The Story of

WESTERN MARYLAND COLLEGE

RETOLD BY THE STAFF OF...

THE 1951

Ciloha

PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS
WESTERN MARYLAND COLLEGE
WESTMINSTER, MD.

DEDICATION

All students who enter Western Maryland College are awed and inspired by the Traditions which they find in every nook and cranny of the Hill. As Freshmen they become clothed in this spirit; they are guided by it through their four years; they carry the recollections of it with them among the most real and lasting memories of their lives here.

To those who follow us, we dedicate the 1951 ALOHA. To you we leave the task of fostering, continuing and giving permanence to the Traditions which form both the foundation and the living spirit of the college we so proudly call our Alma Mater.

FOREWORD

How best to tell the story of a year at Western Maryland? Is it possible to portray the moments of joy, despondency, and triumph which are the essence of life on the Hill? We still don't know. But after a year of earnest effort to recapture those memories which will be indelible for all of us, we do know it's quite a task. If we have succeeded in only partly recording for posterity that which has taken place, so that future glimpses of the book will stir fond memory, we feel that the attempt has been worthwhile.

TO THE CLASS OF 1951:

Greetings! We entered Western Maryland together as fellow freshmen four years ago. At that time, I suppose, there was very little difference between us in the relative shades of greenness. We were all brand new in college. These years have passed rapidly; and if you have learned as much as your President, you will be the most enlightened class Western Maryland has ever graduated. In a sense, I dislike being left behind, but I shall always have an especially warm spot in my heart for the Class of '51—I feel that I am one of you. As you go out into the uncertainties of our present world, may God's blessing and guidance go with you. As a representative of your Alma Mater, may she ever have reason to be proud of you.

LOWELL S. ENSOR,
President.

FACULTY

In a small school such as Western Maryland, students and faculty members have a better chance to become acquainted. They come to know and expect certain idiosyncrasies, they mimic each other, and often share jokes and nicknames of mutual enjoyment. Since the association is so close, each senior feels that a certain part of the faculty graduates along with him:

"Now when you get to be my age," according to Mrs. Veale, "you'll be able to keep up with Mr. Schofield's rapid conversation." But will Dean Free still be scolded by Dean Howery for letting his men lead her girls astray? At least she will probably know that speech on public courtship as well as Mrs. James does her cases in past psych classes.

Over in the history department Dr. Whitfield is holding forth on the Methodists and Miss Disbrow is worrying about her duties as a house mother in the old infirmary. "Now, now Capt. Thornton, you just come out and watch our tennis team." "I will, Mr. Hurt, after I write to my son in France." "Oh, Mr. Thornton," interrupts Miss Snader, patting her hair, "isn't he just thrilled with Paris?"

"Don't you see, Mr. Hendrickson, this desk is won six lost two

The 1950 Terror season was another great one. They posted a 6-2 record and for a sophomore-studded club such as ours this is an enviable accomplishment.

The Big Green got off to a poor start on September 30 when they met their traditional jinx, Gettysburg, at the Gettysburg stadium. The Terrors couldn't get started that day and G-burg racked up an easy 19-0 victory.

On October 7 the Terrors traveled to Emmitsburg to meet Mt. St. Mary's. Here the Big Green was able to cut loose with some of the power they didn't show at G-burg. Harlow "Skitch" Henderson teamed up with Mitch Tullai and Ed Rydzewski to out pass, out run, and out gain the Mounties in every department. The line play was excellent and at the final gun Western Maryland was leading 41-13.

October 14 saw the Terrors taking the road once more, this time to Lancaster for a shot at the Franklin and Marshall Diplomats. For the first half the Terrors took everything the Diplomats could throw, but in the third quarter the Green was overwhelmed and the tired Havensmen finally yielded 25-0.

The first home game of the season was played against Dickinson on October 21. The Terrors got off to a fast start scoring 20 points in the first quarter. The Terrors mixed up their scorers in this game with T.D.'s by Henderson, Hart, Tullai, Fieldman and a safety scored by guard Vic Makovitch. Final score: Dickinson 13, Western Maryland 29.

The Hampden-Sydney Tigers were next on the Terrors' list, and on October 28 at Hoffa Field they were given a 19-7 drubbing by the underdog Terrors. First blood was drawn by the Terrors' shifty back Mitch Tullai on a forty yard dash. Tullai scored once again in the third quarter on a pass from "Skitch" Henderson and captain Ed Rydzewski made the Green's final tally on an interception. The here-to-fore unbeaten Tigers managed only a single T.D. in the fourth quarter as a result of a blocked punt.

The unbeaten Drexel Dragons were the next team to meet the Green Terrors, and on November 4, at Drexel Field they received their first set back. The lead in this clash changed three times before the Terrors sewed it up 26-25 with four minutes left to play. Outstanding in this game was Hank Norman, glue-fingered Terror end. Three of the four Terror tallies were made by Hank who caught impossible passes and who sparked the team to victory with his "heads-up," playing. Ira Zepp, the other great WMC end, scored the final six points for the Green after running around two defenders and over a third. Paul Tereshinski's conversions gave the added margin that spelled victory for the Terrors and the first loss to the Dragons.

November 11 brought the Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley College to Hoffa Field. The Terrors were able to score first on a pass, Henderson to Renaldi, but the Dutchmen came right back with their own tally and led at the half 7-6. The Green bounced right back at the beginning of the third period with a six pointer by Tullai on a pass from Henderson. In the fourth quarter Tullai scored once more on a double reverse from 11 yards out. The Terrors allowed no further scoring and the final score was WMC 19-Lebanon 7.

Homecoming Day on November 18 saw the Hopkins Blue Jays at Hoffa Field trying to retaliate for last year's 35-7 drubbing. One of the largest crowds in Western Maryland's history was on hand to see the Blue Jays go down to defeat 14-6. During the first two periods of play neither team was able to score, both playing excellent defensive ball. After the colorful half-time festivities, both teams again took the field. After seesawing back and forth for the majority of the third quarter, Hopkins fumbled on their own 20. The Terrors capitalized on this error and a pass from Henderson to Hart put the Green out in front. Seconds later, however, the Jays hit back for six points. The conversion was missed and the Terrors held a 7-6 lead. Another fumble by the Jays in the fourth quarter put the ball in Terror possession on the Jay's 30 yard line. Two plays later a Henderson pass was taken by Captain Rydzewski at shoe-top level for the score. The conversion was good and the Terrors led 14-6. There was no further scoring and two minutes later the clock ran out, as did the 1950 football season at WMC.

Congratulations are due to Coaches Charley Havens, Dick Harlow, and Bruce Ferguson who took a group of boys with virtually no varsity experience, and molded from this group a team as fine as any produced here in recent years.

Laurels also to the eight seniors who have played their last football game for Western Maryland. Sid Albrittain, Stan Fieldman, Frank Krausz, Hank Norman, Ed Rydzewski, Charlie Sykes, and George Tsouprake; all had excellent records this season and all made the team's record possible.

Almost everyone on campus participates in some fall sport either varsity or intramural. Many students turn out for fun in soccer, hockey and non-varsity football.

The Terror soccer team did not fare too well this season as the team was made up of a great number of freshmen who gained experience only as they played. Coach Hank Carrado, also new at the game, did manage to mold a team which next year should be a Mason-Dixon title contender.

The opener with Loyola was dropped 5-1. The following game was with Penn State and the Terrors excelled on the defense by holding the Lions, last year's intercollegiate champs, to but 3 goals.

A traditional rival, Johns Hopkins edged out the Terrors 2-1 in a hotly contested game. Jim Culhane, Co-captain of the team, tallied the lone Green goal early in the game. Next year perhaps experience will push the tide the other way and Western Maryland can once again ascend to the heights in the win column.

Meanwhile over the rise from the soccer field, the once-green hockey field showed brown from constant use. With enthusiasm shown by the participants for field hockey in combination with advanced techniques introduced by Barbara Davison and Ina Grice, the teams were led to a much more extensively competitive schedule for the season.

The interscholastic program consisted of games with Notre Dame College, Maryland College for Women, Towson State Teachers' College, and Mt. St. Joseph's. The team bowed only to Notre Dame in the first game of the season and came through victorious in the last three.

The interest instigated by the interscholastic successes created even more spirit among the interclass teams. The Juniors trounced the Seniors for the class championship after both teams defeated the Freshmen and Sophomore teams.

With a one win over four losses record it would seem that the "Baby Green Terrors" had a bad season last fall—but the fact that the win was over Johns Hopkins University offsets all of the losses.

Under coach and former varsity standout, Leo Lathroum and Frank Ligorano, line-coach, the J.V.'s played four teams straight without a winner, until the final game with Hopkins.

The season discovered plenty of talent for next year's varsity including backs Ed Kelley, Howard Zimmerman, and Arnold Needleman; ends, Pat Rogan and "Dusty" Martinelli; and linemen such as "Skip" Behrens, Jim Muller, and Dick Carvel, all of whom promise to put up a good fight for first string berths next year.

The Preachers once again won the intramural football championship winning every game in which they participated. A freshman team, the Eagles, were tied for second place with the Comets, another frosh team. The Black and Whites finished third. The Preachers were coached by Frank Ligorano and Stan Fieldman. Outstanding on the team were Joe Keenan, Harry LeFew, and Ernie Makowski.

PAN HELLENIC COUNCIL

The Pan Hellenic Council is made up of the Intersorority and Interfraternity Councils. Four major offices are filled by the rotation of officers. Intersorority Council consists of a president, vice-president, and junior representative, while Interfraternity Council consists of the four fraternity presidents and a senior and junior representative from each fraternity. Each council functions separately but works with the other to form the Pan Hellenic Council. The president of Interfraternity serves as the president, while the president of Intersorority is the other officer.

Intersorority this year, with Mrs. Kordalewski as faculty adviser, kept the tradition of Sadie Hawkins alive by sponsoring the annual dance in the Blanche Ward Gym. President Ensor presented the Intersorority Scholarship Cup to Sigma Sigma Tau at a tea in November. The council served food provided by the Senior Class to senior carolers on the morning before Christmas vacation. Second semester's activities included an Intersorority basketball tournament, bridge tournament, spring rush teas and parties.

Interfraternity, under the auspices of the Interfraternity Athletic Council, set up an intramural sports program, and in addition to its routine function of regulating biddings and smokers, innovated an Annual Bridge and Ping-pong Tournament, setting up a Bridge Trophy that will remain in the possession of the winning fraternity. The Frank B. Hurt Scholarship cup was awarded to Pi Alpha Alpha. A Male Glee Club has been started and is open to all the men.

Both councils joined together in the planning of the Pan Hellenic Dance in May. The Council did much to bring friendliness and fun to all the sororities and fraternities.

"You know, we've really had a lot of good times with the Bachelors this year. We've had several parties with them; in fact, we even made cleaning up after the May Day dance fun by serving them breakfast. The improved appearance of our clubroom is due in a large part to them."

"But how about your budget? Didn't that help you to save for clubroom improvement?"

"That budget has given us a lot of laughs but we've stuck to it and it has really worked."

September, and another year began for all the Iotes. First semester officers were June Beaver, president; Jean Dennison, vice-president; Betty Shivers, recording secretary; Martha Buchman, corresponding secretary; Amy Chamberlin, treasurer; Herma Nixdorf, historian; and Mary Belle Shawn, intersorority representative.

Fall activities included welcoming twelve new "germs" and a new sponsor, Mrs. Milton Huber, a former member. A prize winning display—a race track on Dr. Ensor's lawn—was our contribution to Homecoming festivities. Our annual Christmas banquet at the Hoffman House was a huge success.

Second semester officers were Martha Buchman, president; Betty Shivers, vice-president; Mary Belle Shawn, recording secretary; Pat Crawford, corresponding secretary; and Sally Griffin, intersorority representative.

In February we received three new members. Spring plans included the tea in March and our annual rush party at Big Pipe Creek Park.

At the end of a successful year we said farewell to seven of our members with a party in their honor.

After the entrance of our twenty new "calves" into the sorority, we spent much of our time working on Pegasus, a paper maché horse, for which we received honorable mention at Homecoming. As Christmas vacation drew near we attended a party given us by our Gamma Bet brothers and our own party in the clubroom. Throughout the year we continued to support our war orphan.

At our formal banquet in January second semester officers Mary Ruth Williams, president; Libby Davis, vice-president; Nancy Phillippe, secretary; Alice Yearley, treasurer; Phyllis Smith, chaplain; Charlotte Reed, sergeant-at-arms; and Janice Zaiser, alumnae secretary, were installed.

After the annual tea and hobo rush party came our senior banquet in May which closed another year in the history of Phi Alpha Mu.

SIGMA SIGMA TAU

We were back again and ready for another year among our fellow Sigmas. Mary K. Wills was leading us as president, backed up by Doris Joiner, vice-president; Jackie Brown, secretary; and Dottie Phillips, treasurer. With bidding we were joined by 18 new "skunks."

With the twenty-fifth anniversary of our club-room we had 300 alumnae present on Homecoming. This year we continued our birthday calendar campaign for CARE and also were the proud recipients of the Scholastic Cup. At Christmas we celebrated with two parties—one given us by the Black and Whites and our own Yuletide party.

Second semester found Doris Joiner as president; Chris Meinel, vice-president; Peg Timmons, secretary; and Ann Van Order, treasurer. Five "skunks" were added second semester.

Second semester zipped by after the Inter-sorority Bridge Tournament, over which the Sigmas were the proved victors, the tea, and Sigma Circus and May found us at the Senior Banquet saying "so long" to the Hill for another year.

make Homecoming 1950 a success by sponsoring the Homecoming Dance.

In celebration of their twenty-seventh anniversary, February 27 was declared "Bachelor Day" and the entire student body and faculty were invited to the renovated clubroom to participate in the event. The other organized social activities of the year included the Christmas party, the spring recess party, two fraternity banquets, and the Bachelor-Delt party.

Alpha Gamma Tau attempted to do its bit towards world citizenship by adopting a war orphan.

DELTA PI ALPHA

The knights of Delta Pi Alpha started this school year in the same style as other years.

A spirit of teamwork culminated in the fraternity football championship. Basketball, volleyball, softball, track, tennis and golf were also well represented by the Preachers in the intramural sports activities for 1951.

Another venture was the Mid-Century Ball which captivated all who attended, with its Gay Nineties effect. Frank Krausz led the way as general chairman.

First semester Harris LeFew ably headed the club as president. Ed Rydzewski assisted him as vice-president. Buck Kelly kept the minutes, Al Skvarek handled the funds, Stan Fieldman was corresponding secretary and Albert Grimes was Epsilon.

Ed Rydzewski took over as president second semester. Other officers were: Mitch Tullai, vice-president; Dick Cohen, secretary; Ernie Makowski, treasurer; and Bruce Rudisill, Epsilon.

To top the achievements of 1949-50 is almost impossible but this year's edition of Delta Pi Alpha is well on its way to equalling that stellar year.

GAMMA BETA CHI

Gamma Beta Chi launched into the new year under the leadership of Lou Pietroforte, president. Assisting officers were Dan Honemann, vice-president; Jay Eggly, secretary; Sid Albrit-tain, treasurer; Russ Deragon, chaplain; Gill Clough, sergeant-at-arms; Bob Talner, vice-treasurer, and Dick Stone, vice-secretary.

The first project of the semester was the redecoration of the old clubroom which included the purchasing of a new TV set. GB made a clean sweep of the Homecoming prize, winning first prize for their display and parade float. Another successful project was the Gamma Bet sponsored Christmas dance.

Under "Doc" Straughn's fifth year of appreciated sponsorship, the Gamma Bets entered the second semester with Jay Eggly as president; Phil Sack, vice-president; Russ Deragon, secretary; Sid Albrittain, treasurer; Tom Lang, chaplain; Lou Pietroforte, sergeant-at-arms; Carl Seiler, vice-treasurer, and Sam Winston, vice-secretary.

The Gamma Bets will miss the thirteen seniors who have helped make this a great year!

PI ALPHA ALPHA

June, 1951, marks the close of another year of vigorous activity in Pi Alpha Alpha. The frat contributed towards the success of the Mid-Century Advance Campaign at Homecoming with a massive football float and the futuristic rocket display.

After Homecoming sixteen new pledges were gained who willingly suffered through the agonies of Hell Week.

During the first part of December, the frat was treated to a party by the Sigmas, and latter reciprocated. Just before midyear exams, the semi-annual banquet was held at Schotties'. In addition the Valentine dance was sponsored by the Bachelors.

At the end of the semester the Frank B. Hurt Scholarship Cup was won as a permanent possession.

Our officers for first semester: Alpha, Millard LesCallette; Vice-Alpha, Kendrick McCall; Beta, Jay Lockman; Vice-Beta, Essell Thomas; Gamma, John Loper; and Delta, Mike Chirigos. During the second semester we were ably led by:

Alpha, Kendrick McCall; Vice-Alpha, Roland Layton; Beta, Bob Fraser; Vice-Beta, Brady Kunkle; Gamma, John Loper; and Delta, Mike Chirigos.

Now in its sixteenth year as the Honor Society of Western Maryland College, the Argonaut Club is modeled after the National honorary fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa. It is the ultimate aim of the organization to become qualified for membership in this national fraternity. The Argonauts promote sound scholarship, give recognition to those who obtain high scholastic standing and encourage fellowship between students in various departments and between students and faculty.

Due to a revision by the Administration of requirements for student honors, the Argonauts found it necessary to raise their membership requirements. Eligible for membership as Associates are Juniors and Seniors of the college who have a cumulative scholastic index of at least 2.1. At the end of seven semesters, Associates are inducted as Fellows if a cumulative average of 2.2 or more is attained. Members of the Western Maryland College faculty are invited to join as honorary members.

The outstanding events of the year included a talk by Professor Charles E. Crain of the Religion department, a tea honoring all students with a cumulative index of 2.1, and the annual spring banquet given in honor of the senior members eligible for Fellowship.

Numerous minor activities were also conducted during the year. For the Homecoming week-end, a replica of Old Main was erected as a display; and a float, representing the traditional Greek "Argo" was entered in the parade. Another innovation was an assembly for Freshmen held by a group of Argonauts who sought to instruct these students about the ways to study for the various departments of the college. A movie was sponsored in February in order to supplement the budget. On the 16th of February a tea for new members was held. On March 14 the Argonauts organization sponsored a concert.

Plans for the organization and nomination of members were made by the Executive committee composed of: Fred Keefer, president; Jacqueline Brown, vice-president; Angela Crothers, secretary; Ralph Gorten, treasurer; and the two faculty members appointed by President Ensor, Dr. Isabel Isanogle and Dr. William Riddington.

TRI BETA

With Professor C. L. Benninghof again as the sponsor, the Alpha Mu chapter of Beta Beta Beta completed its nineteenth year.

The membership for the first semester includes seventeen full members and twelve provisional members. In February three of our provisional members, having filled the requirements, became full members along with two others who first became associated with the group at that time.

Among the officers of the group were: Lois Hicks, president; Evelyn Hoyle, vice-president; Dorothy Dalglish, secretary; Phil Kable, historian, and Professor Benninghof, who held the purse strings as treasurer.

The meetings were usually held in McDaniel Lounge on the 1st and 3rd Tuesday afternoons of each month. At these times talks concerning the biological sciences were given by members of the group and outside speakers.

From our own group we had a talk given by Betty Simpson, winner of last year's scholarship award, on her experiences in biology last summer. We also heard talks from three senior students.

In the fall we returned the invitation of last year from the chapter at Hood College. A joint meeting was held in which we supplied the meeting place and refreshments and they brought the speaker who was Dr. Weedum from Camp Dietrich, who discussed with us the changing biotenological techniques.

In March Dr. Robert C. Cook, editor of the Journal of Heredity came to the college as a guest of Tri-Beta. Dr. Cook spoke to the entire student body in assembly and continued giving his views in an open discussion held by Tri-Beta in the afternoon.

According to tradition we had our bi-annual initiation programs and our annual spring picnic. The first initiation was held at Professor Benninghof's and at midsemester we met at Dr. Sturdivant's home. Following last year's pattern, Dr. Sturdivant also entertained the senior members of the group at a supper party during Senior Week.

The national meeting was not held this year but a number of our group attended the annual regional conference in the spring.

The program this year has helped to exemplify the aims of our organization, namely to "stimulate sound scholarship, promote the dissemination of scientific truth and encourage investigation in the life sciences."

ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA

The Iota Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, the national honorary fraternity in philosophy, was established at WMC in April, 1949, by a group of interested college students. The purpose of this fraternity is to recognize excellence in the study of philosophy and allied subjects, and to develop an interest in philosophical discussion.

Due to the limited membership this year, some of the fraternity's activities have been hampered, but under the presidency of Louis Pietroforte, the group offered a stimulating series of programs to the campus in its open meetings. Dr. Reuben S. Holthaus, chairman of the department of philosophy, is faculty adviser to the Iota Chapter.

Dr. George S. Wills opened the year's activities with a talk entitled "Western Maryland College—Some Ethics and Attitudes Since 1893." following this meeting with Dr. Wills, AKA held an informal discussion with Dr. Thomas Marshall of "Some Impressions of Europe" while on a trip to that continent last summer.

Aside from outside speakers and lecturers, the fraternity offers open discussions on topics of interest to the immediate campus, such as the meeting held for examining collegiate honor systems and the problems involved in attempting to set up such a system here. Another informal student discussion centered about a controversial issue dealing with man in the universe as it was published and defined in a contemporary literary magazine.

In April, Alpha Kappa Alpha held its annual convention in Harrisburg. There Louis Pietroforte relinquished his position as first undergraduate vice-president of the national council; and Tom Lang, his position as member-at-large.

Seated: Lou Pietroforte, Alice Winnberg, Jerry Lockman, Norman Slamecka. Standing: Dr. Holthaus, Tom Lang.

TRUMPETERS

At the annual Tapping Ceremony last May, June Beaver, Mary Jean Rupert, and Alice Yearley were selected Trumpeters and presented with the caps and gowns of the graduating members.

Returning to the campus for Freshman Week, the Trumpeters helped with the orientation of new students. After being mistakenly identified as members of a drum and bugle corps by many freshmen, the Trumpeters and their sponsor, Dr. Isabel Isanogle, met with all new women students and explained the history and purpose of this honorary organization. Founded by Dean Katherine Carmichael, this group has as its motto: "For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?"

Each year one to five senior women are selected on a point basis according to leadership in extra-curricular activities. They are rated on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and citizenship. This organization has established as its purpose to encourage leadership and participation in extra-curricular activities on the college campus.

With the help of the Junior girls, the Trumpeters decorated the dining hall for the annual Christmas Banquet adding a bit of holiday atmosphere to the affair. Huge sparkling bells hung in the windows and paper carolers decorated every table.

When the school year drew to a close, these graduating members tapped the women of the class of 1952 who will be the Trumpeters for next year.

STUDENT CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

The aim of the SCA, as stated by president Russ Deragon, is "to provide a religious outlet for everyone . . . through a program intended to provide activities of sufficient variety to appeal to all students and faculty members, whatever their Christian background." In keeping with this aim, the SCA, under the guidance of its adviser Dr. Crain, has presented a unified religious program.

Rather than being a religious organization in itself, the SCA is the coordinator of all religious groups on campus. In addition to these various groups the Carroll Club and MSM have this year been organized.

In the area of worship and study, both local and guest speakers such as Rev. Paul Warren, and Dr. Makosky, presented different viewpoints, on religious questions. All talks were designed to stimulate individual thinking and culminated in student panel discussions. Dr. Welliver of the Seminary spoke of conditions in Europe to the Commission on World Relatedness led by Corinne Schofield.

The SCA participated in the Sunday evening chapel service by securing as speaker Rev. Robert Holdt who also led two informal discussion groups. The bond of fellowship with Christian Associations of other colleges was strengthened by having such persons as the Rev. John Burgess of Howard University visit our campus.

Led by Jean Curl, the Commission on Christian Heritage provided special worship and communion services during Advent as well as Lent.

Service found expression through the Commission on Social Responsibility under the direction of Estelle Zeis. The SCA bulletin board provided News-of-the-Day. Many persons devoted time to the Westminster Negro Nursery School. Traditionally, the SCA Community Service Award was presented to the most deserving fraternity and sorority.

Ira Zepp directed the World Student Service Fund campaign. The highlight of the drive combined service with recreation, in the unprecedented and never-to-be-forgotten Faculty-Student basketball game.

A square dance started the year with fun and fellowship and the Fireside Fellowship directed by Libby Schubert, Commissioner of Personal and Campus Affairs, provided many Sunday evenings of entertainment.

Vice-president, Kitty Oleweiler Shook; secretary, Dadie Davis; treasurer, Pat Huddle; and the other cabinet members worked along with the president and commissioners to present this program of integrated but varied religious activity.

METHODIST STUDENT MOVEMENT

Born just one year ago, the Methodist Student Movement at Western Maryland has blossomed into an active campus group.

After George Washington University and University of Maryland groups had guided us in organizing, we became part of the SCA program. To Dr. Holthaus, our adviser, and Rev. Woodward, minister of Westminster Methodist Church, we also owe a vote of thanks.

Our major projects this year were Homecoming displays—a decorated town window with the slogan "As grows our garden, so grows WMC" took 3rd prize, the campus display was done in cooperation with the Canterbury Club.

Included in the speaker's program during the year were Coach Charlie Havens and Dr. Douglas Chandler from the Westminster Seminary. Dr. B. Langrall spoke on "Four Things to Remember."

With our first year as a recognized branch of the National Methodist Student Movement successfully behind us, the group is looking forward to continued years of campus growth.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

On Sunday morning one can see a number of students making their way to Sunday School in Baker Chapel. The students are of all faiths and come from many backgrounds. Although there is no regular teacher, Dr. Crain acts as a most faithful adviser.

The programs and activities of the group were planned by the cabinet—Lincoln Justice, president; Phyllis Cromwell and Ira Zepp, vice-presidents; Betty Simpson, secretary-treasurer; Kay Nowack, Roger White, and Ashby Collins, councilors. Hats off to Kenny Shook for his good work with special music and to the others who took part in the programs.

Some of the topics considered during the year were: "Is the Lord's Supper Just a Symbol?", "The Case for Christianity," a book review by Dr. Crain, "Christianity and Government," "Christianity in Vocations," "The Story of the Other Wise Man," read by Jean Wilkes, and a study of three religious groups: Seventh Day Adventists, Friends, and Nazarenes.

In the fall a skating party was sponsored and in the spring the annual picnic.

WESLEYANS

Every Friday a good number of Wesleyans climb the stairs to the top of the seminary's "Upper Room." The Wesleyans are a group of undergraduate men who plan to enter some type of Christian service. A majority of the thirty members are planning to enter the pastorate, but some plan to become doctors or to enter other missionary services. It is the function of the meetings to provide a place to exchange ideas and experiences for mutual enrichment. As an outgrowth of this group one or two smaller groups have been meeting for more intensive study of the Christian way of life. Deputation teams are often sent out to the nearby churches.

Dr. Milton J. Huber serves as adviser. The officers for the first semester were Ken Tyson, president; Wally Wiser, vice-president; Henry Ernst, secretary-treasurer. In the second semester the officers were: Lincoln Justice, president; Henry Ernst, vice-president; and Ellsworth Schubert, secretary-treasurer.

WESLEYANETTES

The Wesleyanettes are an interdenominational group of college women interested in Christian service for a part-time or full-time activity.

As has been the custom for the last two years, the meetings were held every other Friday at the home of Mrs. Lester Welliver, wife of the President of the Westminster Theological Seminary and a capable adviser. Meetings were presided over by the president, Betty Mae Shepter, with Cathy Neal, vice-president, and Doris Reck, secretary-treasurer.

The Wesleyanettes have had several projects this year which include the Homecoming Displays, two Christmas baskets for the needy, "Care" packages, and the visiting of young peoples' groups of nearby churches.

Joint meetings which the group has had with the Wesleyans have added to the fun and fellowship of the group.

The Wesleyanettes, based on the theme, "Living for Jesus," is a rapidly growing organization.

CANTERBURY CLUB

The Canterbury Club was the first denomina-tional group to organize at Western Maryland, three years ago. Now it operates under the Student Christian Association.

Communion breakfasts and services on special church days bring students together in worship, while speakers from Washington and Balti-more furnish discussion material at the monthly meetings. Activities included a parish supper, a prize-winning window display in conjunction with Methodist students for the Homecoming celebration, and tours to the Episcopal Convent at Catonsville and to the Washington Cathedral. The group was also represented at the Tri-Dio-cesan Conference in Washington. The high-light of the year was an Intercollegiate Conference with nine other colleges.

The Reverend Austin Schildwachter and Miss Ann O'Rourke helped the group to plan its activities. Officers for the year were: Elizabeth Thomas, president; Nell Hughes, vice-president and SCA representative; Anne Smutney, secretary-treasurer.

LUTHERAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION

Although only in its second year, the Lutheran Student Association is one of the most active organizations on the Hill.

The Association holds meetings once a month either in McDaniel Lounge or in the parsonage of the Grace Lutheran Church in Westminster. At times students have informal "get-togethers" such as the spaghetti dinner at the home of the pastor.

Members of this organization enjoy retreats at the Logan Cottage at Pine Grove Furnace, near Arenotsville, Pennsylvania. Everyone participates in an afternoon of fun and fellowship.

The local Lutheran Student Association will be represented again this year at the National L.S.A. Conference held at Buck Hill Falls, Pennsylvania.

This year the L.S.A. has been under the capable leadership of the Reverend Dr. Elwood Falkenstein, Pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church in Westminster, Richard Bartlett of Gettysburg Theological Seminary, and student officers Pat Huddle, president, and Barbara Baumgardner, secretary, treasurer.

CARROLL CLUB

The Carroll Club of Western Maryland College, newly established on campus this year, is a Catholic group with a three-fold program: religious, educational and social.

Though a local group, we are modeled after Newman Clubs of which 300 exist in the United States. The Carroll Club had its earliest beginnings in May, 1950, when 37 Western Maryland Catholic students organized to create an organization to fill their spiritual needs.

Father Francis Wills, assistant pastor at Saint John's Catholic Church in Westminster, serves ably as spiritual adviser and moderator. Mrs. M. A. Summers fills the capacity of faculty adviser.

The club has one meeting monthly which consists mainly of informal discussion groups. The program this year has been high-lighted by three outside speakers: Paul Zavell of Johns Hopkins University, Father Walter Gauch of Johns Hopkins University, and Father John Bazinet, S.S.

COLLEGE SINGERS

A newcomer to the "Hill," the College Singers this year took its place among the numerous campus organizations. Under the student direction of Louis Pietroforte, this mixed group endeavored to provide experience and enjoyment to those interested in the field of choral music.

One of the purposes of the College Singers was to produce, throughout the year, musical selections to augment other campus functions. These choristers added variety and style to many of the mid-century drive banquets and activities.

The group made its first appearance at the President's banquet in McDaniel Lounge at Homecoming weekend. It was also one of the main features of the Musical Fete on March 14th.

The students of this new organization worked harmoniously to achieve their main goal—that of interpreting the music of yesterday and today in an effort to develop a finer appreciation of great music for their audiences and for themselves.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

The "mid-century" year of the Girl's Glee Club has been one of great success and interest to participants and audiences alike, made possible under the direction of Miss Grace Cordia Murray. The spirit of cooperation and common purpose, the betterment of Western Maryland College, which prevades the campus has been strongly upheld by this group throughout the year. This organization of sixty-eight "trilling nightingales" marches to practice every Tuesday afternoon armed with the motto: "Hard work and we love it!"

Outstanding during their year's program was the Christmas recital which presented the stirring "The Shepherd's Christmas," painted in brilliant colors of song and narration. Early spring was greeted by another brilliant performance, Magnificent by Ralph Vaughn given for the entire student body.

This coming year will be a grand one, if every girl who is able will answer to the call of beautiful music and song!

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The Men's Glee Club is composed of about 25 undergraduate students under the direction of Louis Pietroforte, accompanied by Arnold Hayward.

This organization is a newcomer to the Hill this year, although the need for such a group had been expressed many times in the past. Director Pietroforte started by requesting the Interfraternity Council to sponsor a men's glee club on campus.

Since facilities are limited, the new group had to shift for itself, and was frequently heard rehearsing in Alumni Hall. "Skip" Barry took care of the glee club's secretarial affairs and helped in the administrative tasks.

As the year progressed the glee club became more firmly entrenched in campus affairs and looks to be potentially one of the more active campus favorites.

THE COLLEGE CHOIR

Easily distinguished by the brown folders of music they carry, the 69 members of the choir are seen headed in the direction of the music hall every Thursday night for practice. Their weekly performances in the chapel service under the direction of Mr. Alfred deLong and the accompaniment of Mr. Oliver Spangler include sacred music of all faiths and countries and other traditional selections.

For the annual Christmas program they sang a number of folk carols in conjunction with the Dramatic Art presentation of December 10. In the Music Festival for the benefit of the Mid-Century Advance Campaign they sang several semi-classics. Their spring presentation was The Creation by Joseph Hadyn with solos by Kitty Shook, Louis Pietroforte and William Simpson. To all friends and students of WMC, the white robed singers of the chapel service are a familiar sight and their music an inspiring sound.

LITTLE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The College Little Symphony Orchestra of thirty-five players is under the direction of Professor Philip Royer. On January 15, William Simpson, Shirley Murray, Betty Bachtell, Lincoln Justice, Patricia Shear, Audrey Meredith, Janet Hering, Betty Crosswhite and Harriet Kahn directed the orchestra for an assembly.

At the Spring Concert the orchestra celebrated its twentieth anniversary by inviting former members who played in the orchestra during the past twenty years to return to the "Hill" and participate in the following program: Prelude and Fugue in D minor by Handel in a transcription by Hans Kinder, Symphony in F Major by Dittersdorff and Piano Concerto No. 3 in C minor by Beethoven, with Arlene Heggmeier as soloist.

On April 27, a group from the orchestra accompanied 350 voices from the Carroll County high schools for the County Eisteddfod.

The orchestra traditionally plays at the Commencement Exercises.

POSTER CLUB

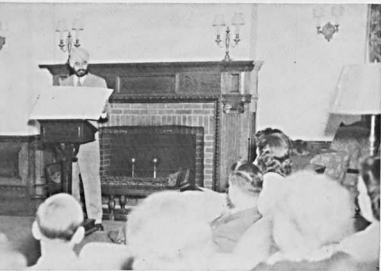

"Sure, she's a good postermaker!" Postermaker—it's a title that once you get, you never lose. It's the bug that bit ten energetic souls in September, and made them decide to pool their talents and to form the Poster Club. These individuals, instead of hiding at the word "poster," seem to enjoy the idea.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Shipley, they elected Jim Williams president because of his previous experience in professional work. He explained the mysteries of his fabulous "poster kit," and gave pointers to the rest of the group.

Officially these artists met twice a month in the art lab. Unofficially, they worked stretched out on dorm floors 'till the wee hours—completing spur-of-the-moment assignments.

Their first and biggest order of the year was Homecoming publicity. After that, orders flocked in from such campus organizations as IRC, MSM, Fireside, FTA, and the Argonauts. The "small fees" charged for services gradually added up to an impressive sum, which was given to the Mid-Century Drive. Sometimes the job was a bother, but it was an awful lot of fun.

ARTS SYMPOSIUM

Arts Symposium group enjoys lecture.

A relatively young organization on the Hill, the Arts Symposium has come to mean many things to many campus residents. To music lovers it may bring back memories of afternoons spent in the club meeting place, the comfortable quietness of McDaniel Lounge—afternoons of listening pleasure provided by the playing of some of the world's most enjoyable music. Since its beginning, the Arts Symposium has devoted many meetings to musical programs, from Shostokovich to Il Trovatore, Brahms' Requiem to Porgy and Bess. For its literary-minded members the club provides lectures on varied and appealing topics by outside speakers and our faculty members and students. The theatre, too, has always been well represented; one of this year's most entertaining programs was William G. Eaton's first hand account of the 1950-51 play season on Broadway.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

On the second Monday evening of every month students interested in French gathered for an informal meeting in McDaniel Hall Lounge. These meetings of Le Cercle Francais are under the sponsorship of Miss Margaret Snader and provide an opportunity to employ knowledge of French in a social setting. John Seiland was president during the first semester and upon his graduation, Janice Benson became president. Priscilla Johnston was the secretary and Bill Callas was treasurer.

The club activities began with two one-act plays, as always, and a Fete des Chansons highlighted the November program. The traditional, beautiful Christmas carol program included many lovely solos and the reading of the biblical story in French.

The second semester also held many interesting programs including the hilarious bingo and bridge party and dancing a la francaise. And, as usual, the semester ended with an accomplished presentation of one of the masterpieces of French Drama.

I.R.C.

To help attain its purpose, as indicated by its name, the IRC has had discussions on Sweden, India, China, and Japan. A key speaker was Mr. John H. Jukes, a member of the Economic Section of the British Cabinet, now serving at the British Embassy in Washington.

Another noted speaker was Dr. Harold Benjamin, Dean of the College of Education at the University of Maryland and author of Sabre Tooth Curriculum.

Serving as officers of the club first semester were Betty Duvall, president; Anne Van Order, vice-president; and Betty Shivers, secretary-treasurer. Officers chosen for second semester were Edward Early, president, Corinne Schofield, vice-president; and Betty Simpson, secretary-treasurer.

Western Maryland holds membership in the Maryland Association of International Relations Clubs, the Collegiate Council of the United Nations, and sends delegates from the IRC to attend Middle Atlantic State Conferences.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club provides an organization for girls interested in the field of home economics. It endeavors to put "Home" into Home Economics, further professional attitudes, promote better public relations and stimulate a lively interest in a vital, worthwhile and interesting field.

Officers were Mary K. Wills, president; Jacqueline Brown, vice-president; Virginia Hale, treasurer; and Rebecca LeFew, secretary. Miss Helen Gray is the sponsor of the club.

At the first meeting, held in October, the club was hostess to the College Club section of The Maryland Home Economics Association, of which it is a member. In November it eagerly joined in the Homecoming celebration with an enlarged replica of "Maryland Cooking" (The Maryland Association's own cookbook) boosting the Mid-Century campaign. This book was also sold in a campus wide campaign to help promote the club.

A gala Christmas party with an exchange of gifts followed in December and in January an extension specialist gave a demonstration-talk on the selection of practical dinnerware and table linens. An interesting "Tour of Nova Scotia" with Miss Daisy Smith as speaker was given in February.

"Professional Opportunities in Home Economics" was the subject of talks by former graduates of the department for the March meeting. Mrs. Kelly Rice, graduate of 1949 related opportunities in television. Teaching was discussed by Mrs. Hoffman, Miss Wentz, and Mrs. Shark. The latest advancement in the school lunch field was given by Ruth McVain.

Many members attended the Spring meeting of the State College clubs held at St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg. April found our members modeling their own creations in the annual style show. A tea for the seniors, sponsored by the juniors and installation of officers for next year brought an eventful year to a close.

Impressing members with the purpose of the club, informing students other than those majoring in home economics of the benefits of studying the basic courses in home economics, strengthening the student-faculty relationship, and recognizing homemaking as a major field of endeavor were the main spokes in guiding the club in their 1950-51 work.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Prospective teachers on campus have banded together in the formation of a pre-professional organization known as the Isanogle Chapter of the Future Teachers of America.

As the first meeting of the organization this year the chapter elected officers; president, Herb Klinger; vice-president, Peggy Kerns; recording secretary, Pat McLaren; corresponding secretary, Mary Bankert; and treasurer, Ed Rydzewski.

It's been a busy year from the outset. A program committee was formed to arrange a program for each monthly meeting that would be stimulating, interesting, and of value to the prospective teacher. The initial program was a panel discussion by local junior and senior high school students who answered with wit and fluency the multitude of questions which members posed to them concerning desirable and undesirable teacher qualities, teaching methods and education in general. An arts and crafts demonstration constituted a colorful program. The national secretary of the FTA and the Associate Editor of the NEA Journal spoke to the organization on the vital issue of federal aid to education. Still another program was designed to explore the realm of job opportunities in the teaching field. Authorities met with the group and presented facts on athletics in the school program and the merits of the teaching profession.

The newly formed projects committee came forth with an original and startling display—the organization's contribution to the Mid-Century extravaganza.

The group was successful this year in the writing of a constitution which reflects the purposes and scope of the organization. Stars were added to the crown of accomplishments when three students were elected as delegates to the state committee of Future Teachers. Jacqueline Brown and Janet Hering represented our chapter at the state meeting.

The organization looks to the future with plans of promoting the formation of an FTA club at Westminster High School.

And so, the Future Teachers of America look back on three years of service at Western Maryland and look forward to the future with youthful enthusiasm. Being only three years old, the FTA has many more years in which to expand and accomplish big things.

W.A.A. BOARD

The Women's Athletic Association is an organization of women students to promote good sportsmanship, greater interest in sports, and increased intramural activities.

Following a round robin series of games, the traditional freshmen party was held at which awards were presented to all deserving women. Basketball season was fortified with more than the usual number of extra-mural games which did a lot to arouse school interest. A board member was the Western Maryland representative at a AFCW conference at Hood College.

While the coke business was still booming, board members added another responsibility to their duties by selling sandwiches. This project was incorporated in order to raise money to send two student representatives to the Eastern District Association of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation held in New York during the last part of April.

The Women's Student Government Association and Women's Athletic Association held a joint open meeting in March to present the athletic final honor award.

CAMERA CLUB

"To aid and benefit, by mutual cooperation, those interested in photography in and around the campus." With this aim in mind we began the year under the capable leadership of Maurice Cubberley, president; Robert Fraser, vice-president; Josephine Kohner, secretary; and Dale Townsend, treasurer.

We began our program with a review of the basic principles of picture making by the use of illustrated slide lectures, demonstrations, and movies. Adequate photographic facilities were provided in our dark room in the basement of McKinstry Hall for use by any club member.

Early in the fall work was begun on our Homecoming display which was erected in front of McKinstry Hall. Later we began making Christmas cards with campus scenes.

In February a "portrait meeting" was held where everyone tried his luck at taking "likenesses" of some of the members. The results were brought to the following meeting where they were discussed and criticized.

The biggest event of the year was our spring motor trip touring surrounding scenic mountains.

CHEERLEADERS

Enthusiasm, pep, and the arresting green and gold school spirit exemplifies WMC's cheerleaders. For the fifth consecutive year the coeds, assisted by two energetic men, have successfully led the Terror yells on both the football field and the basketball court. The 1951 football season was initiated with the traditional pre-Gettysburg pep rally in Alumni Hall, and the police-escorted student invasion into Westminster. We still have an occasional chuckle over the "save your Confederate dollars, boys, the South will rise again" skits which accompanied all the pep rallies held in Alumni Hall. Then there were the after dinner rallies on the porch of Old Main, the snake lines "down town," and the cold windy trek to the 7th Green to burn the effigy of "Old Man Hopkins." Such memories bring pangs of reminiscent melancholia to each (graduating) student. Hats off to "the team behind the crowd behind the team," our vivacious cheerleaders, who helped to make possible all these things.

MAJORETTES

A welcome addition was made to our football season in 1948 when the Majorette Corps first made its appearance at Western Maryland College.

Under the direction of the leader, Peggy Hazlett, the corps expanded the following year to three members and their activity functioned during the football season. This year the corps was uniformed in green and gold satin.

1950 brought four new members to the corp making a total of six members. Under the leadership of co-captains Joan Brengle and Ina Grice the corps enjoyed a good season and performed at all the pep rallies and the football games.

The six pretty lassies who entertain so ably at half time during the football season have worked out numerous twirling routines including aerobic stunts and duet twirling.

Next year the girls hope to enlarge the corps to include a few pom-pom girls. With their colorful uniforms and flashing batons they contributed to the pep and spirit of the football season.

COLLEGE PLAYERS

The College Players had the privilege of giving their first performance in this school year to help launch Western Maryland's Mid-Century Advance Campaign. Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" was seen by a capacity Homecoming audience and accepted with loud acclaim. "Professor" Don Bailey's inspired scene designs were striking accompaniments to the fine performances. Not a few vowed they were the finest sets ever made on College Hill.

A vastly different but beautiful dramatic presentation lifted a thrilled audience from the everyday world into the world of the first Christmas at the traditional Christmas Vesper Service. "The Christmas Story in Sculpture" (five scenes with a narrator) proved to be an actor's experience that will long be remembered.

If the Players can claim any success at all, it is for the greater part due to one person, Miss Esther Smith. Her deep personal concern for her proteges; the endless nights spent trying to find an answer to a student actor's problem or the selection of the "right" play; thoughts, suggestions and criticisms given out in truth and sincerity as from a master's soul; the philosophy that permeates the classes; these along with an endless number of qualities remain a guarantee for good work by The College Players. Miss Smith as teacher, director and coach relies greatly on the excellent staging of her assistant, Don Bailey. More than that, Don is now teaching in the Dramatic Art department.

Following the precedent of previous years, the Juniors presented a group of three one-act plays in March. They were: a comedy by Gordon Alderman, "Dots and Dashes"; "Red Peppers," by Noel Coward; and "Riders to the Sea" with an "overpowering mood of tragedy" by J. M. Synge.

A most successful year came to a close with the production of "The Madwoman of Chailiot" by Jean Giraudaux and adapted by Maurice Valency at commencement. With this performance also ends the three years of invaluable training of the Senior College Players. Though this formal association must be concluded, the unnumbered hours spent in lessons, rehearsals, and performances, the trips together to see professional stage presentations, will be among the most cherished memories from the four years at Western Maryland College.

When the by-words "Let's have a yearbook that's completely different this year" took top honors with the 1951 ALOHA editorial staff, precedents were thrown to the winds and the result was a decision to make this 1951 ALOHA the story of life at WMC in informal, pictorial style.

After we'd decided on the theme, the real difficulties began to crop up. Past ALOHA procedures weren't much help, how informal the "informality" ought to be was difficult to settle to everyone's satisfaction, the weatherman was far from cooperative in giving us clear days for pictures, and Father Time always seemed to keep just one jump ahead of us. Even these problems seemed small when we found we'd gotten a budget cut, and then saw publication costs go up.

Yet the 1951 ALOHA finally reached the printer and returned still better than we had pictured it during our months of effort. It is different and this is its inside success story. Our sponsor, Dr. Marshall, was always ready and waiting to lend a hand; Mary Ruth, the editor, never once gave up the ship and her ability pulled us through the worst days when everything seemed to go wrong; Chris, who so capably took up where Phil left off, was able to miraculously stretch our money; the photographer remained loyal and was always there to take the picture when the weather gave us a chance; our printer with his expert assistance saved us more than once from disaster; and the students and faculty were wonderfully co-operative.

So, with all the headaches and hair-tugging over, we give you—the 1951 ALOHA.

"When is the GOLD BUG coming out again?" "Isn't it time for another issue of the paper?" The staff of the student publication worked hard this year to keep up such interest. They wanted students to continue asking about the paper.

Often, however, this earnest purpose wasn't noticeable. Staff meetings and make-up nights in the new office generally sounded more like social gatherings. Music from the Rec room next door added to this illusion. A fine set of mineral specimens and a collection of many legged animals added to the usual confusion of paper, pencils, glue, clippings, and old issues.

But the staff managed to meet deadlines, incorporate a new adviser and instruct aspiring reporters. More important still they conducted several campus campaigns through a series of editorials, feature and news articles.

And then came Homecoming. Completely convinced that it was impossible, the editors and reporters succeeded in setting an all time record—8 pages and 10,000 copies. That is only half the story however. Worried faces and dark circles were just beginning to disappear when—Stop the press!—they had to start over again. But all the congratulations and praise were worth every bit of extra effort.

At Christmas time an underclass staff presented the campus with a green GOLD BUG decorated with red Santa Clauses. They got experience in coping with deadlines, cuts and printing problems, which were invaluable when they became editors second semester under Stan Bowsbey as Editor-in-Chief.

With their last issue in January, the senior staff members stepped down. Four years of fun and hard work had been spent making the GOLD BUG a true student publication. They wish success and good luck to the new staff.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Last spring, under the leadership of Bill Simpson, president; Mickey Rupert, vice-president; Tom Page, secretary; and Sonya Wine, treasurer; the newly elected Student Council started laying the ground work for this year's activities with a campus-wide opinion poll regarding the question of cheating.

During the year they have carried out this project in conjunction with a faculty committee to draw up an experimental honor system. The Council studied the systems at other colleges and discussed the matter along with other representatives at the Student Government conference in Washington, D. C. The process has been slow, but the Council hopes that such a system may be included in the Constitution in future years.

The summer months found the Student Council working with the S.C.A. on a complete revision and reorganization of the Student Handbook. This booklet was designed to serve as a campus guide to all students and especially to Freshmen, who were further oriented to campus life through the Freshmen Week activities.

Once the new students had joined in the spirit and activities of the campus, the Council aimed for student interest in their government and a closer cooperation between campus organizations. News of Council actions were brought to the attention of the students through a regular GOLD BUG column and bulletin board notices. The classes and several organizations sponsored original pep rallies before each football game, thus contributing to the school-wide spirit.

Students participated directly in Student Government business through monthly meetings in Alumni Hall.

Homecoming, which launched the Mid-Century Advance Program, was the high point of fall activities. Under the leadership of a special committee chosen from the student body at large, all campus organizations produced an all time high in campus displays and enthusiasm.

The students' own campaign to raise money for the Advance Program began in February. A special committee from the student body carried this with the support of the four class organizations.

Second semester found the Council working on amendments to the Constitution and a continuance of other activities. This included a file of all campus organization officers, which was compiled for student use and kept with the College Calendar.

A lovely May Day celebration terminated activities under this year's Council.

THIS YEAR, during the annual Homecoming weekend, returning alumni and friends witnessed two kick-offs, one the football game which ended with another WMC victory and the other the official kick-off for the Mid-Century Advance Program being sponsored to increase the present endowment fund.

With the campus decorated in its traditional Homecoming style, bigger and better displays portrayed the combined theme of a football and Mid-Century Progress for Western Maryland College.

tivities which included a pep rally, "The Importance of Being Ernest" given by the College Players, Convocation Services, the pre-game parade, a football game between the Terrors of WMC and the Blue Jays of JHU, the Homecoming dance, and the Consecration Service on Sunday.

Homecoming served as the starting point for this campaign. The activities, at this time, revealed the tremendous efforts and in some cases sacrifices of the students of this college to make the second kick-off end as victoriously as the first.

Christmas

Winter

Christmas at Western Maryland is, in both appearance and activity, the finale of fall and the grand opening of winter. The scene is set by ice—brittle cold on a snow painted campus. Activity on the Hill is equally as impressive as the setting in which it takes place.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

After a slow start, Bruce Ferguson's Terror basketballers got rolling this year to accumulate a 9 won 7 lost Mason-Dixon Conference record. The overall record of 10 and 13 was not at all bad since such teams as Navy and Wagner were encountered during the season.

The Terrors dropped seven of their first eight contests and it looked at first as if a dismal season was in store for the team. Led by the smooth playing and high scoring of Art Press, the team rebounded to take the next three in a row. After dropping a close one, 64-66, to Shippensburg they again came back to take two quick games from Galludet and Catholic University. The Terror hoopsters lost three of the next four, defeating only Washington College. Baltimore University was then downed by the Terrors, followed by a win over Johns Hopkins. Only one of the last three games of the season was won but this victory—over Towson—secured a sure spot in the Mason-Dixon tournament for the Green team. In tournament play, the Terrors scored an easy win over Hampden-Sydney the first night but were eliminated in the second ful Artie" came through with a Conference average of 24.4 points per game. Art's overall average was 21.2 points per performance.

In the first game with Mount St. Mary, Press sank 41 points to come within 2 points of Jim Lacy's Conference record of 43. Press scored his 1,000th point in college play during the Hopkins game in Gill gym on February 24.

Members of the team who graduated are Jerry Phipps and Ed Rydzewski, both of whom started the major part of the season.

Next year the team shows great promise with such stalwarts as Press, Walt Hart, Art Pisetzer, Ernie Makowski, Lefty Kaufman, and Jim Moore returning.

J.V. BASKETBALL

The J.V. Basketballers had a season which could have been better if their reserve strength had been better. Coach Jim Boyer molded from his small group a team which made a very creditable showing and a season's record of slightly under .500.

Outstanding on the team was "Dusty" Martinelli. Speedy and accurate, Martinelli should bolster next year's varsity and add some scoring punch.

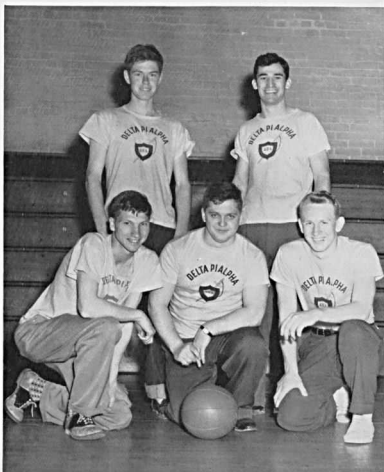

"Arnie" Needleman, a newcomer to the sport, but called the most improved ballplayer on the team by Coach Boyer, will also add to the varsity's strength. A variety of shots and great speed add to Needleman's value as a player.

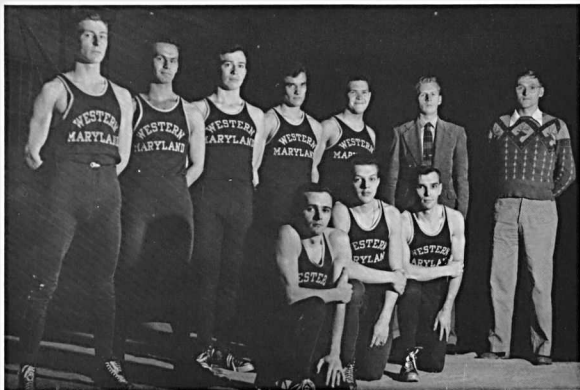

"Soup" Campbell, a steady playmaker, Bill Pfeifer, set-shot artist, and Dick Linton, with a good one-handed push shot, should all see varsity service.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

The Intramural Basketball Championship was another win for the Preachers. Losing only one game to the Bachelors, the Preacher team went on to the championship victory without further defeat. The Bachelors, with two losses, were second, and the Black and Whites third. The Gamma Bets took fourth place with the Seminary once more in the cellar.

WINNING BASKETBALL TEAM—PREACHERS
First row: M. Fones, V. Makovitch, M. Rentko. Second row: B. Johnson, M. Tullai.

Because of an acute lack of reserves and the loss of several of the varsity due to injuries, the wrestling season was disastrous for the Terrors, although many matches ended in tight scores. The only really bright spot was a 17-15 win over Towson.

In this match Don McShane, wrestling in the 121 pound class, fought to a draw, gaining his first points of the season. Veteran and captain Bob Wilsey, at 130 pounds, lost to Spurrier of Towson, who also defeated Wilsey in the Mason-Dixon Tournament. Joe Ravenis, wrestling in the 136 pound class, though he lost the match, showed great possibilities as a team stalwart for next year. 147-pounder John Mallonee, next on the bill, pinned his man. Wrestling fans may expect a continuance of Mallonee's good performance, and improvement, as evidenced by his excellent showing in his freshman year.

Jack Rall, 157 pounds, also pinned his opponent, and looks to be an excellent bid for the next year's championship in his class. Marvin Siegel, at 167 pounds, although defeated, was wrestling in a class too heavy for him—but showed that he, too, will be a real asset to next year's team.

Ray Faby, 177 pounds, defeated his opponent to assure victory for WMC against Towson. With another year of experience Faby could develop into a team mainstay. Sid Albrittain, who was defeated in the heavyweight class, showed marked aptitude in his first wrestling season.

Tribute should be given, however, not only to the men on the mats in matches alone, but also to those wrestling partners such as Ken Rule, Dick Carvel, Tom Douglas, and George Daviglus, who served during the much needed practice periods, and without whose enthusiasm and perseverance the team could not have made the showing it did.

Mason-Dixon champ Bill Kern was coach this year until he was called into the service in January. When Bill left, Leo Lathroum, former grid and basketball star, took over as mentor. He drove the boys hard at practice and probably had them in better condition than any other team in the conference. The job of instructing the team was left to the more experienced members.

Two of this year's team, Captain Bob Wilsey, and Sid Albrittain, are graduating, and Frank Wilsey has left for the navy. Therefore, next year's squad will be built around Don McShane, Joe Ravenis, John Mallonee, Marvin Siegel, Jack Rall, and Ray Faby.

BADMINTON

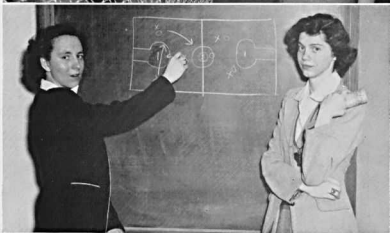

The air was filled with birdies as the girls once more matched their talents with other badminton enthusiasts. When the tournament got under way the competition was the keenest ever shown. Coming through with final victory were repeatists Corinne Schofield, winning over finalist Kay McLaughlin of the Junior Class; and Nell Hughes, beating out finalist Dot Stackhouse representing the Sophomore Class. Phyll Smith won over finalist Charlotte Janney to become the senior champ. Gilda Hinman took freshman honors after defeating Joan Kellogg, the second division winner, completing the list of class champions.

RATINGS

At the end of the practical and written national referee tests taken during basketball season, two girls, Peg Brown and Jean Hoyt, were the proud recipients of their National Ratings from the Women's National Officials Rating Committee.

The final honor award, given to a senior girl who has earned 1200 points through all around sports participation and who lives up to certain standards set by the Women's Athletic Board, was awarded to Peg Brown. The award is in the form of a key and is evidence of the fine sense of sportsmanship, fair play and activeness in the realm of sports that it signifies.

VOLLEYBALL

Volleyball practice began with a large number of girls participating in this early spring sport. The sport, having been dropped last year, was taken up with interest and after a few weeks of practice the inter-class games were started.

The Freshman A team, with an undefeated season, was the victorious champion for the year.

An honorary volleyball team was elected, having been selected from all the class teams.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The opening of the 1951 girls' basketball season, which took place shortly after Christmas vacation, was met with much enthusiasm as was evidenced by the number of participants. Two weeks were spent in practice before the class teams were chosen. The intramural program then got under way and the Sophomore girls, having won the championship in 1950 as freshmen headed the list again this season as victors. The team was composed of Sarah Wilson, Bobby Davison, Mary Alice Amoss, Nell Hughes, Becky LeFew, Lois Ohler, Dixie Davis, and Dotty Lawyer. The Junior class, bowing only to the sophomores, took second place.

Having completed the intramural season, the girls began a scheduled inter-school program. Baltimore Junior College and St. Mary's Seminary were guests on the Hill, both teams defeating Western Maryland in close competition. The girls also bowed to St. Joseph's in Emmitsburg on February 10. The season was terminated by a Play Day held at Hood College on February 24, in which eleven different colleges participated in a variety of winter sports. Our girls were represented in basketball and ping-pong.

The 1951 honorary basketball team as selected by the WAA board included: Bobby Davison, Pat Fetcho, Janet High as forwards; Peg Brown, Becky LeFew, Jane Babylon as guards. The alternates were Mary Alice Amoss, Jeane Hoyt, Joyce Schmidt and Lois Ohler. These girls were selected on the basis of friendliness, sportsmanship, and good spirit of play.

The thirty-first year of the Western Maryland College R.O.T.C. unit found an all-time-high enrollment of two hundred ten cadets. The course of study for military students is prescribed by the Department of the Army. The Professor of Military Science and Tactics, Lt. Colonel Robert S. Redfield, is director and supervisor of the course. He is assisted by his staff including Lt. Colonel Richard H. Natzke; M/Sgt. Rufus C. Puryear; M/Sgt. Bruce E. Derrick; SFC Charles C. Kelly; SFC Owen T. Stephenson and Sgt. Richard F. Armstrong, all Army personnel assigned to Civilian Component duty at the college.

The course of instruction consists of four years work, the first two of which are requirements for graduation. Students desiring to take the last two years advanced course are screened and selected for continuation by the P.M.S.&T. Completion of the course makes graduates eligible to receive a reserve commission as a Second Lieutenant of the Infantry.

Students designated as Distinguished Military Graduates may apply for commission in the Regular Army. Competition for such commissions is keen. This year five distinguished military graduates of Western Maryland College applied for commissions. Two were finally selected by the Department of the Army: Robert D. Ebert and William E. Davis.

During this period of emergency, students are placed on a list of prospective advance course members at the completion of the first semester of the Freshman year. This list, compiled by a board consisting of both non-military and military members of the faculty, screens each freshman enrolled in R.O.T.C. for his leadership capabilities, his academic standings and his desire to continue in the R.O.T.C. course. The P.M.S.&T. selects students from this list at the end of the sophomore year for enrollment in the advance course within the enrollment quotas allotted to the school by the Department of the Army.

Advance course students, during the summer between their third and fourth year attend a training camp for six weeks for the purpose of becoming familiar with administration, equipment, weapons, and tactics which cannot be taught at the college.

Extracurricular activities of the Cadet Corps have been numerous this year. At the Homecoming celebration a Cadet firing squad of eight members, trained and drilled by Cadet Captain David M. Buffington fired a salute to the Homecoming Queen. The entire Cadet Corps served as traffic control officers and guides for the numerous automobiles on the campus during the Homecoming weekend. Again the unit participated in local community activities by participation in the Merchants' Association parade in Westminster.

The Officers Club, organized in 1926 and composed of the cadet officers, sponsored the Military Ball in the spring. The members of the club organized and trained a drill team with the ultimate object of the organization of a company of Pershing Rifles, a national college military fraternity.

The importance of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps to the individual student, to his college, and to his country cannot be too strongly emphasized in times such as these. Our Government, recognizing this importance, makes provision for numerous students to pursue the course to better prepare them for service to their nation. The unit at Western Maryland has, in the past, and will in the future continue to do its part in furthering this program so vital to the national security.

R.O.T.C. BAND

Students passing Alumni Hall any Tuesday or Thursday afternoon can hear the strains of The Stars and Stripes Forever played by the R.O.T.C. Band. This past year the Military Band, under the leadership of Cadet Officer Donald M. Smith, has improved in size and quality. Taking the keynote of progress, Lieutenant Smith has developed the organization both on the marching field and in the concert hall. Under the sponsorship of Professor Philip Royer, the band has played at football and basketball games as well as assemblies and spring concerts. The musicians rounded out the season by performing at the annual inspection of the R.O.T.C. unit.

Spring Finally Came...

This year's ALOHA staff is going to attempt to establish a precedent by including some of last year's spring sports in addition to covering the current year's spring sports in so far as it's possible with respect to the early deadline for the book's publication. Since the deadline for these articles must be early the full accounts of the games and scores are never given. The staff feels that it would be better to include an account of last year and as much as possible of this year's sports instead of the pre-season glance only, which has been included in previous years.

LACROSSE

A hard fighting, spirited lacrosse team lacking experience, coaching, and facilities could only turn in one win in eleven starts for the 1950 season.

This team started out on its own and played determinedly against larger, more experienced teams. Often the large scores told a story of lack of reserves for the second half.

Edward Sparrow took over the coaching position after the stickmen had already played two scrimmage games. The one win of the season was against Franklin Marshall on Hoffa Field. The Terrors won this one 7-5 but lost most of the rest of the games on the schedule by sizeable scores.

Veterans returning for the '51 stick season were Bill Rhoads and Dan Honemann, co-coaches, Earhardt, Crawford, Dave Rhoads, Keenan, Barber, Shanklin, LeFew, Klohr, Landau and Wagenblast.

BASEBALL

Despite the combined efforts of Jim Boyer and Julie Dyke, the 1950 baseball team could garner only two victories. Those were close wins over Randolph-Macon and Hopkins. In addition to the discouraging outcome with respect to scores, the sport was grossly overlooked by both the athletic department and the student body as a whole. Both displayed a visible lack of interest, which can obviously greatly hinder a team.

The team, however, though lacking in wind, never seemed lacking in spirit and enthusiasm. This was largely traceable to its coach-player Julie Dyke. Julie, taking over as coach when Mr. Boyer started umpiring, displayed a cleverness in molding a team which was a potential winner. However, bad weather, inexperience and unsteady pitching took their inevitable toll. One bright spot in the pitching gloom was during the close 6-5 win over Randolph-Macon, in which Leo Lathroum helped immeasurably with his fine relief hurling.

At Penn State, in addition to the hindrances previously described, the Terrors not only had to combat effective Penn hitting but many of them played their first game in snow!

The Green team included Kaufman, Gianelli, Phipps, Douglas, Shook, Fieldman, Tereshinski, Dyke, Dodd, Spencer, Shivers, Lathroum, Henderson, Bartl, and Urion. Of these players only Gianelli, Douglas, and Dyke graduated leaving a good percentage of the team with valuable playing experience for the '51 season.

The 1950 season, though lacking in audience appeal, showed a marked increase in interest in baseball. Over 50 candidates turned out when Boyer and Dyke started their daily drills.

First row: Coach Huber, A. Bright, J. Kovalevski, P. Welliver, D. Heiberg. Second row: R. Cushing, E. Coffman, H. Hayzlitt, W. Glasby.

In the 1950 season, the varsity golf squad came through with a slate of five victories and a tie in fifteen matches.

Under the leadership of their new coach, Dr. Milton J. Huber, the golfers started out their season against Lehigh University on April 13. During the season, they defeated teams from Baltimore U., American U., Dickinson and G.W. with a tie in one match against Baltimore University. On May 20, Western Maryland was again host at the annual Western Maryland Invitation Tournament.

Al Bright played in the number spot in 1950 with surprise assistance from freshmen Ed Coffman. The rest of the squad included Don Makosky, Hilliard Hazlett, Ray Cushing and Paul Welliver.

Dr. Huber had these veterans for his 1951 season: Don Makosky, Ed Coffman, Ward Glasby, Dave Heiberg, and Paul Welliver.

TENNIS

The 1950 Tennis season was rough for the Hurtmen. After a slow beginning, they finally hit their stride only to be hampered by bad weather which caused many of their matches to be canceled.

Coach Frank Hurt led the courtmen through a 10 game schedule. Despite a weakness in singles matches, the Western Maryland team managed to defeat such teams as Washington College, Dickinson, Towson State, and Delaware U. to end up with a 6-4 record.

Bob Talner and Phil Sack were the only two returning veterans of the '49 season. They were joined in the '50 season by Ned Brown, George Tsouprake, Dick Deiner, George Winfrey, Art Saltmarsh, Jay Lockman, Pat Huddle and Blackie Brandt. With the exception of Deiner and Winfrey, all these men returned for the 1951 tennis season.

First row: Mgr. D. Paulsen, J. Lockman, R. Talner, E. Brandt, P. Sack, Coach Hurt. Second row: G. Tsouprake, G. Winfrey, P. Huddle, A. Saltmarsh, R. Diener, N. Brown.

1951 Girls' Spring Sports

"Look it over, Jean!"

GIRLS' SOFTBALL

At the first sign of clear weather, softball practice began. Champions of the softball intramurals were left undetermined due to a late start, however it is hoped that this season will see us with a decided winner. Among the standouts were Marybelle Shawn, Joyce Schmidt, Bobbie Davison, Dolly Dagleish, Peg Brown, and Char Reed. There are no interscholastic games scheduled in softball but there was no lack in spirit in the turnout of girls who seemed to welcome the season as an excellent way to get the mothballs out of their spring sports outfits. The intramural practices and games were officiated by Miss Parker's coaching class. Techniques of scoring and "umping," and playing were learned by all who participated. Due to the shortness of the season, many of the games were played after dinner giving merited competition to the fraternity softball games.

ARCHERY

Archers Winkelman, Sebastian, Maytrott, and Hall plus other enthusiasts for the bow and arrow began practice early at targets set up in Blanche Ward gym. As weather conditions cleared, practice was continued outside, bringing into play the winds, and other outdoor conditions archers must contend with in meets. Archery points are determined by shooting a number of arrows at different distances and, of course, attempting to make the highest score. Certificates are issued to those girls completing the requirements for the different rounds.

TENNIS

Tennis rackets are pulled out of closets at the first sign of warm weather and a few eager girls begin practice in the gym. Due to a wait determined by the fixing of courts, this season is also a short one and allows the girls plenty of time to participate in other spring sports such as hiking, golf, and softball that they otherwise would not have time for. Approximately twenty girls are regular entrants in the tennis tournaments each spring. At the end of the tournament, class and school champions are determined by an elimination tournament. Annual entrants and standouts on the courts are Phyl Smith, Char Janney, Jo Kohner, and Barbara Bankson.

The 1951 May Court

Spring arrives with all its beauty and magnificence, and May Day is the campus' recognition that spring has at last made its appearance.

Freshmen

Who were the freshmen in 1951? We were those terribly bewildered individuals who brought the most clothes to school, sat up latest at night, received mail every day, wrote slightly homesick letters, took books home on weekends, sang and cheered the loudest and somehow survived orientation week.

You could spot our beanies everywhere—in the grill, the rec room, and on seventh green; we were eager to know and make the campus a part of us. That first week, we even went to breakfast.

After the first taste of studies, we looked at the seniors with new respect. They did it—so can we, became our attitude. Our majors changed four times during the first semester and work piled higher every day.

Pep rallies, Homecoming, study hours, snow-ball fights, class elections, May Day were already a part of the past before we realized it. We even had lost some of our greenness for as we caught on to the ways of college life—the definition of collateral, the smell of formaldehyde, the combination to our post office box, how to get dressed in five minutes, how to write a term paper in twenty four hours, what the parking lots are really for, a thousand new songs and jokes, and above all that those upper-classmen smiles were really sincere.

Gloriously young, we lived life to its fullest and found that life had become inextricably associated with Western Maryland College.

First row: Mary Ann Kifer, treasurer; Nell Wicker, historian; Betty Parsons, secretary.
Second row: Pat Rogan, president; Dick Carvel, vice-president.

As sophomores we have reached the mid-point of our college career. Much has been accomplished this year both by individuals and as a class under the leadership of our chosen officers.

We were well represented in athletics. Many entered sororities and fraternities and others worked for the newspaper, SCA to name a few organizations. Yet in spite of our cultural and social interests we didn't neglect our academic studies, for as sophomores we had a growing realization of their importance.

Our class can also proudly claim a share in the Mid-Century Campaign. We not only met our goal, but made an additional contribution by sponsoring the movie "Henry V."

The enthusiasm which made this project a success and brought the year to a close with the class picnic, will carry to our junior year.

First row: Karin Nowack, historian; Barbara Davison, secretary; Arthur Shanklin, vice-president. Second row: James Moore, treasurer; Ashby Collins, president.

Juniors

One, Two, Three—Three eventful years which have brought us into focus as the Jolly Juniors.

One—We were Freshmen all that rainy September 21, 1943. Timidly, yet with great expectation we entered upon our college career. Initiation, new courses and new professors all faced us and blocked our advance but we conquered them all and even took time out to participate in many of the extra-curricular activities.

Two—We were Sophomores all in September 1949. Faced again with studies we put our brains to the grindstone and achieved much scholastically and socially. We took great pleasure in initiating the Freshmen but we soon assumed the role of initiates during sorority and fraternity initiations.

Three—We were Juniors all in September 1950. This year was filled with classes and assignments and more extra activities. The newspaper, yearbook, SGA, SCA, and other organizations claimed the capable leadership of our class. "Now and Then," and the Prom were presented for Seniors. As we said Farewell to the Seniors at the Rose Cup and Lantern Chain we realized we were becoming the Seniors of 1952.

Seated: Dorothy Shoemaker, secretary; Corinne Schofield, historian; Kenny Shook, treasurer. Standing: Ira Zepp, vice-president; Jack Lambert, president.

Seniors

As graduation approaches, each Senior is filled with a warm glow of achievement and the exaltation of new-found freedom. The fleeting moments of regret and sadness which accompany reminiscence have already begun to obliterate the memories of the anxieties and disappointments which are, too, a part of college life. In retrospect, we rosily recall Hill traditions and friendships—freshman initiations, Homecomings, dances in Gill Gym, Christmas caroling, Junior Follies, dorm life, club meetings, Rose Cup and Lantern Chain. But it's time now to put the Past into its proper perspective and to look to the Future. It is a future clouded with uncertainties, but one which must be faced with all the hope, high spirits, idealism, and courage that has been had by any generation before us. Graduation is not the end of us whose faces appear on these pages; it is only "a station on the line" of our lives.

Seated: Louis Pietroforte, president; Peg Kerns, secretary; Pat McLaren, historian.
Standing: Harry Le Few, vice-president; Jay Eggly, treasurer.

Tradition! Tradition! Tradition! This word means footlights, fun, excitement, and success to the Class of '51. Tradition to them is synonymous with Junior Follies and Junior Weekend. The show was originally planned as a means of making money for the Junior-Senior Prom, but somehow the Follies which were finally presented on April 14, 1950, acted as a unifying force to weld a few scattered groups into one big effort.

Original words and music were written by Betty Bachtell and Louis Pietroforte. The show was based on well known Western Maryland traditions incorporated into The Junior Follies by Jay Eggly, Louis Pietroforte and Nancy Winkelman.

In a show of spirit unusual on campus the entire class worked under Lou's direction to present a classroom scene, typical Rec room action, girl's dorm life,

"I'm in love with my college professor."

and Sunday after dinner tactics. Highlight of the Follies was "Homecoming in Hell" which poked fun at all traditions which had escaped notice in former scenes.

An added attraction was soloists from the class including Janet Hering, Bill Simpson, Kitty and Charlie Shook, Lou Pietroforte, Mary Ruth Williams, Harriet Kahn, and the girls' octet. Jim Culhane, Jay Eggly, Norm Slamecka and Fred Keefer kept everyone laughing with their comedy acts. The cast will always be particularly grateful to Mickie Hardester of the Class of '50 for taking over at the piano when Betty Bachtell became ill.

The Junior Follies were a great success as far as the audience was concerned, but they didn't enjoy TRADITION nearly as much as the Juniors themselves.

Who's Who

Twelve members of the Senior Class were chosen by the Student Activities Committee to represent Western Maryland College in the 1950-51 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. These nominees are recognized on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, citizenship and service to the college, and potentiality for future usefulness in society.

These seniors received this national honor: Betty Bachtell, June Beaver, Fred Keefer, Leo Lathrum, Harry LeFew, Louis Pietroforte, Mary Jean Rupert, Katherine Olewiler Shook, William Simpson, Mary Ruth Williams, Nancy Winkelman, and Alice Yearley. They have been leaders in such activities as the Student Government Association, Student Christian Association, campus publications, men's and women's athletics, sororities and fraternities, honor society, dramatics, and music organizations.

A biographical sketch of each of these seniors will appear in the Who's Who publication, listing their accomplishments, abilities and interests. They may also take advantage of the aid in employment opportunities provided by the staff, who maintain a placement service which recommends students to employers seeking capable college graduates.

Who's Who awarded the new members certificates of recognition which were presented at the January meeting of the Student Activities Committee.

Since 1890— A Maryland Tradition

Maryland's heritage is one of fine homes, gracious living, and generations of great citizens, many of whom have and are contributing materially to the growth and welfare of the nation.

Since 1890, it has been our proud and happy privilege to be accepted into the finest of Maryland homes. This acceptance has grown with the State and with the generations we have helped nurture into gracious womanhood and stalwart manhood.
