DR. JEAN KERSCHNER

dedication

Each year it is the privilege of the senior class to dedicate its yearbook to a person on the Hill whom it greatly admires and respects. The class of 1958 takes pleasure in dedicating its ALOHA to you, Dr. Jean Kerschner.

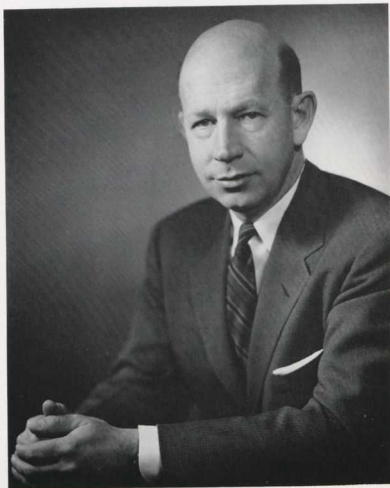

For the last four years we have all become acquainted with you as a teacher, as a scholar and as one interested in us and our activities. Many of us met you for the first time during our freshman year as we rather dubiously entered our second semester of biology. Before long your enthusiastic and informative lectures had made the consumption of knowledge far less painful than we had ever dreamed.

As upperclassmen, those of us who enrolled in your advanced courses found them to be among the most challenging of our college career. We enjoyed your scholarly approach in the lecture room and good humor in the laboratory which made it possible for us to cope with squirming amoebas, dying guinea pigs, twitching muscles and temperamental microtomes. Although the thought of a "Kerschner test" has caused many a shudder and groan, we have all appreciated your desire for perfection and applied knowledge, and have felt fortunate to be able to study under such a well informed and well trained educator.

Outside the classroom, you have also done much to win our admiration. We have enjoyed singing with you in the choir, cheering with you at games, working with you on projects, and talking with you about our problems and plans for the future. Most of all we have enjoyed your friendly smile and pleasant greeting which has been ours so often.

It is therefore with great pride that we dedicate our ALOHA to you, our teacher, our friend and our inspiration.

LOWELL SKINNER ENSOR
A.B., B.D., D.D., L.H.D.

To the Class of 1958:

At the time of graduation, we are accustomed to emphasize what the graduate has received from college during his four years as a student—education, cultural development, certain social graces, and the many intangibles resulting from constant contact with teachers and fellow-students. These, of course, are what you came to college to receive and are symbolized by your diploma.

In my farewell word to the Class of 1958, however, I would like to reverse the procedure and express appreciation to you for what you have given the College. Each of you has made a contribution of some sort—in the classroom, in extra-curricular activities, on the athletic field, or in the general community life of the campus. Consciously and unconsciously you have left your imprint upon the life of the College and have thus enriched it in some measure for those who will be taking your places in the years to come. Many thanks for all you have given us. There will always be a warm spot in your Alma Mater's heart for the Class of 1958.

Apprentice to artisan: this is the progress we have made in the four years that we have spent on the Hill. This is the transformation that has been worked upon every Senior. This is what makes a Senior different.

Seniors are sometimes awesome beings. The awkward Freshman observes their confidence and poise, and dreams of the day when he will have such assurance and self-reliance. He conjures up visions of their inexhaustible supply of knowledge, and marvels at their prowess. Brushing with tradition at every turn, he is impressed by the fact that he has become a part of this exclusive community of students.

Sophomores are somewhat less awe-struck. By the time one has reached his second year on the Hill, he is likely to look with suspicion upon all established precedents. He is primarily interested in making his own mark on the campus. This individualism, too, is a part of becoming a Senior.

Along with the coming of the Junior year there develops a kind of sympathy for Seniors. They have ceased to be nebulous, omnipotent creatures with all the answers. They are recognized as being human, and their friendship is valued.

At last, Seniors! The realization comes upon us suddenly. For four years we have been learning facts, forming ideas and opinions, developing our personality, and strengthening our character. The inevitable changes have occurred within each of us. We are different.

But now our period of apprenticeship is over. There is before us a challenge to use the knowledge we have gained. Even while we cast a nostalgic glance at our carefree college days, our arms are reaching to embrace the promise of tomorrow. We step forward fearlessly, secure in the knowledge that we can meet the challenge.

the trumpeters

"For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?" These words were quoted by Dr. Katherine Carmichael, Dean of Women, on May 19, 1944, when she addressed the first Trumpeters. From them came the name. This was the beginning.

Each succeeding year brought a new group of girls chosen on the same principles of character, scholarship, citizenship, and leadership in extra-curricular activities. Each year the names were different, but the principles they stood for remained the same. The Trumpeters became a tradition.

The goal of this organization is not mere recognition. It is the fulfillment of the pledge taken by its members to continue their devotion to their college and inspire others to do the same. It is a song of service strengthened each year by additional voices, singing: "I pledge myself to make my life an example for those who look to me for leadership; to serve my college and those who share my devotion to her; to preserve the traditions of Western Maryland College, and to strive for the highest type of collegiate life."

willy mack's co-op . . .

Co-authors and co-directors Mehl and Gunderson confer with accompanist Florie Willis on the best way to make monotones sound musical.

The Junior Follies is more than an original stage production. It is a living example of comradeship and cooperation. It is the result of a class working hard and diligently together and loving every moment of it. Willy Mack's Co-op of May 3, 1957 was no exception.

Willy Mack was a domineering farmer of the orthodox variety who ran a co-op located in Cow County in Western Mooland. Willy Mack's Co-op was an attempt to show the machinery running behind the apparently smooth workings of a successful col . . . farm. Willy Mack, of course, never realized the truth. He lived his "own little life of delusion" untouched by revolts, firmly believing throughout the show that he was the head of it all.

The milkmaids act as interpreters for the audience as they tell of the revolt taking place behind the curtain. "While you're a-sitting in your seats, here's something you ought to know . . ."

There was a basic point of friction on the farm between two groups, the Animal Heads and the animals. The Heads were "reasonable" in their demands, by merely requiring complete obedience to their dictates. A 3.0 average in corn production was expected. Failure to meet this requirement resulted in immediate exile to Maryland Moo.

The animals, on the other hand, were a fun-loving lot. They disapproved of rules, regulations, and meetings, and liked nothing better than going out behind the barn to the Gravel Pit.

Animal meetings were held, and the general consensus of opinion was "It's A Great Time To Plan A Revolt."

Bull Coolahan begins to think about a change of pasture as Cow Warfield sings, "Some day we will get married out behind the barn . . ."

The Animal Heads became upset at the way the animals were behaving. Adky, the Owl, commented that there was "something decidedly irrational in their behavior." He assured the other Heads, "I tell you true," at which point Hildie, the Hen, immediately concurred ("um hum, um hum"). Mac, the Horse, gathered minute details on the subject, and Riddy, the Porcupine, presented a classical parallel. The Dean Bug refused to have anything to do at all with the whole affair. "My kids and the stray dogs are about all I can handle," he stated.

Above: on stage, Goat Lotz joins in a chorus of "We don't care what Willy don't 'low, we're gonna do it anyhow."

Right: "... I am a skunk and, what do you think? I'm going to raise a—phe-e-w!"

Since Holty, the Hare, was sure the whole proceeding was all in their minds, the Animal Heads were in danger of arriving at no decision at all when Whitty, the Dog, saved the situation. He was not in favor of peaceful compromise. "Grind them up into animal burger and send them to Maryland Moo," he said. He then forcefully asserted that there was but one thing to do—"Crush the Revolt." The rest of the Heads were finally convinced, and joined him in his battle song, for "when rather fat hens can get together, why can't we?"

1958 CLASS SONG

*Western Maryland's pride are we,
Tops in all activity
The leaders, succeeders,
The best on the Hill.
We know it, we show it,
We excel in every skill.
Praised by teachers, loved by all
We are always on the ball.
What's the class that's really great?
It's the class of fifty-eight!*

Cow Jean Guernsey (Jean Grenzer) sings with Bull Al Mooer (Brooks Euhler)—“We belong to a Mutual Morals-breaking Society”—upon receiving the “Worst in the Barnyard” award.

The problem was resolved by a trial with the skunk presiding as judge. “I’m on both sides, which means I’m on neither side, so I should be judge.” The Heads stated their side of the question: “What we want is to restrict this farm in every way, so we can make it run to limit fun, for they should not be so very gay.”

The animals eloquently replied that what they wanted was to stay out late each and every night, so we can kiss and hug, and chug-a-lug, till we’re called “from darkness into light.” A compromise was finally reached, and the curtains closed on satisfied animals, oblivious Willy Mack, and a tired but happy junior class.

Left: singer Presley (Fred Stoevers) entertains at the Animal Heads’ meeting. His reception was matched only by the appearance of another Elvis. (The dog stole the show!)

The timid sheep. "While shivering in our hides, we strike a careful pose, and whisper a shy 'hello,' but everybody knows we're afraid."

The skunk "squeals" to the Animal Heads: "They've cut down the old pine tree, burned the Dean-bug, and are preparing to burn Howerly the Heifer in effigy now!"

That night we believed what we sang. That night we were Western Maryland's pride, and we could have excelled in any skill. That night we knew we were the greatest and felt proud.

practice teaching

Many questions confronted us as seniors who were preparing to face the world as teachers. In famous "buzz sessions" we learned the needs of children. Instructors told us that children basically wanted to learn. When we ventured into the classroom that first day, thirty-five beaming students just stared. Could we believe they basically wanted to learn? We certainly found out in the weeks that followed. Senior high students tried to pull every stunt in the book from sleeping in class to pretending they were shooting mosquitoes buzzing around the room. Junior high students decided to read hot rod magazines instead of history books.

The Ohio Journal was an achievement we considered delightful when finished. This phase of education was long and tedious, but at least we didn't have semester exams.

We were told that all good teachers should have a visual aid file, so we began early collecting pictures and articles pertaining to the subject areas we planned to teach. We did all this so that we could "change behavior" and "make learning memorable."

We became teachers the right way by strengthening skills through a semester in education.

the house

Cooks Campbell and Clark present an economical, enticing gourmet's delight.

Each fall, a small group of girls is seen carrying their possessions across campus after all other students have been well settled in their rooms. These girls are the Senior Home Economics majors, moving into the Management House.

Settled in the House, the girls carry out the daily routine of a regular home—including meal planning, money management, and all household duties. The main interest seems to center around the kitchen and food. Their cooking evidently agrees with them since the conversation shifts from food to dieting as the weeks go by.

The main weekly event in the House is guest night when the girls have guests for dinner. Much time is spent beforehand with planning, cleaning, flower decorating, and food preparation. This helps teach the girls the proper management of time, money and energy.

Throughout the six weeks, the students absorb all they can concerning the management of a home. At the end of their stay, they return to campus life with their dish-pan hands and bruised knees, assured that someday they will be successful homemakers.

The "household" gathers for dinner, weary but thankful.

nursery school

The students in Miss Gray's child care class take charge of the Nursery School each semester for six weeks. Members of the nursery are from homes in the community of Westminster.

The children, ranging in age from two to four years, arrive early each morning eager to participate in the activities. These activities require both physical and mental exertion. Puzzles, finger paints, clay, tricycles, books and other toys are available for the children's and students' use.

Each day there is a period which is called rest period. The children drink a glass of fruit juice and then retire to their individual rugs while lullabies are played.

The main project of nursery school is a study of each child made by the child care students. From close observance of childhood activities and conferences with parents, the student learns about the growth, maturation, and development of the child she is studying. From some of the children's comments one could not easily determine just who is studying whom!

On hand this fall to welcome the freshmen were the twenty-four senior members of the F. A. C. Under the co-chairmanship of Marge Hull and Tony Sarbanes, the group carried out the initial part of its program at once by helping the new students to become acclimated to the unfamiliar surroundings and by aiding them during Orientation Week. The F. A. C. worked and planned its program in cooperation with the S. G. A., the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men.

The Seniors, chosen on the basis of scholastic and extra-curricular achievements, attempted to help their advisees with the more personal problems of campus life throughout the remainder of the year. Acting as a student advisor, the Council feels, has been an important and challenging responsibility. It is hoped that this program, designed to meet the needs of the freshman students, will continue to be a significant part of life on the Hill.

With each renewal of our three academic years, there have been many changes; changes of buildings, landscapes, faces, and courses. The changing landscapes can be tolerated, even the removal of the trees and benches behind Old Main. The new buildings are appreciated and the courses expected, but changing faces are more thought upon. We were all smiles and welcomes with the arrival of the new, but we were bewildered weepers with the departure of the old. And we "take a cup o' kindness . . ."

There are already many memories, times and people that we'll never see again, but we haven't yet fully realized this as we stumble anxiously and curiously into our final year. Many of us are eagerly looking forward to this time next year when our portraits will appear in the early pages of this book, and there are also many of us who treasure these times and are hesitant before wishing them away so quickly.

This year has been a full rich one, a year when we finally reached that undeniable upperclassman's spot, a comfortable year with much time behind us and yet still enough ahead that we need not grow apprehensive over an uncertain future. We were in a position to become leaders rather than followers, the goaters instead of the goats, and those in line for next year's jobs. We enjoyed our new prestige and the comfort of belonging. This has been the year when the Hill has most become a part of us, or rather, we a part of Western Maryland.

With these things in mind we step forward, ready to fill the positions of our predecessors by becoming Seniors and the next to take our places in the world. To some of us the golden year has gone but to others it is just beginning.

Our first months on the Hill as Freshmen were confused months, full of uneasiness and worry about our new position as college students. For many of us it marked the first time we had been away from home for an extended period. But as the year progressed, and the friendly, collegiate atmosphere of Western Maryland began to mix with our individual personalities, we became more certain that the future would hold many bright hopes for all of us.

Our sophomore year marked the beginning of these hopes and ideals toward which we all were striving. Those of us who pledged a fraternity or a sorority began to feel the warmth of a genuine fellowship away from home. We knew we had a job to do at WMC and we set out to do it. Each of us had an ideal toward which we had set a goal, and we aimed our curriculum and extra-curricular activities toward this goal. But knowing that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, we had our moments of fun also. At times, it seemed that these brief flings were definitely in the minority, but then we were Sophomores and you know the stories they tell about college Sophomores. We handled the customary tradition of "rat rules" with much enthusiasm, and many "Rats" were caught in our traps, especially the feminine variety.

Our sophomore representation in athletics in all three seasons was of tremendous importance to the athletic program of the college, and allowed much room for optimistic hopes concerning the next two years in terms of pure, unadulterated victories, a commodity we all prized rather highly. We were now beginning to specialize, and under the leadership of Norman Davis, whom we had elected as our class president, we had set our sights for greater achievements. Yes, to us 1960 seemed very close.

We arrived on the Hill awkward, eager, and anxious to become a part of the campus community. During Orientation Week we met each other, our professors, and many upperclassmen who proved more than willing to help us in every way.

"Rat Rules" came along and after the initial shock we settled down to our proper places, keeping on the sidewalks and using back doors when wearing our freshmen beanies. But this was not to last indefinitely, for we defeated the sophomores in the tug of war and became united in our first effort as a class, our Homecoming float. All the events of that Homecoming weekend, climaxed by the big dance, left us breathless, but feeling more a part of our college.

We elected class officers and began making plans for the rest of the year, which included dues, a freshman class party, and a booth in the WUS Bazaar.

Our first college exams made a lasting impression, and we all heaved a sigh of relief when the brief vacation between semesters brought us a welcome rest.

Then we were off again as second semester began and we got back into the routine of our studies. Religious Emphasis Week impressed upon our minds and hearts the meaning of God and showed us how He fits into our college life.

Many details of this freshman year will slip from our memories but the beauty of Baker Chapel early in the morning, the Christmas banquet and communion service, standing in the lobby of the Dining Hall waiting to get in, and even our dogfish—these things we will always remember and cherish as a part of Western Maryland College.

foreign students

Nowhere can there be better promotion of good will among nations than by the presence of foreign students on American campuses. The acceptance of these students into campus activities symbolizes the mutual understanding and friendliness that should exist between the peoples of the world.

Each year Western Maryland feels honored to welcome to its campus outstanding students from all parts of the world. We are fortunate to have the opportunity to broaden our scope of world understanding through associations with them, and hope that they will always share our fond memories of life on the Hill.

MISS JOY KELLER, a Western Maryland sophomore, was selected as one of America's ten best dressed college women in a contest sponsored by Glamour magazine. In the spring of 1957, Joy was chosen as Western Maryland's best dressed coed through balloting in the Gold Bug and went on to win national recognition.

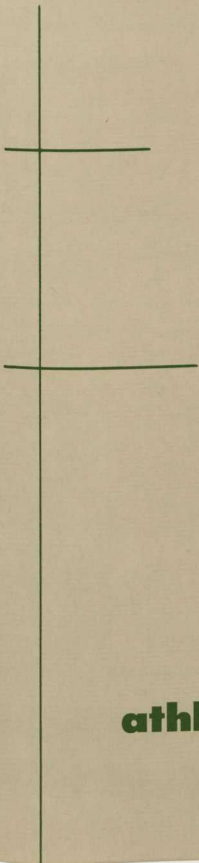

Joy was photographed on the campus and then went to New York where she participated in a Glamour fashion show. She also modeled for pictures which were featured in the August and November issues of Glamour magazine.

MR. JACK FOSSETT was chosen to represent the Middle Atlantic Region of the National Association of Manufacturers in December, 1957. He was one of twenty student guests at the 62nd Annual Congress of American Industry held at the Waldorf Astoria in New York. Twenty-two thousand business firms were represented at the Congress. High school and college educators were present as well.

Jack was a member of the student panel which questioned the businessmen during the final session. He was also in attendance at meetings to hear Vice-president Richard Nixon, senators, and congressmen address the group, and is shown here as he was photographed for the newspapers with one of the hostesses for the convention.

ROBERT WALDORF

Mr. Waldorf came to Western Maryland this fall as the new director of athletics and head football coach. He formerly had held a similar position at Washington and Lee High School in Arlington, Virginia.

Even though the Green Terror gridders averaged 14 points per game this season they were able to post only a 1-6-1 record. This hardly seems to give a fair picture of the more successful season it represents. In their first game the Green Terrors met Randolph-Macon on Hoffa field and battled to a 20-20 tie. The following Friday night the Terrors traveled to York, Pennsylvania for a benefit game against a strong Gettysburg eleven. Although the game was lost, a successful goal line stand and two Terror touchdowns made the evening quite exciting for the many WMC fans who attended.

On Homecoming, the Terrors posted their first win of the season by trouncing Drexel Tech 25-0. A week later the team met Lafayette in Easton, Pennsylvania and completely surprised both Lafayette and the fans at home by their outstanding showing in this game. A 13-13 half time score was later turned into a loss as the depth of the Lafayette bench began to take its toll. Being unable to score only in the Hopkins game, the Terrors presented quite an admirable offensive record by scoring 111 points in eight games.

1957 HIGHLIGHTS

Co-Captains—Bill Spaar and Dick Holbruner

High Scorer—Dick Holbruner tallied 38 points; 5 TD's and 8 extra points.

Leading Ground Gainer—Gerry Miller carried the ball 121 times for 714 yards, an average of 5.9 yards per carry.

Touchdown Passes—Warren Schwartz threw 9 touchdown passes. Five were caught by Dick Holbruner.

Drexel Game—Fred Dilkes ran 72 yards for a TD which was nullified because of a penalty.

PMC Game—Gerry Miller ran off tackle for 73 yards and a TD. Later in the same game Schwartz threw a pass to Holbruner for a 71 yard touchdown play.

All Methodist Team—Together magazine announced that Gerry Miller had been selected as a member of the 1957 All Methodist, All American Team.

Graduate Assistant Bob Myers

Everyone on the Hill was glad to see trainer, Jim Boyer, back on the job after a short illness last year.

Bill Spaar, Jim Lewis, and Ray Crawford get the word from "Old Bob."

Above: Carrying the ball is Gerry Miller, 3rd in ECAC and 39th in the nation for total rushing with an average of 6.1 yards per carry.

WARREN SCHWARTZ

His passing arm worrying everyone, he ranked 5th in ECAC for total offense and 41st in the nation for forward passing.

intramural football

The intramural football league got off to a good start this year under the direction of Bob Myers, George Wellings and Roy Kennedy. The league was made up of eight teams with Alpha Gamma Tau, Delta Pi Alpha, and the Seminary the strong contenders for the championship title. Fine play and sportsmanship was displayed by all teams, with the Bachelors coming out on top with an undefeated record. During the season the Bachelors won deciding games over the Preachers and the Seminary to take the championship.

The Bachelors displayed a good offense and strong defense by scoring 113 points and having only 13 points scored against them. Some standouts on the team this year were Ray McLaughlin with his accurate passing, Paul Zimmerman and Don Stenley at ends with Roy Kennedy at wing back on the receiving end of the passes. Standouts in the strong Bachelor line were Larry Dowler, Mike Friedman, Frank Coombs, Clark Kirkmen, Ron Glaeser, Ray Wright, with Bill Bloomer at blocking back. The season ended successfully with all teams feeling that the schedule had been well organized and conducted and looking forward to another good season next year.

Soccer

The Western Maryland soccer team gave a good account of itself, although not a consistent winner as in other years. With only John Karrer, Bruce Lee, Gene Michaels, and Pete Urquhart, returning from last year's team, this season's squad was lacking in experience. Goal-tending duties went to Lloyd Musselman, Fred Stoever, and Bob Passerella. The Green Terror backfield consisted of John Karrer, John Waghelstein, Hal Taylor, Bruce Lee, Lou Schatt, Ford Dean, Max Beyer, Bob Hyde, and Larry Langfeldt. The linemen were Bob Cole, Pete Urquhart, Karl Silex, Don Shure, George Varga, Gene Michaels, Ed Lukemire, and Norman Davis.

Co-Captain Gene Michaels led the season's scoring with thirteen goals, while George Varga was second with six markers. Karl Silex scored two, Pete Urquhart one, and Bob Cole one.

The Green Terror booters defeated Frostburg State Teacher's College 4-2 as Karl Silex led the attack with two goals followed by Varga and Urquhart with one apiece. The Blue Hens of Delaware University fell 2-1 on Michaels' game winning tally which followed a two period deadlock broken by a score by Varga.

A spirited Alumni team could not be beaten until the final minutes. As the varsity trailed, George Varga tied the game with his second goal, which was followed by a hard shot from far out by Michaels. This Terror victory prevented the Grads from scoring their initial win in the series.

In a 4-3 "come from behind" victory over American University, Gene Michaels drove home four goals. He was given plenty of help from wingmen Urquhart and Cole, and the defensive efforts of Waghelstein, Karrer, and Co-Captain Lee.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE 1957 SOCCER SEASON

Hungarian-born freshman, George Varga, given Honorable Mention on the All-Middle Atlantic soccer team.

George Varga and Karl Silex both named to the All-Southern soccer team.

Unsung hero, Bruce Lee's, outstanding play throughout the season at center-halfback.

Coach Phil Uhrig's patience with a young squad.

Center-forward Gene Michaels' 4 goals against American University.

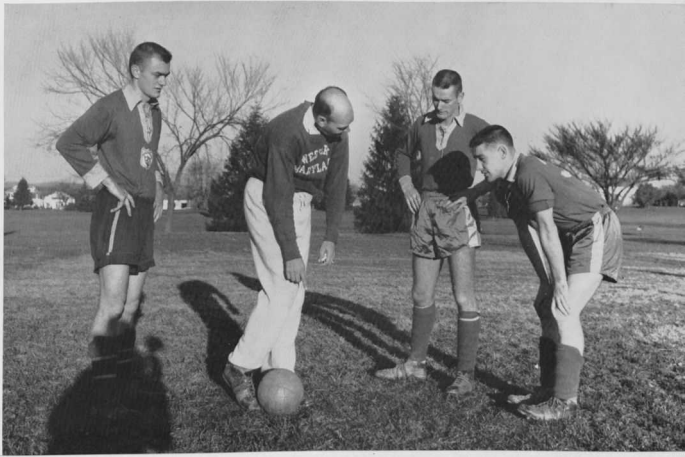

The two goals in the final three minutes of the Alumni game that produced victory for the Terrors.

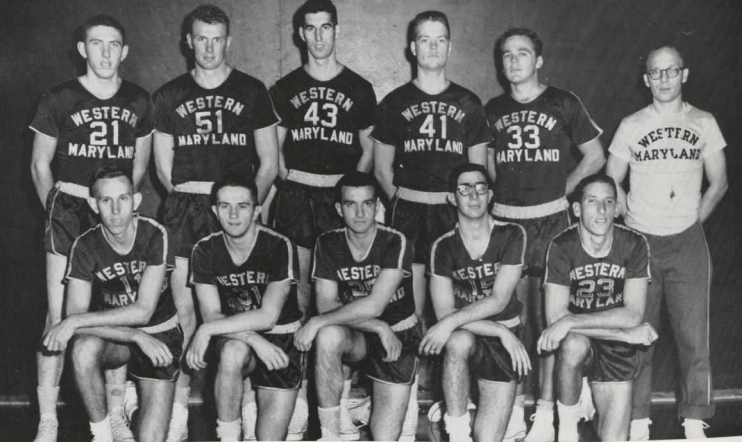

The students who braved the elements to watch the games.

The fine goal-tending by "Fred-Boy" Stoever and Bob Passerella after the injury of Musselman.

John Karrer and Bruce Lee selected as co-captains for the 1958 season.

basketball

The Green Terror cagers were again under the able tutelage of Mr. Richard Clower who is in his second year as coach on the Hill. Although the squad did not enjoy a particularly successful season, everyone felt that Western Maryland had one of the best combinations it has had in recent years. With a few good breaks in the beginning of the season, the Western Maryland five could have compiled a much more impressive record.

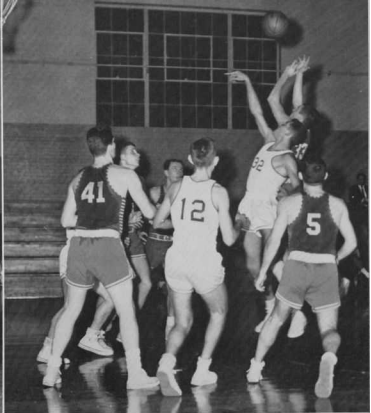

Captain Bill Spaar and Tony Sarbanes were the only seniors remaining on the team as the season closed. With a large number of experienced underclassmen returning to the squad next season, Western Maryland can look forward to an improving record.

"This season we have the height."

And away we go!

rifle team

Although our rifle range has only six firing points, the excellent lighting system along with other installations combine to produce one of the finest ranges in the Second Army area. The team's record reflects our pride in the splendid firing facilities and in our school.

This year we were coached by M/Sgt. Crawford Coyner who worked diligently to improve the performance of the team. He was assisted by our team captain, Wayne Holter, and Larry Cain, the manager.

The turn out of freshmen for the team was especially gratifying. One of our new riflemen, Bob Gosnell, was able to fire consistently in the top five scores, and several other freshmen showed unusual promise.

During the past two years the rifle team has improved to such an extent that we now feel able to challenge stronger teams, such as the University of Maryland and Villanova, in addition to our regular collegiate and military firing schedule.

Although we were directed by Army personnel in a program for the development of civilian marksmanship, we were also heartily supported by the school administration.

We sincerely feel that this team is approaching the classification of a "powerhouse" in the collegiate firing field and thus we are looking forward to an even greater season next year.

The 1957-58 wrestling season began with more than enough candidates to fill the empty weight classes left open following last year's graduation. Wes Pang did a very fine job of learning the holds from scratch and producing in the matches. Lou Price, a freshman, had some experience from high school and developed into a winner in most of his collegiate matches. Senior stand-bys Charles Cock and team captain, Brooks Euler, both came up with fine records.

Ken Mohllhenrich, the player coach, had high hopes for the team until first semester grades brought some bad news. The squad lost two men because of their academic standing but picked up two new replacements. All season the Terror grapplers lacked a man for the 147 pound class which meant an automatic forfeit for the team in every match. Despite these handicaps, the squad made a good showing. The graduation of Charles Cock and Brooks Euler will leave two classes to be filled next year.

women's athletic association

The aim of the W.A.A. is to create an athletic program in which all interested girls may participate. Through an informal program, they try to uphold competition, sportsmanship and responsibility. Each member of the board sponsors a particular sport and in this way the intramural program is developed. Sports included this year were hockey, badminton, basketball, volleyball, tennis, archery, softball, and occasional hikes. At the conclusion of each sport season, the W.A.A. board selects an honorary team. Members of these teams participate in intercollegiate games.

In the fall and spring the board sponsored a party, where all sport participants received their awards. At the fall party, games symbolizing each sport were the highlight of entertainment. The spring party was a picnic held at Harvey Stone Park. The W.A.A. was represented at Homecoming by a much publicized Sputnik.

The officers for this year were, Ardie Campbell, president; Jean Luckabaugh, vice-president; Barbara Boggs, treasurer; and Wilma Robertson, secretary. Barbara Dohler and Dee Bell were elected as freshman representatives to the council.

Misses Marie Parker and Roselda Todd are co-sponsors of the W.A.A.

The college spirit and enthusiasm were led this year by a vivacious cheering squad consisting of eleven members. Headed by their captain, Ardie Campbell, this group gave moral support at many athletic contests.

Emphasis this season was placed on improving the pep rallies. The Pom Pom girls, band, and the majorettes helped the cheerleaders along this line.

The squad has many unforgettable experiences from the year 1957-58 . . . the parade where water wings were needed; the snow and freezing weather at the Hopkins game; and the usual amount of sprains and backaches.

Our hats go off to a cheering squad with a lot of pep and personality, the squad of 1957-1958.

Marking their third year on "the hill" are two dozen collegiately uniformed girls marching in snappy precision and executing intricate routines to the music of the college band. The Pom Poms appeared on the scene throughout the fall sports' season, enlivening and brightening up the pep rallies, parades, half-time activities and even the sports award assembly. On Homecoming Day we watched their sparkling contribution to the traditional half-time ceremonies. Feet beat time to a lively drum roll as they marched down the aisles to perform on the stage during the pep rallies.

On parade days we saw them go by holding high, green and gold colors. We tried not to laugh the night of the Homecoming parade when they were caught in a sudden downpour in the center of town and their newly made pom poms wilted. We remember that a couple of steps were forgotten, that a yellow pom was lost in a field of green ones, that there were some unrehearsed slips and slides on a muddy gridiron, and that several cases of frostbite and pneumonia followed cold parade days. But all these things will help all of us to better remember the color, the smiles, and the pep of the Pom Pom girls.

Heading for frostbite, pneumonia and victory!

field hockey

Though the weather tried its best to dampen the ground, it never quite managed to dampen the spirits of girls who found hockey the number one fall sport on the Hill. Fighting wet feet, the flu, and their intramural foes, the Junior A team finally won the championship with the Seniors in close pursuit.

In Intercollegiate games the flu again took its toll, but through health or perseverance, or both, W.M.C. held its own "playday." With Notre Dame and Towson Teachers as our guests, we found that victory at hockey was as rewarding as meeting new and interesting people. Finding new friends to meet again next year, we will all look forward to another W.M.C. "playday."

What do you know? We're near their goal.

badminton

Badminton was one of the most active girls' sports on the Hill this year. Individual participation made it possible for a great number of girls to enter the tournament. As in previous years, the freshman class participated most actively with forty-six girls entering the tournament. The Women's Athletic Association set up a point system on the basis of individual participation. Each girl entering the tournament received not less than ten points. The winner of each match was given ten additional points. The quarter-finalist received fifty points; semi-finalist, seventy-five; and the class champion received one hundred points. The school champion was awarded an additional twenty-five points.

Within each class there was competition for the championship. Wilma Robertson was the senior class champion. This year Ann Voshell captured the junior class title, while Joan Wood retained the sophomore crown. Judy Tye breezed through her matches and emerged victor of the freshman class. The school champion was Joan Wood, who defeated her opponents by exhibiting a well spiked shuttlecock.

The badminton tournament was set up and directed by the manager, Norma Lee Etzler.

the arts

The development of a taste for art in its various forms has always been appreciated at Western Maryland. Along with the many opportunities to hear and see the work of the masters, there is an equal emphasis placed upon the talent and interests of the students themselves.

Once again this year the College Choir joined with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra in a presentation of the music of Rodgers and Hammerstein.

The Little Symphony Orchestra gave a January concert, the program being conducted by the senior music students, and presented the annual spring concert on April 18th. Members of the Little Symphony also accompanied the County Eisteddfod in the Mikado.

Dr. Howard Mitchell conducted the National Symphony Orchestra on February 14th in a program featuring the works of Weber, Beethoven, Rimsky-Korsakov, and Vincent.

March 7th brought Cornelia Otis Skinner to the stage of Alumni Hall where a number of monologues were presented by the actress.

The art department sponsored several exhibits with great success. Contemporary American prints, fabrics of various textures and designs, and the art of James Snodgrass were among those works which were on display.

college players

The College Players are organized around a belief in the truth which can be found in the theatre and which can be recreated through the head and heart on the stage. Behind each production are the tireless efforts of Miss Esther Smith, whose talents as a teacher of dramatic art have been recognized year after year, and have endeared her to her students.

This year the College Players presented four major productions; a three-act fall play, Liam O'Brien's The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker; three one-act junior plays in March, and another three-act commencement play. In conjunction with the college choir, the department presented a Christmas program, The Heart O'Mary, a miracle play by George M. P. Baird.

As in other years, the settings were designed by Mrs. Joy Winfrey. They were executed this year by Marlin Roser.

The department extends a continuous service to the campus by furnishing ersatz grass and lights for dances, and advice and make-up for productions outside of the Players' group.

The College Players would agree with Saroyan that . . . "the secret of the theatre is love . . . that without it, pain is only pain . . . but that with love, there is both beauty and meaning—both on the stage, and in their lives." In the warmth of Miss Smith's studio, we received an inspiration and a challenge that will last long after college days are over.

men's glee club

A singing engagement in Baltimore, a program of sacred music for a Sunday Chapel Service, and visits to local churches highlighted the year's activities for the Men's Glee Club. Consisting of male members of the campus who like to sing, the Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Oliver Spangler, was organized for its fifth year.

women's glee club

The Women's Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Alfred deLong, presented three major programs this year. The first was a Christmas Cantata sung for the AAUW. The Stabat Mater was sung in the spring and later an assembly program featuring secular music was presented.

college choir

The College Choir augmented its membership in preparation for its largest and most successful endeavor of the college year, its January 18 performance with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra at the Lyric Theater. It was "Rodgers and Hammerstein Night" and the program included many familiar compositions. Herbert Grossman, past director of the NBC Symphony Orchestra and an authority on the two composers, conducted. A quartet of professional soloists was also featured. The program was well received and reviews indicated that the choir maintained its high standard of performance.

Under the direction of Professor Alfred deLong, the choir presented its annual Christmas program in conjunction with the Dramatic Art department. The musical segment consisted of several of the more unfamiliar Christmas carols climaxed by the traditional Hallelujah Chorus.

The choir anxiously anticipated the dedication of the new college chapel by preparing anthems appropriate for the occasion. They maintained their weekly appearance each Sunday evening in the Chapel services providing soloists and group anthems. The year terminated with participation in the annual Baccalaureate and Commencement services.

Western Maryland's twirling squad was composed of four members this year, one from each class. Under the leadership of Char Bayliss, members Natalie Warfield, Bev Schott, and Jackie Cook performed in traditional parades, pep rallies, and half-time activities at the football games.

This year the squad concentrated on marching routines which were displayed at the Homecoming Parade. The girls deserve a special hand for a job well done.

During the fall the college band, under the leadership of Mr. Donald Key, performed as a marching unit for home football games. The Homecoming performance demonstrated the ability of its members to execute difficult formations as well as to play enjoyable music.

For its second year under an organized instrumental program, the group presented a concert for the student body just before Christmas vacation as a highlight of the winter season. Climaxing the year were two spring concerts for the students.

reserve officers

In 1919 the War Department authorized the establishment of a senior unit of the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Western Maryland College. Since then Western Maryland has trained young men to take their places as officers in the U. S. Army. The Professor of Military Science and Tactics is Lt. Col. Dayton E. Bennett. He is assisted by his staff including Maj. Alfred V. Clark, Capt. Francis E. Howard, M/Sgt. George J. Bromwell, M/Sgt. Crawford G. Coyner, and Sfc. William J. Suehowicz.

A student may obtain a commission in the Reserve Army through ROTC since the federal government has set up a training program that coincides with the student's academic subjects.

BATTALION STAFF

training corps

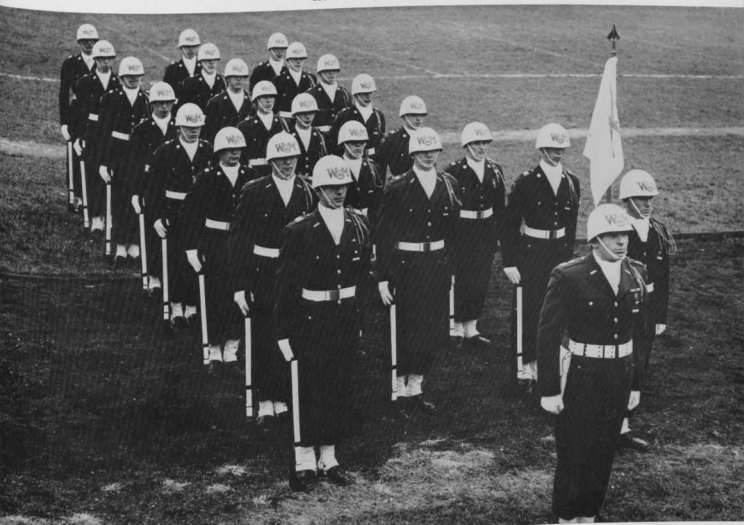

Here on the Hill the first two years of basic training are required by the college for graduation. The student may enter the advanced course if he has the desire for further training and the necessary potential as an officer. Upon completion of the four year course, the student is commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States Army.

The practical experience of the cadet is gained at summer camp which he attends between his junior and senior years. This year the cadets had six weeks of intensified training—four weeks at Fort George G. Meade and two weeks at Camp A. P. Hill, Virginia. Airborne troops assisted in the training, and the hustle of paratroopers kept the cadets going at a steady rate.

student government association

The Student Government Association is the governing body of the students. It is composed of the dormitory presidents, two representatives from each class and Intersorority and Interfraternity presidents. The Men's and Women's Councils, the Women's Dorm Councils and Traffic Court are branches of the SGA.

This year the cabinet was under the leadership of Wray Mowbray, president; Judy Corby, vice-president; James Gibson, treasurer; and Martha Williams, secretary.

In the fall the SGA worked with the Freshman Advisory Council during orientation week. Again the activities of Homecoming were under the direction of the SGA and with the cooperation of the student body were quite successful.

Following the new tradition, the SGA sponsored the tree-lighting ceremony to open the Christmas season. This ceremony was followed by a reception for students and faculty in McDaniel Lounge.

Throughout the year, the SGA assumed responsibility for the Rec Hall and the Traffic Court.

One of the main projects of the year was the formation of a Judiciary Board which was felt to be a step forward in student self-government. The board is composed of eight members, four from the faculty and four from the student body. The purpose of the Board is to handle cases involving academic misdemeanors and matters referred to it by the existing Men's and Women's Councils. Lori Jones, Jack Fossett, Bev Bosworth, and Manfred Joeres were elected as the student members of the Judiciary Board.

The Co-ordinating Activities Committee, under the direction of Flo Mehl, worked hard this year to plan activities for the student body and attempted to create more school spirit.

In the spring, the Women's Council was hard at work planning the program for May Day. The addition of multi-colored programs lent a festive note to the theme, "May Day in the South."

The aim of the Student Government is to represent the will of the students, and the SGA hopes it has succeeded.

student christian association

The S.C.A. arrow on Old Main's sagging porch has been in various states of repair and disrepair over the past four years. At times it has hung straight, its letters bright with fresh paint. On other occasions it has dangled limply, with its arrow pointing groundward.

The S.C.A. means various things on this campus. For some, it is a meaningless mudpie of a symbol, a hollow shell, a haven for prudes and odd balls. For many of those individuals who believe in the college years as an ideal time to come to grips with a maturing religious experience, S.C.A. becomes a fellowship of believers and an inspiration to search for a deeper faith. In short, it becomes a group of Christian students who together are finding daily a way of life.

As the years slip by, Western Marylanders will treasure among their memories, thoughts, and experiences related to the S.C.A.—fun at parties and at W.U.S. bazaars, guest speakers, traditional Christmas communion services, bull sessions during religious emphasis periods, an Easter play, vespers on the hill . . . and probably most of all, the quiet beauty of Baker Chapel. Healthy memories are good—we cherish them. But the S.C.A. cabinet does not wish to leave you this year with only a sweet memory and a happy grunt over a job well done.

The S.C.A. as it now stands is not meeting adequately the needs of our student body. We own up to our weaknesses readily, and we are convinced of this one thing: the situation can be improved. An organization can be either a mudpie or an instrument of power, and its outreach is strong only as its members and supporters have faith in its possibilities.

We challenge you! In 1957-1958 we have emphasized Christian unity. Only in a united effort through Christ and his way of life will religion assume its rightful place as a vital force on this campus and in your lives.

Wesleyanettes is an organization open to all college women. It is a group interested in expressing Christian ideals by helping others and by sharing experiences and beliefs. Since its founding in 1943 the Wesleyanettes has expressed its aims and ideals in work, worship, service and fellowship.

This year the group has been under the capable sponsorship of Mrs. Charles Crain at whose home the meetings were held on Friday evenings.

Activities began with the traditional candlelight service in McDaniel Lounge, and shortly after this the girls were under way with their major project of making stuffed animals for children's homes and hospitals. Other activities carried on were aid to needy families at Thanksgiving, learning to make attractive Christmas decorations, caroling to shut-ins, a Christmas banquet with the Wesleyans, sponsorship of an integrated Brownie troop, discussions of current problems and climaxing the social events, a spring picnic.

The year's officers were: Marge Hull, president; Bette Flohr, vice-president; Helen Hultburg, secretary; Phyllis Blaine, treasurer.

lutheran student association

Worship, study, and fellowship are the aims of the Lutheran Student Association. Through the efforts of Dr. Elwood S. Falkenstein and Rod Gatzke, the student assistant of Grace Lutheran Church, these aims were developed. The LSA participated in the Churchmanship Program in its bi-monthly meetings.

The projects were of great variety and of interest to all. Early in the year the club went to Cunningham Falls where a picnic and hike were combined with fellowship and fun. November brought a tour of Gettysburg Lutheran Seminary and College. Several members attended an area LSA meeting at Shippensburg State Teachers' College and the North Atlantic Regional Conference at Buck Hill Falls.

Plans for the spring included the annual spaghetti dinner and a hike and tour of the Gettysburg Battlefield.

This year's officers were: Jean Luckabaugh, president; Patricia Welk, vice-president; Dorothy Mathias, secretary-treasurer. The organization sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Schaeffer.

canterbury club

With a welcome party for the freshmen, the Canterbury Club began another active year.

Highlighting 1957-58 were the advent of Canterbury Tales, a bi-monthly newsletter distributed to all Episcopal students and faculty; monthly corporate Communion; a series of well received and popular guest speakers including Bishop Noble C. Powell of Maryland; the annual fall and spring picnics and Christmas party; Lenten Communion; the trip to All Saints' Convent in Catonsville; and the annual trip to the Washington Cathedral.

A successful spaghetti dinner was held for college students and the parish, and several conferences were attended by members.

This year's officers were: Mary Hotchkiss, president; Nancy Jones, vice-president; Allen Spicer, secretary-treasurer. The Rev. Austin F. Schildwachter acted as advisor and chaplain.

sunday fellowship

The Sunday Fellowship is an interdenominational organization which meets each Sunday morning for discussion and fellowship. In addition to regular discussions, special services are held in recognition of important dates.

The aim of the organization this year was to make Sunday more meaningful by the inspiration of music and discussion. The special music was provided by the Sunday School Choir under the direction of Patricia Garcia. A new interest was shown by the fact that the active membership was more than doubled.

Officers for the year were: Tom Albertson, president; Melba Lou Nelms, vice-president; Nancy Jones, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Charles E. Crain, faculty adviser.

baptist student union

The goal of the BSU is to make college life and careers Christian, student friendship happy, and student Christianity maximum.

The BSU had the fun of helping its "adopted family" with remembrances at holidays. Other activities included participating in the state convention at Frederick, making money in support of the state summer missionary program and visiting with the Naval Academy BSU.

methodist student movement

The new year of activities began with a visit in the dorms to introduce new students to the MSM. In the fall we enjoyed a hayride and picnic at the farm of our adviser, Dr. Earl Griswold. We sponsored a movie to finance our Christmas party for a group of underprivileged children. Eleven members attended the National Quadrennial Methodist Student Conference held at Kansas University. As a result of this conference a campus-wide Friday morning prayer service was instituted.

The officers for the year were Richard Apperson, president; Billie Mae Gill, vice-president; Esther Upperco, secretary; Thomas Albertson, treasurer.

newman club

The Newman Club, formerly called the Carroll Club, became nationally federated this year. The primary purpose of the organization is to provide worthwhile fellowship among Catholic students. The programs included activities of a religious, educational, and social nature. Meetings were held twice a month, with programs featuring informal discussions, guest speakers, and talks by the club adviser, Father Edmond Stroup of St. John's Church in Westminster.

This year's officers were: William Spaar, president; Jill Brown, vice-president; Carmela DeFlora, secretary; Thomas Beckett, treasurer.

westminster fellowship

The religious group for Presbyterians on campus is the Westminster Fellowship. In the fall, participation in the Churchmanship Program kept us busy. During the second semester we sponsored a booth at the WUS bazaar and received valuable program assistance from a staff member of the SCM. We also attended services in nearby Presbyterian churches. The year closed with the election of next year's officers and a picnic in Harvey Stone Park.

Officers for this year were: Virginia Pott, president; Harriet Whitmore, vice-president; Ethel Vonderheide, secretary-treasurer.

The Wesleyans are a group of Christian young men who meet every Friday night to study and discuss the scriptures. In this way they seek to gain a truer insight into the teachings of Jesus.

Activities this year consisted of sending deputations to preach in Baltimore and surrounding areas, working as counselors at the Strawbridge Home for Boys, and raising money for the G. Lee Fischbach, Jr., Memorial Scholarship Fund.

This year's officers were: Allen Gilmore, president; Clarence Kaylor, vice-president; Edward Thigpen, secretary-treasurer; Bruce Miller, chaplain. Dr. Charles E. Crain, adviser.

Bringing you news, sports, and adVICE is the task of the Gold Bug staff. The senseless shouting clamor that floats down from the tower of Old Main on Monday and Thursday nights was actually a meeting of the neurotics who dedicate themselves to the organizing, writing, typing, creating and re-organizing of the semi-monthly publication of the Gold Bug. Efficiency, fun, confusion, and deadline were characteristic words that dominated these sessions.

contrast

Contrast had its genesis in February of 1957. Although a highly experimental venture, the enthusiasm of the student body dispelled financial worries, and the first issue appeared in the spring of that year.

The purpose of Contrast is to provide an outlet for self-expression through the medium of creative writing. The short stories, essays, and poems which make up its contents are contributed solely by the student body. Now under partial subsidization from the school, Contrast will appear bi-annually. Staff membership is open to all interested students.

future teachers of america

Growing into one of the largest and most active organizations on campus, the Future Teachers have completed another year of service not only for those in education but for the college in general.

Following the general goal of acquainting our students with the teaching profession, the program committee, under the leadership of Marianne Shears and Joanne Filbey, planned a meeting for each month hoping to present extra-class information, entertainment, and fellowship.

Headed by James Lightner as president, the executive committee included Judy Corby, vice-president; Sherry Phelps, secretary; and Bette Flohr, treasurer. Jim also held the office of president of the Maryland Association of Future Teachers, assisted by Bev Bosworth as first vice-president and Sherry Phelps as a member-at-large. These three students represented WMC at many state meetings and presented campus and college life to many high school students all over the state.

The November meeting featured Mrs. Mary Jane Warren with a talk on "Discipline in the High Schools." The special Christmas program was centered around Dickens' A Christmas Carol, given by the Rev. E. William Hall of Frederick.

In January the local organization and the college were hosts to the MAFTA Leadership Conference. February featured a panel of student teachers who told of their classroom experiences, and March was devoted to information about the various counties, their salaries, and available teaching positions. April featured the exchange meeting with the Westminster High School Club and the May meeting the installation of officers for next year.

Aided by their sponsor, Dr. Joseph Bailer, and the staff of the Education Department, the FTA proved to be an important organization in the college community.

the argonauts

Western Maryland's Honor Society, The Argonauts, consists of three types of members—Fellows, Honorary and Associate Members. The Fellows are those who have accrued a scholastic index of 2.2 at the end of seven semesters, and are thereby considered eligible for permanent membership in the society. They are installed annually at the spring banquet. Honorary membership is reserved for those graduates of Western Maryland who have distinguished themselves in their respective fields of scholarly endeavor. Members of the faculty are also eligible for honorary membership. Associate members are juniors and seniors who have accumulated an average of at least 2.1 at WMC.

The activities are arranged by the executive committee which consists of the faculty advisers and officers.

The faculty advisers for the Argonauts are Dr. Isabelle Isanogle and Dr. William Ridington. The officers for this year were as follows:

President	H. Ray Stevens
Vice-President	Winifred Walsh
Secretary	Norma Fulghum
Treasurer	Donald Lotz

delta omicron

The Omicron Eta Chapter of the Delta Omicron National Professional Music Fraternity is a new addition to Western Maryland's list of organizations. This Chapter was formally initiated on November 16, 1957 by national officers of Delta Omicron and is the only active chapter in Maryland.

Delta Omicron was founded in 1909 at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music by three undergraduate students who desired to create a society to inspire closer friendship and higher scholarship among music students. Since then it has been extended to include more than forty college chapters.

The third national fraternity represented on the Hill, the Omicron Eta Chapter has had a very active beginning. With eight music majors founding the chapter, interest increased in Delta Omicron, culminating in an initiation in the fall.

Although a rather small group, its accomplishments have been many. An Installation Musicale was presented on the evening of the initiation and repeated later as a Tuesday afternoon recital. An alumna of Western Maryland was initiated in January and another in the Spring with the freshmen music majors. An American Musicale was presented by the members in April.

Officers of Omicron Eta Chapter elected in the fall included: president, Patricia Garcia; first vice-president, Karen Helbig; second vice-president, Evangeline Grim; secretary-treasurer, Carol Dixon; warden and chorister, Kathryn Zeller. Mrs. Mildred Cole is faculty adviser.

beta beta beta

Beta Beta Beta is a national honorary biological society whose motto is, "not only to live, but to know living." This has been one of the most active years for Tri-Beta at Western Maryland. It began with a tree-labeling project. Students will notice that some of the prominent trees on campus now have a metal tag on them giving the scientific name of the tree. Our next project was an attempt to raise chickens from fertilized eggs. This, however, was not too successful.

Tri-Beta was host to one of the outstanding assembly speakers, Dr. Ralph Turner of Yale University, a renowned historian. A tea was given at which time faculty and Tri-Beta members had an opportunity to meet Dr. Turner personally. Following the tea Dr. Turner gave a very informative lecture on "Medicine, A Factor in History."

As in previous years Tri-Beta sponsored a movie, the profits of which went to the Milton Hendrickson Memorial Scholarship Fund. This money is available to a deserving Tri-Beta member to be used for summer study.

Tri-Beta also has special functions, one of which is the initiation held each semester at Dr. Sturdivant's home. This year each initiate aided in the program by presenting several minutes of original entertainment. The year's activities came to a conclusion as Tri-Beta members found their way to Catoctin Mountain Park where the annual spring picnic was held in early May.

home economics club

The Home Economics Club provides an opportunity for Home Economics majors and all girls interested in future homemaking to further their interests in an informal manner. Through this social organization, programs and projects are sponsored which are closely correlated with the field of Home Economics.

The first meeting of the year was the annual "open house" given by the seniors in the Management House to welcome Home Economics freshmen. Other activities of the year included a talk and demonstration on hair styling by a professional cosmetologist; a movie sponsored by the club to add to the fund for a department television set; the presentation of a fashion show of garments made by girls in clothing; an interesting talk given by a Japanese woman student telling of family customs in her homeland; a talk given by Mrs. S. B. Schofield, the first head of the department, on the founding of the W.M.C. Home Economics department; and finally a talk and demonstration featuring flower arrangement.

Our club is affiliated with the American Home Economics Association and the Maryland Home Economics Association. It is through the state organization that state-wide activities are carried out and information relevant to the field is distributed throughout the state.

Le Cercle Français enjoyed another successful year under the able leadership of Mlle. Margaret Snader, our sponsor; Winifred Walsh, president; Shirley Barnes, vice-president; Nancy Banks, secretary; and Pat Cooper, treasurer.

The monthly meetings were the occasions for many interesting presentations. Once again, at Christmas time, the Cantique de Noel was given and many of the traditional carols as well as several special songs were sung. French Bible readings which told the story of the Nativity accompanied the carols. Le Cercle Français sent a Christmas package to Claude, a French orphan to whom the club has sent gifts for three years and a doll to Anne, a new French friend.

"Le Plein Air," a film about camping, was shown to the group which enjoyed this glimpse of French recreation.

The beginning students presented several short skits for the entertainment of the group. At the February meeting the Soiree de Bingo was held and as at other meetings new songs were learned.

Newly established this year was the French Table which met weekly for the Friday evening meal. French was spoken exclusively at this table. Enjoyment and increased proficiency in the language became the special goals of this informal group.

With all this activity and growth Le Cercle Français had a busy and interesting year.

Aristotle sat here.

classics club

In this, its eighteenth year on the "Hill," the Classics Club again attempted to bring to our campus a greater interest in the Classics. The most important project of the school year was the sponsorship of the first run film, Oedipus Rex. W.M.C. had the distinction of being one of the first schools to show the film since its release to colleges and universities throughout the country.

Other projects of the Classics Club were trips to Walter's Art Gallery, a talk on "Horace" by Dr. John Glenn, Professor of Latin at Gettysburg College, and the showing of slides borrowed from the American School of Classical Studies, Athens, Greece.

Officers for the year were: Lynn Mayer, President; Nancy Jones, vice-president; and Joan Schaeffer, secretary-treasurer. The Sponsor was Dr. William Ridington.

international relations club

With the time separating men from each other becoming shorter and shorter, and the constant threat of war confronting us, we of the IRC are attempting to learn to understand world problems so that some day we may be able to do something about them.

Our first speaker of the year was Dr. Ralph Price who spoke on "The Implications of the Sputniks," our main topic for the year. Dr. Price helped us understand its meaning for us as students, emphasizing America's need for more interest in education, especially in the fields of mathematics and science.

We believe that this club performs a necessary function in a liberal arts college by helping us to learn and to understand more about the world in which we live.

Seated, first row: S. Blair, vice-president; N. Fulghum, secretary; W. Walsh, treasurer; B. Lawrence, president.

panhellenic council

The panhellenic council is composed of both the intersorority and interfraternity councils. These two organizations have become quite active in campus life. The awarding of the Scholastic Cup in November, and the traditional party for the winners started the year's activities for the ISC, followed by the serving of refreshments to seniors before their caroling, the sponsoring of a basketball and bridge tournament, and the annual spring picnic in Harvey Stone Park.

The IFC was active in arranging a new system for the sponsoring of dances and parties, in obtaining hooks for the gymnasium to insure better and safer wiring for all future dances, and in planning a Pan-Hellenic Weekend for early spring.

delta sigma kappa

A total of twenty-one new members entered Delta Sigma Kappa during 1957-1958. Sorority spirit began with the colorful Hell Week in which the "baby Deltas" showed their "stuff." Hell Week reached its peak when the Deltas treated the Bachelors to the movies.

Mrs. Clower joined Delta Sigma Kappa as a co-sponsor and full fledged Delt in September. We felt very fortunate to have her advice and aid along with the leadership of Sue Blair, our first semester president, and Mary Barbara Chapman, our second semester president.

Christmas time was especially exciting this year. We finished redecorating the clubroom just in time for our Christmas party. The Bachelors presented us with a new lamp. Entertainment, the exchange of gifts, and later caroling climaxed the Yule season for us.

The Delt Church Sunday was inaugurated this year. Different churches were visited in the community during the semester by the sorority as a whole. The enthusiasm and response made this a very inspiring undertaking.

The Deltas recall this year as a very successful and memorable one and plan to keep the future just as bright—sisters always working together.

Delta signifies Justice;

Sigma signifies Unity;

Kappa signifies Good Fellowship.

The year opened with the rush in preparation for Homecoming, the display and the welcoming of the alumnae. Our year then settled down with the meetings and the selling of Christmas and greeting cards.

As the holiday season approached, we gave baskets to a needy family for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Our alumnae returned and gave us a Christmas party.

February brought seven pledges who gave us the added enthusiasm to rush into the busy second semester. We participated in the intersorority basketball tournament with the games being secondary to the fun and laughs. In the intersorority bridge tournament concentration was the keyword.

Again this year we were the guests of our Baltimore alumnae chapter. They treated us to a banquet at the Candlelight Lodge which was one of the highlights of the year.

The spring activities which occupied our time were the planning of our booth for the W.U.S. Bazaar, the rush tea, and the rush party. Sooner than expected, the rush party was here. The last minute preparations were made and we boarded the buses and were off to Big Pipe Creek Park. While skating, eating and frolicking, we found new friends. Then a happy but somewhat exhausted group headed back to the Hill.

The year closed with the election of officers for the year to come and a farewell party for the seniors.

Perhaps it is not until the last minutes come to a close that the senior realizes the true meaning of sorority. Problems are now forgotten and only the moments of pleasure and happiness remain. And so passes another year of Iota history.

phi alpha mu

The clanging of cow bells and mooing of twenty-six pledges ushered in the first semester for Phi Alpha Mu. This was just the beginning of another successful year for the sorority. On Homecoming our float, "Operation Deep-Freeze," won first prize, and two of our members represented their respective classes on the Court.

To support our war orphan, Ha Gyong Ja, sandwiches were faithfully forced upon the inhabitants of Blanche Ward and McDaniel. At Thanksgiving, our annual basket of food was given to a family in Westminster. Periodically throughout the year we visited our adopted women's ward at the Springfield State Hospital.

The Christmas season brought a number of memorable activities to the sorority. Toys and scrapbooks were sent to a children's home, carols were sung at various institutions, and a Christmas program was presented by a good representation of our club and our brothers, the Gamma Bets, for the inhabitants of Montrose and Springfield. Our combined Christmas party proved a fitting climax to these activities and to the year of 1957.

The second semester brought new officers and three new pledges to our group. At Easter, we outfitted a needy child and sent flowers to our ward at Springfield.

Our tea was held in March and the rush party in April. The latter proved to be one of the highlights of the year. The theme was Storybook Land, and all members took part by portraying different characters.

The Phi Alpha-Gamma Bet picnic and our own banquet brought an end to another memorable year for the girls of the Purple and White.

sigma sigma tau

Sigma spirit and fun burst forth this year as fourteen baby skunks romped through pledge week. We helped our brothers, the Black and Whites, with the Homecoming Dance. Family ties were cemented when our joint float of the "Scrambled Egg" won second prize. Our own display of witch's brew captured a blue ribbon.

The Sigmas continued to work together in playing championship hockey and selling calendars for Care. Then the efforts of all the girls were rewarded when we received the Scholastic Cup.

Thanksgiving and Christmas projects were enthusiastically carried out as the girls filled baskets and collected toys and clothing. The Christmas party with our brothers was equalled only by the merrymaking around our own tree.

The new year brought us four new pledges, intersorority basketball and the bridge tournament. The annual spring banquet, rush teas and the Sigma Circus were part of the events, too.

All too soon it was time for our Farewell Banquet. Girls we had come to know as sisters suddenly were leaving us. The sadness of the parting was tempered only by the realization that we had been fortunate to know so many of them so well.

The Bachelors of Alpha Gamma Tau have made their thirty-third year on the campus of Western Maryland College one of the most memorable in fraternity history. After a successful smoker, the club received the following sophomore pledges; Bob Anderson, Fred Burgee, Ron Harmon, Bob Johnson, Clark Kirkman, Carson Langford, Steve Margolis, Chuck Meyers, Ron Sindy, John Weagly, and Dave Williams.

Homecoming featured an open house in the clubroom which was attended by many returning Bachelors. Following the game, the victory was celebrated at the annual Homecoming Banquet which was held at Frock's.

In Intramural sports the Bachelors assumed an impressive role by winning both the interfraternity football and basketball championships.

Western Maryland's Christmas social season was highlighted by Alpha Gamma Tau's dance, "A Christmas Sleigh Ride," featuring the music of Brayden Reidenour's orchestra and attended by such notable figures as Santa Claus and Ebenezer Scrooge. A second event was a social party at Frock's held on the eve of the departure for vacation.

With Craig Phillips as chairman of the Food-for-Needy-Families Committee, the traditional donation was volunteered to the community.

Upon returning to the Hill this year, the Preachers immediately set to work on the busy schedule that lay ahead.

The arrival of football season found the "Purple and Gold" well represented, not only on the grid-iron, but also on the side lines operating concessions. This was a profitable business that proved quite helpful in filling a depleted treasury.

In October, fifteen new members were initiated into the fraternity in the old tradition to fill the vacancies created by the departed brothers of the class of '57.

Mr. Robert Adkins, the able adviser to the Preachers for several years, was succeeded by an equally able and respected member of the faculty, Mr. Richard Clower.

Miss Lori Jones emerged as the "Sweetheart of Delta Pi Alpha" and was serenaded in true "Romeo and Juliet" fashion. As the months passed, the Preachers again proved very active in various athletic events as the varsity and intramural seasons progressed.

During January the installation of new officers took place at a mouth-watering banquet, and in March the big highlight was the Sweetheart Ball. Among all these and other extra-curricular activities some of the brothers actually found time for real academic studying.

Delta Pi Alpha extends its congratulations to the graduating class of 1958.

With the press box on the football field rebuilt and enlarged through our efforts, and with our nerves soothed by the gentle caressing of the waves at Ocean City, the Gamma Bets returned to campus with their usual zest for social life while begrudgingly granting a little time for study in the off-hours. With a sigh of disbelief, we learned that Brother Jim Crowley had graduated in summer school. Lynn Mayer became our newly elected president.

Under Lynn's leadership, we entangled seventeen new members into our snares and before they knew it, they were formally initiated into GBX. Mr. Uhrig, too, joined our ranks, succeeding Dr. MacDonald as our faculty adviser. With our forces thus swollen, enthusiasm for our annual activities was increased.

In sports, the Red and Blue banner was seen flying over the football field as the GBX seniors witnessed the first victory on the gridiron in a host of seasons. As football gave way to basketball, it became apparent that GBX was finally climbing out of its athletic doldrums.

But time has a way of passing and so did the fraternity year. Thanksgiving slipped by, the Phi Alph-Gamma Bet party was held, and we presented a Christmas program at Springfield and Montrose. The spring thaws came—slowly dissolving our cranial ice as ideas for the May Dance flowed in an incessant stream.

Once the May Dance was over, it seemed no time until we saw our senior members parading across the stage. In the hearts of Gamma Beta Chi, they have graduated, but they are not forgotten:

"When we our separate ways do go, and chosen paths pursue, We'll always be united by the ROYAL RED AND BLUE."

And that we did!

pi alpha alpha

We of Pi Alpha Alpha were honored to welcome Dr. Reuben S. H. Holthaus into our fraternal fellowship as co-sponsor this past year. Along with him we received the continued advice of Dr. John D. Makosky.

This year's smoker was perhaps less lavish than those held previously, but we sincerely felt that the men attending the informal get-together experienced the unified spirit which exists among the members of Pi Alpha Alpha. When bids were returned we could proudly boast of fifteen pledges, who were soon to know the fun and friendship existing between pledges and members during Hell Week.

Homecoming was a tremendous success not only for the college, but also for the fraternity. A large crowd attended Pi Alpha Alpha's Coronation Ball. Several hundred students and alumni crossed the castle moat and danced in a royal ballroom lined with stately columns. Only the "slippery-as-glass" floor prevented us from reaping full pleasure and satisfaction from this important fraternity function.

With the return of currency to our treasury, we were able to undertake new projects and to continue the old traditions which give an organization its raison d'être. Included in such activities were a substantial contribution to the Will's Seminar Room, the purchase of new pieces of furniture, and our annual Christmas party and spring picnic for our sisters, the Sigmas.

Now that another college year is completed, we can look forward to more years of cooperation, fellowship and sportsmanship which contribute so much to a true fraternal spirit.

In line for Daffy Duck.

Since 1890— A Maryland Tradition

Maryland's heritage is one of fine homes, gracious living, and generations of great citizens, many of whom have and are contributing materially to the growth and welfare of the nation.

Since 1890, it has been our proud and happy privilege to be accepted into the finest of Maryland homes. This acceptance has grown with the State and with the generations we have helped nurture into gracious womanhood and stalwart manhood.
