

The image features a minimalist, abstract design on a textured, light beige background. A thick black vertical line runs down the left side, and a thick black horizontal line runs across the middle. On the left side, there are several dark brown geometric shapes: a small square, a tall vertical rectangle, and another small square below it. On the right side, the word "ALOHA" is written in a bold, black, sans-serif font. Below the horizontal line, there are two more dark brown rectangular shapes, one small and one larger, positioned towards the bottom left.

No man is an Island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main; if a clod be washed away by the sea, Europe is the less as well as if a promontory were, as well as if a manor of thy friends or thine own were. Any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind. And therefore, never send to know for whom the bell tolls. It tolls for thee.

THE STORY OF A

LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGE.

Each September brings renewed expectations and ambitions, and a supply of days stretches before us waiting to be filled. The ALOHA, too, in September, is only blank pages and new ideas for ways to tell the familiar story of life on the Hill. As the year unfolds the days and pages overflow with activity.

Each May the ALOHA presents a record of another year at Western Maryland. But this May we must look beneath and beyond the scenes of daily campus living to rediscover the basic goals of our education. The 1962 ALOHA brings the story of a liberal arts college where, ideally, men strive to relate truth to all of life, to form ideas into a plan for service, to discover man's need for man, and his relation to his world. This institution and this book rest firmly on the belief that no man can stand alone.

DEDICATION

We, the class of 1962, dedicate this ALOHA to you, our professor whom we have known and respected since our freshman year. From our very first acquaintance you have amazed your students by your clear thinking and supply of knowledge, and through example have inspired us to accept the challenge of learning.

Your quiet manner and your fine sense of humor in and out of the classroom have often strengthened our self-confidence and eased our tension, yet helped us realize our responsibilities as college students. We know that you are one of those rare people who somehow manage to accomplish a great deal without hurry or pressure.

As a professor you have aided many of us in our discovery and appreciation of the wonders of the natural world and have turned dreaded courses into pleasantly enlightening experiences. Your interest in education and its role in your major field are evidenced by your directing of the Summer Science Institute and your heading of the national organization of Beta Beta Beta. We recognize your contribution to us and to our college and we appreciate the time you so willingly give for personal advising and in making the individual student your prime consideration.

Your constant congeniality has won countless friends in the student body as well as among your fellow faculty members.

We are proud to know you because you are a man who shares his best in every aspect of his life: as a devoted husband and father, as a trustee of the church, as an active member of your service club, and as the head of your department here on our campus.

We realize that you have given much more than can be expressed. But we of the senior class would like to pay our final and our highest tribute to you, our softspoken professor whose intelligence we admire and whose judgment we trust. The 1962 ALOHA is dedicated to a fine southern gentleman — to you, Dr. Harwell Presley Sturdivant.

Dr. and Mrs. Lowell S. Ensor

Greetings to the Class of 1962:

It is not necessary for me to remind you of the kind of world into which you will be graduating. By the very fact of your graduation you should be familiar with it and be aware of its opportunities and dangers, its problems and possibilities, its needs and its promises. As one, however, who for the last four years has had as his major concern your preparation for this world, I may be privileged in this final greeting to assure you of my continuing concern about how well you will use this collegiate preparation in meeting the world and its complexities. It needs desperately the leadership of college-trained people who are imbued with a sense of high moral and spiritual values. You have much to give and your Alma Mater is counting on you to give without restraint.

May God bless you all.

Lowell S. Ensor,
President

No man is an Island,

Man has always been fascinated by the powers of his own mind. He has discovered that ACADEMIC endeavors lead to vocational proficiency and the ability to give of his best in serving mankind.

Beginning a New Year

With the service of Convocation, the academic school year begins. There is a feeling of anticipation and excitement on the part of both students and faculty as professors walk down the aisle and take their places. With the message from the President, and with the reading of the student honors from the preceding semester, the school year is officially opened. As the strains of the Alma Mater fill Alumni Hall, each student and faculty member leaves to take up the work of another college year.

But before they go, let us take a look at the stage where the brilliantly colored hoods of the various degrees are mingled together to make an impressive picture. Here there is no separation between departments; here there is no feeling of class isolation. Instead, the student sees an integrated group making up what he can proudly call his college faculty.

Conversely, as the professor looks down on the student body, he does not see economics majors separated from English majors. History students mingle with those pursuing mathematics. The faculty views a group of human beings ready to work in their respective fields, but always side-by-side with their fellow students.

It has been said that the college community is a small-scale world. Thus, this picture on Convocation Day can teach us that if men are to exist in our contemporary world they must learn to live, work and play together. No longer can they draw apart and refuse to cross the lines of the areas in which they find themselves. Instead, they must join forces to work for the betterment of mankind if there is to be a life for tomorrow. So, as the students and faculty leave after Convocation to start the new college year, they leave together, each strong in his individual field, but dependent on all the others to make this pursuit of knowledge a success. Once again the words of John Donne remind us that, "No man is an Island . . ."

No man can stand alone . . .

Religious belief is an essential part of man's desire to improve himself and to help others. Through daily experience man strives to adhere to the ideals of his RELIGION and bring them into reality.

Traditions Emphasize Religion

The by-word at Western Maryland is "tradition" and some of our most unique traditions center in and around the religious life of the campus. It seems only fitting that a church-affiliated college should offer so many opportunities for spiritual growth. We rarely pause to consider the tone of our campus, but when we do, we can clearly see how customs through the years have raised it to unusual heights.

Here all faiths worship together weekly in Chapel and find common beliefs that bind them in fellowship. The strong voices of the processing choir, the stillness during the evening prayer and the bustle after benediction make Sunday evening services memorable for Catholic, Protestant or Jew.

In mid-week denominational meetings we may find that extra bit of spiritual uplift to carry us through our busy days. The churches of Westminster anxiously provide still more opportunities for participation in all of the major religions, in hopes of maintaining contact with the student even though he is no longer able to attend his home church.

Grace at our meals, devotions in the dorms, meditation in the little chapel; all are a part of the religious life of our college.

Courses in philosophy and Biblical literature encourage us to think and to question and finally, to strengthen our convictions.

The new chapel stands in the midst of our campus and seems to look out upon our daily experiences. We are aware that religion has a major role in life at Western Maryland and that spiritual development must be part of any successful four-year program here on the Hill.

Leaders Confer on Campus Communications

Educational authority speaks at conference.

Approximately fifty students packed their bags and returned early to the Hill for the Fourth Annual Leadership Conference. At this conference, appropriately named the Vital Link, leaders of many campus activities met together to discuss campus functions and set up goals for the coming year. Each represented a particular aspect of campus life, but for three days they reviewed the total picture and coordinated activities for better social cooperation. They sought to improve the communications between students and with the administration, communications that keep us socially aware.

At Western Maryland, we are able to better relationships because of the friendly, personal atmosphere of a small-college community. Here on our campus, individual needs are recognized. Through varied activities, from the seriousness of Student Government to the frivolity of dorm antics, each person may find a way to express his particular interest. Personal acquaintances with almost all his fellow students and faculty enable him to be a member of many groups and still maintain his individuality.

Social awareness strengthens the Vital Link of communications that is so much a part of the unique tone of Western Maryland College.

Students portray leadership qualities

Authority Confirms Campus Opinion

The SGA believes that the student is central in campus life. Therefore, by involving him in various committees and activities to improve cooperation and communication, they have tried to make him aware of his importance and responsibilities.

This year the SGA sponsored the fall leadership conference, the Vital Link. During Orientation Week, upperclassmen welcomed new students and introduced them to campus clubs and activities. Familiar green blotters, provided by the SGA, featured calendar events and acquainted students with various businesses and merchants of Westminster. One innovation of the year was the planning of Homecoming and May Day weekends by the entire cabinet instead of the Women's Council.

The completion of the Honor System, by adding faculty recommendations and other rectifications, was another major accomplishment of the Student Government. Members also planned a revision of the constitution and complete structural reorganization. Early in the year, speakers came to the campus to acquaint students with the National Student Association.

The group discusses current issues of campus life and welcomes student opinions and suggestions.

... Uphold Academic Ideals

Last year the students of Western Maryland voted to accept an honor system. The Student Government Association was quick to respond and began work immediately by appointing five people as committee chairmen to investigate various aspects of the proposed system. Dagmar Joeres, Juanita Heil, Martha Olsen, Bill Sitter, and King Smith met with their groups throughout one semester. The committees discussed and revised sections which included infractions, investigations, corrective action, and the setting up of the honor court. They also talked to people in colleges about other systems and attended regional meetings.

When the committees felt that they had done a thorough job, they presented a working system to the student body in an assembly program. The chairmen discussed their particular sections and answered questions raised by the students. This system was then accepted, although a few changes were suggested. The SGA made the minor revisions and with Dean David as spokesman presented the system to the faculty. The faculty suggested more changes and the system was again presented to the student body. Final changes were made and the honor system was accepted.

When the honor court was set up the old Judicial Board was dissolved. People interested in serving on the court submitted their names to the SGA cabinet. The cabinet, in turn, selected from the applications six seniors, six juniors, and four sophomores to fill the positions of the court. Dean Howery and Dean David are advisors along with faculty members Dr. Summers and Mr. Spangler. However, only the students on the court have a vote. The court tries all academic honor infractions. They elect their own chairman and recorder and in the future will select the new members.

The students of Western Maryland may be proud of this step forward and will surely strive to place the honor system beside the high ideals of the college in the "hallowed halls of tradition".

According to Goren . . .

Homecoming activities brought the Deltas a first-prize win for their display, "Oops-sala." It was good to have twenty-five new pledges to share the work and fun. Settling down to more serious projects, the Deltas attended services at a synagogue, carrying out their program of "Go-to-Church Sundays."

Following the annual Christmas party and exchange of unusual presents with their brothers, the Bachelors, the sorority members separated for well-earned vacations.

Then, back on the Hill, the Deltas planned a February Birthday Banquet, which marked their thirty-eighth year of sisterhood. Later in the spring, the group was busy with their alumnae tea to welcome many former Deltas and to further the activity of the alumnae association organized last year.

Is it dorm broken?

Sisters of the Sabre

With two new pirates, the Iotes began a year of fun and fellowship as they sponsored a birthday party early in the semester to honor their sponsor, Dr. Arleen Heggemeier. The group also enjoyed visiting Miss Margaret Snader, a former sorority member and sponsor for many years.

Continuing the tradition of working together, they once again sold Avon products as a fundraising project. At Thanksgiving, the sorority gave a basket to a needy family, and at Christmas contributed toys and clothing as well as food. Another project was the Red and Black booth at the WUS Bazaar.

The annual Skating Party at Sportsman's Hall was held to acquaint the freshmen girls with Iota Gamma Chi and everyone had a good time despite the tumbles.

New calves moored and bowed under the watchful eyes of their proud sisters and another year was underway. Soon Hell Week ended and Homecoming was upon us, bringing the traditionally hurried preparation of floats and displays. Once again the Phi Alphas were among the prize winners.

At Christmas they filled food baskets for a needy family, made scrapbooks for the children of Happy Hills, and along with their brothers of Gamma Beta Chi, presented the annual Springfield program.

During second semester they eagerly planned for their Rush Party—and when the date finally arrived, they displayed their talents around a storyland theme.

In the spring they presented their annual banquet and yearbook as a tribute to the seniors—their friends and sisters who had been so much a part of the Purple and White.

"I-am-a-

Twenty-five pledges wore skunk signs on their backs this fall as the Sigmas began another active year. This was a time for brightening the clubroom, as they hung red curtains and the new members gave them dark red rugs to match. As usual, calendars were sold and the profits went to CARE. The group also spread cheer at Thanksgiving and Christmas by providing food and presents for a needy family. The "Sigma Sound-Off," a news letter about pledges, was sent out and Sigma sisters made plans to revive the sorority yearbook, "The Silver Lining."

Picnics with their brothers of Pi Alpha Alpha and the regular winter and spring banquets were sparked with the usual Sigma spirit and fellowship.

The highlight of the year was the honor of winning the ISC Scholastic Cup.

Beginning another year of brotherhood, the Bachelors planned the annual Homecoming Banquet, which proved to be one of their most enjoyable activities. One success led to another as Alpha Gamma Tau held the first open fraternity party of the year.

The Bachelor-sponsored Christmas dance, "Skating Party," turned Blanche Ward Gym into a wonderland of ice, while outside, the snow created an appropriate atmosphere. Many will remember the big bonfire in the middle of the gym floor. Christmas festivities ended as the Bachelors exchanged interesting presents with their sisters, the Deltas.

Midway through the year, when the pledges received their jackets, other members favored the new style and ordered ones to match.

It's a Bachelor's life!

He got me that time!

Once again the men of Delta Pi Alpha took honors in intramural sports by winning the football crown. At school games, Preachers tended the refreshment stands and peddled hotdogs and cokes in the bleachers.

Besides sixteen more members, the fraternity acquired a new sign and new-style jackets this year.

By combining the originality and hard work of the brothers, the Preachers sponsored a successful Sweetheart Dance as well as several parties.

The group proudly selected Diane Kanak as the '61 Sweetheart and joined to honor her with a serenade.

Spring found the Preachers busy with the election of officers and their usual participation in sports, as the members of the Purple and Gold completed another year.

You can't win every time.

This year eighteen new members colorfully stalked their way through Hell Week, which was climaxed by a simple, but meaningful service — formal initiation. The Gamma Betes worked together on their major project—financing the education of So Hock Seng in Indonesia, the brother of a past member of the fraternity. At Thanksgiving they provided a basket of food for a needy family and at Christmas the group and its sister sorority journeyed to Springfield to bring a little Christmas cheer.

As second semester began, much hard work and preparation were in evidence toward the planning of the May Day dance, "South Pacific."

Hell Week, parties, welfare projects and the working together of all the members toward the goals of the fraternity strengthened the essential common bond of brotherhood.

The third annual evening of Barber Shop harmony highlighted the fall activities of the Black and Whites, but the Homecoming Dance also called for cooperative effort. Thirteen pledges joined with them in presenting a successful "Indian Summer Serenade."

November was a busy month, as Pi Alpha Alpha planned its annual fall banquet, as well as a campfire with its Sigma sisters at Dr. Holt-haus' farm.

The Christmas party with the Sigmas and an open fraternity party were two more first-semester activities for the Black and Whites.

Spring functions including the picnic with the Sigmas and the May Day banquet brought another year to a close, as the brothers anxiously looked forward to summer vacation and their return to the campus in September.

The 1961 squad gained a 7-2 record and brought the first unshared Mason-Dixon championship to Western Maryland in many years.

During the season, the Terrors scored 171 points compared to a total of 88 given up. Skippy Brown averaged a sparkling 7.2 yards per carry, the highest of any back during Coach Waldorf's tenure. Junior quarterback Roy Terry was the leading ground-gainer with 320 yards. Don Hobart paced the scoring parade with 30 points.

In the grid opener, the Waldorfmen shelacked host Bridgewater, 38-0, led by the bull-like rushes of Charlie Walter and a potent passing attack. By losing to Penn Military the following week, 18-8, the Terrors saw their record evened.

The squad rebounded smartly by running over Randolph-Macon, 28-6, before a large Parents' Day crowd. The Terror defensive backs picked off six Yellow Jacket passes to insure the victory. A dazzling 20-yard run by Don Hobart late in the fourth quarter enabled Western Maryland to edge Hampden-Sydney, 8-0 and to clinch the Mason-Dixon diadem. The gridders suffered their second and last loss as powerful Susquehanna methodically posted a 34-8 win.

On the post-season scene, tackle Jim Pusey (Honorable Mention Little All-America) was voted the Most Valuable Player and John McKenna received the Defensive Lineman award.

Roundballers Finish Fast

Dropping their first four encounters, Denny Harmon's young soccer aggregation started the season on a pessimistic note. As the season progressed, the practice and experience began to pay off, and the Terrors rampaged to win five of their last six clashes.

By caging the rival Blue Jays of Johns Hopkins, 2-0, the squad registered its first victory. Downing Loyola soon afterwards 5-1, the Terrors kept the ball rolling. The offense, led by Chuck Grey's pair of goals, was backed up by superb defensive play.

Two tallies in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter enabled host Washington College to nip the Harmonmen, 2-1. Following an easy win over Gallaudet, the Green Terrors topped powerful Catholic University, 6-5, in overtime, in what was perhaps the season's highlight.

The Harmonmen posted a surprising 5-5 log in an essentially rebuilding year.

Hoopsters Vie for Title

Richard A. Clower, A. B., M. S. (Assistant Professor of Physical Education), David Martin (captain).

Sparked by the frequent pyrotechnic scoring of Tom O'Malley, Dave Martin, and Richie Klitzberg, the Western Maryland five rolled to a successful overall log of 13-8 in the winter hoop campaign.

Under Coach Richard Clower's guidance, the Terrors raced into second place in the Southern Division of the Middle Atlantic Conference and gained a berth in the league's finals. The "Big O" seared the net for 65 points in the two game tourney, but the Cagers fell victim to Albright and Pennsylvania Military College. Western Maryland finished fourth in the MAC as a result and had Hill fans looking optimistically to next year.

Jump-shooting Dave Martin, who hit at a 13.1 game pace, will be the only starter not to return. The feather-fingered shots of Martin will be missed, but the late season scoring surge of O'Malley hints that the void will not be too troublesome to Clower. The "O" romped for a 19.6 average followed by Klitzberg's 15.6 contribution per game. O'Malley also headed the Terrors in rebounding as he plucked 120 off the backboards.

Grapplers Boast Young Squad

Under the superb guidance of their new head mentor, Dale Bonsall, the Green Terror wrestling team enjoyed its best season in many years.

Stiff practice sessions, coupled with a spirit unrivaled in the past, made the grapplers a highly-respected force in the Mason-Dixon loop, as seen in their potent performances during the end-of-season tournament.

The outstanding features of the squad were its youth and aggressiveness. With several top-notch freshmen helping to make up for the absence of any seniors on the roster, the Terrors appear set for the next few mat campaigns.

Outstanding throughout the winter combats were such individuals as skillful Mike O'Connor (191 pounds), freshman Ron Garvin (130 pounds)—probably the best prospect to come to the Hill in the last three decades, sophomores Al Rose (157 pounds) and Mike Eagan (137 pounds), and freshman Gil Smink (177 pounds).

By mid-January, the Bonsallmen had compiled a 4-2 log, with wins over such powerhouses as Gallaudet and Catholic University. Serving ably as assistant coach was former star Sam Case, held out of action because of injuries.

Freshman Gil Smink applies pressure to take the advantage.

Sharpshooters Aim for Title

As in former years, Western Maryland College watched its rifle team complete another victory-laden fall-winter-spring season. Winning seems to have become a welcome tradition for the Terror sharpshooters, who once again put an excellent record into the scoring annals.

The firing range in the basement of Gill Gymnasium was the scene of many fine performances. Under genial Major Cooper's expert guidance, the Terror guns repeatedly shot their way to wins over such opponents as Dickinson and the University of Tennessee.

Captain Steve Hatton, a senior, usually set the winning pace, but was ably backed with strong support from such targeteers as Skip Brown, Ron Cronise, Mat Creamer, Hans Himmler and Art Alperstein.

At ALOHA presstime, the squad was in an excellent position to cop another News-Post Trophy, awarded annually by the Baltimore newspaper to the leader of the big four state schools — Loyola, Johns Hopkins, Maryland State and Western Maryland College.

Hockey Team Drives for Successful Season

Paced by Sue Beeler, high-scoring senior left-inner, the Terrorette varsity field hockey team blazed to an undefeated 2-0 record in the fall.

Despite the lack of practice sessions, the female sticksters racked up an impressive 3-0 victory over host Saint Joseph College in the season opener. Scoring were Beeler, two goals, and freshman Mary Ellen Coleman, one tally.

The team held on grimly in the late stages of the Notre Dame game to post a narrow 3-2 win. With Beeler once again scoring twice, coupled with a goal by Becky Hidey, the Terrorettes rolled to a 3-1 first-half lead and staved off their hosts for the remainder of the contest.

Outstanding seniors included Connie Barnes, Jan Pricer, Kitty Reese and Mary Sue Trotman.

Seniors Reflect on Prosperous Four Years . . .

We entered Western Maryland in 1958 as hundreds of freshmen before us with beanies on our heads and confused looks on our faces. Each of us brought ideas and hopes of ideal college living.

We struggled through our "Rat Year" and saw the last of the Rec Hall and Old Main. We mixed at mixers, decorated Carpe Diem, suffered through study hours, and did all the other things typical of "green" freshmen.

Our sophomore year made us aware of our name "wise fools" as we put everything aside to obey our upperclass masters. Although divided by colors and jackets we remained a united class, and found time to plan and enjoy a sophomore hayride. Straw-scattered parking lots reminded us for weeks of the fun we had together.

When we reached the status of juniors we began to realize how many of us had already gone our separate ways. Some of us had left for various reasons, but those who remained continued to grow and change almost unaware of the value of what we were learning.

This year was quite a busy one for us with the Junior-Senior Prom and, of course, the traditional Follies. We worked hard together and we worked together well, and on May 5 we felt that "... Our memory on the Hill would never fade." Again we showed our originality and determination as we brought the Four Freshmen to Westminster! The profits were few but we were glad to have introduced another "first". The year closed with elections and sighs of disbelief that at long last we were seniors.

"Are you sure all of this belongs to one girl?" Senior advisors are awed by freshmen "necessities."

. . . and Prospects for the Future.

It was hard to realize as we returned to the Hill for the last time that we were the oldest class. It seemed such a short time since we had worn those "Hello, my name is . . ." tags and here we were ready to don our caps and gowns. Our senior year, most of us agreed, went faster, if possible, than the other three. We had hardly had time to paddle the pledges or send rats to court when it was time to say, "Aloha".

As we consider our four years at Western Maryland, we find that our ideas have changed. Some of our hopes have materialized and some have been replaced by more mature goals. We are uncertain about many things—where we are going or what we will do—but as we look back we are sure of one thing. We have changed because of our four years on this campus and we will be able to face our future knowing we have benefited from a liberal arts education.

Class Projects

Highlight Junior Year

Four Freshmen: Good entertainment rewarded our efforts as the class brought one of the first big name groups to the campus.

Amid Follies preparations, active juniors found time to honor the seniors with the traditional Junior-Senior Prom.

Class presidents, Charles Mitchell and Downey Price, and their dates, view the finished product and enjoyed the "Magic Touch of Moonlight."

If you want a show, you just have to forget your books.

So we studied when we could.

Junior Follies

And our appearances were greatly improved?

Our Argo-astronaut prepared for his space flight as Dee Organizer checked the last minute details.

Three Castros even came from Cuba to Lespinster to bring fuel for our hero's trip.

Everyone gathered to praise and encourage and to listen to the town poet's special composition for the historic occasion.

As town folk searched for Dee and the runaway rocket, Miss Symtoms developed space disease.

The kitchen help prepared a "sanitary" meal for some of the passengers.

Mr. Spice goofed and the rocket went up!

A crash landing bewildered the searchers and mamma of the argo-astronaut wailed, "Where, oh where are we?"

By chance Dee was found in this strange land of the sphinx, anticipating the arrival of the Phairyo.

"Come to me, Babeeeee." Phairyo was the "Prince Charming" of Back to Mummy land.

An Egyptian rhythm band had to be perfect to satisfy the Organizer.

Grand Finale: "... It's plain to see who leads the Hill, the class of '62!"

THE JUNIOR CLASS

Older and wiser, we returned to the Hill anxious to claim our newly acquired place as juniors. Before long we realized that a lot of hard work went along with this new position as well as a necessity for co-operation.

For our first class project we played host to eight hundred of our parents on Parents' Day and worked together to make the day enjoyable. Christmas came and once again our traditional class Christmas card helped to brighten the campus and extended our sincere best wishes to all who saw it.

Spring brought with it an added sense of responsibility as we realized that our stay here on the Hill was becoming shorter. There was plenty to keep us busy. We joined together in producing the Follies and then paid our final honors to the departing seniors. Next year we will be filling their places and beginning a new year, but we will look back on our junior year with fond memories of times shared and discover that it has truly brought us closer as the class of '63.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

Fall found us eager to initiate the freshmen and to assume the roles of sophomores. It was a good feeling to be upperclassmen and to be on the other side of the desk at Rat Court. The reign of the Rat Rules was shortened but we concentrated our efforts on getting to know the new comers to our campus. Being Big Sisters and Brothers helped us to become better acquainted with them also, and we found many new friends among the freshmen.

We began our second year on the Hill with another successful hayride. Under the direction of our new officers, we reviewed our plans for a fireside which was to become an annual affair for our class.

Sorority and fraternity pledging soon humbled us again and brought about the first division of our class. New opportunities and responsibilities made us aware of our position in the campus community. But regardless of our new loyalties we pride ourselves on maintaining the strong unity that characterized our freshman year.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

It seems like a long time since we experienced those dreadful placement tests, attended our first mixers, and received our formal reception as the freshman class on campus.

Rat Week soon robbed us of our high school senior superiority as we donned our beanies and began to memorize the three pages of Rat Rules.

Untraditionally, Homecoming arrived with beautiful weather and the day's activities were topped by another surprise. The freshman class took the honors in the float competition! Before Thanksgiving we elected officers and began to become organized as a class. Plans for the year included several informal week-end dances. Our Christmas decorations added holiday cheer to the Winslow Student Center, the dorms, and Carpe Diem.

As freshmen we have made our mark academically and socially—even the upper-classmen are doing the twist!

We Won't Forget . . .

"We're high on the hill here at WMC;
The Class of '62 is really proud as can be.
We're high on the hill here at WMC;
We've had some fun, and now we plan to get our degree.
We've done some things we'll ne'er forget—
In times to come we'll think about the folks we met.
We've worked so hard to make the grade,
We know our memory on the hill will never fade.
It's plain to see who leads the hill—
The Class of '62!"

Seniors See Opening of New Library

May, 1962, brought the completion of a new library on the Hill.

After carrying six thousand volumes to the new shelves, students flocked to the library to inspect it and to study for exams.

WMC students quickly adjusted to the building and enjoyed working in pleasant new surroundings.

Campus Party Honors Mrs. J

Kathy Lore, McDaniel Dorm president, 1962, pins a corsage on Mrs. Jefferson to begin the party.

Kathy and Marian Evans, dorm president for 1963, show Mrs. J the giant-sized scrapbook that the girls made to remind her in pictures and in verse of significant happenings during her twenty years as housemother of McDaniel Dorm.

Mrs. J's party was sparked by skits that revealed the highlights and hazards of dorm life. Here Barbara McCatharn plays Dean Howery, Nancy Kelly plays Mrs. J and Patricia Webb plays Miss Esther Smith as they enjoy a typical evening of desk duty and TV.

Mrs. J was obviously pleased with the lovely sewing machine that the college faculty and staff gave to honor her in her retirement.

Judy Firestone is crowned queen of the Military Ball by Major Anderson as the ROTC sponsors (Lucy Tucker, Helen Buehm, Judy Reinhart, Joann Carscaden, Sandy Reed) and the company commanders (Hunter Kirkman, Don Hobart, Robert Wolf, Joe McDade, Fred Nichol, Art Alperstein) look on.

The traditional Rose Cup ceremony honors the senior girls and bids them a fond farewell.

The '62 Trumpeters invested four juniors with the black caps and gowns that signify the honor bestowed upon them. Left to right: M. Dickey, C. Webster, J. Cole, P. Ord, J. Heil, D. Joeres, M. Sitter, B. Earhart, M. Edwards.

Junior Plays

The three Mary's (B. Adams, C. Bitter, N. Thomas) console their queen (S. Hogan) in the "Tragic Christening."

The cast of "The Ballad of Youth" poses for a portrait.
Seated: B. Terry, S. Bailey. Standing: N. Sheeley, M. Brendernmyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith (L. Hackett and H. Rumberger) entertain their English friends, Mr. and Mrs. Martin (P. Webb and J. Grabowski), the maid (D. Joeres) and the fireman (D. Drobis) in a scene from "The Bald Soprano."

Dr. Lowell Ensor crowns Helen Buehm Queen of May for 1962.

May Day Features 'South Seas' and Sunshine

Junior limbo dancers bend their backs and entertain the Queen and her court and a hillside of spectators.

Traditionally, the senior float carries the May Queen, the senior duchess and attendants in the May Day parade.

Spring rush parties provide unusual get-togethers for freshman girls and sorority members.

Traditionally, the seniors were honored at the annual sorority banquets. Here the senior Sigmas enjoy the cuisine and the atmosphere of Peter Pan.

The senior party brought the class of '62 together informally for the last time. It was a good time to sign yearbooks, to exchange summer addresses, to talk about job plans, and to relax before graduation.

Isabel (Marian Edwards) reveals her dream for humanity to the Ghost (J. Grabowski) in a scene from this year's commencement play, The Enchanted by Jean Giradoux.

Excitement increased as we prepared to enter Alumni Hall for the last time as students.

Bishop John Wesley Lord brought an inspiring message to the graduating class.

A diploma and a handshake from Dr. Ensor officially ended four successful years.

Congratulations were in order for the new Western Maryland alumni.
