A world community can exist only with world communication, which means something more than extensive short-wave facilities scattered about the globe. It means common tradition, common ideas, and common ideals. . . . The task is overwhelming and the chance of success is slight. We must take the chance or die.

Robert Hutchins

Books are the legacies that a great genius leaves to mankind, which are delivered down from generation to generation, as presents to the posterity of those who are yet unborn.

Joseph Addison

Speech is civilization itself. The word, even the most contradictory word, preserves contact—it is silence which isolates.

Thomas Mann

There are two things to aim at in life; first, to get what you want; and, after that, to enjoy it. Only the wisest of mankind achieve the second.

Logan Smith

The happiness of life is made up of minute fractions—the little soon forgotten charities of a kiss or smile, a kind look, a heartfelt compliment, and the countless infinitesimals of pleasure and genial feeling.

Samuel Taylor Coleridge

*I've taken my fun where I've

Meet me in
The library
S.P.

*Within my earthly temple there's a crowd.
There's one of us that's humble; one that's proud.
There's one that's broken-hearted for
his sins,
And one who unrepentant, sits and grins.
There's one who loves his neighbor
as himself,
And one who cares for naught but fame and self.
From much corroding care would I be free
If once I could determine which is Me.*

Edward Sandford Martin

*I think when I read of the poet's desire
That a house by the side of the road
would be good;
But service is found in its tenderest
form
When we walk with the crowd in the road.*

Walter J. Gresham

We've asked I'm sure—straight out or implied—"is it this man, or that meter", we follow, apply. We, cutting corners to knowledge, at least the sub-conscious aim, and he says he's not certain, but, "I'll see if I can find out". He provides us with pages all blank but for titles. If we're smart, we'll know it's our turn to work. It's our choice and he purifies the freedom to do the choosing.

This freedom is woven with patterns of insight, that we might rest on before we engage, once more, the complexities stored in-human expression. We know now, where to look for Benny Franklin (he's hangin' on to America's first cycle). But we're still not sure whether Benny knew what it was all about. This is where he can not help you much more, but he's given you the questions, the tools of this kind of work.

And now we know that it's the asking and looking that's important—you've been telling us so in our third ear. And we know you're looking too. And so we don't wonder why you love the "beatnik, bearded saints" in your Ivy League suit. And so we find no reason to keep you in a pigeon-hole.

And we see you drawing pictures for a magazine that comes out of nowhere

And we see you asking us to write a Beat expose on William James

And so we know why we can't understand poetry that's drawn out of our lives

And we find there are thousands of places we should be looking into—all at once

And there's always another book to read when you think you finished the first

And there are things happening fast

And there's an old school stretching out at last

And there's concern and encouragement—to really think again and "think" again! . . .

And we know more because we've learned it—as you held the doors aside

And we don't forget you've hung many a note on changing patterns—your classes prove this time and again

And do we see in your form and content, meaning in the patterns—not pigeon-hole sureties, freedoms chained

Oh, we don't know.

We don't know yet, Mr. Richwine

But we're looking.

The 1966 ALOHA—dedicated to Mr. Keith N. Richwine

FACULTY AND STAFF

PRESIDENT AND MRS. LOWELL S. ENSOR

THE PRESIDENT

Early each morning one can see him walking from the big white colonial house toward Elderdice Hall. He is probably wearing the large brown hat and seems to be deep in thought. President Lowell S. Ensor is on his way to his office, getting organized in his mind all that he must do in the hours to come. For all his contemplation, however, there isn't much that Dr. Ensor does not notice and there are few students that he doesn't know by name.

He has come a long way from the days of his childhood, when he would disrupt his minister father's church by running up the aisles. Now he is a minister in his own right, inspiring students with his chapel sermons and invocation addresses.

President Ensor's day follows only a general routing, for his responsibilities cannot always be confined to specific times. In the quiet solitude of his wood paneled office he interviews all prospective faculty members, dictates letters for alumni, lawyers, businessmen, church leaders and many others. His duties on the Hill are many, but he makes frequent trips to represent Western Maryland College in the Horace Mann Suit, to interpret the role of higher education to prospective benefactors or to give his personal touch to plans for the Expansion Program or the Centennial soon to come.

Instrumental in the merger of the Methodist Church in the 1940's, elected a trustee of Western Maryland in 1944 and President in 1947, Dr. Ensor has still remained an active Methodist leader with frequent speaking engagements, attending meetings of the University Senate of the Methodist Church, and conducting Protestant Mission Program for Air Force Bases in Greenland and the Far East.

Western Maryland has a reputation for being a warm, "family" college and as would be fitting, its President is a warm, family man. Through the window of his office he can see the students as they cross the campus, wishing only that he could find the time to chat with each one of them. But time to spare is not something he is often granted. When leisure hours do come, he may be found attending sports events of all kinds, playing golf, swimming, working in his flower garden, or, with Mrs. Ensor, babysitting with their new granddaughter, Nancy.

Working amicably with students, faculty, and alumni; yet getting the business of a college done effectively are all part of a President's life. The responsibilities are great and the man must be equal to the task. Dr. Lowell S. Ensor is such a man.

JOHN D. MAKOSKY—A.B., A.M., Ed.D.

Dean Makosky—professor, advisor, administrator—rules the campus with an iron glove. Smiling behind a whiff of smoke, he delivers his theory on the Makosky Dynasty and whips forth commandments—“Thou shalt” or “Thou shalt not.” Dr. W.M.C. has become a well known and well liked kicking post in the area of our academic pursuits . . . feared, respected and admired.

DEAN OF FACULTY

DEAN OF CHAPEL

IRA G. ZEPP, JR.—A.B., B.D.

Pulling strings for us in the heavenly spheres, Dean Zepp reminds us of a lovable “Brother Sebastian”. He offers us fresh viewpoints on what we once considered a stale subject and spreads the good news in the grille, his office, or during the Heretics Hour. As official guardian of the Campus Soul, Dean Zepp has his thoughts and blessings on us as students and as human beings and is the personification of that intangible quality, that essence of love that is involvement with people.

DEAN OF WOMEN

HELEN G. HOWERY—B.S., A.M., Ed.D

Dean Robinson was Dean of Men until the death of Dean Howery, when he became the temporary Dean of Students. He is also Assistant Professor of Psychology. He has advanced the Counseling Program for students and has broadened the scope of the Freshman Advisory Council. Under his direction the men's dormitories were grouped into fraternity and non-fraternity sections. Dean Robinson is known for his enthusiastic coaching of the golf team.

TIME PAST:

Memories we will hold . . . Coffee and confusion . . . for one brief shining moment, there was Dr. Cambell . . . the first Greek freshman . . . sophomores plagued by "foot in mouth" disease . . . the women surged forth . . . Junior year—and that opening scene had to be a bar! . . . Hey! keep it clean! . . . the cult of Tribby . . . We tried everything but never got caught.

TIME PRESENT:

Now's the time to depart . . . senior address: Vetville . . . what's an easy two hour course? . . . the reality of a student-faculty relationship . . . honest pursuit of the Fine Arts . . . like Batman and Shindig . . . Women in Power . . . We're not united but we are friends . . . the magic 6/6/66.

TIME FUTURE:

The party's ready to start . . . Some of us join the Peace Corps, the Army and the state of matrimony . . . Jobs will be procured . . . Our step into the outside world and the jolt of our success and, possibly our failure . . . The class of 1966 promises to be there.

... our first WMC homecoming ...

... that first day on campus ...

*The Class of 1966
will always remember ...*

... our Terror victories ... and defeats ...

... cramming to beat that clock ...

... the togetherness before dinner ...

... the trumpet sounding within their souls ...

... WOB ...

... THE MAN—Dean Ira G. Zepp ...

... Baker Memorial Chapel ...

... and the Faculty.

That's the end of the show folks
The party's ready to start
Our class is all together
Now it's time to depart

Curtain time is approaching
Memories we will hold
Hit the lights
Strike the set
For the show's about to fold

That's the end of the show folks
We're getting ready to go
We've had a lot of fun doin' it
Hope we've pulled in some dough

Time to take off the make-up
Time to store all the props
From the ranks
We give thanks
Now its time for us to
Close the curtains, lets
Close the curtains, lets
Close the curtains and GO!

HOMECOMING COURT

KID BLUE

The stage is set; the lights go out; a cigarette is lit; the action begins. The attention of the audience focuses on the center of the stage, into the personage of the main character. The awareness of a hard brutal reality paralyzes all. A voice, strong, firm, defiant, sure, reveals one person; laughter, sarcastic and repetitious indicates another. A conflict has begun to take an indefinite shape, not only for the character but also for the audience embodied in the character, yet separate from him.

But, the conflicts are different. The character faces a struggle within himself. The desire and the need to be somebody fights off the growing realization that he is nobody. His friends, his girl, his teacher, and finally his parents turn him away, till he has nothing but himself and the haunting laughter. Where can he turn for what he needs: to the world, to a band of indifferent strangers? But even the world rejects him. He is no use to them. The laughter—that is where he can turn, where he must turn. It pushes him into himself, deeper and deeper into the very essence of his person until he sees it, until he sees himself as those around him see him.

The audience sees, hears, and feels the motions and the words of the character. Self-consciousness, pity, and a hanging-on to the reality of the situation keep the audience from complete identity with him. A fear that, perhaps he is talking to me, blaming his existence on mine, fills the hearts of each person and along with these fears comes a feeling of compassion, a desire to help. Anyone so lost and beaten deserves all the love one can give him. An intense desire to take him in your arms, love him, guide him, make him somebody, makes it necessary for one to hold onto one's chair. This peak of emotion, carried through the play holds the audience in a trance, with all eyes permanently fixed on the main character's face. The audience cries with him, laughs with him, runs with him. Yet afraid to make a sound, to put itself in the spotlight, it runs from him.

Slowly and subtly the character begins to run also. The laughter, blocking every exit, drives him to his end, to the final judgment. Against him is the hateful, indifferent world, for him is no one, not even himself, for he is only an image. The laughter, recurring throughout the play, is himself laughing at his image, laughing and laughing until the image laughs at itself, even destroys itself.

A boy is kneeling on the ground, clinging to the broken image; the audience is silent, spellbound, incapable of movement. The lights go out, and the silence remains.

THANKSGIVING PLAY

"I am the queen" was the valiant cry of a prostitute searching for the one moment of dignity in her life. Dignity and its game with the human race—throw that game into the setting of an Eastern European revolution and you have a poignant drama about the lives of conflicting segments of humanity.

The Drama—The Queen and the Rebels; the author—Ugo Betti; the company—Western Maryland College Players; the result—a moving success.

Commissar Amos—Gary Crowell—wants the queen. But the queen—JoAnna Hambleton—in her flight for life, has been reduced to a snivelling, grovelling peasant. The queen escapes but a prostitute—Argia is captured. Argia—Kerri Peterson—wants to regain her lost dignity and the people want their queen. It is only natural then, that a prostitute replaces the queen before the firing squad.

The final curtain closes with the sun rising in the background the distant roar of machine gun fire; and a prostitute for queen—a more than adequate queen.

GOLD BUG

From a back-corner office where the typewriters skip every other letter and the floor is knee-deep with old newspapers, issues forth every other week—to the amazement of staff and onlookers alike—the GOLD BUG.

With an overworked and dedicated staff—they have to be, they don't get paid—Linda Spear led a crusade to undermine the solid, conservative name of the campus newspaper. With an increased six-page issue they were able to fulfill their goal of "printing anything that fits." Editorials, letters, and columns used the shock method to obtain readers. Often based on emotionalized opinions, these diatribes against campus and world-wide problems evoked more criticism than approval; but even criticism was an improvement over apathy.

In 1966, Alice Cherbonnier and David Carrasco took the lead as co-editors of the GOLD BUG. A good combination of the elf and the cobbler, they pushed the standards of the newspaper to new heights (and depths) by both improving news coverage and digging up more skeletons to haunt the campus.

CONTRAST

Now its time to think about next year's CONTRAST. Remember to write this summer. The next one's going to be even better.

"Will we ever get any material do you think?" "At last," the editors chortle. "At last we have art and photography as well as literature." Madness runs rampant as the CONTRAST staff gathers. "Sell, everybody sells!" cries the business manager trying to coerce some unsuspecting guy into selling in the boy's dorms.

Somehow the deadlines are always met. The literature comes in—and it's good. The literary staff faces the tough task of selecting only the best. The art staff picks the art and photos. Stay within the budget.

The stuff is back from the printers and the layout crew go to work, blue pencils poised over white sheets. Scissors snipping, sticky-paste hands carefully arrange the final results. Hey! It's done! We can make the table of contents, send it off.

Then we wait. Will the printer get it back in time? Will the printer even be printing or will he be in Florida again? Finally the cardboard boxes arrive and eager hands tear them open, to admire the results, distribute them, sell the rest.

But I've never been on the stage before . . . honor among thieves . . . Is everyone being honorable this year??? It sounds like a good joke, but it is really a serious responsibility which the WMC students have assumed in order to give them a comfortable situation in which to pursue their academics. With the able supervision of the advisors, the students themselves interpret and enforce the rules of honor.

It is the students alone who maintain the Honor System and make it effective. The WMC Honor System "is founded on the belief that a code of honor is an integral part of higher education and that no individual privileged to seek this goal should conduct himself dishonorably."

Advisor Mr. Phillips, Major Moore, and Dean Robinson.

STUDENT LIFE COUNCIL

The Student Life Council is composed of faculty and student members who meet periodically to debate the world-shaking problems of our campus. They discuss such areas of conflict as the eating habits of the natives; the overwhelming response of the campus to chapel speakers and assembly programs; the gullibility of our innocent students to salesmen from the outside world; and the inadequate time that the library was accessible for students' use for proms, play periods, and study.

The IRC attempts to bring to the campus knowledgeable speakers on contemporary and controversial topics. The club has sponsored a faculty forum on the India-Pakistan dispute; a World Federalist; a student relating his experiences in Vietnamese villages; a professor who objects to the Viet Nam policy; and others who presented definite views on events of the past year.

Le Cercle Francais, under the sponsorship of Mme. et M. Jacques Derasse, cultivates an active interest in the French language and culture.

The biggest even of each year is the Fête Noël which attracts a large number of the students, faculty, and townspeople. Members of le cercle perform in plays, sing French Christmas carols, and dance the traditional steps of the French peasants, but everyone present has an opportunity to participate in the festivities.

YOUNG REPUBLICAN'S CLUB

The Young Republicans seek to increase their knowledge of the party by hosting speakers, attending banquets, and visiting the nation's capital. This club aims to encourage student interest in national affairs.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

The Psychology Club is now in its second year with plans extending far beyond. This year's agenda includes visiting nearby hospitals, establishing a program of volunteer work, and inviting speakers from agencies and other colleges. In the future we hope to become a chapter of Psi Chi, the national honorary society.

The purpose of the club is to give its members a chance to broaden their range of experience and to encourage and stimulate interest in the field of psychology.

Late last spring a small group of WMC mathematicians laid plans to establish an honorary mathematics fraternity on the Hill. These plans were realized this year when the Maryland Beta Chapter of Kappa Mu Epsilon held its first meeting.

The society was established to further the interests of mathematics, to stress its importance and to develop an appreciation for its beauty.

This year Dr. Whaples, Mr. McDonnell and Mr. Lightner addressed the group. Kappa Mu Epsilon sponsored the presentation of research papers by the senior mathematics majors.

. . . A student with a study guide
 In a vision once I saw:

 And with her study guide she played,
 Enough to pass the final.
 Could I revive within me
 Her method and her style,
 To such deep delight 'twould win me,
 That with smiling and with guile,
 I would build that "A" in air,
 That lovely "A"! those grades so nice!
 And all should cry, Beware! Beware!
 His flashing eyes, his floating hair!
 Weave a laurel round him thrice,
 And clothe in gown and mortar board,
 For he of literature is lord,
 And master of the cept device.

PI GAMMA MU

Pi Gamma Mu, a national social science honor society for students and faculty, was founded in 1924, and presently has over one hundred forty active chapters in colleges and universities. Active membership is open to juniors and seniors who are in the upper third of their class, and have at least a B average in their social science courses. The organization's motto: "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free," exemplifies the desire to improve scholarship and to inspire social service to humanity.

Since they formed in the spring of 1965, the College Singers have become one of the better known campus singing groups. Under the direction of Mr. Spangler, the nine gals and eight guys sing anything from Bach to William Schuman.

The Singers perform for the Christmas Communion, the Ash Wednesday Communion and Focus. In April the group presents its Spring Concert. Also the group supplied the background music for Esther Smith's "Stained Glass Windows."

WOMEN'S OCTETTE

The Western Maryland College Women's Octette has for many years been a part of musical activities on the Hill. Although each year, the members change, their spirit stays the same. The present group's first appearance came when they performed three folk songs in the College Choir's 1965 Spring Folk Festival. This Christmas, the girls "rum pummed" their way through "The Little Drummer Boy" at the Trum-peters' Banquet.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

Made up of co-eds who like to sing, the Women's Glee Club is a part of the total music program at WMC. Every Tuesday afternoon the girls tune up and delve into the worlds of Schubert, Carter, Debussy, and Reger. Under the leadership of Dr. Miriam K. Whaples, the Glee Club gives an annual Christmas program. This year the group sang for and were entertained at the Glyn-don Women's Club Christmas Party. In May the girls presented a program of French music, including Debussy's "The Blessed Damosel."

The Religious Life Council consists of the religious organizations on campus, faculty advisors, and members as the clergy assisting campus organizations. It hopes to coordinate and stimulate the activities of the religious groups on campus, and initiates several programs during the year.

A major project is a year-long campaign to collect funds for the World University Services. These funds are gathered by colleges and universities in the more highly developed countries of the world and are distributed to less endowed institutions in emerging nations.

RESERVE OFFICER TRAINING CORPS

1966! War or Peace? In these perilous times when our nation is committed to the defense of foreign soil, the question has been raised—Is ROTC relevant on our campus? . . . Is it just a spit-shine shoe, a gleaming torch, a gas-operated, air-cooled, clip-fed semi-automatic shoulder weapon with no firing pin? . . . Is it just Kiwi and Brasso, shiny sabres and crimson sashes. A G44 w/gloves, The Gap and fifth period Tuesday? . . . or is it Duty, Honor, Country?

For America, it is the hour of decision. She must choose—whether to burn her draft cards, whether to sing songs of protest, whether to send men to bare steel against a seething jungle, whether to halt the action of enemy aggression. Life and death are on our doorstep, news stories leap to life from the front pages . . . Maybe the budget isn't too large . . . responsible freedom . . . the future . . . the past . . . the heritage . . . These are the thoughts of an anxious nation.

Battalionnnnnnn, AttennnnShun! The future . . . look out over Hoffa field some Tuesday . . . there is our future . . . 200 cadets prepare . . . 400 shining eyes that have not seen the face of war with two hundred gleaming rifles that have never killed before . . . can they sense the relevancy? . . . crisp commands strike the air, weighed weapons respond in unison . . . At WMC, they must neither be "summer soldiers" nor "sunshine patriots," for "These are the times that try men's souls."

PASS IN REVIEW!!! Before their families, before their school, before their nation, before their fellow man, before their God, and before themselves, they must put on the uniform, pass and be judged . . . Yes, ROTC is relevant at WMC for the cadets are in the classroom and on the field to pay a portion of the debt that all free men owe . . .

INTERSORORITY COUNCIL

"Preference" has been the big word this year for the ISC. Sororities inaugurated a new plan of bidding and rushing based on national systems. Preference cards, preference lists, preference teas, and preference matching guided membership drives and improved intersorority relations.

With a newly revised constitution, a bowling tournament, an assembly, and an open house for freshmen, the Intersorority Council continued to further sorority life on the hill.

"We are wearing red and white." Hey! New furniture—in our colors actually. (Of course there were all those weeks when we wondered if it would ever arrive.)

1965-66 was a good year, a year of new spirit and sisterhood and hard-earned triumphs—first prize for our homecoming float. Constructing it brought special problems—how do you get an eight foot Delt through a seven foot door? We still don't know, but obviously we made it. It was a year of good times—the Halloween party and trimming the Christmas tree and stringing lights on the door. "The cord won't reach." "It will." "Won't." . . . sisterhood. Bowling every Friday afternoon. "Who can go this week?"

We had a swinging time with the bachelors at the annual Christmas party—complete with chugging contest. Who won? Well, we must admit we did (the second time—with a two man start).

There were serious times too. Filling a basket for a needy family at Thanksgiving and sending a donation to the Christian Children's Fund for Christmas.

And there were new hopes—a rug fund for a someday new rug. And old problems—"Doesn't anybody want to be business manager?"

"Sisters always working together. Ever loyal, ever faithful." Yes, it was a good year. We've come closer together, and closer, too, to Delt ideals.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

Janus, the legendary character who could look both backward and forward at the same time, has personified the work of this year's Interfraternity Council. The fraternities carefully examined the By-Law revisions from the previous year and looked for ways of revising their own IFC by comparison with other similar college organizations and through attendance at the National Interfraternity Conference in Washington, D. C. At the same time they planned to bring "big name entertainment" to the campus on IFC-ISC Weekend featuring the rock and roll group of Little Anthony and the Imperials. The individual fraternities revised their pledging rules, and tightened up on their rushing activities while trying not to violate the spirit of interfraternity. They looked for and found ways of coping with the attendance problems at the "big four" all school dances. They sought to increase their popularity on campus through a general appeal to the college man for fraternity as "a way of life."

The Preachers inducted twenty-four more lusty young men into iniquitous den of the Purple and Gold . . . much to the chagrin of new Sweetheart Betsy Murphy who had twenty-four more pairs of slobbering lips to put up with . . . The section was swept by a fatal epidemic of marriages as Trainor, Basye, and Diaz took the plunge . . . Meetings were graced with the home-cooked power of straight-shooting, tobacco spitting Bill Falker as two-semester Delta . . . The pledges set the campus on its collective ear with their drunken, midnight serenade topped off by a side-splitting pledge skit . . . Under Bricker, the treasury swelled to unbelievable proportions. This unusual affluence led to the prize-winning Homecoming float . . . a mammoth two band Open Party and an unprecedented FREE Sweetheart Ball which broke all on-campus attendance records . . .

FAMILIAR FACES: Jim Hvidding set an all-time record for brevity with his one-day retirement from college . . . SCENE I: The two characters, a boy and a girl, walk slowly across the stage. They begin walking at different sides. We will allow them to pick the side of their choice. Either right or left it doesn't matter. They pass one another at the center of the stage, and continue walking, exiting on different sides. The boy thinks he would have liked to have talked to the girl. The girl wishes he had. But they are new here, to the stage. They have never played these parts before, and they could not ad lib any dialogue. In the three succeeding scenes they will do better. This time it was a combination of self-consciousness, the bright lights and the crowd that made them lose their confidence, and that made them the quiet, shy people they appeared. Maybe they felt insignificant, in this first scene, but to the audience they weren't. They were important. And the audience could also see the beauty of her smile, however hidden it was, and the glimmer will grow with each scene until they eventually approach perfection. And someday that smile and that glimmer will rule.

Bill Spangler and Mike Waghelstein, Co-captains

The impressive thing about the Rifle Team this year is not its record, but the consistent performance of the firers. The top five firers include Peter Riker, the captain (283); Gordon Shelton (281); Ira Klemons (278); James Morgan (276); and Russell Richardson (260).

Hampered by the loss of three fine shooters from last year's trophy-winning team, plus a situation in which the opponents may choose to use either the regular or international target, the team has compiled a respectable record. Gordon Shelton and James Morgan are to be especially commended for their excellent shooting in spite of four scheduled labs a week.

Coach Arthur Wohl has, himself, been assiduously in preparation for his impending tour of duty in Vietnam with the 1st Armored Cavalry. Since Sarge took over the team in 1964, the overall record has been 21 wins, 11 losses. It will indeed be hard to find another coach who can match his dedication to the team and his interest in us.

After a year's absence, Coach Sam Case returned to guide Western Maryland's grapplers through another rough season. Opening with a tournament at Towson, the Terrors represented themselves well by taking fifth place out of eight teams. Several of the individuals did well: Rick Schmertzler, Jim King, Gary Kulick, King Hill, and Mike Simcock.

During the regular competition, a quadrangular meet was held (the first in the history of WMC) with Galaudet, Frostburg, Elizabethtown, and WMC as the participants. This year WMC also played host to the Mason-Dixon Championships.

Returning lettermen Bob Basye, King Hill, and Gary Kulick served as tri-captains. The Terrors were fortunate to have a good group of new men this year who will form a solid nucleus for future teams.

Sam Leishure's boys came off of a sound 96-65 victory over Frederick Community College only to end their sixteen-game season with a loss to Baltimore University.

February 21 ended a long and hard season for this year's JV basketball team. Ending up with a not so impressive 4 and 12 season, however, doesn't come close to covering up the fact that the players and coach had a lot of fun in working together to develop skills and a better knowledge of the game. There is no doubt that the JV system is an asset to Western Maryland's sports scene. The JV system, under the leadership of a good coaching staff, affords the student a learning situation at least as valuable as the one offered by the stuffy classroom.

In the learning process, the Western Maryland JV's managed to turn in some creditable performances . . . teamwise as well as individually. Freshman Bill Dudley sported the highest point average with a solid 24.1 points per game. Bill played in only seven games. The seventh game was the first win on the season for the JV's as they put four men in double figures to defeat Dickinson 79-72. Dudley broke his foot in a following practice, and the teamwork that took seven games to

Davis, Wolf, and all netted more than 100 points season. Team Wolf led the points. Jerry high scoring eff

Clower Gives Terrors Sermon On T

Clower Depends on Depth, Rebounds, Points and Hustle!

by Mike Herr

Tomorrow night in Gill gymnasium, the Green Terror cagers host rival Towson college in the first home basketball game of the 1965-66 season. It may prove to be the first of a long string of victories.

In recent weeks an excited feeling has spread among the basketball players. It is a feeling of extreme assurance. Confidence shines in every face; each player has confidence in himself and what is more important, in his teammates. Everybody believes that this is going to be a great season.

Head Coach Dick Clower supplied the reason for confidence. When asked about our prospects he said, "we have a great deal of potential. I think we're probably a little deeper than we've been for a great many years."

This is our greatest asset, depth. In his ninth year as head basketball coach, Dick Clower has plenty of talent to work with. It must be pointed out, however, that this talent is somewhat raw. There are only two seniors on the varsity squad, Richie Eigen and Jim Reck. There will probably not be an actual first string team this year. The five men who begin each game will be determined by the opponent, the style of game the basketballers decide to play and the overall hustle of each ball player.

The Green Terrors will have more size than they've been accustomed to, with four men, Joe Smothers, Rick Coburn, Ralph Wilson, and Mike Kroe standing 6'4" or taller. The rebounds should come in torrents.

Back from last year's varsity squad to help with the coaching is Sam Leishure. Sam has taken over the reigns of the J.V. team while studying for his Master's Degree in physical education. As an undergraduate Sam played four years of varsity basketball. In his senior year he co-captained the team. He was the playmaker and team leader; the Terrors had no one more dependable than Sam. Now his abilities have been put to use as a coach and the JV's have steadily improved under his patient guidance. They are awaiting the opening buzzer as eagerly as the varsity boys.

Skip Shear has dropped out of school and will not see action this year. Co-captains for the squad are senior Rich Eigen and sophomore Ralph Wilson.

It looked pretty dismal for the Green and Gold as 1966 opened up but Ritchie Eigen and the rest of the boys must have made some mighty good resolutions because no fewer than five hit double figures (Eigen and Suder with 19 each) enroute to an overwhelming 89-68 drubbing of Lebanon Valley at Gill Gym in the first contest of the New Year.

Eigen picked up the pace again the next night in the Civic Center netting 18 points in the first half and adding six in the second before being retired. The Civic Center was alive with the sound of swish as Coach Clower's fivesome hit a fantastic fifty-four per cent from the floor. Adding a respectable 13 points to the final tally, Ralph Wilson also brought down 17 from the boards to round out another stellar performance. Joe Smothers, one of several "fabulous freshmen" drove for another 19 as the Terrors stopped Washington College 88-67.

In nine games Rich has made 56 of 131 field goal attempts for a percentage of .427. He has hit on 24 of 28 foul shot attempts for an outstanding .857 percentage, and all in all, has totaled 136 points. This gives him an impressive average of 15.1 points per game. ## Cagers Strive to Retaliate Defense Must Stop Teachers

by Dave Carrasco

Tonight, at Baltimore's spacious Civic Center, the Green Terror roundballers challenge rival Towson College in the first game of a double-header basketball night. The Clowermen play at 7:30 before Mount St. Mary's hosts national college division champion Evansville College. This is Western Maryland in the BIG TIME.

The cagemen travel to the 12,000 seat stadium with a 2-2 record having defeated Washington College and Baltimore University while losing to Franklin and Marshall as well as tonight's opponent, Towson.

Triumph in Opener

In Chestertown, Coach Clower's boys played what he says is "always a tough ball game" and won in overtime 103-96. Senior co-captain Ritchie Eigen, "doing the thing he does best" scored 27 points, 10 of which came in the overtime period. Sophomore guard Gary Fass scored 28 points to prove his own capability at the backcourt position.

Towson on Fire

The Towson Teachers invaded Gill gymnasium to burn the nets right off the structures and defeat our squad 103-95. From the beginning it was the "sound of swish" and it continued right on to the very end. The Towson boys shot a frightening 52% from the floor. Dave Possinger, Maceo Dailey and Tim Casey scored 33, 31, 22 points respectively and will be the big threats tonight.

One bright spot for the Terrors was Ralph Wilson whose 25 points and constant hustle and aggressiveness pressed the Towson big men. Shooter Eigen again connected for 23 points. Western Maryland played a fine offensive game but Towson played way over its head.

First half blues tripped up the cagers at Franklin & Marshall where they lost 82-77. After trailing by as much as 18 points, the squad led by freshman guard Larry Suder rallied the only real challengers for Eigen's position during his stay at Western Maryland. Toward the end of his freshman season he suffered a back injury which has yet to stop bothering him. Last year's arch-rival was a chronic virus. But nothing could stop his scoring punch. Rich has the deadliest jump shot on the team, and shows an amazing bit of ability (at 6' 2" and 185 pounds) both under the boards and on fast breaks. He drives to the left just as easily as to the right and is a master at the three point play.

"Rocketshot" (so called by his young but growing fan club) has not been so consistent a defensive player as would be expected, but his consistency in the scoring column has always proved to be an ample equalizer.

back only to lose by 5 in the closing minutes. It was at F&M that the Terror defense hit its lowest point and it proved to be costly.

Last Friday night against Baltimore University's Bees, the roundballers displayed moments of precision and fine basketball. Outshooting the visitors at the foul line 39-17, we won 93-79. It seemed as though the squad could have completely broken away from BU but lost balls and lags in defensive play hindered a rout. The two Cumberland boys, Suder and Wilson led their teammates to its second victory. Larry fired in 24 points while scoring on a variety of skillfull maneuvers and Wilson's aggressiveness in and around the key made the evening a big one for WMC fans. Mike Kroe's rugged board work and Joe Smothers' timely "leaps" kept the Terrors in possession of the ball.

Clower Respects Towson

In looking toward tonight's contest Coach Clower expressed respect for the Teachers' shoot-

Highlights and Sidelights

by Ed Lowry

On the basketball scene it looks like Dick Eigen has gotten his old touch back. He has really been doing a fine job in the early part of the season.

* * *

Joe Smothers' defensive play has really improved. In fact, he has had the opportunity to guard the top player of the opposing team in the last two games.

* * *

Gary Fass has been playing with a bad ankle sprain. He sustained the injury in the Towson game at the Civic Center where he did an excellent job guarding standout Maceo Dailey.

Let's all try to make it a point to get over to the gym and see our teams play even if it is only for a psych break. At the Lebanon Valley there was only a small and apathetic crowd. The teams play their best when there is enthusiastic crowd in the stands.

* * *

Tonight, in taking on the Magnificent Mount the Terrors are putting their number one rating in the Mason-Dixon log on the line. The Clowermen are currently 4-1 in conference play while the Mount is 5-2. This is one you don't want to miss. Game time is 8:00.

The Green Terrors ended a disappointing season (7-13) with a big win over Baltimore University, giving Clower's charges a berth in the Mason-Dixon tournament at Randolph-Macon. Co-captain Richie Eigen closed out his college career as the sixth all-time WMC scorer, with 1,058 points. Sophomore Ralph Wilson, also co-captain, cleared the boards all season, pulling in 215 rebounds to lead the team.

Sophomore Gary Fass, this year's steadiest player, quarterbacked the team with fine ball-handling and strong drives. Larry Suder, one of the fabulous freshmen, showed that he'll be a WMC great, scoring 285 points. Little Mike Baker, coming alive at the end of the season, played the hero's role in the Baltimore University game. Joe Smothers, one of the talented freshmen, provided big thrills with his amazing leaping ability. Mike Kroe was a big man off the boards, sweeping down 183 rebounds. Hard-nosed, hustling seniors Jim Reck, Greg Getty, and Rick Coburn all contributed a boost when needed.

With a predominantly young team, Coach Clower can look forward to greener pastures next season, as his boys mature and get that touch of experience.

Richard Clower, Coach

The purpose of the Letterman's Club is to promote sportsmanship, cooperation, and service to the school and to achieve a closer unity and understanding among the athletes, administration, faculty and students of Western Maryland College. Under the leadership of Gary Kulick it has begun a number of projects aimed at helping others. # IN MEMORIAM

A Dean of Women is a little like a mother and a lot like a father; like God in that we tried to hide from her; a sister, and at the same time, someone we could never quite evaluate; our conscience, confidante, and Simon Legree; a night light and night watchman; a guardian, an advisor and, in our case, the friend and listener at the bottom of the hill.

For Dean Howery was an adept teacher who loved her subject so well that she taught us to love it too; who loved it so well that even some could not justify the extent of that love; a humorist, both in the classroom and in the most uncomfortable situations; a wit with empathy—an unabridged almanac; humor disguising intelligent scholarship; a counselor who needed no Ph.D. in Psychology; a personality with a home which was neither and both classroom and office, which had no hours, and yet was always open and used; a person so intimately concerned with all the aspects of WMC that it is still hard for us to believe that she won't be back; an honest friend, who sought until the very last, to give us all that she knew so that we might be better people, to show us what life is about.
