We, the Class of 1960, have chosen to dedicate our yearbook to Dean William M. David—a man whom we feel is truly interested in our welfare.

From our first days here at W. M. C. as green freshmen taking entrance exams, to our final days as hardened seniors in pursuit of a job after graduation, we have seen this interest evidenced again and again.

Dean David's roles of administrator and professor automatically classify him as a man with many jobs. But whether attending a Student Life Committee meeting, an S. G. A. meeting or personally counseling a student with a problem, he always has time to help.

As a professor of sociology and history, the Dean has added to our enlightenment. Not only are his lectures erudite but they are given extra color by the addition of wit, a personal experience, or another point of view. On this same level Dean David is just as ready to give academic counseling to a student in need of it, as he is to give personal counseling.

So to an administrator, an educator, a man deeply involved in the task of helping the students of Western Maryland College, we dedicate our ALOHA.
FOREWORD

W. M. C., The Hill—A pleasant blend of a traditional and informal way of life. The easy relationship established between the faculty and students, the face to face associations among students make Western Maryland a unique and memorable experience to those who spend their college years here.

As our class entered Western Maryland, it started to become a part of all that is here. Now that four short years have passed we find we have developed strong ties which can never be completely severed.

It is our hope that this 1960 edition of the ALOHA portrays in words and pictures what Western Maryland really means to each senior.

Greetings to the Class of 1960:

During your four years at Western Maryland, you have seen more changes in the physical appearance and facilities of the College than any class that has ever preceded you. Your Freshman year coincided with the opening of Daniel MacLea Hall as a men's dormitory. As Sophomores you participated in the dedication of Baker Memorial Chapel. Your Junior year was marked by the acquisition of the Seminary property and the opening of Winslow Student Center. You returned last fall as Seniors to see the complete demolition of "Old Main," and the resulting remarkable transformation at the center of the campus.

You have had great pride in each of these new developments, and the College has appreciated your patience when you were inconvenienced by some of the factors necessarily involved in making radical changes.

As you now leave "The Hill" and take your places in the ranks of the Alumni, I trust you will remember your Alma Mater not only with nostalgic sentiment, but with active, tangible support that will help the College continue the development which your four years of residence have witnessed.

May God's blessing go with you!

CLASSES
When we entered Western Maryland College as Freshmen, 1960 seemed a very distant date in our minds. But four years here on the Hill have sped by much more quickly than we realized. It is hard now to remember how we felt as Freshmen entering college and facing so many new experiences. Were we really strangers to each other—only faces under green beanies with a few first names attached here and there? Was the first class, exam, dance or tea really such an exciting, awesome experience? It doesn’t seem possible now, but then it was true.

Each year has brought its own set of new experiences and opportunities. As “wise” Sophomores we greeted the wide-eyed Freshmen and proceeded to orient them by various means to the ways of college life. Fortunately for them our attention was soon diverted when we, ourselves, were oriented into the ways of our sororities and fraternities. Much work, fun, and fellowship filled those busy days as pledges. Available opportunities for service and lasting friendships opened wider than ever.

Junior year brought us, as a class, closer than ever. At the prom that spring we bade “Sayonora” to the departing Seniors. Then almost immediately the excitement and rush of our Follies began. Days and nights of planning, work, and fun came to a climax when “Mansfieldnite” and the Mansfield were unveiled to a packed Alumni Hall. Then May Day, investiture and elections rushed upon us, and suddenly we realized that there was only one more year of college left.

We are Seniors now and can look back on four very full college years—full of fun, but more important, full of opportunities to increase our understanding of many areas and to deepen our knowledge in our chosen fields. As individuals and as a class we have grown and changed. We have become different individuals because we have been here, known these people, and had these experiences. These years here on the Hill are years never to be forgotten by the Class of 1960.

As we came back to the Hill with the proud title of Juniors, we were startled by the external changes on the campus. The Chapel had indeed become the center of the campus. The Winslow Student Center was a pleasant change from Old Main, except that it seemed much farther away to our aging limbs. But in addition to the changes in the landscape, there seemed to be other changes in the air too.

This was a year enriched by many "moments to remember." With mixed feelings, we surrendered the task of Freshman orientation to the Sophomores. Early in the year fraternity and sorority bids came out, and we realized how nice it was to be receiving new pledges rather than to be experiencing Hell Week ourselves. Homecoming and our pretty queen... will ne’er be forgotten. After our Thanksgiving holiday, we officially ushered in the Christmas season on the Hill with the tree-lighting ceremony on the President’s lawn. Before we knew it, spring was awakening before our eyes, and the call came to us for workers for the Junior-Senior Prom. Assuring ourselves that we needed little sleep, we began working furiously to complete the Junior Follies. And what girl can forget the rose-cup ceremony as we tearfully bade farewell to the girls we had come to know so well.

Yes, we do have many “moments to remember,” but we eagerly look forward to the challenge of our Senior year and the many memories we will obtain as we spend our last year on the Hill.

As juniors we planned and wrote our Follies.

Returning from vacations crammed with new experiences, but eager to renew old ones, we quickly found our old niche on the Hill, and eagerly made plans for Rat Week, when we could act sternly.

Before many days, we were swept into sorority and fraternity pledging, which we overcame with a minimum of nerve strain and a maximum of fun and energy. Here we experienced the feeling of being a "member"—an integral part of something full of intangibles and wonderful associations.

In rapid succession we discovered the rest of the world had continued to surge on. Courses were no longer "geared to the Freshman level." So we dug in deeper and did two weeks' work in one in order to catch up with our professors.

Proud of our new status as big sisters and brothers, we tried to be good examples of well-rounded citizens and attain new heights of self-satisfaction as well. As a class we were determined to disprove the fallacy that this year was the dangerous one for class unity. We supported our activities, lauded our beauties, cheered on our athletes, and encouraged our leaders.

We began to realize the whys and hows of staying here and what it really meant to us. This was where we would live for only two more years. As the Seniors passed in honor before us, we recognized the responsibility and privileges we had inherited. We suddenly sensed that we were now upperclassmen and hoped we could do the job ahead. The past was our guide; the future our pathway.

As sophomores we pledged sororities and fraternities.

When we arrived at college in the fall, we suddenly realized we had taken another big step toward the future. The next four years of learning would be our most important ones. They would be the vital link in the chain of events which would bring us closer to our goals in life.

We had no sooner finished our tests and heard the last orientation speech, when upperclassmen returned and Rat Rules went into effect. The class was the largest in the history of the College, but it didn't take us long to adjust to college life. We learned methods of studying for three exams on the same day while socializing with friends in the dorm.
Homecoming arrived with rain, which dissolved the class float into a mass of soggy crepe paper. Before Thanksgiving class elections were held. Plans for the year included sponsoring several informal dances on weekends, as well as the Freshman dance.

Second semester went quickly, but it left behind lasting memories of the Follies, May Day festivities, and the traditional Lantern Chain.

As we look back across our Freshman year, we see what we have learned and accomplished. Another chapter in our life is past, and now we are ready to start a new one as Sophomores.

College life knows no formal pattern. It is unique to each campus, each day, each student. College is many things to many people, but to each of us, college means Western Maryland.

At W.M.C. the college day begins with a light-hearted leaping from sleep, ready to face the world but never breakfast.
A few minutes are often spent in worship before the busy day begins.

Alphabetical arrangement of the mail boxes results in the shorter campus members stretching to reach, while the taller ones sit on the floor trying to work the combination.
Our intellectual ambitions may sometimes be doubted, but whether seriously assimilating... or just messing around...

discipline of mind and a desire for knowledge are evident.
The men's dorms are blessed with unique shower facilities, which are often spontaneous.
Even with a liberal arts education, knowledge of a trade may come in handy ...
... and who knows what this side interest will yield!!!

The faces change, the places change ...
but the game goes on forever.
Outside the classroom, academics are pursued...

...even though other pursuits may take precedence.
... And so endeth another day at Western Maryland!!!
ORGANIZATIONS
The Trumpeters, senior women's honorary organization, number four this year. Each spring the junior women gather on the Ensor's lawn for the tapping ceremony. The women selected for this high honor are elected by the graduating Trumpeters on a point system based on character, leadership, citizenship, and scholarship, the ideals of the group.

The chief project of the Trumpeters during the academic year is the sponsoring of the Christmas Banquet. Dr. Isabel Isanogle is the faculty advisor.

"For if the trumpet gives an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself for battle?"

ARGONAUTS

The Argonauts is the scholastic honorary organization at Western Maryland having as its ideals the furthering of scholarship and fellowship.

Those fulltime students who are at least juniors with a 2.1 cumulative index are eligible for associate membership. If upon graduation a cumulative average of 2.2 has been met, the student is initiated as a fellow in the Argonauts.

In the fall of the year those eligible for membership are welcomed during a meeting at which time a guest speaker appears. This year Dr. Henry Natunewicz spoke on the challenges for a scholar in our modern world. During the spring the annual banquet was held and another interesting speaker from off campus spoke.

Officers this year included: Lloyd Musselman, president; Mary Catherine McCormick, vice president; Don Lowe, treasurer and Carol Dixon, secretary.
Thirteen senior men and women received recognition on a national level by being selected to appear in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

The criteria by which they were evaluated included scholarship, leadership in extracurricular activities, service, citizenship and potentiality for the future.

A biographical sketch of each candidate will appear in the 1960 publications. This selection affords the only means by which our deserving seniors receive acknowledgment of their tireless efforts.
DELTA OMICRON

Delta Omicron, a national music fraternity, was initiated here on the Hill on November 16, 1957. Although the group is comparatively small, consisting of eight members and seven pledges, they fulfill their ideals of fostering musicianship and friendship. This organization joins together those students excelling in music, who are given bids by unanimous vote of the members.

This year the Omicron Eta chapter entertained at Springfield State Hospital and will continue this as a service project. As a social event, the members presented two public recitals, one in the fall and one in the spring.

Every three years a delegate is sent to the International Convention held in one of the larger cities of the United States.

Kathryn Zeller served as president this year. Other officers were as follows: first vice president, Evangeline Grim; second vice president, Helen Murray; secretary, Linda Thompson; treasurer, Elzbieta Adamska. Mrs. Gerald Cole served as chapter adviser and Dr. Arleen Heggemeier was faculty advisor.

BETA BETA BETA

The Alph Mu Chapter of Beta, Beta, Beta under the sponsorship of Dr. Harwell Sturdivant, is now in its twenty-eighth year on the Hill. A national honor society for students in the biological sciences, Tri-Beta strives “to stimulate sound scholarship, to promote the dissemination of scientific truth, and to encourage biological investigation.”

Among the organization’s services are the sponsoring of assembly speakers, showing educational films, and presenting talks by students on biological subjects. The Milton Hendrickson Memorial Scholarship is presented annually to a member for summer study.

Beta, Beta, Beta’s social year begins with the initiation ceremony at Dr. Sturdivant’s home and continues with the annual field trip, spring picnic, and banquet for graduating members.

This year’s officers were: Marvin Goldstein, president; Paul Hughes, vice president; Marcia Wilson, secretary; Toni Steinacker, treasurer; and Arlene Mac Vicker, historian.
The Student Government Association, more popularly known as the S.C.A., works in an all-encompassing capacity to promote the general welfare of the student body and the college. Its purposes and ideals are widespread in an attempt to provide experience in self government, to promote harmony and understanding among student groups and among the campus triangle: administration, faculty, and students; to encourage high ethical and moral standards of the students, and to stimulate active citizenship.
With these ideals in mind, the S.G.A. sets forth to serve the campus community. Each Monday evening, at 6:45 p.m., S.G.A. meets in the new council room of the Winslow Student Center. The council, composed of representatives from each class; the class presidents; the dorm presidents; Intersorority and Interfraternity Council presidents; settles down to discuss campus problems and organization under the leadership of president Norman Davis and vice president Donna King. Supporting officers of the council include secretary and treasurer, which are held by Carol Dixon and James Thomas.

The government’s work began early in September with the Student Leadership Conference and Freshmen Orientation Week. Soon afterwards, plans were set in action for the coordination of Homecoming activities and within the same month, the Student Government Council voted to apply for membership in the United States National Student Association. This step proved Western Maryland’s willingness to expand its responsibilities and broaden its scope of government.

Since the second floor of the new Student Union building was under the control of the S.G.A., it sought to utilize the relaxing atmosphere of the new lounge and sponsored Saturday evening informal dances.

Traditional ceremonies and activities remained a part of the busy year’s schedule. However, in addition, new committees were organized and some new ideas were formulated and initiated.

In an attempt to make forward strides of action, the S.G.A. found itself in the never-ending process of building a student government foundation which in future years could better serve Western Maryland College.
STUDENT LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

In September the Student Leadership Conference assembled, and thirty campus leaders returned to WMC early in order to meet and thereby gain a broader perspective of the responsibilities and roles of the students, faculty and administration. This was done in order to promote understanding and cooperation in their relations as well as to develop those qualities necessary for leadership.

Projects for the year 1960, which were initiated through the conference, included recommendations to President Ensor and the faculty for improvement of the school and relations within the school, tea dances after home football games, the honor system and a school calendar.

JUDICIAL BOARD

The Judicial Board has as its goal that of developing a sense of honor and responsibility in the individual student so that the entire college community may be benefited. This year the Board has taken positive steps toward seeing its eventual goal of an honor system at Western Maryland established.

Meetings are held when cases demanding arbitration arise regarding students and campus life. In these cases, decisions are made concerning the students involved. The Board is an affiliate of the Student Government Association and is comprised of eight members, all of whom are appointed.

The officers for this school year were: James Worden, chairman, and Rhea Ireland, recorder.
September 22nd found an able-bodied Freshman Advisory Council on hand to welcome the Class of 1963 to campus. Under the co-chairmanship of Sue Warren and Birge Reichard, the council was composed of 17 senior women and 14 senior men.

Beginning late last spring and working in co-ordination with the offices of the Deans and the Student Government Association, the council set out to plan an interesting program for the incoming class. Their activities ranged from Orientation Week to helping their advisees with problems of a personal nature. This particular line of communication has proved to be an effective means of extending the warm hand of friendship and inviting the new students to join our college family. It is hoped that in the future it will expand its program and continue to provide its worthwhile service.

Organized just one year ago, the Student Life Council has as its purpose to co-ordinate campus life in all its phases and to help bridge any gaps between students, faculty and administration.

Faculty membership is composed of the Dean of Men, the Dean of Women, and representatives of the academic, religious and athletic life. Of the five student members, three are chosen from applications submitted to the S.G.A., the other two members being president and vice president of the Student Government and Association.

Working in cooperation with all campus organizations the major physical project for the scholastic year 1960 was the establishment of the Publications Board.
The governing bodies of the two women's residences are the dormitory councils. Headed by the presidents, Sharon Board of Blanche Ward and Margaret Keeler of McDaniel, the council disciplines the women students for infractions of the rules and maintains study hours for the freshman women.

Aside from their punitive powers they join at Christmas to present a dorm party which is held in McDaniel Lounge. At this time gifts are given to the house mothers, Mrs. Scott and Mrs. "J", and to the Dean of Women.

The dormitory council is designed to represent the men students who reside in Albert Norman Ward and Daniel MacLea dormitories. It consists of a president of each dormitory and a representative from each section. The presidents are elected by the resident men, and the representatives are appointed. The council meets to handle minor problems which occur in the dorms. Birge Reichard is president of Albert Norman Ward Hall and Allan Dworkin heads Daniel MacLea Hall.
The Student Christian Association is one of the most active groups on the Hill, sponsoring a variety of activities and acting as the focal point for all the religious organizations at WMC. The aims of the association are high—to provide both a significant experience of worship and a growing understanding of the basic Christian beliefs to aid students to gain a fuller insight into the richness of daily life. Membership in the association is most emphatically open. To maintain active status, a member must attend three meetings at either the S.C.A. or the denominational gatherings.

Under the guidance of Major Alfred Clark, Mr. Kenneth Shook, and Mrs. Edith Ridington, the association’s advisors, meetings are held on alternate Wednesday evenings in Baker...
A solemn communion service followed the Christmas banquet.

Memorial Chapel at 6:45 P.M. Among the many events which the association sponsors are the Big-Little Brother and Sister parties, Christmas parties, spring picnics and the World University Service Bazaar. The association also provides varied services such as Christmas and Lenten Commun'ion, the Easter Play, outdoor Vesper services, and Religious Emphasis Week. In addition, the S.C.A. works with the S.G.A. in sponsoring Freshman Week, and is the co-ordinator of all the religious groups on the Hill. Realizing all of this, it is not hard to see why the S.C.A. is an indispensable campus organization. It is both a bridge between the secular and spiritual aspects of campus life, and a rallying point for all those students who seek companionship and fellowship in their religious activities. In this way, the organization is a natural complement to one of the major functions of Western Maryland College.

This year's officers included: president, John Long; vice president, Esther Upperco; secretary, Lorena Stone; treasurer, Wayne Conrad.

“To give leadership in Christian experience is our aim.”
BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

The Baptist Student Union originated in 1953 for the purpose of fellowship and spiritual growth. Their outstanding projects included Christmas packages for their adopted family, missionary work and supporting a summer missionary.

Affiliated with the Maryland B.S.U., the group participated in the fall convention and the spring retreat.

Officers for this year were: president, Barbara Wolozin; vice president, Elizabeth Newell; secretary, Eunice Sank; and treasurer, Wayne Crockett. The sponsor is Mr. Jimmie J. Hartfield.

CANTERBURY ASSOCIATION

The Canterbury Association, composed of the Episcopalian students, is dedicated to promoting ideals of worship, service, and fellowship. Father White and Dr. Clyde Spicer help to direct the group's activities.

The group participated in serving an annual spaghetti dinner, having Communion breakfasts, and a Christmas party. Services are held in Baker Chapel.

The officers this year were: Mary Lou Eaton, president; Doris Miles, vice president, Martha Whitehead, secretary and Fred Rheinhardt, treasurer.

The aim of the Christian discipline is the love that springs from a pure heart, from a good conscience and from a sincere faith.

I Timothy 1:5

LUTHERAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION

Under the sponsorship of Reverend Elwood Falkenstein and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schaeffer, the Lutheran Student Association unites bi-monthly for worship, fellowship and study.

Aside from Bible studies, speakers and films, one of the outstanding events of the year was the North Atlantic Regional meeting held at Buck Hill Falls in the Pocono Mountains. Beatrice Ackerman, one of our campus members is currently serving as treasurer of the Gettysburg area.

Assisting president Patricia Welk were vice president, Richard Null; secretary-treasurer, Nancy Linthicum and S.C.A. representative, Jeanne Yingling.

JEWISH STUDENT ASSOCIATION

The Jewish Student Association welcomes all Jewish students as well as non-Jewish students to participate in its functions. Since its organization in October, 1959, the group has worked toward its goal of teaching the ways of Judaism to all who are interested. Meetings are held each Friday evening.

The group is sponsored by Major Alfred Clark and Dr. Nathan Weinstock. Officers for this school year are Arthur Alperstein, president; Marvin Goldstein, Robert Moss, Carol Goldstone and Marsha Gellar, executive committee.

Trust in the Lord and do good.
Psalm 37:3
Give diligence to present thyself approved unto God, a workman that need not to be ashamed, handling aright the word of truth.

II Timothy 2:15

NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club, a national Catholic organization for college students, became federated in 1958. Its primary purpose is to provide worthwhile fellowship among Catholic students at W.M.C.

The programs included activities of a religious, educational and social nature. Meetings were held twice a month consisting of informal discussions open to the campus community, guest speakers, and talks by the club advisor, Father Edmond Stroup of St. John's Church.

This year's officers were: George Becker, president; Ann Weller, vice president; William Sitter, treasurer and Jill Brown, S.C.A. representative.

Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.

Mark 16:15

METHODIST STUDENT MOVEMENT

The Methodist Student Movement works to promote Christian worship, fellowship and ideals among the Methodist students and attempts to provide an opportunity for the study of Christianity in the light of Methodist beliefs.

This year the group held a Christmas party for underprivileged children, attended area retreats and sponsored a square dance. Also it had the annual "Christmas Meditation" and provided interesting speakers for the meetings.

The group's sponsor was Dr. Earl Griswold and the officers were: president, Mina Kirby; vice president, Maurice Arsenault; secretary, Elizabeth Butler; and treasurer, Henry So.

SUNDAY FELLOWSHIP

The Sunday Fellowship is a non-denominational group of students preparing for various walks of life, but having in common the promotion of Christian experience. The group meets on Sunday morning and holds informal discussions.

Officers for the year were: president, Warren Watts; vice president, Ester Deckert; secretary, Eleanor White; treasurer, Paul Grant; publications, Judith Tye. The sponsor of the group is Dr. Charles Crain.

Therefore, my beloved brethren, be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that in the Lord your labor is not in vain.

1 Corinthians 15:58

WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP

The Westminster Fellowship is a small and loyal group of Presbyterian students. Of recent origin, 1955, the club membership has now grown to fourteen, and, of course, they are still looking for new members. As with any religious organization, the function of the club is to provide fellowship and union in worship for students with similar spiritual interests.

This group meets every other Wednesday night in the lounge of Baker Memorial Chapel. The club’s activities include continued support of the recently formed Presbyterian Church in Westminster, cooperation during Religious Emphasis Week, skating parties, and the fellowship provided by the meetings, which often include guest speakers.

The sponsors of Westminster Fellowship are Reverend John Thompson and Reverend James Tally. The president was Martha Woodward, the vice president and secretary, Louise Styche, and Thomas Dark, the treasurer.
THE WESLEYANETTES

The Wesleyanettes are a non-denominational Christian group of college women dedicated to the ideals of worship, service and fellowship. They meet on alternate Friday evenings with their sponsor, Mrs. Alfred Clark.

This past year the group sponsored and assisted in the leadership of an integrated Brownie troop and held the annual Christmas party for these girls. They also made and sent stuffed animals to an orphanage in Okinawa, helped with the W.U.S. Bazaar, and combined with the Wesleyans for joint meetings and the annual Wesleyan-Wesleyanette banquet.

The officers this year were: president, Particia Kurlle; vice president, Judith Tye; secretary, Barbara Bell; and treasurer, Elizabeth Newell.

WESLEYANS

The Wesleyans are a group of Christian men dedicated to the betterment of themselves and the Kingdom of God through fellowship and service. Meetings are held on Friday afternoons in Baker Memorial Chapel. One of this year's highlights was the Wesleyan-Wesleyanette banquet. It provided a real opportunity to share the fun and fellowship which an affair of this nature provides. Other activities include deputations and visitations, good experiences for Christian men.

Each spring, when the time finally rolls around to the dedication of the yearbook, the proud ALOHA staff sits back with gleaming eyes and fondly looks upon their work of art. The ALOHA staff of 1960 is by far no exception, for bound within the covers of this book is a story of a college . . . a staff . . . and the time and efforts which they put into making four years of memories—a reality.

The work begins in the spring of the junior year, immediately following the election of the editor-in-chief and business manager. The Class of 1960 chose Mary Cay and Bob to handle the respective positions.

Pre-planning meetings were set up, and amidst discussion of themes and various ideas, an attempt was made to visualize the rather far-fetched dream of the finished product. In the fall, Bob, with a rather worried look, searched frantically for a budget to encompass a 10,000 dollar production, and Mary Cay made her assignments. The intensive work began.

Pictures, pictures, pictures. . . . how could all of them ever fit into a bound copy of any book? Organization write-ups . . . captions . . . page plans . . . weekly Wednesday night meetings . . . and that inevitable deadline staring you in the face . . . Afternoon sessions turned into late nights and late nights turned into early mornings; the work continued. The last minute rush turned into confusion . . . confusion into panic . . . and then . . . the DEADLINE!

The first deadline was made and the second fell right into step. Another routine began with more page plans . . . with cropping pictures once . . . and then once again just to make sure or because someone goofed! Miss Winkelman kept in close touch to make sure that plans were running smoothly and to offer her able assistance and advice.

Finally the last deadline was met. The work completed, Mary Cay, Bob, and their staff, wearily gave a sigh of relief, and settled back to await the dedication assembly.

A memory . . . an idea . . . a plan . . . an organization of creative thought and ingenuity . . . at last—a reality . . . The 1960 ALOHA.

"Just think, Bob—only 10,000 more to go!"

"Now if I were editor of this yearbook, things would be different."

The Cold Bug, the student sponsored bi-weekly campus newspaper, functions as a college news agency and as a sounding board for student opinion. In addition to the regular editorials, space is often given to students and faculty for the expression of additional ideas and comments.

The thirty member staff sponsored by Miss Nancy Winkelman, meets each week in the Cold Bug office of the Student Union building. Membership is open to all interested persons and affords an excellent opportunity to explore the various phases of newspaper work.

The positions of editor-in-chief and business manager run for year year with the changes being made at the beginning of second semester. The retiring job-holders appoint their respective successors. This year's editor-in-chief, Tom Albertson, appointed Barbara Horst to fill his position, while Ronald Harman appointed William Kerbin as the new business manager.

"Hey, Judy, what do we do with this blank space?"

Contrast is the newest publication on campus. It originated in 1957 and has expanded considerably ever since.

The purpose of Contrast is to provide a working standard for students interested in writing and likewise, to present the reader with a literary magazine of stimulating subject matter and clearly defined standards.

The magazine is published bi-annually. Any students interested in writing are encouraged to do so. The short stories, poems and essays making up the contents of this publication are contributed solely by the students. This year with the creation of the Publications Board, Contrast has joined with other literary efforts on campus to criticize, to review finances and to seek improvement in their work.

This year’s staff was under the direction of co-editors, Susan Wheeler and Constance Shankle; Business Manager, Beatrice Ackerman; Layout Manager, Allen Jones and Publicity Manager, Susan Garretson. Mrs. Marcia Hovey served as faculty sponsor.

"Do you think it'll pass the censors?"
The Publications Board, which is composed of ten members, was established this year as an advisory committee for the campus journalistic efforts, the Aloha, Contrast, and the Gold Bug. The Board serves to define the individual wants and needs of each publication, in addition to offering recommendations for definite study of publications and acting as a critic and review board of past publications. Also the committee discussed the various facts of publications such as budget and finances, public relations and good editing.

Those persons holding automatic membership on the Board are the editors, business managers, and advisors of each publication. In addition, a member-at-large from the student body, and a member of the Student Life Council, both of whom are elected by the Student Life Council, serve as members. From among the Board members a chairman is elected.

This year the following people served on the newly formulated Board; Priscilla Ord, chairman, Tom Albertson, Ronald Harman, Mary Catherine McCormick, Powell Anderson, Susan Wheeler, Constance Shankle, Mrs. Marcia Hovey, and Miss Nancy Winkelman.

Meetings are held each Wednesday afternoon in the Student Government Council Room and in many cases interested persons of the student body are invited to attend.

Principal among the Board's projects this year, has been a series of planned meetings dealing with the fundamentals of publishing. This series specifically stressed a development of a deeper understanding of the art of printing. In addition to the lectures given by Miss Winkelman and others, displays, movies and slides were presented as visual aids.

This board has proven its worth and need in its combined efforts to improve Western Maryland's inter-publication relationships and their organization.
Serving to promote a spirit of sisterhood among the women on campus is the Intersorority Council composed of representatives from the four sororities. The scope of the council’s activities was varied and included sponsorship of the tea dances held in the student lounge after football games, the annual movie, the basketball competition played in the winter and the open houses presented by the sororities to non-members. Perhaps the most worthwhile service performed by the council was the supervision and final awarding of the I.S.C. Cup for scholastic achievement. It was awarded permanently to Sigma Sigma Tau after three successful years.

In addition to their other projects, the council, in co-ordination with the I.F.C. and the Student Life Council, worked on a possible revision and redirection of Initiation Week activities.

First semester officers included: Phyllis Cassetta, president; Jean Roberts, vice president; Jessie Bazzeghin, secretary; and Harriet Whitmore, treasurer.
INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

The promotion of cooperation among the fraternities is the purpose of the Interfraternity Council. Working in connection with the Intersorority Council it spent much time this year reviewing the regulations of fraternity initiation during Hell Week. In addition, the council sponsored tea dances after all home football games, set up the interfraternity ping-pong tournament, and planned the Pan Hellenic weekend.

The membership consists of the presidents and vice presidents of each fraternity and a representative chosen by the fraternity. The officers of the group rotate each year among the fraternities. Officers for first semester were president, James Gibson; vice president, Joseph Bender; secretary, Douglas Smith; treasurer, Allan Dworkin. The advisor of the group is Dean William David.
Delta signifying justice, Sigma signifying unity and Kappa signifying good fellowship unites the fifty-nine girls of Delta Sigma Kappa together in sisterhood.

Starting off the fall of '59 with a bang, twenty-five “Baby Delts” proudly accepted the bid to become red and white worms. Putting the new Student Union to good use, the expression “Gentlemen, may we open your mailbox?” resounded from the walls of the grille. The new pledges, as part of their initiation, escorted some of their brothers to a movie garbed in the most elegant regalia. Bringing their dates back to campus, the strains of the club songs were heard in the distance. A recent innovation, Pledge Night, found the 25 additions singing:

“Twas the night bids came out,
And all through the dorm
Not a creature was stirring
Not even a worm.”

Homecoming finally rolled around and the sorority joined efforts in building their display and float. Their work was not in vain as “Get in the Swing, Beat Drexel!” capped second prize.

Christmas arrived and our cheery spirit was put to use entertaining at two local homes for the aged. Helping others at this season certainly made our Christmas’ brighter. At our annual Yuletide party with the Bachelors many “strange” gifts were exchanged.

February brought our Birthday Banquet at which time our new president was installed. Somehow we all managed to depart stuffed with chicken. Early in second semester we donned working clothes and painted the clubroom a light green. Just about this time our basketball team was getting in shape for the up and coming intersorority games.

With the onslaught of spring the freshmen were entertained by our tea and rush party. May finally crept in and our seniors were bade a last farewell at the banquet. The memories of the past three years as sisters of Delta Sigma Kappa will not be soon forgotten.

IOTA Gamma Chi... the best sorority. These strains soon became very familiar to new “baby pirate” pledges. This year the Iotes welcomed six sophomores to membership. Through the initiation period the pledges, wearing the colors of red, white and black, came to know and cherish the ideals of friendship, goodwill and love. The pledges worked very hard for their sisters and even “volunteered” for extra duties. They cleverly composed many tunes which were presented to the students before meals.

Appearing first on the program for Pledge Night, the girls skit depicted how a pledge was born into sisterhood from the intangible ingredients which go to make an Iote.

The Homecoming Parade found some of the sisters riding in a new white convertible brightly decorated. Their float, showing a Drexel dragon being chased into a cave by the Terror, was most imaginative.

In keeping with the spirit of Christmas the sorority donated a basket of food to a needy family in Westminster. The delightful Santa’s Workshop was on hand to add cheer and decoration to the campus. At the Christmas party presented by the Alumni, the new co-sponsor, Dr. Arlene Heggemeier, was installed.

Spring brought new efforts to improve the basketball team. The newly acquired black and red sweatshirts finally arrived and the girls began to sport them to practice in preparation for the approaching Intersorority tournament. The freshmen women were in for a special treat at the roller skating rush party.

As a money making project, the club began selling Avon products to the women students of the campus. Perhaps others have noticed the girls’ sorority pins which are of their own design.

As the year closes, the sisters of Iota Gamma Chi bid farewell to six senior graduates but the meaning of their club will long follow them throughout life.

"I O T A Gamma Chi, that's what we are for sure."
"History will tell us" that in the world of purple and white, many Phi Alph sisters served in campus activities, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Richard Pugh.

Early in September, the new herd of calves stampeded from the "kicking post" through initiation, under the watchful eyes of their sisters, swelling the sorority's number to seventy. They were no sooner branded, than they were busy selling sandwiches to profit the support of their adopted war orphan. Homecoming saw many returning Phi Alph alumni and they all gave a nod of approval as the sorority took first prize in the display division.

With humorous poems, Christmas stockings, and cocoa, the Phi Alphs shared in the spirit of the season by giving toys to a children's hospital. They, in turn, received gifts at the party given to them by their brother fraternity, the Gamma Betes. Making scrapbooks and contributing food to a needy family and entertaining at Springfield State Hospital were other Christmas projects.

In January, the Phi Alphs honored their sacred cow with a banquet consisting of steak. Continuing in the tradition of good, social life, the sorority was host to the freshmen women over the purple punch bowl. The basketball and bridge teams were cheered on to fame by the purple and white rooters.

Sweatshirts were exchanged for crisp new jackets signifying the coming of spring. Synonymous with the season was the hustle of preparing their storybookland for the freshman rush party; allowing the present sorority members to become better acquainted with the class.

Highlighting the farewell banquet was the distribution of the "Torch," the Phi Alph yearbook, in honor of the seniors. The tributes paid to the departing seniors and the good wishes of their sisters, showed that they were proud to have "worn the pin . . . of Phi Alpha Mu."

Starting off a great year, the Sigmas received into membership twenty-five new members. Hell Week took its course, being as much fun for the older members, as for the Skunks. Late in October, these brand new Sigmas were seen on campus proudly displaying shiny silver pledge pins.

With the coming of November, enthusiastic members joined together to work on the Homecoming float and display. The Sigmas gave a rousing cheer at the Homecoming game upon learning that their float had tied for first place.

November also brought the good news that the sorority had won the scholarship cup for the third consecutive year which meant permanent ownership.

A cheery “Merry Christmas” greeted busy Sigmas, as they prepared for the Christmas season and their annual Christmas party. The gifts exchanged by the members were sent to needy families. To make the season even brighter, the Sigmas’ brother fraternity, the Black and Whites, gave them a party.

Following the return from the holidays, the second semester officers were elected. At the annual sorority banquet they were installed into office and thus a new year began for Sigma Sigma Tau.

First on the agenda was the forming of a sorority basketball team. After many practices, the team felt that they were ready once again to take part in the intersorority basketball tournaments.

It was at this time of the year also that the preparations were being made for the freshman tea. This was followed, later on in the year, by the sorority rush party. The entertainment was once again presented to the freshman girls as the “Sigma Circus.” In the spring “The Silver Lining,” the Sigma yearbook, was also published.

The year drew to a close with the farewell banquet for the departing seniors.

Sigma Sigma Tau Officers
Twenty-four new members pledged to the Alpha Gamma Tau colors of blue and white in the fall of the year. Blue alpine hats with feathers and the familiar toot of the horns added to the color and confusion of Hell Week, as the pledges tried to do the impossible, namely keep their elder brothers happy. The blue and white jackets could be seen more often as the size of the fraternity was greatly increased.

Indoctrinated in the ideals of Brotherhood, Scholarship, Social Interests, Physical Ability, Personal Conduct, and Perfection, the new brothers joined their elders in the work of the year. This was started by providing refreshments on sale during all home football games and at basketball games during the winter, a service which required both time and energy. Participation with great zeal, won the intramural football tournament for the Bachelors, a feat which they achieved for the third consecutive time.

Possessing a strong alumni association, the Bachelors attended several social affairs in Baltimore, one in the fall following the Hopkins football game, and a second in the spring. At Christmas, their sister sorority, Delta Sigma Kappa, was entertained in the clubroom with a party. Exchanging gifts highlighted the activities of the evening. During this season a basket of food was sent to a needy family. As exams neared the tension of the campus was released by a fraternity party sponsored by the brothers of the blue and white.

Second semester found the plans of the Sweetheart Dance well under way, as Valentine’s day was approaching. Having been promised the proper atmosphere the fellows called their favorite girl for a date.

Mr. Richard Pugh was sponsor of the group during the year. A year which proved most successful, and which will be long remembered by the brothers.
"Don't ask us, we just work here."

Celebrating its thirty-fifth anniversary, the Preacher fraternity started its year’s activities by selling programs at all home football games. The fraternity welcomed sixteen pledges to its membership in October. Almost before the strains of “Be Happy, Go Preacher” had silenced, the new members could be seen sporting their new colors of purple and gold. Later in the fall Miss Judith Ellis was selected as their sweetheart. Judy was serenaded by the fraternity and honored by the placing of her picture in the clubroom beside those of other previous Preacher sweethearts.

Established in 1925 for the purpose of social and moral advancements and improvement of its brothers and associates, Delta Pi Alpha strove to obtain this goal during the year. Sponsoring the Christmas dance was a major project, as the brothers worked hard at creating the atmosphere of the season with the theme, “Snowman’s Delight.” A huge snowman dominated the scene as a frosty atmosphere was created.

Stressing sportsmanship and athletics, the Preachers urges its members to participate on various college teams. Likewise avidly supporting the intramural program of the fraternities, they hold the proud record of winning the interfraternity athletic cup twenty-one out of twenty-two years.

Informal dances were held in the clubroom on open weekends several times during the year, while other fraternity parties were held off campus. Homecoming weekend saw the Preachers selling programs and testing their originality by entering a display and a float in the judging.

In January, the fraternity undertook the redecoration of their clubroom. Under the continued guidance of Mr. Richard Clower, their advisor, the group completed another year. A year which could rightly go down in Preacher history.

Borden lines up his Gamma Beta basketball team.

“We the members of Gamma Beta Chi in order to form a more perfect fellowship . . .” can be heard emanating every Tuesday evening from the north end of Daniel MacLea Hall, as the Gamma Betes gather together for their regular meeting. Brotherhood, sportsmanship and co-operation with the college are held as goals by its brothers.

Homecoming weekend found the Gamma Betes busily working to put the finishing touches on the big dance of the evening. “Autumn Leaves” was the theme as Gill Gym was transformed into a fall setting in which the Queen and her court presided. Although busy with the dance, the fraternity entered its float which tied for first place in the afternoon parade. A banquet for the alumni was also held preceding the dance. The weekend resulted in a huge success for the fraternity.

At Thanksgiving and again at Christmas, a basket of food and other needed articles were sent to an underprivileged family in the locality of Westminster. Also at Christmas the Gamma Betes joined their sisters of Phi Alpha Mu in a trip to Springfield State Hospital to entertain the patients there. At a party for Phi Alpha Mu held in the clubroom at Christmas, the sorority and fraternity exchanged gifts. Santa arrived during the party and much to the delight of the girls, he brought gifts for all.

Four new members were heartily welcomed to the fraternity in the fall. With tired, but happy expressions following their initiation, they stood as their elder brothers pinned a red carnation, the flower of the fraternity, on their lapel. The fraternity continued under the able guidance of Mr. Philip Uhrig, their sponsor.

To the harmony of barbershop singing, Pi Alpha Alpha successfully began its activities for the year by sponsoring an “Evening of Barbershop” early in the fall. Prominent also in its fall activities was hard work on a display for Homecoming, which placed third in the judging, and a float in the parade. The fraternity added color to many a smiling face by providing mums for sale during the day.

Fourteen young men donned the black and white colors as they pledged Pi Alpha Alpha. During the Hell Week activities they formed the Black and White symphony and for Hell missions created the usual disturbance in the quiet town of Westminster. Following this initiation these men deserveingly attained full membership into the fraternity.

The Black and Whites strove hard to maintain a spirit of fellowship and a society of well-rounded men equipped to meet the responsibilities of life throughout the year. At Christmas, they held a party with their sister sorority, Sigma Sigma Tau, and on several occasions during the year turned their voices to serenade the Sigmas.
The highlight of the year was the sponsoring of the May Day dance, an important social function of the college in addition to participation in the May Day festivities. Later in the spring the Sigma Sigma Tau—Pi Alpha Alpha picnic, an annual event, took place. Again the Black and Whites won the Frank B. Hurt scholarship cup, a distinction which the fraternity has held for several years. This cup is given to the fraternity which has the highest scholastic average for the past year.

The co-sponsors of the fraternity are Dr. John Makosky and Dr. Reuben Holthaus.
WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

The singing for enjoyment of all types of music is the primary purpose of the Women's Glee Club.

The group was started in 1926 and at the present time is under the directorship of Miss Margaret Wappler. Membership totals forty-five and is open to all those who are interested and willing to contribute their enthusiastic voices.

Throughout the year they were active in presenting a program for the A.A.U.W. of Westminster, singing in a combined effort with the Men's Glee Club of Mount St. Mary's, and offering the Christmas program and the annual secular spring program. Miriam Gaskill served as president of this organization.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The Men's Glee Club is composed of men interested in having fun and enjoying fellowship through singing. It meets on Monday afternoons, and under the direction of Mr. Oliver Spangler sings everything from Barbershop to Bach. The Glee Club often takes trips to religious and civic affairs to lend its ability to the occasion. Joining with the college octette, it sang for a group in Hampstead this Christmas in addition to several other engagements. Membership is open to all, and remember, "If you're too busy to sing, you're too busy."

COLLEGE SYMPHONY

The spirit of symphony music is kept alive by the College Little Symphony Orchestra conducted by Philip S. Royer.

The orchestra composed of thirty players took part in various programs during the year such as the assembly program in Alumni Hall in January conducted entirely by students from the twenty-sixth conducting class. On April 22nd the Twenty-ninth Annual Spring Concert was given and on April 29th they appeared to accompany the concertized opera “Faust” by Gounod performed by the Carroll County Combined Chorus at the thirty-third annual Eisteddfod.

The membership of the symphony is composed of college students, faculty members, and the children of faculty members.

THE COLLEGE PLAYERS

The College Players, under the direction of Miss Esther Smith and Mr. William Tribby, are a group of dramatic art students who enjoy the “smell of the greasepaint and the call of the stage.” The major productions include the Thanksgiving play, the Christmas pageant, the Junior plays and finally, the Commencement play.

This year’s Thanksgiving play was The Chalk Garden, a delightful, but suspenseful comedy with just a tinge of Dr. Freud lurking behind it. The talent and charm of the College Players make their performances a night well spent in Alumni Hall.

It has been said that chapel just wouldn't be chapel without the College Choir. But often we overlook the many other activities which involve the time and effort of the choir members. This year's busy season began with a seven-point tour of churches in the Baltimore-Washington area to open the fund-raising campaign for the new library.

Following this tour there was no rest for the weary as the choir settled down to rehearse for its annual presentation of Broadway music with the Baltimore Symphony. This year's program featured the music of Lerner and Loewe, and offered selections from Brigadoon, Paint Your Wagon, and My Fair Lady. As usual, the show was a smashing success and the choir returned to the Hill with the warm glow of a job well done.
But intensive rehearsal for the Christmas Vesper services soon supplanted the content-ment from the symphony program. Due to the length and nature of the Christmas service, it was necessary to call special rehearsals and “sweat it out” a little. However, the reward for all these efforts was an inspiring and beautiful service.

In addition to the busy schedule, second semester plans called for the cutting and releasing of the choir's first long-playing record. It is hoped that the proceeds from the sales of this record will aid in the purchase of much-needed choir robes.

The Easter season saw the choir in rehearsal for its presentation of The Creation, a religious cantata. The final efforts of the choir were the Baccalaureate service and finally the Commencement exercises.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

To become more affluent in the speaking of the French language and to increase the interest and knowledge of the country are the ideals of the French Club.

One of the outstanding highlights of this year was their inspiring Christmas Program. Under the student direction of Ann Vincent, carols and a narration commemorating L'Enfant du Christ were presented.

Mlle. Margaret Snader is the sponsor and this year's officers included Barbara Bell, president; Carol Luckemeier, vice-president; Ann Weller, secretary and Patricia Piro, treasurer.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The program of the Home Economics Club is directed towards promoting “professional interests” and emphasizing “better living.” Various services throughout the year consisted of supporting the International Scholarship Fund, sponsoring a movie, and selling The Maryland Cookbook. Candy corsages were sold at Christmas also. The annual fashion show was held in the winter.

The group's sponsor is Miss Helen Gray and the officers are: president, Barbara Long; vice president, Phyllis Cassetta; secretary, Louise Styche; treasurer, Beatrice Ackerman.
Formerly the Future Teachers of America, the Student Education Association changed its name at the April, 1959, meeting along with the other state college groups. This was done to differentiate between the high school and the college organizations. The S.E.A. at W.M.C. boast eighty-nine members, making it one of the largest in the state.

The western Maryland chapter has always been very active and particularly well represented on the state and national levels. Previously, a club member has been third vice president in the National Education Association. This year, the club points with pride to Edna Bent, a freshman at W.M.C., who is the first vice president of the Maryland Association of Future Teachers of America and to Mary Catherine McCormick, who is serving M.A.F.T.A. as secretary. The club is also honored to have Joyce Turner, and Patricia Welk as members of committees of M.A.F.T.A.

The S.E.A. often invites guest speakers to the meetings, prominent among who are the returning student teachers. The discussions of the experiences during student teaching are often a highlight of the year.

The sponsor of the S.E.A. is Dr. Joseph Bailer. This year’s president was Thomas Ward, while the other officers included: Patricia Welk, vice president; Harriet Whitmore, secretary; Douglas Smith, treasurer; Richard Hastings and Geneva Morris, co-program chairmen.

CADRE

Military at Western Maryland is found in the nature of the Army Reserve Officer Training Program. As a basic cadet, the student wiles away hours lugging a 9.5 lb. M-1 rifle to drill; controlling his temper as he lifts his spit-shined low quarters out of the Hoffa Field mire; making a bi-monthly reconnaissance of the town barber shops; and spending “begged” hours in the supply room or elsewhere working off the demerit for not having polished his low quarters!

As an advanced cadet, the “gung-ho” non-com emerges as leader of his own squad. Following a six week summer tour of forging the sand dunes of A. P. Hill and rising to 3:00 a.m. reveille at Fort Meade, the cadet is exposed to experiences which he recalls as “hell.”

Returned to the college in the fall with a “farmer’s tan” and a growing appreciation for Officer’s Clubs, the young officer emerges exhibiting both academic and practical knowledge. With June, commissioning arrives and Western Maryland graduates proudly join the circle of “brand spanking-new second lieutenants.”

"Sayonara" was bade the Class of 1959 as the Class of 1960 paid tribute to the seniors. A striking Oriental atmosphere was produced as juniors massed their talents for the occasion. Humbleness and recognition of rank greeted the couples as they entered the foreign flavor of the gym.

Seniors were impressed with a vivid interpretation of the Far East. Students were able to stroll through a garden of rare Oriental culture; while at night the fading sun could be seen over the mountains. Another path led to a frequented spot of ecstasy as couples made their way to the stream. Crossing the bridge which lay over the stream, each co-ed exchanged a garland and a kiss.

The evening was rapidly fading to a close. Seniors filled with memories of their four years on the Hill made an approving glance at the efforts of the juniors before the doorman bowed a gracious "sayonara." Juniors quickly turned their thoughts to "cinderella time" for their date and the task ahead—clean-up. But their efforts would not be forgotten, as it was to be recorded in the annals of Western Maryland.
Months of secret planning plus "top security measures," in order that the theme and format of the Junior Follies would not be revealed, seemed to pay dividends in the "laugh" category as the Class of 1960 presented Mansfield Nite.

Suspense... surprise... unusual antics... and nearly perfected portrayals... all greeted the "sell-out" crowd, who attended the annual "mansfield" awards ceremonies. With Ed Showfield acting as emcee for the program, sponsored by the Universal Corn Company, makers of the "jolly green giant" corn, Mansfield Nite surged on to replace the '59 version The Making of Prudence Grunion.

Alternating between the ivy-covered arena of the Wonderbar Movie Corporation with Nightengale Stoneage, and the sand dunes of Ocean City with the "happy blunderer, Johnny Gonzales," the noteworthy award winners were revealed. "Mansfields" were awarded: Best Director—Todd-A-O-Earp for Around the Ranch in Sixty Sexy Days.

Best Actress—Mary Jane "Rabbit" Marony for her portrayal in Father Was a Soccer Coach.

Best Actor—Yule Censor for his portrayal in the Bald Buccaneer.
Most Cultural Toned Picture—The Intruder, co-directed by Scarlett O'Smith and Rhett Butler Drippy.

Best Picture of the Year—Of course, Mansfield Nite starring the CLASS OF 1960.

Sighs of wonderment pervaded the celebrated crowd when the winners were announced. Such favorites as Life With Johnny, starring Dean Goliath; Francois Snayder and her Breakfast at Eight: Endsville is Just a Little Way Down College Avenue; and Mr. Schnook's We'll Get 'Em From Outer Space were not to make the coveted award circle.

Interspersed with the various scenes were a kind and benevolent "ole" gentleman from the south, who looked in vain for his sweetheart "Ka-ka-ty"; a news commentator who brought the news that "Vicksburg has fallen" and that the "I Hate F.D.R." contest was won by his close associate Eleanor; plus an appearance by "Countdown Harris."

With the fading strands of "We're the Class with the spirit and the leaders," and the bolting of the doors 'til next year, the follies were inked into the log of history for the Class of 1960.

"Katy... Ka-ka-katy!"

"Now class, here is a typical Harvard essay question..."
“Laertes, to thy ownself be true.”

“oh, suppertime, oh, breakfast, ooh lunch, OH BARF!”
"Now there goes a shapely young filly."

"Ah, these French, so rustic, so beautiful, so..."
The choir renders hymn number 191, "Tom Dooley."

"March to the rat-a-tat-tat of the snarling snare drums."
"This is Walter Winshield, your mouth almighty . . ."

"The procedure for selecting the Damn Marvelous Shooters is quite simple. In fact, it is ridiculous."
"And when we say SIXTY, stand up and give a cheer . . ."

"We're the class with the spirit and the leaders, Class of '60 . . ."
All nominees competed for a replica of this coveted "Mansfield," which is maneuvered before the assemblage of notables.

RATS

Well, we've got four years to straighten this out.
Nostalgic wishes for the comforts of their homes, rats and pledges alike, entered into their initiation periods.

The freshman sharing the discomfort of pungent labs, the view of compulsory chapel service, and eye-opening book bills were soon entrenched in the college program.

The swish of the paddle, moo of the cow, and squirm of the worm, brought to the campus an atmosphere of misery coupled with merriment.

With the absence of Old Main, the Campus swarmed to the Winslow Student Center for evening skits and trials. Sororities performed before the student body reliving the days of the Can-can, as well as demonstrating the “beatnik pad” in a special “pledge night” performance.

Seniors reminisced of the “good old days” when they were pledges and concluded how gladly they would exchange places with the “rat” or the “pledge.”

Miss Beverley Cox
Amidst the enthusiasm of a winning sports season, plus the yearn to see old friends return to its alma mater and its warm circle of friendship, Western Maryland welcomed Homecoming, 1959.

The weatherman held to tradition for Homecoming as Western Maryland friends, alumni, and students donned their rain paraphernalia to protect themselves from the ravages of the skies.

Tradition prevailed as the band, cheerleaders, and pom-pom girls led a host of spirited college students down Westminster's Main Street on Friday night. The bursts of energies and spirit were later channeled around the blazing bonfire. Then the students hastened to all corners of the campus and city to make last minute preparation for the “big parade.”

As has been the custom for the past several years, classes, fraternities, sororities, and organizations pooled their talents to present the Homecoming parade. Participants paraded past a crowd estimated at 4,500.

But the weather had little effect on the original and homemade “hot-rod” float of Gamma Beta Chi. Sigma Sigma Tau was not to be out-classed as they tied the Gamma Bets for first prize in the float division with their theme of “laying out the dragon.” Showers from above did not dampen the efforts of Phi Alpha Mu as while the Terror kept us to “one-side” of the road on the way back.

their terror in “tracking down the Drexel dragon” won for them first prize in the display division.

The parade was followed into the Hoffa Field circle where all eyes were to be focused for the next few hours. Western Maryland’s spirited eleven did not fail her public as they crushed the Drexel squad 26 to 6. Half-time activity was centered around a special theme. The band and the pom-pom girls combined to present “A Tribute to Jim Boyer,” the beloved former trainer. The intermission was climaxed with the presentation of a bouquet of chrysanthemums to Mrs. Ensor by the 1959 Queen, Miss Beverley Cox.

With open-house prevailing in fraternity and sorority rooms, and an alumni welcome in McDaniel Lounge, the college continued at the rapid pace of the day. Banquets and spur-of-the-moment decisions to eat “out” left the dining hall ghost-like for the evening meal.

Night came to the Hill and the gym took on a fall atmosphere as Gamma Beta Chi presented the Homecoming Dance. Hues of pastel green and tan, together with music by the Melodeons satisfied an “Autumn Leaves” theme. The throng of guests awaited the crowning of the Queen. Soon the black of night descended and another Homecoming was history.

Not long after the Thanksgiving recess, the campus began to take on the bright hues of Christmas. Activity reigned supreme as the lobbies of the girls' dorms were decorated with evergreens, strands of glistening tinsel, and scenes of the birth of Christ.

Christmas at Western Maryland began with the traditional tree-lighting ceremony. Rain forced the college community into McDaniel Lounge for the lighting and the usual cocoa, cookies, and songs of the season.

The Trumpeter’s made their contribution to the Yuletide festivities as they presented their annual banquet. Entertainment from a Pasternak reading to an improvised version of “White Christmas” by the waiters and waitresses served as a fitting topping to a delicious roast beef dinner.

“A Child From Flanders” was the presentation of the College Players in collaboration with the music department. “Snowman’s Delight” was the presentation of Delta Pi Alpha fraternity on the Friday before vacation. Featuring a snowman as the center piece for the Christmas dance, couples whirled the hours of 1959 at Western Maryland to a deserving close.

Mingled with the college activities was a delightful snowfall which adorned the expansive 100 acre campus. Soon the snow was cleared by snow tractors, co-ed snow battles, and rain!

Rounding out the college calendar for December were the scheduled fraternity party and the bleary-eyed seniors who congregated for cocoa and cookies at 4:00 A.M. prior to their Christmas serenade of faculty homes. Awakened, but still cordial, faculty families acknowledged the “clatter” outside their windows as candle lights and porch lights flashed throughout Westminster.

Morning classes conquered, the college soon closed its doors on Christmas 1959 and another page of history was recorded by the Class of 1960.

Laurel watches, Maitland fumes.

"Why won't my garden grow?"

The Chalk
The Chalk Garden is centered around the household of Mrs. St. Maugham, which is clinging to a desperate hope to re-establish itself in the eyes of London society.

Miss Madrigal, an applicant for governess in the Maugham household, brings to the home an atmosphere of mystery. What is it in her past she is attempting to conceal? What is it about Maitland, the manservant, who nostalgically announces his prison record, that strikes a chord close to the conscience of Miss Madrigal.

The play’s action is further evolved in the characters of the classless manservant, Maitland, who has a “passion for life”; the sixteen-year-old granddaughter, Laurel, who in her loneliness has become a liar and pyromaniac; the unseen character of Mr. Pinkbee, who exerts a dominating influence from his confined bed upstairs; and the once beautiful ex-society woman Mrs. St. Maugham, who refuses to face the fact she is getting old.

Mrs. St. Maugham attempts to escape the reality of her advancing years, as she tries to grow new and fresh things in her chalk garden. Her ignorance of how to make things grow and develop is shown in the lives of her daughter and granddaughter as well as in the chalk garden.
ATHLETICS
Co-Captain Fred Burgee, a twenty-five year old senior from Frederick, Maryland, was an outstanding guard. One of the team’s older members, Fred lettered for four years. During his final year, he was named to the All-Methodist squad, little All-American, All-Mason-Dixon All-Star teams, in addition to receiving the Defensive Lineman of the Year Award.

The 1959 edition of the Western Maryland College football team brought excitement, aggressiveness, and victory back to the college campus. The Green Terror squad, coached by Robert Waldorf, compiled a record of five victories, two ties, and only two defeats during the season. The season was the most successful for W.M.C. in several years.

The season opened with a 14-0 victory over Bridgewater College. Fred Dilkes, the Terror’s top scoring threat through the season, gave a forecast of things to come as he scored both W.M.C. touchdowns. The first game home saw the Green Terrors defeat Penn Military College by a 14-7 margin. Fred Dilkes again scored the two touchdowns for the home team. The following week the college football squad came from behind twice to finally tie Randolph-Macon 12-12. The next contest was probably the most exciting battle of the season. Playing at Hampden-Sydney the Terrors roared from behind in the closing minutes to gain a 20-14 victory. This contest featured the quarterback-ing of Al Dworkin and Bob Cuthrell and the fine running of Fred Dilkes. A massive student reception welcomed the squad on their return.

The W.M.C. team then dropped their first game, losing to tough Juniata College 27-0. The squad rebounded the next weekend to tie Franklin and Marshall 14-14. The Terrors regained their winning ways with a victory over Lycoming College 20 to 12. The strong play of quarterback Charlie Walter, fullback Fred Dilkes, and the entire line featured this encounter. This battle wet the stage for the Green Terror's successful performance on Homecoming. Led by Walter and Dilkes, the team rolled over Drexel Tech by a score of 26 to 6. The Homecoming crowd, larger and in finer spirits than usual, refused to let the rain dampen the sweet joy of victory. The final game of the season witnessed the Terror's defeat in a hard-fought encounter with arch-rival Johns Hopkins. Hopkins avenging their defeat of the previous season, won by a 10-0 score.

Co-Captain Joe Bender was one of the Terror's big tackles hailing from Grantsville, Maryland. This twenty-three year old anchored the line on defense and led much of the blocking on offense. Valuable off the field as well as on, this three-year letter man's advice has a fatherly touch as the father of one son should.

Head Coach Robert Waldorf and his two capable assistants, Richard Pugh and Ronald Jones, this season achieved one of their primary goals upon their arrival three years ago—they produced a winning football team. Much credit for the success of the 1959 Green Terror squad is a direct result of the diligent work and patience displayed by these three gentlemen. To Mr. Waldorf and Mr. Pugh the season was a reward after two trying seasons; while to alumnus Ron Jones, victory on the campus once more was a pleasing experience, especially since football has been a great part of his campus life. The successes this season were triumphs not only for the team but for their coaches.

In charge of the Unsung Heroes' roles for the Terrors are Managers Cat Garcia, Dave Sutton, Don Linzey, and Bob Zindgraf.

The 1959 Western Maryland College football team witnessed the final performance of six Terror seniors. These six include Co-Captains Fred Burgee and Joe Bender, quarterbacks Al Dworkin and Bob Cuthrell, halfback George Becker, and end Jack Fringer.

Co-Captains Fred Burgee and Joe Bender, two of the squad's most important linemen, led the team capably throughout the season. Their loss will be greatly noticed.

The Terrors lose two fine quarterbacks in Al Dworkin and Bob Cuthrell. Al and Bob engaged in the lively battle for the quarterback slot during the season. Their presence guaranteed depth in one of the most important positions on the team. Al Dworkin, a twenty-two year old biology-art major from Baltimore, Maryland, was the biggest and one of the fastest men in the backfield. Bob Cuthrell, a star pole vaulter during the spring, hails from Dover, Delaware. This economics major furnished some of the Terrors most exciting pass plays during the season.

Halfback George Becker was the fastest man on the 1959 Green Terror eleven. George is a twenty-one year old English major from Upper Darby, Pennsylvania. This season George finally displayed the ability that has been predicted for him over the past four seasons. As a result he enjoyed his finest collegiate campaign, culminating in his performance in the Hopkins encounter, for which he received the games' Outstanding Player Award.

Jack Fringer, playing his first season as end after several years as a center, anchored down the Terror line. A native of Westminster, Maryland, this twenty-one year old physical education major was one of the squad's leading pass receivers during the season and proved to be more than adequate on both offense and defense.

To all the seniors on the 1959 Green Terror eleven, the squad and campus extends their appreciation for the contribution they made to the Terror's successful campaign.
The 1959 edition of the Western Maryland College soccer team was one of the finest ever to play on the college campus. Under the leadership of freshman coach Dennis Harmon, the Terrors compiled a nine win, one loss, and one tie record. The team was in contention for Middle Atlantic and Mason-Dixon Conference honors and received national recognition from the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The individual star of the squad was junior center forward and Co-Captain George Varga, probably the finest player in the history of Western Maryland College and one of the top players in the country. George holds all school records for scoring during the season as his final total reached thirty-one. George also holds the total number of goals for one game, scoring ten against Lycoming.

The entire Terror line was outstanding during the season. Its play was led by Varga and aided by Laszlo Zsebedics, Bob Cole, Karl Silex, Sam Corbin, Don Shure, and Bill Chambers. The Terrors emphasized offense during the season, scoring a total of fifty-nine goals during the eleven game schedule. Aiding on offense were the aggressive plays of the Terror halfbacks, Jack Baile, Jim Gibson, Ted Kinter, and Wayne Whitmore. Both Baile and Gibson scored during the season.

The Terror’s defense was one of the strongest in the league. Led by Co-Captain John Karrer, fullbacks Bob Hyde and Norman Davis, and stellar goalie, Lloyd Musselman, the Terrors gave up no more than three goals in any game and achieved four shutouts.

To coach Denny Harmon, his first season proved to be a memorable one. To the many fans of the team, it was a team of which W.M.C. could be proud.

SEASON HIGHLIGHTS

The highlights of the 1959 soccer season included: Terrors defeat of defending national champions Drexel Tech, 3-2 ... Terrors defeat Catholic University for the first time in four years, 8-3 ... George Varga breaks school season scoring record and single game record by scoring ten goals in 13-0 defeat of Lycoming ... Strong Alumni team is defeated 6-0 ... Varga named to first team, All-Mason-Dixon, while Laszlo Zsebedics receives honorable mention ... Varga receives Lineman of Year award and Lloyd Musselman receives Back of the Year award.
Graduation will deal a severe blow to the soccer squad, for seven outstanding players are members of the graduating class. These seven include Co-Captain John Karrer, Lloyd Musselman, Jim Gibson, Karl Silex, Bob Cole, Ted Kinter, and Norman Davis. These seven formed the nucleus of the 1959 squad.

Senior John Karrer has been a starter for four years. His presence at fullback has anchored the defense and made it one of the best. Also outstanding on defense was senior goalie Lloyd Musselman, one of the best at this position in all the conference. Muss was the able director of the Terror defense. Norman Davis, injured during the previous season, returned to add depth to the Terror backfield.

The halfback positions were capably filled by seniors Jim Gibson and Ted Kinter. Both of these halfbacks have played for three years, although Ted had an unfortunate affinity for injuries during his playing career. Jim contributed much on both offense and defense for the Terrors.

Bob Cole and Karl Silex are the two senior linemen graduating. Both Bob and Karl were members of the highest scoring line in Western Maryland College history. Their deft play will be difficult to replace.

Each of these seniors has left a prominent mark on the Terror soccer squad. Their replacements will be hard to find and will leave a large void to fill.
The 1959-1960 Western Maryland College varsity basketball squad was the finest the campus has possessed for many years. Their overall record of eleven wins and only nine defeats marked the squad as the first to possess a winning record in seventeen years. Their seven win and five loss record placed the team in second place in the northern division of the Mason-Dixon conference and qualified them for the Mason-Dixon tournament for the first time in eight years.

The largest single factor for the success of the Terror squad was the presence of three outstanding freshmen, Richie Klitzberg, Tom O'Malley, and Dave Markey. Their scoring punch took the burden off sophomore Dave Martin, leading scorer on the squad. These newcomers proved perfect complements for regulars Dave Sullivan and Bill Bruce, top defensive player on the team and tallest member of the squad, respectively.

Two seniors were members of the Green Terror varsity basketball team. Bill Bruce, center, played for three years and was one of the squad’s leading rebounders. A married man, Bill had his best season this year. Bob Cole was the other senior on the varsity. He played varsity ball for two seasons adding much needed strength to the squad.

Highlights of the 1959-1960 season included two victories over Johns Hopkins University, the second qualifying the Terrors for the Mason-Dixon tournament. The Green Terrors also defeated the conference leaders, Mount Saint Mary’s, 83-82 in the season’s most thrilling contest. Dave Martin led the Terrors with 31 points in this biggest upset of the season. Dave Sullivan’s two foul shots in the closing seconds provided the winning margin.

Individual scoring leader for the squad was Dave Martin with a 16.3 average. Closely behind him was Richie Klitzberg at 14.4, Dave Sullivan at 11.1, and Tom O’Malley at 10.2. Dave Markey lead the rebounders with 155, followed by Bill Bruce with 152, and Dave Sullivan with 147.

There it goes, Tom!!!
The Western Maryland College junior varsity basketball team had a most successful season, completing a record 11 wins and 1 loss schedule. This well balanced junior varsity was composed of all freshmen except for Skip Brown, sophomore, and Tony Wiles, a late junior addition.

It should be noted also that this was the first junior varsity team for Western Maryland in two years. Although the team played a somewhat weak schedule of opposing teams during the season, their significant win over the Loyola junior varsity team offered sufficient proof of their abilities.

The Green Terror jayvee coach, Dick Pugh, has had a decided predominance of marks in the win column since he has been at Western Maryland. With the conclusion of this season he now possesses a record of only four losses in two seasons. With these facts in mind, Western Maryland's basketball future looks even brighter.

The 1959-1960 Western Maryland College wrestling team showed marked improvement over former years. Although the record is not impressive, several matches were close and many new squad members showed promise of a bright future.

The squad’s graduates include wrestler-coach Ken Mohlhenrich who in his three years has proven to be the backbone of the team. This season he had the best individual record on the team, six wins, two losses, and one tie. This year also concludes the career of Lou Price which was capped when he captured the 130 pound class championship in the Mason-Dixon tournament. Also lost to the squad by graduation will be Elvis Ward who wrestled for two years as a valuable member of the team.

The squad featured several other outstanding performers. The most prominent was freshman Ralph Edgar. In addition to compiling a four win, five loss, and one tie season record, Ralph captured the 137 pound class championship in the Mason-Dixon tournament. Sam Case also placed high in this tourney.
The concept of riflery has proven itself over the course of history. The individual soldier has found from years of war experience that his ability to fire and maintain his rifle has not only resulted in saving his life, but has contributed to the defense of his country, America. Civilian agencies maintain marksmanship schools as a prerequisite for training as investigators, detectives, and other civilian positions vital to our daily protection.

Western Maryland attempts to build marksmanship through the organization of the rifle team. Coached by M/Sgt. Crawford Coyner, the rifle team has been able to demonstrate by competition with surrounding colleges and universities the effectiveness of its rifle training. Captained by Ken Nickoles during the first semester, and Larry Cain during the second semester, the team has been able to compile a very respectable record of wins.

To create a program of physical activity in which interested students may participate is the aim of the Women’s Athletic Association.

Each member of the W.A.A.’s board is in charge of one sport. Sportsmanship and fair play are two of the aims of every girl participating.

Highlight of the W.A.A.’s year was the spring party held in Harvey Stone Park. Food, entertainment, awards and the installation of new officers was the program of the evening.

The officers for this year were: Beverley Hill, president; Rebecca Reynolds, vice-president; Joan Wood, secretary; Charlotte Prevost, treasurer. The sponsors are Miss Marie Parker and Miss Roselda Todd.
Early in December, over fifty freshmen girls participated in the try-outs for the intramural basketball teams. After several weeks of practice, under the supervision of Miss Roselda Todd and her committee, those girls who had attended four sessions were placed on teams according to ability. The freshmen chosen to represent the class in competition with upper-class teams were: Virginia Alexander, Camilla Englert, Frances Fuller, and Rebecca Wright, forwards; and Carolyn Conkling, Sara DeRan, Mary Lee Nuttle, and Bonnie Shelton, guards. Sara DeRan was elected captain, and the team began practice for their contests.

The first game on the schedule was with the junior-senior team. A close contest, the final outcome could not be predicted until the fourth quarter when the freshmen widened their lead to fifteen points and were victorious by a score of 28-13.

Fine defensive playing, and clutch shooting provided the margin in the game against the juniors. An enthusiastic group of spectators watched the freshmen maintain a slim lead throughout the contest and defeat the juniors, 38-29.

The final game against the sophomores proved to be the most exciting and nerve-racking of the season. Leading up to the last few minutes, the freshmen appeared to have won until the sophomores with several successive goals, came within one point of the lead. At the whistle, the game was tied and a three minute overtime was scheduled. A one point foul shot by Rebecca Wright proved to be enough to give the freshmen team the game, 46-45 . . . and the intramural championship!

CHEERLEADERS

Led by seniors, Jill Brown and Sue Warren, the cheerleaders showed much pep and vitality. This spirit caught on from the very beginning of school with the addition of sophomore Marian Edwards and freshmen Sherry Muir and Carolyn Webster to the representatives of the Green and Gold.

The excellence of our athletic teams proved the spark that ignited school spirit, and enthusiasm ran high. Among the highlights of the year were the large crowds that greeted both the football and soccer teams on their return to campus after defeating key opponents.

Changing the pep rallies to Gill Gym proved to be extremely successful, and with better acoustics, the gym rang with cheers. Looking back on the squad’s many activities, we can be justifiably proud of Western Maryland’s representation—home and away.
The Pom-Pom girls made their first appearance at W.M.C. in 1956 under the very capable leadership of freshman, Beverly Bosworth. In that year, the seventeen members of the newly formed group in their white blazers and charcoal skirts started a pleasant new tradition at Western Maryland. They marched in several parades, and at football games during halftime, performing original routines to the music the Band provided. Since then, they have grown in size and activities. Now, they are quite well known on campus and are expected to appear at all football games, parades, and pep rallies.

POM POM GIRLS

This year they have grown so in popularity that it was limited to twenty-five members and a few substitutes. Under the leadership of senior Barbara Long, this season, the Pom-Pom girls were once more able to add gaiety, enthusiasm, and color at the pep rallies and football games. Their new uniforms, green plaid kilts and white football sweaters were a change welcomed by the student body. Once again the Pom-Pom girls have made another first. This year, along with the Band, they were able to put on new unique half-time entertainment. Although this group is relatively new, it has already become a strong tradition at W.M.C.

MAJORETTES

This year under the capable leadership of Beverly Schott, the majorettes, Peggy Stakem, junior, and Janice Mooney, freshman, put forth much effort and work to add to the school spirit during the football season.

They performed at the various pep rallies, concluding the season with a special routine when dressed as sailors they twirled to the music of “Anchors Aweigh.”

In addition to the pep rallies, the twirlers were found strutting before the band during the half-time ceremonies. The majorettes also participated in the traditional parade through town on the night preceding Homecoming as well as the annual Homecoming Day parade.

A Maryland Tradition

Maryland’s heritage is one of fine homes, gracious living, and generations of great citizens, many of whom have and are contributing materially to the growth and welfare of the nation.

Since 1890, it has been our proud and happy privilege to be accepted into the finest of Maryland homes. This acceptance has grown with the State and with the generations we have helped nurture into gracious womanhood and stalwart manhood.

Printed and Bound by THE HORN-SHAFER CO. BALTIMORE, Md., U.S.A.
a few of the events which highlighted a rapidly passing second semester. The Junior Plays, three one-act presentations, featured the junior dramatic art students in dramas ranging from comedy to seriousness. The Military Ball staged by the advanced cadets saw Mildred Dickey crowned queen of the event. The Second Army drill team performed in honor of Mil and her court, which was formed by the remaining five ROTC sponsors. The Prom, at which the seniors were the guests of the junior class, offered many additional attractions for those who looked beneath the Easter bunnies which covered the walls of Gill Gym.

Interspersed among all the hustle and rush were a few hours spent studying. Despite the weather which made the Hill's beauty complete, profs persisted with lectures, quizzes, and hour tests. And, of course, Western Maryland's scholastic event honoring the seniors, Graduate Records, caused some misgivings among the class as graduation approached.

Regardless, all found the time and the stamina to participate in spring sports and intramurals either as a player or as a spectator. And even a new "sporting" event captured fans on the Hill when the Student Government Association-sponsored Derby
Day drew several entrants and spectators.
Judy Ellis sponsored Delta Pi Alpha's winning racer and thus reigned as queen of the dance held that weekend.

But for the senior class one of the most significant days was April 18, 1960, the days of Investiture ceremonies for the Class of 1960. Somehow this day encompassed a great deal for everyone on the Hill for it most definitely marked the beginning of the end. And whether it would be a temporary cessation of days spent at W.M.C. or a more permanent one, the beauty of the spring day, the chapel chimes playing, the strains of "A Mighty Fortress," and the senior class gathered for the first time in caps and gowns cause everyone on the Hill to pause and do some serious thinking. And Dr. Olive Russell's address made audible many of the thoughts of those present.

A rainless May 7, provided the May queen and her court with a perfect setting in which to celebrate the festival of May Day. And hardly was this weekend over before the senior girls marched, lantern in hand, to Hoffa Field where the freshmen women paid the feminine half of the class of 1960 their formal farewell. At Rose Cup the junior women presented each senior woman with a red rose and sang the traditional, "Here's to you . . .," but not before showing the "better" side of each senior girl to all assembled in Robinson Garden.

President and Mrs. Ensor entertained the senior class at a formal reception in their home. However, not even formal dress prevented the class members from gathering around the piano and exhuberantly singing their Junior Follies songs.

Exams came and went and before one could give it a second thought Commencement weekend was at hand. The Diary of Anne Frank, the Commencement play, marked the initiation of activities. And Saturday while alumni gathered on campus for reunions, the seniors held their class picnic at Meadowview despite the wetness.

Dr. Ensor’s Baccalaureate address presented the seniors with the challenge to become more than the average person in the world, and in so doing to remember that the happy and successful man is he whose material well-being is complemented by his spiritual well-being.

June 6, dawned bright and sunny. Each senior donned his cap and gown for the final time. Four years had come and gone and each now possessed his own sheepskin. And as the class sang the Alma Mater, together, for the last time, the words never seemed truer.

Tennessee William’s Portrait of a Madonna, added a serious note to the Junior Plays.

The exceptional records Western Maryland teams compiled during the fall and winter seasons continued with spring sports. Campus spirit and support was high for the athletic teams.

Chief among the interests of the fans was Dick Pugh's highly successful baseball team. For the first time in several years Western Maryland fans watched a winning Terror nine on the baseball diamond. And not only was it a winning team in regular season play with a 12-7 record, but it captured the northern division Mason-Dixon title with a 7-2 conference record. The team then journeyed south to play in the post-season Mason-Dixon conference playoffs and returned to the Hill as M-D champs, a first for any Terror baseball squad.

The tennis team, hampered by key injuries, lost several close matches. Consequently, their record of 7 wins and 9 losses was not perhaps the best it might have been. But for Professor Frank D. Hurt who was marking his twenty-fifth year as WMC's tennis coach, it was significant to note that his overall record was an enviable one of 22 winning seasons as opposed to only 3 losing ones.

The track team under Coach Dick Clower's handling also managed to compile a favorable record. Chief among the season's successes were Bob Cuthrell's performances. He set a new Mason-Dixon championship meet record of 12 ft., 9 in. in pole vaulting and then went on to set a new overall conference record of 13 ft., 4 in., later in the season. The Medley Relay team also set a new conference record at the Mason-Dixon championship meet.

On the female side of the campus, the women were also busy with athletic pursuits. Although they had no organized intercollegiate competition in the spring, the women's intramural program was a busy and complete one. The Women's Athletic Association conducted the intramural program.

Badminton attracted several participants and it took a number of close intra-class matches before the individual class champs could be determined. Volleyball was the next sport on the intramural program. Class teams were formed from girls who qualified after attending a specific number of practices. However, none of the class teams could prevent the one, and only, senior team from being proclaimed the overall winner. This, of course was particularly gratifying to those seniors who had actively participated in sports for the entire four years.

Second semester pledges had hardly been formally initiated when they found themselves in the midst of a busy season for sororities on Western Maryland's campus. Most of the major activities of the spring semester were carried out under the supervision of the Intersorority Council. Intersorority Council's second semester officers were: Patricia Welk, president; Joan Wood, vice president; Mary Jo Smith, secretary; and Glenda Luttrell, treasurer. Each officer was president of her own club.

Early in the semester the Intersorority Council-sponsored basketball tournament was held. After several close games, Phi Alpha Mu was able to place the winner's cup on their clubroom shelf. Hardly had the basketball tournament ended when the interest turned to the annual bridge tournament. Each sorority picked a team of four to compete in duplicate bridge against the other clubs. Phi Alpha Mu was the winner.

Attention turned to the freshman women as each sorority held rush teas in McDaniel Lounge to which they invited all women of the class of '63. Immediately after spring vacation the sororities began work on the rush parties which each organization held off campus. Members of the freshman class were invited to these events by invitation of the sorority giving the party.

Barely were these activities over before the clubs held their elections for the coming year's officers. Spring banquets honoring departing seniors quickly followed—just one more signal which reminded the class of '60 that the end of college days was approaching more rapidly than ever.
SECOND SEMESTER FRATERNITIES

On the male side of the campus fraternity members also had an active second semester. And as in the case of the Intersorority Council, the Interfraternity Council organized many of the activities. Those chiefly involved in the I. F. C. work were the officers, Roderick Ryan, president; Robert Cole, vice president; Donald Hester, secretary; and Clark Kirkman, treasurer.

Intramural sports as always created much interest among fraternity members. The basketball tournament in which Alpha Gamma Tau was victorious was a close contest and drew campus-wide sentiment. The volleyball tournament which Delta Pi Alpha won was not so closely contested. Warm weather brought the softball intramurals which Delta Pi Alpha also won.

Under Interfraternity Council supervision, fraternity parties were held on several Saturday nights during the spring semester. The fraternities also combined forces under the I. F. C. to sponsor another successful jazz concert. It was held in Alumni Hall during the weekend of the Junior Prom and featured the music of the Pier Five from Baltimore. This was the second year the I. F. C. sponsored the event.

A new activity among the fraternities was signalled by the organization of a bridge tournament. It was played early in the spring and after several rounds Alpha Gamma Tau triumphed.

The election and installation of new officers again marked the end of a busy and successful year for the fraternity members — and for the seniors, the formal end of years of brotherhood in their individual fraternities.
The long path of lanterns and the strains of "Til we meet again" made the onrushing date of June 6, an even greater reality to each senior woman.

While senior ROTC members witnessed their last Western Maryland dress parade and received their final awards as cadets . . .

. . . Diane Bell and Lorena Stone, officers of the junior class, presented each senior with a rose during the Rose Cup ceremony.

The same evening the senior Trumpeters tapped . . . . . and four junior women answered the sound of the trumpet.
