And the yearbook staff sees its creation in its final form: the culmination of arduous hours of work and the achievement of a goal.

This year marked the twenty-fifth birthday of The Gold Bug, and despite last minute deadlines, endless re-writes, and continuous headaches, editor Fern Ray and her staff capably produced a top-notch paper.

To commemorate twenty-five years of publication, an anniversary number was issued in time for Homecoming Weekend. Through reprints of articles and pictures of former Gold Bugs the staff resurrected ancient buildings, quaint social customs, and former athletic glories.

Publishing a newspaper did not constitute the only activity of The Gold Bug. An ambitious and successful project was the arranging and selling of WMC desk calendars. And, of course, there was the usual successful Sadie Hawkins dance.

Upon completion of Editor Ray's duties in February, Jean Cohen took over to pilot the paper through another successful semester.

This has been a pioneering year for the SCA in several respects. An entirely new organizational plan was set up, by which the association divided itself into four groups in order to provide for a wider range of interests and to ensure a continuing program in several areas.

This broadened program has uncovered much leadership ability for future years, and has allowed us to initiate such new projects as the Freshman Club and the publication of a news sheet, Scan.

The "traditional" activities have prospered as well. The Religious Emphasis Week programs, under the general direction of Betty Amos, were well supported, and indirectly led to a student assembly which will be long remembered. The World Student Service Fund drive was the most successful ever held on this campus. The Hallowe'en Dance, the St. Patrick's Day Party, and the many Fireside programs were thought by many to be some of the best recreational events of the year. Inter-collegiate activities have increased, too, with participation in numerous conferences and several exchange visits with other schools.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Secretary-Treasurer GEORGE COULTER

The William G. Baker Sunday School is a non-denominational organization on the campus, participated in by students who are interesting in studying the Bible and the application of Christianity to campus life and world affairs. It was founded in 1872 by William McDaniel, and differs from the usual type of Sunday School in that it recognizes no individual differences of age, race or creed.

The Sunday School has progressed this year under the guidance of Dr. Holthaus. It has utilized the International Lesson series in an endeavor to function in a more worthwhile manner. These lessons have fostered discussion and study, and the Sunday School has become more vital in the lives of the students. The discussions have been led by both faculty members and students, so that the subject matter has been approached from various viewpoints and the members were able to become better acquainted with members of the faculty, student body, and friends of the college, who in their discussions presented philosophies which could not be revealed in the classrooms or elsewhere on campus.

In 1943 a small group of college women began meeting together at the home of Mrs. Lloyd M. Bertholf to study how they could better fit themselves for full-time Christian service. They decided that "Wesleyanettes" would be a fitting name for themselves.

Until February of this year, the women continued to meet at the Bertholfs', whose hospitality and inviting fireplace drew them every other Saturday evening. When Dr. and Mrs. Bertholf took up their residence in California, we had the job of finding another counselor as sympathetic to our needs as was Mrs. Bertholf. Mrs. Lester A. Welliver, wife of the president of the Westminster Theological Seminary, suited our qualifications, and she graciously accepted the task of guiding us in our work.

The organization is made up of college women on the campus who have chosen full-time Christian work as their profession. In our meetings we have discussed many phases of Christian service.

This year the group has sent several food and clothing boxes overseas, and had services at the Methodist Home for the Aged.

The Wesleyans, a fellowship of undergraduate men who plan to enter the ministry or some other field of Christian service, is now in its sixth year of official existence on the Hill. Its membership, which has been greatly augmented in the past two years, now approximates twenty-five.

Mr. John Bayley Jones serves as adviser to the group, which holds weekly meetings in the Chapel of the Westminster Seminary, consisting of a brief period of worship followed by discussion of some problem facing the student preparing for a life of service in the name of Christianity.

In co-operation with the Wesleyanettes, the group conducts a regular worship service at the Methodist Home for the Aged every Sunday evening. Six members hold student appointments in Methodist Conferences, and others of the group participate from time to time in worship services in the community.

The highlight of the group's activities is the banquet held each year just prior to vacation. Through this fellowship the Wesleyans hope to go forth to serve with deepened faith, wider sympathies, and a greater understanding of the needs of their fellow-men.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

President MARY ELIZABETH TODD
Vice-President JANE LIANOS
Secretary-Treasurer ELEANOR NETTLESHIP
Adviser DR. THEODORE WHITFIELD

The International Relations Club is composed of individuals who are interested in contemporary world affairs. Everyone is eligible for membership, and the meetings are open to all students and faculty members.

Meetings are held in McDaniel Lounge on the first and third Mondays of each month. An attempt is made to present programs in which the students are currently interested. The first few meetings of this year featured talks by foreign students on their native countries. Programs for the remainder of the year were in the form of debates, forums, lectures, and movies on such topics as the Marshall Plan, universal military training, Palestine, and China.

The IRC is a member of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and receives books and literature on current problems from this fund. These books are given to the library and placed in the IRC section for the use of the students.

As one of twelve International Relations Clubs in Maryland colleges and universities the Western Maryland group participates throughout the year in state and regional meetings.

Le Cercle Francais is an integral part of the social activity on College Hill. One evening of every month a gay French atmosphere pervades McDaniel Lounge, and in this environment, the student has an opportunity to make practical use of the knowledge of the French language he has acquired. The business meetings and programs are conducted tout en francais from the reading of the minutes to the singing of the Marseillaise.

The programs this year have been enthusiastically supported by a record membership. We will remember the impressive scenes from Hugo's Les Miserables, presented in November; the traditional French carol service in December, one of the highlights of the year; the gala Mardi Gras in February, with festive costumes, speeches by "French" mayors, music and dancing; our guest speaker, a native Frenchman, who delighted us with his humorous tour of Europe; the annual soiree, an evening of bridge and bingo; the gay spring festival which climaxed the year's activities. All these events form part of the tradition of Western Maryland College.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club endeavors to provide experience and knowledge to those majoring in or just interested in this field. The members learn of vocational opportunities, practices of other countries, and any other part of this work in which they may be interested.

At the first meeting this year, some of the members related their experiences in summer positions. These experiences were very interesting and provide an incentive for the freshmen.

The club sent a package to the World Christmas Festival, for which the children who received them sent cards of thanks.

Again this year the Home Economics Club sponsored a foods booth at the SCA bazaar—proving that in some cases home economics majors can cook!

Two state meetings were attended by our college club, the fall meeting being at Hood College and the spring meeting at WMC. Representatives were also sent to the Province Workshop Meeting at the University of Maryland.

As a final project the club sponsored a fashion show. New officers were elected, and everyone now looks forward to another busy year.

COLLEGE PLAYERS

This year's seniors put the college players "on the road" by proving their merits in their production of "Claudia", an intimate glimpse into the everyday lives of the Connecticut Naughtons. Betty Little carried the title role, while Bob Mathias brought to life her beloved, but long-suffering David. And who can forget Ruby Stein's mad, mad performance as Daruschka? Martha Adams, Marcia Koblegard, Chris Royer, Jimmie Leonard, and Donald Bailey turned in their customary polished characterizations. The enthusiastic reception of "Claudia" was payment in full for the weeks of curtailed "social activities" and other privations which the College Players give up to their productions.

The Sophomore Players took exclusive option on the Christmas play, which concluded the college Christmas program.

In March, the Junior College Players faced the footlights with their annual presentation of one-act plays. Anna Hess ran the gamut as, of all things, an actress, in the curtain-raiser, "The Purple Door Knob." The remaining parts in "Resurrection Ezra", and "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet" were filled by juniors and sophomores.

THE CHOIR

One of the outstanding campus musical organizations is the College Choir, directed by Professor Alfred B. DeLong and composed of some seventy carefully selected voices.

In addition to supplying the music for the regular Sunday evening chapel services, the Choir presented several special programs. On December 14 the Christmas portions of Handel's "Messiah" were presented in Chapel, and on the following afternoon the program was repeated over Radio Station WFMD in Frederick.

The excellent musical ability displayed by the group succeeded in winning the complete approval of both audiences. In every way it was a wonderful program beautifully expressed.

During April the Choir traveled to Baltimore to perform Brahms "Requiem". It seems that the fame of last year's performance of this great cantata had spread to the point that the Walbrook Methodist Church desired the group to give their interpretation of it in their church.

The final special performance of the year featured Gioacchino Rossini's well-known "Stabat Mater".

THE GLEE CLUB

It is with good reason that Miss Grace Cordia Murray takes great pride in her Girls' Glee Club. About fifty girls interested in choral singing made up the organization during the season of 1947-48. They met every Tuesday afternoon and accomplished an amazing and profitable amount of work. This was proved by their unusually beautiful concerts.

This year, the Glee Club presented in McDaniel Lounge the annual Christmas program for the American Association of University Women. This program was divided into two parts, the first consisting of six songs sung by the entire Glee Club and the second of ten solos, which were carols of the United Nations. The girls also added a great deal to the atmosphere and spirit of the college Christmas banquet with special seasonal music and familiar carols. A chapel service in Alumni Hall was on the spring schedule, along with the important annual concert at the Westminster Reformed Church.

Through the harmonious blending of girls' voices in lullabies, fantasies, folk songs, spirituals, and Brahms, Puccini, and MacDowell, members and audiences alike agree that the Glee Club of Western Maryland achieves its purpose—which is to develop a keen appreciation of great music written and arranged for women's voices.

THE ORCHESTRA

The Western Maryland College Orchestra, under the direction of Professor Philip Royer, enjoyed an extremely successful season this year. The organization contained about forty pieces, including a greatly enlarged string section.

The three highly successful public performances of the orchestra were all given in Alumni Hall. The first was an assembly, at which the conductors were members of the Student Conducting Class. Madeline Buhrman, Loma Haines, Pete Youngblood, Louise Scott, and Max Bertholf all very capably led the orchestra in compositions by Wagner, Bach, Schubert, Tchaikowsky, Rachmaninoff, Beethoven, and Strauss.

In April the orchestra gave its seventeenth annual spring concert. This program began with Beethoven's "King Stephen" Overture, followed by Haydn's "Surprise" Symphony. The next number, the Overture "Savannah," was written by Joyce Barthelson in 1944, while she was teaching at Western Maryland, and dedicated to Mr. Philip Royer and the College Orchestra. Because of this, this entire program was dedicated to Miss Barthelson. The last number of the evening was Beethoven's First Piano Concerto in C Major, Opus 15. Miss Helen Brainard very ably played the piano part.

For their last performance of the year, approximately one half of the members of the regular orchestra accompanied the Carroll County High Schools at the annual Eisteddfod.

This year has been a very eventful one for the Camera Club. The programs for meetings have included demonstrations of developing, printing, and enlarging by members of the club.

The emphasis this year has been on giving every member of the club a chance to learn developing and printing through experience. Everyone had a share in making campus Christmas cards, the main project for 1948, in which work all of us profited by our mistakes. Another project was taking pictures of couples at the Military Ball. This provided experience in enlarging, which was done with the new enlarger that the club bought this year. For another meeting a winter outing was scheduled, where the members took both action and still shots in the snow.

Next year the Camera Club will have a dark room that will be used only by members. We have been promised one of the rooms in McKinstry, which has been occupied by the shop. We hope that in the future more equipment will be added to this room to make the Camera Club an even more active organization on the Hill.

Believing that knowledge is to be shared and not shelved, the Alpha Mu Chapter of Beta Beta Beta meets weekly for the purpose of "keeping in the know" in so far as the biological sciences are concerned. The national president of our organization and former Alpha Mu sponsor, Dr. L. M. Bert-holf, transferred the reins this year to professor Bennighof—who handles them well.

In addition to watching our own membership grow, our group helped to install a new chapter of the fraternity at Hood College. Also, we were well represented at the annual regional conference held at Randolph-Macon this spring.

Ed Hammersla, Geraldine Frizzel, and Marie Lawson were this year's selection for the Milton Hendrickson Memorial Scholarship Fund, and will conduct summer studies in their respective fields of interest. Movies, speakers, initiations, and good fellowship kept the remainder of the calendar crammed to capacity, and kept us working toward the national purpose of the organization—"to stimulate sound scholarship, to promote the dissemination of scientific truth, and to encourage investigation in the life sciences".

THE ARGONAUTS

President	BETTY LITTLE
Vice-President	SARAH SMITH
Secretary	PHYLLIS HOUCK
Treasurer	GLADYS SAUSE

The Argonauts, Western Maryland's honor society, has as its purpose the promotion of sound scholarship, the recognition of high scholastic standing, and the promotion of fellowship among the students and faculty. Since the initiation of this society, membership has risen to a high position of honor and achievement. The activities of the group are carried on by associate members, who are juniors or seniors maintaining an over-all average of "B" or better. Full membership is granted to those who graduate cum laude or summa cum laude. Sponsors of the organization are Miss Addie Belle Robb and Dr. William R. Ridington.

The Argonaut Society was founded in 1935 by Dr. Lloyd Bertholf and a group of students who, inspired by the ancient Greek legend of the "Argo" and the search for the Golden Fleece of truth and wisdom, founded this honor society.

The outstanding events of this year included a talk by Dr. Bertholf, the annual tea in honor of those on the Dean's list, and the spring banquet, at which the former president of Western Maryland College, Dr. Fred G. Holloway, addressed the society.

THE TRUMPETERS

The Trumpeters, an honorary organization, was founded in 1944 by Dr. Katherine K. Carmichael, former Dean of Women here on the Hill, with the aim in view of being accepted at the end of a five year probation period by Mortar Board, national honorary society for outstanding college women. Each year four or five outstanding women of the senior class are selected according to an objective point scale measuring curricular and extra-curricular activities. They are rated on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and citizenship standing.

In May, the women selected are presented with caps and gowns by the graduating Trumpeters. This is the Tapping Ceremony, which takes place on the President's lawn.

The duties of the Trumpeters include assistance to any organization which may need their aid, decoration of the dining hall for the Christmas banquet, and sponsoring of the May Court breakfast. The members return to school for Freshman Week and are available to help the new student with any problems which may arise.

Dr. Evelyn Mudge is the advisor of this group, the purpose of which is to help others. The name of this organization comes from its motto: "For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?"

DEBATING CLUB

Under the capable leadership of Dr. Lincoln Lorenz, the WMC Debating Team made remarkable progress in developing powers of clear and reasonable argumentation during this, the second postwar year of debating on the Hill. Emphasis was placed upon the logical presentation of material in the form of written briefs.

Despite the handicap of a markedly small interest in debating on campus, the two women and five men who compose this team have participated successfully in eight debates this year. Twice they faced WMC's traditional rival, Loyola, and twice they pitted their wits against our neighbor to the north, Mt. St. Mary's. Debates were also held with Penn State, Dickinson, Elizabethtown, and Washington College. No decisions were rendered. All these schools—as well as Western Maryland—are active members of the Debating Association of Pennsylvania Colleges and took their topic for the year from a national group. This topic was "Resolved: That a Federal World Government be adopted." A subject of such vital interest and significance certainly provoked many worthwhile discussions among thinking college students throughout the country.

To students who are interested in clear and fair analysis of the problems around them and effective expression of their conclusions, the Debating Team offers a real opportunity.

"Everybody on mike" and "Hit that cue" were typical sounds issuing from the WMC Radio Players' rehearsal room in this, their first official year of existence on the Hill. The Players began their experience under the capable direction of Mrs. Meeks, wife of our former physics professor, D. Wilkison Meeks, and a professional radio artist, who left the campus at the end of last year. During the academic year 1946-47, they presented several dramatic shows.

This year the group was reorganized under the production and direction of Marian Meredith, with Mr. John B. Jones acting as sponsor. Originating in McDaniel Lounge and coming by remote control over Station WFMD in Frederick, the Radio Players have presented four broadcasts this year; three musical programs—the College Choir in excerpts from the Messiah, a record program, and the Girls' Glee Club; and one dramatic program, entitled "The Prairie Sage", which is the story of the life of William Allen White.

At present, the group is entirely controlled and handled by students, and it is hoped that it will become a permanent organization on the campus.

GEORGE SPITTEL'S ORCHESTRA

Few colleges can boast of having a better campus orchestra than Western Maryland. Here on the Hill, George Spittel's orchestra has proven itself capable of producing excellent, danceable music.

Only this year did George enlarge his band to full dance orchestra size, but the group received frequent bookings throughout the year, performing at near-by colleges and at towns throughout Maryland. A highly successful debut at the George Washington Birthday Ball enabled the orchestra to be booked for the Junior-Senior Prom and the Pan-Hellenic Dance.

Much credit is due George Spittel for his hard work and fine musicianship in bringing the organization to a professional standard. Many months of playing sax with Tex Beneke enabled George to adapt many name-band techniques to his own orchestra. Ernie Leap's sizzling trumpet on the hot solos was always a big attraction, and Dave Heiberg, Dick Palmer, and Russ Sellman rounded out a highly capable trumpet section. Phil Schaeffer and Pudge Bruner added depth and mellowness with their trombones, and the saxes, Ink Bruner, Frank Middleton, and Pete Youngblood, provided a fine background.

Completing the band's make-up was the rhythm section of Doc Bouchelle, Willy Williams and Park Ranck, which sparked the orchestra with their danceable tempos. Returning students are anticipating an even better dance-band next year.

INTERSORORITY COUNCIL

President	ANNABEL GLOCKLER
Vice-President	VIRGINIA WALTERS
Secretary-Treasurer	PHYLLIS HOUCK

The Intersorority council is made up of the president, vice-president and a junior representative from each of the four sororities on the Hill. Offices in the council rotate yearly.

This year we have attempted to strengthen our purpose, which is to promote friendliness and good spirit on the Hill, by the initiation of intersorority athletics. In February and March, basketball games were played, which sorority members and friends attended. The annual bridge tournament took place in April.

In December we gave a tea in honor of Dean Howery, whom we asked to aid us in the capacity of an adviser. We also sponsored the new and highly successful co-ed study room in the basement of McDaniel Hall.

The Intersorority Council sets the dates for the spring teas and rush parties for each sorority. The sororities observe the rules and regulations regarding bidding and rushing as set forth in our constitution. The Pan-Hellenic Dance in May, sponsored jointly by the Intersorority and Interfraternity Councils, brought the year's activities to a successful and harmonious close.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

President	KENNETH VOLKART
Vice-President	FRANK MIDDLETON
Secretary	GEORGE CARR
Treasurer	RODNEY AUSTIN

The Interfraternity Council seeks to promote co-operation and unity among the fraternities on the Hill, and to function as an agent for greater understanding and agreement between the administration and the large portion of the student body that belongs to fraternities.

Each club is represented by two members—usually the president, and one member elected from the fraternity. Offices in the council rotate annually.

Regulations concerning rushing, smokers, bidding, and interfraternity athletics are set up by the council. The clubs agree to abide by the decision of the council on all matters.

Cooperating with the Intersorority Council, this group sponsored the Pan-Hellenic Dance, presented this year on May 22. Plans were discussed and agreed upon, and interfraternity committees were appointed so that, when the final preparations began, there were no longer eight different clubs, but one organization, intent on presenting the last and most memorable dance of the college year. It is in such undertakings as this that the spirit of co-operation, fellowship, and harmony is most evident.

'47-'48, the year of the "new look," and the Delts, keeping in close step, gained a spirited group of new baby Delts, a grand new sponsor, Dr. Mudge, and a new red wall . . . not to mention three new white ones and colorful new slip covers.

Our fall semester opened with the true Delt spirit. "Working together," we painted our walls, covered our pillows, and made ready for our lively baby Delts. The tiniest Santa Claus of Delt history bounced in with presents for all at our Christmas party. February brought to us twenty-two years of Delt sisterhood, and Dr. Wills's words brought each of us closer to the true meaning of Delta Sigma Kappa. Our basketball team played hard and earnestly, putting up a great fight, and our cheerleaders and rooters broke forth with some mighty terrific yells for the Red and White. Tuesday night meetings, bridge games, get-togethers in the clubroom, and informal parties after each vacation filled our days.

Early in spring we planned our traditional tea and May swimming party, picnicked with our brothers, the Bachelors, and opened house to our friends and growing alumnae on May Day. Quickly the senior farewell banquet crept up on us, and another happy year as Delts had come to a close. Yes, it was the year of many "new" happenings—as happy and gay as our bright new wall.

Immediately after our return to the Hill this year we made a beeline for the club-room, unlocked it, aired it out, and promptly proceeded to fill it with bridge foursomes, a summer's supply of Life and Mademoiselle, new phonograph records and lots of talk.

Bids came out fairly early in the fall, and we gave glad welcome to a grand group of new members. And then, of course, we immediately began to make them miserable by way of a hectic initiation. However, because of our new intersorority ruling prohibiting outside initiation, these pledges were the first members in our entire history who did not have the privilege of attending classes decked out as Sadie Hawkins.

Plans were soon underway for open house at Homecoming. Despite the rain, the sleet, and the snow, a great many alumnae and friends came up to visit us at this tea.

This year we decided to have a Christmas party in the clubroom instead of the now almost traditional banquet at the Charles Carroll. We invited our sponsors and decorated the room—complete with tree, lights, sandwiches, potato chips and cokes, and presents under the tree, which Santa Claus distributed when “he” arrived.

In the spring the usual rush tea and skating party at Big Pipe Creek Park were enjoyed as much as ever. And, in addition, we took a trip to Baltimore for dinner and a play, made plans for another wonderful week at Ocean City during the summer.

Throughout the year we joined in the various activities of Intersorority. We did our best in the basketball and bridge tournaments and helped to establish the new co-ed study room in the basement of McDaniel.

Almost before we realized it, another year had gone, and it was again time to bid farewell to many of our sisters as we left the Hill. We sincerely hope that all of them can “fulfill what we have strived to do” in Iota Gamma Chi.

It was a great day for the Phi Alphas—that first meeting of the fall semester of '47 when we proudly took possession of our new and larger clubroom. Even then the walls were bulging with the enthusiasm of sixty-odd members.

Then the season's activities hastened by—the banquet at the hotel, the Christmas party, the alumnae dinner in Baltimore, the tea, and the annual hobo-hitch. We tried to extend our good feelings beyond the campus by preparing baskets of food for needy families at Christmas and at Easter. In the spring, the presses were rolling once more, giving forth another issue of "The Torch," the club's yearbook.

Phi Alphas were also on their toes in the sports world, capturing the laurels of the intersorority basketball competition. Spring sentiments found expression in "April Antics," a dance sponsored by the club in Blanche Ward Gym.

All these activities have been fun for us, but have been planned with the hope that better relations will be fostered among all fellow students.

We gathered in a circle for the last time, hands clasped in true friendship and love, voices quivering in sadness of parting, singing proudly.

This year has been full of many happy memories. Our pledges were entertained in a realm of pumpkins and ghosts on Hallowe'en. Santa merrily jingled in with many presents—insigniaed dogs for our pledges and a beautiful lamp for the club-room. Bridge parties were held once a week.

Tutoring for tests was given. We were happy that our friends at the Norwegian Orphanage enjoyed the packages we sent. By helping others Sigma Sorority has found a worthwhile function. Mrs. Marshall has been indispensable and her spaniel, Huckleberry, is our mascot.

Our tea was held, during which we enjoyed entertaining the freshmen. At our rush party we joyously piled in horse-drawn wagons and rode to the Riding Club, where a 3-Ring Sigma Circus was held. Our active alumnae gave us a picnic. On Homecoming Day and May Day our club-room held open house.

The events of 1947-48 closed with the Junior-Senior Banquet, but the "friendship and faith for the one club on the Hill" will bind us for aye.

Under the reins of Don Smyth, in the first semester, the Bachelors started the 1947-48 winter session with a smoker with "home-talent" to entertain prospective members of the club. Fifteen new pledges replaced such old standbys as Art O'Keeffe, Mike Phillips, Carlton Mendell, and others who brought their stay at Western Maryland to a close last year.

The usual pre-Christmas banquet was held just before vacation time, and a good time was had by all.

A new semester brought a new president, Ray Via. In place of the usual Valentine Dance we sponsored a George Washington Birthday Ball, which was well received by all, giving George Spittel's orchestra a grand debut on the Hill.

The winter sports sessions for Alpha Gamma Tau weren't exactly uproarious, but the other teams knew they were in a fight most of the time. We made up for this at a swell party the first night after spring vacation.

The official club year will be climaxed by the annual election banquet in the spring, when club officers for 1948-49 will be chosen. Thus, another year of fellowship will be drawn to a close for ten graduating members, and a restful pause for the others who will be back in the fall to carry on the traditions of Alpha Gamma Tau.

The 1947-48 year leaves a lot of fond memories for the Preachers. For the first time in several years the club failed to capture the touch football crown, but the team showed a lot of do-or-die spirit and it was fun even if they did die instead of do. December saw a large crowd at the Christmas dance and according to some reports the music and the decorations were O.K. In January the Preachers welcomed new members and had a great time at the banquet at Shottie's. The winter provided the frat with the basketball title. Spring brought more new members, another banquet, and a lot of fun with the sports program. It was fun hearing "Moon" Paul solicit dues and kick about expenditures. "Ug" Yaglinski did a fine job keeping the club in good order but no one ever caught him doing any of the dirty work. The fall semester opened with the promise of a successful year. Our accomplishments included the touch football championship, second place in the basketball competition, a very successful Homecoming dance, and the annual smoker. One of the outstanding features of the year was the purchase of the first television set on the campus. It provided entertainment, not only for the members, but for their friends as well. From their ring-side seats, the members have watched numerous boxing matches, wrestling matches, basketball games, etc.

Since success in fraternity is success in fellowship, we must think of our departing senior members and how we remember them—"Rod" Austin for common sense and responsibility; Doug Beakes for his athletic ability and his collegiate look; Stan Brewer for his home in Vetville and his vacuum cleaner; Ed Cushen for his quick wit and his "talk" in assembly; Bill Finck for chemistry and Cascades; Jim Grose for his associate professorship of economics and his habitual coffee in the Grille; Frank Middleton for his writing ability and his sax; Ken Volkart for his various sports and his bad puns; Al Wildberger for his wit and his courses in psychology; Bob Wagner for his diplomacy in political science and his military look.

A vote of thanks is due to Dr. Straughn for his help and leadership during the year.

The Black and Whites returned this year to find that the long-promised flooring had finally been placed in the clubroom. During the year a new radio was purchased and a piano acquired. At last the new clubroom was beginning to get the proper atmosphere.

The year was begun by the Dickinson effigy made by the Black and Whites for Homecoming. The next activity was the Mid-Year Hop, but unfortunately at the last minute the orchestra was snowed out. However, rather than completely disappoint the students, the Black and Whites once more started to work and a record dance was the result.

When the first semester rolled to a close, it was discovered that Professor Makosky had a leave of absence and would not be on campus for the rest of the year. This left the club sponsorless, but not for long. Major DuBose was the unanimous choice of the club to steer it throughout the remainder of the year. Upon his acceptance of the position he was made an honorary member of the club, and a tea party was held in his honor, with the Sigmas as special guests.

This year two banquets were held instead of the usual one. The annual spring banquet was held as always, and the officers for the coming year were installed at that time. In addition to this, a banquet was held in the fall for the purpose of honoring the members in the February graduating class. The spring banquet marked the official end of another successful year for the Black and Whites.

R. O. T. C.

This year finds this organization, which has as its purpose the building of sound minds and bodies as well as preparing future leaders of the Army, firmly reestablished after a war-time absence. To obtain the excellent rating which the unit received last year, numerous obstacles had to be overcome. Colonel Carleton Smith, P.M.S. and T., and Major Charles DuBose, were assigned this task, which they have admirably accomplished.

H. Bright, Cadet Captain, Battalion Adjutant, C. Ortenzi, Cadet Lt. Col., Battalion Commander, D. Brohawn, Cadet Maj., Battalion Executive Officer

First among these obstacles was that the men destined to become cadet officers were new to college life as well as to their duties in R.O.T.C. These men, who had recently been discharged from the service, entered the unit for various personal reasons. The regular army officers had the task of impressing upon these men their duties as cadets and as future army officers. Since many of the males in the student body were veterans, and since most of these were anti-militaristic, some resentment and ridicule on the part of this group had to be tolerated and overcome. In spite of the fact that this last difficulty has not been overcome completely, a well organized and smoothly functioning unit has been molded.

This year has seen the addition of Lt. Colonel Knepp, himself a graduate of WMC, as well as of the pre-war R.O.T.C. Unit, and Lt. Beck. These two officers have been of inestimable value in providing instruction to the expanding unit.

One objection many students of the elementary class expressed was that in order to enter the advanced course they would have to take a compulsory six-weeks' summer course at an army camp. Many of these objections have been overcome by the members of the present senior class of R.O.T.C. who last year attended this summer course at Fort Meade, Maryland. Tales of the gay social events indulged in by these men as a united group have trickled back to the campus. And, of course, when word got around that the training could be endured by all without difficulty, interest in the advanced course increased. For the benefit of the uninitiated, a student must complete the advanced course satisfactorily, including the summer course, before a reserve commission will be awarded. Another small stipulation is the completion of four years of college.

It was mentioned above that last year WMC's R.O.T.C. Unit received a rating of excellent. At that time it was the highest rating given. This year the ratings will be superior, excellent, good, satisfactory, and unsatisfactory. These ratings are given on a comparative basis. An inspection team from Army Headquarters inspects all the schools in the Second Army Area, and ratings are then made. Last year the unit ranked second only to V.M.I., and that by a fraction of a point. This year, it is hoped that the unit will attain the superior rating second to none.

On April 21 the annual inspection of the unit took place. Since Western Maryland was the first school to have its unit inspected, it was the contention of Colonel Smith that the unit should present a program by which the other schools could be judged. The morning hours found the inspectors intensively questioning the various classes on the work covered throughout the entire year. Team demonstrations with the mortar and machine gun were presented with the result that high praise was received from the instructors. In the afternoon the battalion review was presented, officiated over by Dr. Ensor. Squad, platoon, and company drill followed, at the conclusion of which the formal guard mount was enacted. The day's activities were concluded with a word of praise by the senior officers of the inspecting team.

Cadet officers and non-coms are appointed on the basis of scholastic achievements in the military science department as well as upon leadership displayed on the drill field. Close order drill is considered an integral part of the course, since it is here that the student learns to take as well as to give orders.

The unit has a social organization known as the R.O.T.C. Officers' Club. This club is open to all those students enrolled in the advanced class of military science. Its principal function is the presentation of the annual Military Ball.

The Band

Interest in athletics ran high in this second year of normality. Pines or shine we filled the bleachers to cheer on the team and held with the terror yell and "Win Western Maryland". Wrestling was dropped but lacrosse was added. The women played several inter-collegiate games as well as their usual intra-mural schedule. As a whole, we had a fairly successful year - particularly in football. And no matter how the scores ended - there was always a good fight with plenty of spirit and generally, good sportsmanship.

FOOTBALL

The fall of 1947 provided another winning football season for Western Maryland College. In conquering Catholic University, Washington College, Hampden-Sydney, and Dickinson, while bowing to Harvard, Gettysburg, and Delaware, and tying Johns Hopkins, the Terrors posted a 4 won 3 lost, and 1 tied record.

Throughout the schedule, the Terrors massed a total of 121 points, while yielding 105. A lack of reserve strength, especially in the line, and our inability to throw up a tight pass defense plagued the Green and Gold all fall.

tor of athletics. Bruce Ferguson served as backfield coach, and Lou Lassahn handled the linemen. Tom Tereshinski, Joe Kittner, and George Piavis rounded out an all-Western Maryland coaching staff as junior varsity mentors.

Graduation losses are light with Stan Kulakowski and Carlo Ortenzi being the only seniors on the squad. A few promising members of this year's junior varsity squad may provide the Terrors with much needed reserve strength.

Now for a brief review of the season.— In losing to Harvard, the Terrors were keyed up and just never got started. Harvard was not 52 points better than this Western Maryland team.

The following week, ridden with injuries, the Green and Gold lost a 0-6 tilt to a veteran Gettysburg team in a tilt which could have gone either way up to the final whistle. With jumpin' Joe Giannelli on the sidelines with a bum ankle, the Terrors' attack bogged down in crucial moments, and for the second consecutive week, the team was held scoreless.

Then, with most of the squad in top physical condition, the Green Terrors proceeded to hit a winning stride as they entertained side, Joe Giannelli and Hank Corrado, led the team to a 21-7 victory.

A trip to the 'Shore reaped dividends as the Terrors trounced the Washington College eleven 41-0. This engagement brought reserve talent to the light as Julie Dyke, Luke Suwall, Al Yagliniski, Bob Martin, and Gene Feldman came into their own.

Traveling south, the Green Terrors took Hampden-Sydney into camp by a 26-0 count. Al Jacobson ran wild against the Tigers.

This three-game streak was snapped the following week when the gridders journeyed to Wilmington to encounter the high-flying Blue Hens of the University of Delaware. It was a muddy afternoon and the Terrors were a battered lot, but the Hens realized that they had been in a football game. Iron-men Al Paul, Joe Corleto, Jim Cotter, and John Sgariglio played roles in the losing effort. The contest was much closer than the 26-0 score indicated.

Western Maryland has never been defeated in a Homecoming game, and 1947 was no exception. The Terrors ejected a little sunshine into a stormy day by knocking off Dickinson 19-0. While the weather assisted in grounding the highly-rated Dickinson air attack, Harry Bush and Si Tullai were instrumental in halting the ground attack from their line-backing positions.

In the final tilt of the season, Western Maryland was held to a 14-14 deadlock by Johns Hopkins University at Homewood. The game followed a week of campus raids by Hopkins men and hair-cutting by Western Maryland students seeking revenge. Saturday brought an afternoon of chills and spills. The Terrors started fast with Joe Giannelli and Walt Piavis scoring to build up a 14-0 lead, but the Blue Jays came back with a dazzling passing attack to tie the count in the third period. With less than a minute remaining Stan Kulakowski led a drive deep into Hopkins territory. The contest ended with nerves at a high pitch as the final gun barked with the ball in Western Maryland possession on the Johns Hopkins seven yard strip. Thus ended a winning season.

BASKETBALL

For the first time since the Mason-Dixon tournaments were inaugurated in the late '30's, a Western Maryland quintet failed to qualify for a play-off position. Nevertheless, Terror fans were provided with a multitude of thrills as Coach Ferguson's five came to life midway through the campaign only to miss capturing a tourney berth by dropping a 60-58 decision to Johns Hopkins in the final test of the season.

The Terrors appeared to have a well-seasoned squad with several lettermen—Walt Sibiski, Al Jacobson, John Adamovich, Frank Stephenson, Walt Piavis, Joe Thompson and Al Paul serving as a nucleus, but in losing to Roanoke in an early opener, the boys in Green and Gold lacked polish, and a distinct lack of height was noticeable.

Then, the Terrors dropped a 63-58 thriller to the University of Maryland on the home court. Playing away from home, the Terrors picked on three big boys—Quantico Marines, William and Mary and American University, to come home with three defeats. The December schedule was drawn to a happy conclusion as the Green Terrors topped the Baltimore Bees, 51-44.

During January the Fergusonmen fared no better as they lost to Dickinson, Catholic University, Mt. St. Mary's, Loyola, and Gettysburg, while taking only Gallaudet into camp.

February saw a change of form; Terror fans were heartened by a 68-62 victory over John Hopkins. Al Jacobson dropped 10 for 10 at the foul line, and several Terrors began hitting from the floor.

The Green and Gold quintet set a Gill Gymnasium record in swamping a green Washington College five, 90-38. Terror reserve led by Al Paul, Bill Siebert, and Ernie Burch played a prominent role in downing the 'Shore five.

In the following contest played in Gill Gymnasium, the Westminsterites fell victim to an individual record as Jim Lacy tallied 44 points to lead his Loyola mates to victory.

In the best effort of the year, the Terrors nosed out a heavily favored American University five, 54-52, with Wilt Sibiski hitting the cords for 26 points.

Then the Green Terrors topped Hampden-Sydney and Catholic University to run up a three game streak, which was snapped by Mt. St. Mary's with a 51-48 count.

The final test of the schedule with Johns Hopkins was a do-or-die affair with both teams needing a victory to capture a tournament position. With the score tied at 58 all and a few seconds remaining, the Blue Jays tallied to dash the Terrors' hopes.

BOXING

The 1947-48 mittmen turned in a highly successful season, considering the opposition they faced. In topping Bucknell and American University, while losing to Penn State and the Coast Guard Academy, and drawing with Patuxent Air Base, the Green Terrors compiled a .500 record.

Coach Carlo Ortenzi, Eastern Intercollegiate light heavyweight champion last year, retired from the ring to devote full time to coaching. At the beginning of the season he was greeted by a lone letterman, heavyweight Joe Corleto. Later in the schedule John Sgariglio, veteran light-heavyweight, joined the squad.

The Terrors fought the Coasties even in the regulation matches, but the Green and Gold forces lost two extra bouts—and the match by a 6-4 score. Howard Shannon, 125, and Norman Coates, 165, won impressive decisions. The other two Western Maryland points were gathered via forfeits in the light-heavy and heavyweight classes.

Penn State proved to be a tough nut to crack, and the Terrors were subdued 6½.

3½ margin. Don Lichty, 145, and John Sgariglio, 175, scored knockouts; Joe Corleto came through with a decision, and Tom Doolittle, 130, John Seiland, and Ken Monroe, 155, all gained draws.

Then the Terrors squared off against the Patuxent Air Base to bring home a 4-4 draw. Howard Shannon, John Seiland, and Joe Corleto took decisions, while John Sgariglio scored another knockout.

In the final regular match, the Green Terrors took the measure of American University—4½-3½. Howard Shannon and John Seiland earned decisions and Don Lichty was awarded a draw. The other Terror points came via the forfeit route in the light-heavy and heavyweight classes.

After the regular season had been completed, four members of the squad—John Seiland, Don Lichty, John Sgariglio, and Joe Corleto—participated in the Eastern Intercollegiate tourney held at the University of Virginia. The Terrors failed to bring home a title after making a determined showing.

SOCCER

Coach Johnny Jones' soccer squad experienced a campaign of ups and downs in compiling a 4 won and 8 lost record in overall competition. In Mason-Dixon play, the booters made a creditable showing by downing Towson Teachers, Delaware, and Hopkins, while losing to Loyola and Washington College.

As the season progressed, Ernie McFadden, George Winfrey, Doug Beakes, and Ken Volkart loomed as the big offensive guns. Volkart proved to be a great team player and play maker.

The backfield was well-stocked with Homer Earll, Pete Callas, Jim Hackman, Joe Thompson, and Walt Sibiski taking leading roles. Homer Earll earned honorable All-American mention and a position on an Olympic tryout team.

In the first game of the schedule, the Terrors suffered from a lack of practice and were overwhelmed by Loyola by a 5-1 margin. The following week the booters held the champion Washington College eleven to a 2-1 decision. Then came a victory over Towson Teachers, followed by a loss to Franklin and Marshall.

In their best effort of the fall, the soccerites trimmed the Blue Hens from the University of Delaware by a 4-1 count. After coming out on the short end of five consecutive tilts with Baltimore, Maryland, Bucknell, Gettysburg, and Salisbury, the Terrors ended the season on a bright note by dusting off the John Hopkins eleven, 3-2.

LACROSSE

For the first time in almost two decades, lacrosse returned to the Hill as an official sport. The old Indian game saw a year of expansion in the collegiate field, and Western Maryland did its part in keeping with this trend.

Al Paul, former Baltimore scholastic star, took over a player-coach role. The majority of the lacrosse candidates were Baltimore boys, but several football players with a will to learn were indoctrinated in the fundamentals of the ancient sport.

As the Aloha goes to press, the lacrosse team has not yet embarked on the six-game card facing it. The stickmen will square off against Washington College and an Annapolis Club in home and away contests, and they will face Sparrows Point and Loyola in single engagements.

Hopes are high as Coach Paul lines up prospective material. Joe Giannelli and Bill Eliason are being groomed as goalies. In the defense position the Terrors are well-stocked, with Dick Brown, Elmer Richards, Walt Dorsey, Joe Corleto, Harry Bush, and Norm Owen sharing the heavy duty. At midfield Al Paul, Dan Honneman, Rowe Moore, Jim Hackman, Ed Klohr, Doug Beakes, Sherm Garrison, and Fred Eckhart are slated to shoulder the burden. On attack Charlie Mann, Bob Ebert, Joe Keenan, Armand Gold, Jerry Ginsberg, Bob Kiehne and Bill Bartgis show promise. If spirit can win games, this outfit should be a world beater.

BASEBALL

Eight lettermen greeted Coach Tom Tereshinski's first call for baseball practice prior to the spring vacation. Coach Tereshinski, a pre-war catcher, faced his first year at the helm of Western Maryland's baseball fortunes. As the Aloha went to press, the team had not started to work on the long seventeen-game schedule, which included tests with Penn State, Dickinson, Lebanon Valley, Gettysburg, and Quantico Marines along with the usual Mason-Dixon contests.

On the mound Coach Tereshinski had three lettermen in Ernie Leap, Ken Monroe, and Ken Volkart, and a rookie, Bob Gage. On the receiving end, Tom Gorman and Bob Douglas were logical choices.

A seasoned infield led by Joe Thompson, Johnny Adamovich, Julie Dyke, and Stan Kulakowski appeared to have defensive polish and offensive punch. Supplementing this quartet were Joe Kovaleski, Tom Stone, Ray Garcia, and Paul Tereshinski.

Material in the outfield looked a little green at first glance, but several bright prospects have popped up. Tilo Margarita, last year's slugging catcher, and Jim Formwalt, veteran utility man, were given an inside role in the battle for garden positions. Among the newcomers, John Babb, Bob Gage, Tom Shaw, and Chuck Gannon were outstanding outfield applicants.

The most difficult job facing Coach Terry was finding a place to play ball while the surface of Hoffa Field was being processed. The diamond aspirants finally settled on the sloping turf between Albert Norman Ward and Hoffa Field. All of which goes to show that with the universal interest in spring sports comes a demand for additional playing fields.

TENNIS

Professor Frank Hurt must be an advocate of the theory that the early bird catches the worm, because he had his netmen working out in Gill Gymnasium a full month before the opening test of the season.

It is evident that this type of planning has brought results, because since taking over in 1935, Coach Hurt has led his racquet swingers to an overall record of 108 wins against 56 losses. Included among these accomplishments are five Mason-Dixon Conference crowns.

Back from the '47 squad which dropped only two matches are Ken Volkart, Norm Stern, Rowe Moore, Roy Carter, and Doug Weaver. Phil Sack and Bob Talner may develop into valuable assets in the varsity picture.

The Terrors face a stern fifteen-match schedule which includes such foes as Loyola, Gettysburg, Delaware, Georgetown, and Dickinson. Included on the card are nine Mason-Dixon Conference tilts. The boys in Green and Gold are out to make a strong bid for the conference title. Last year they lost only to Loyola in league play, and that loss gave the Greyhounds the championship. If a few newcomers shape up to give the veterans support, the Green Terrors may come up with another successful season.

GOLF

With Professor John Makosky on a leave of absence, Dr. Lloyd Straughn took over the golf reins. As usual, the spring weather of Westminster slowed up the divot diggers' preparation for a busy campaign.

The club slingers received keen losses via the graduation route, as Fred Holloway, Mike Phillips, and Carlton Mendell left the Hill. While the Terrors did not have a low-scoring ace to step into Captain Fred Holloway's shoes, they did appear to have a better balanced team.

Walt Sibiski, Al Jacobson, and Frank Stephenson possessed the potentialities of valuable point-getters, while Al Bright, Dan

Bradley, and Jack Spicknall showed promise.

The Terrors faced a tough twelve-match card, which included such powers as Maryland, Lehigh, Juniata, and Johns Hopkins. Aside from the twelve dual tests, the Terrors participated in three tournaments. First was the Mason-Dixon Tournament, held in Baltimore. Then came the ninth annual Western Maryland Invitation Tournament, with Maryland playing the role as defending champion. The season was completed at the Maryland State Collegiate open on the very difficult Naval Academy course. In these tournaments the Terrors competed with leading teams in the East.

TRACK

Coach Jack Hansma probably faced the toughest assignment of the year in trying to piece together a representative track team. Six key cinder stars were among the '47 graduates, and two other point-getters were also among the missing, leaving Coach Hansma's lineup with big holes in vital places. The Terrors are scheduled to participate in the Penn Relays, the Mason-Dixon meet, and two team matches.

RIFLE TEAM

To the rifle team goes the distinction of carrying out the most extensive campaign of the year. The riflemen participated in a score of shoulder-to-shoulder and postal matches, and they competed in three inter-collegiate meets.

Coached by Sergeants Puryear and Derick, the squad defeated Gettysburg twice in shoulder-to-shoulder matches, but lost to highly-rated Maryland and Georgetown outfits.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

To develop a permanent interest in healthful activities; to develop a sense of cooperation, fair play, and good sportsmanship; to provide adequate exercise; to provide relaxation; to develop the utmost in enjoyment of the fullest and best life—these are the aims of the physical education department for every woman student in the college. The athletic program is twofold. Courses of study in the subject are offered and a program of intramural and intercollegiate sports is planned and executed each semester.

Every co-ed is required to take four semesters of physical education before graduation. For those students who wish to study further in the field a major or minor is offered and teaching certificates awarded in physical education. Practical experience is gained by members of the coaching class through officiating at the Carroll County inter-high school sports events. Western Maryland has long been recognized as having one of the best physical education programs in the state.

The intramural sports program has done much to encourage interest in athletics and participation in extra-curricular events here at the college. Each student is given the opportunity to participate actively in all the major women's team and individual sports. The Women's Athletic Association (WAA) plans and directs this program. Intramural sports is the foundation upon which women's athletics is based. In each sport, class teams are selected after several weeks of practice. Playoffs are held in each division of teams, and at the end of each sports season an honorary varsity team is elected by the executive board of the WAA.

Awards for active participation in athletics are made by the association through a point system based on the intramural sports program. Class numerals require ten points, "WM" monogram 800 points, and a green and gold "M" with a sweater, 1500 points. This year three senior women were awarded the "M" and sweater, the first such awards since 1941. The "M" girls are Betty Armiger, Gladys Sause, and Martha Witter. This award was made on the basis of outstanding ability, athletic accomplishment, scholarship, spirit, and service.

games they have shown the skill enabling them to keep the championship which they now have held for three years.

Under the leadership of Miss Parker and Miss Todd, an honorary varsity hockey team finished the season with 2 wins, 1 defeat and 1 tie. Compiling a total of 5 goals to 1 for the loser, the women defeated Towson at the Towson field in the first inter-collegiate game of the season. In the next game, Notre Dame and Western Maryland played a tight 0-0. Maryland College for Women lost to Western Maryland in the following contest. Mt. St. Agnes managed to cop the game in the last half of the last game of the season by a score of 2-1.

The honorary hockey team was comprised of Jean Minnis, Sue Dixon, Martha Witter, Sherry Donovan, and Wilma Steele as forwards, with Betsy Taylor as alternate. Halfbacks were Hope Kellam, Margaret "Dutch" Ruppenthal, and Reba Wentz, with Mary Will as alternate. Ruth Wentz and Gladys Sause were fullbacks and Annette McMahan was goalie, with Charlotte Janney as alternate.

The juniors again took top honors when Della Grauel captured both the class and intramural championships in the badminton tourney. By means of elimination the winners in each class were determined. The class champions were Martha Witter, senior; Della Grauel, junior; Virginia Clayton, sophomore; Marian Benton, freshman. Betty Harlow was runner-up in the freshmen class, which was divided into two divisions.

Basketball practice started after Christmas recess. The season proved to be an interesting one, indeed, in both intramural and intercollegiate events. The senior women took the championship again for the fourth year. They leave behind them no losses and only one tie in four seasons of play.

The same girls started the intercollegiate season at Gettysburg College in a game that turned out to be the most highly contested match in several seasons. Western Maryland came up from behind in the last quarter to take the lead. Gettysburg picked up a point in the last few seconds to end the game in a tie.

Towson State Teachers College was the next opponent at a two-game match here at the college. Western Maryland had little difficulty in winning both games.

The third and last match was played here with Mt. St. Joseph's College. Both Western Maryland teams won again by an easy margin.

For the 1948 season the honorary basketball team was elected as follows: for- wards—Gladys Sause, Martha Witter, Wilma Steele; alternates—Betsy Taylor and Rita Bittle; guards—Peggy Brown, Ruth Wentz, Annette McMahon; alternates—Kitty Brown and Reba Wentz.

Just prior to the spring recess, volleyball took over the sports calendar. The game, always popular, drew many prospective players. After two weeks of practice, class teams were chosen by Miss Parker and Miss Todd.

The senior "A" team won the championship for the first division after a sweeping victory of 30-15 over the junior team. The second division ended in a three-way tie between junior "B", freshman "B", and the mixed team.

The honorary volleyball team was chosen by the WAA board and consisted of: net—Jean Sause, Gladys Sause, Annette McMahon; center—Betty Linton, Hope Kellam, Ruth Wentz; back—Bettye Benson, Reba Wentz, Martha Witter; alternates—Kathy Manlove, Dorothy Alexander, and Sue Dixon. Many of these girls went to Hood for the Play Day games.

As always the first warm days of spring found many women practicing golf, archery, and softball in the afternoons. Spring brings out a lot of "part-time" athletes on the campus who like to hike or try their skill at golf.

The weather was not favorable for an early start at tennis, but a few enthusiasts started practice in Blanche Ward Gym before the courts were ready. When the weather man finally came through, an anxious crowd gathered on the courts practicing all hours of the day for the inter-class tennis tournament. Class and tournament champions were determined after several weeks of fast and furious play. Jean Minnis, Virginia Clayton, Jeanne Patterson, and Anna Hess were chosen to represent the college in tennis at Hood College at the Play Day program on the tenth of April, and did a grand job after only a short practice period.

Archery was less affected by the weather than other spring events. Immediately after spring vacation veteran and beginning archers alike began practice. Miss Todd should receive much of the credit for the great amount of improvement that was made by the girls in the brief period before the Play Day events. June Graf, Jane Birch, and Nancy Lee Winkleman were selected to compete at Hood College.

Softball has always drawn a lot of interest, but seems to suffer a great deal from temperamental weather conditions. A team was selected to play at Hood, again after only a few days of actual practice. Intramural contests were scheduled, but unfortunately no intercollegiate games could be handled. The softball team made a grand showing on the Play Day program. The girls who played were: Ruth Wentz, Betsy Taylor, Martha Witter, Gladys Sause, Sue Dixon, Reba Wentz, Charlotte Janney, Jean Mellon, and Betty Lenz.

On almost any sunny spring day, the golf course is crowded with fans who are striving to better their score from the last time they played. The instruction given in golf in the girls' gym classes has done much to interest and encourage new fans, and, even though it seems nearly impossible for some to make a par, everyone has lots of fun trying. A few of the girl golfers were Nancy McAllister, Betty Mason, Martha Witter, Ruth Anderson, Dotty Wilder, "Onion" Garlock, Betty Armiger, Helen Lingenfelter, and Rena Fuss.

were all "lasts". And all the numerous smaller but just as important parts of college life —

GLADYS SAUSE
Queen

The melody of a lovely girl and the poetry of the springtime . . . soft pastels and fragrant flowers . . . beauty and gaiety and music . . . May Day.

This is the day we dream of through all the winter snow and wind. It symbolizes spring and the return of beauty. Nature spreads the campus with the soft green of vernal grass and adorns it with gold forsythia. Books are forsaken for the warm sunshine on the brow of the hill.

To the loveliness of spring on the Hill is added the charm and grace of the May Queen and her court, reigning over a day of festivities and an evening of dancing. Symbols of all that is young and gay, they are feted in the spirit of life's rejuvenation.

Who's Who

CARLO ORTENZI

Ten members of the senior class were chosen to represent Western Maryland College in the 1947-48 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

On the basis of character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulness in business and society, the Student Activities Committee of the college selected the following students for this national honor: Wayne Cowan, Edward Cushen, Gordon Groby, Mary Alice Hershfeld, Phyllis Houck, Stanley Kulakowski, Carlo Ortenzi, Fern Ray, Christine Royer, and Sally Smith.

A biographical sketch of each of these seniors will appear in Who's Who, listing their accomplishments, abilities, and interests. Aside from the national recognition given them, the students chosen may take advantage of the aid in employment opportunities provided by the publishers, who maintain a placement service which recommends students to employers seeking capable college graduates.

These ten seniors have been leaders in such activities as the Men's and Women's Student Governments, the SCA, the campus publications, fraternities and sororities, dramatics, the Sunday School, International Relations Club, various musical organizations, and both men's and women's athletics. In addition to participating in these activities, they have found time in their college careers to maintain high scholastic averages.

Homecoming

Rain and mud are not enough to stop the traditions of Homecoming here on the Hill. (The Terrors battled Dickinson on a slippery Hoffa Field and emerged as the victors.) At half time, Queen Gladys Sause and her court, escorted by R.O.T.C. officers, marched down the edge of the field and presented Mrs. Ensor with a bouquet of flowers.

The queen and her court, which consists of one member from each class, are chosen by popular student election to reign over the activities of the afternoon and the gala Homecoming Dance in the evening.

Return to the Campus

Freshmen were again welcomed and registered with the assistance of Dr. Whitfield, shown to their dormitories by upperclassmen, and introduced to their house mothers. After orientation week, the entire school quickly settled into the usual round of college life. Our comparatively light schedules in the early fall left time for loafing on the brow of the hill to watch football practice.

Day students and boarders alike found a home—one place or another—on campus, for even the dayhops had in the dayroom that peculiar mixture of books, bridge, cokes, and gab fests that make up dorm life. But our family men had their own little community in Vetville, where babies and Monday washings took the place of bridge and gab fests.

Homecoming

An enthusiastic but cold and wet crowd welcomed our brave little homecoming court and cheered on the muddy but victorious Terrors on our rainy, sleety, muddy Homecoming Day. But inclement weather seemed to have no effect on the dance which climaxed the day's activities. Students, alumni, and friends crowded into Gill Gym for one of the most memorable dances of the year.

Centers of Conversation . . .

Between Classes

Of course we inevitably found ourselves caught up in the daily whirl of class schedules. Changing classes we found time enough for coffee and doughnuts in the grille, quick stops for the morning mail, last-minute preparations on assignments, and tips on Bertholf's latest puns or what Makosky asked on the pop test the period before.

Classes

We found that the road to learning had many aspects. There were not only lectures, but labs of all kinds—biology, chemistry, art, and even such fulltime classes as the home ec. management house. And there was always much to be learned on our own at the library.

Fraternity and sorority life came to mean much to us through the fellowship within the groups themselves—the bridge games and the gab fests in our clubrooms and the laughter and sportsmanship of initiations. But this year we stimulated more interest and aroused a greater sportsmanship through the competition of both interfraternity and intersorority athletics.

. . . Sorority Life

We had the usual teas, banquets, rush parties, picnics, smokers, and bridge tournaments, and successfully sponsored many of the dances on campus. Despite the fact that these organizations are not national, they serve as the hub of a large part of Western Maryland social activity.

Extra-curricular Activities

Extra-curricular activities contributed towards a busy life and wider interests. The SCA functioned not only through worship programs, but through services such as the sale of coffee to finance CARE packages for Europe. The ALOHA and Gold Bug staffs continually raced deadlines to bring the campus publications out on time.

Alumni Hall provided the setting for "Claudia" and the other equally successful performances of the dramatic art department, and for the rehearsals and several of the productions of the Western Maryland Radio Players, as well as for such popular concerts as the National Symphony Orchestra.

Finale

At last we became participants instead of mere spectators in the few last ceremonies given in honor of the departing seniors. With mingled feelings we climaxed our college lives with Lantern Chain—and finally commencement.

And now we must close the book on these pleasurable reminiscences, as we somewhat sorrowfully end
our stay on the Hill.

But we take with us memories, knowledge, widened interests, and a deeper understanding of this world in which we live.

To you who remain we leave this heritage - friendship, academic opportunities, the principles upon which Western Maryland was founded, and the challenge of these days.

Very sincerely yours,

to the yearbook staff

for preserving a pictorial record of the school year. We are proud of having played a part in the production of this yearbook and know that you and your alumni will cherish the many memories it retains.

You are to be complimented for your initiative and enthusiasm which has played such an important part in its production. Pontiac craftsmen have tried sincerely to crown your efforts with success by rendering service and quality in the production of the photo-engravings in this book.
