Foreword

When you are joyous, look deep into your heart and you shall find it is only that which has given you sorrow that is giving you joy.

The Prophet

The 1966-67 academic year could be presented with each of its mistakes and protests, but we feel that the satire so frequently directed at Western Maryland by its students, can be, ironically, better expressed by the wit and humor which transforms the sarcasm into a wistful backward glance at 1966-67. In selecting humor as the literary theme for the book, the staff had few problems showing the lighter and brighter side of Western Maryland. The Class of 1967 has been tagged a party class, "a-good-time was-had-by-all class." We hope that the 1967 Aloha has been able to capture some of this spirit of fun and quest for living.

Long were the days of pain I have spent within its walls, and long were the nights of aloneness; and who can depart from this pain and his aloneness without regret?

The Prophet

We have expressed this same regret as the Class of 1967. Because we have been able to laugh at ourselves, at our mistakes and foibles, you will see that we have also seen humor in the weaknesses of many aspects of the campus.

The 1967 Aloha is quite different from any yearbook that you have seen from Western Maryland. It has had a face lifting—a change—a break from the past—another tradition pushed aside. The new look took careful planning, organization, better pictures, and of course, more work. From the original design cover to the candid advertisement pages, we have tried to present a book that will be remembered for its creativity.

Now we hope that you will enjoy with us, the lighter side of the events of 1966-67 at Western Maryland College as we proudly present a part of ourselves to you—the 1967 Aloha.

"Western Maryland! Hail All Hail!"

Set in the green and rolling hills of progressive, fertile Carroll County, a small co-educational, liberal arts, Methodist affiliated institution abounds with small, green, liberally-affiliated people. Thirty minutes from downtown Baltimore, two hours from Washington, five hours from New York City, and one hundred and ten hours from San Francisco, the college is situated in the center of the culture belt.

The student body, as well as the faculty, administration and staff, is composed of a wide and varied group of individuals. There is an unusual opportunity presented to live and relate with men (and women) of different philosophies and attitudes. The "Hump," as it is affectionately called by the students, is a melting pot, blending people, jackets, and colors. In order to make the students feel as if they belong, ID cards are issued in their freshman year. The card identifies you as a student of Western Maryland College and should be carried at all times, in case you ever have to prove it.

The faculty members are selected from a wide group of Western Maryland graduates. In addition to their usual lecture duties, they are assigned as faculty advisers who assist their advisees and maintain a special interest in their intellectual growth. Faculty members also play a vital role in student organizations and activities.¹

Physical facilities at Western Maryland College, in addition to the usual buildings, also include a beautiful brand new power plant with multi-colored pipes; spacious and convenient parking lots; a lovely Victorian auditorium (one of the oldest in the state); ample areas for quiet study: a limpid, spring-fed pond; safe, well-cared for walks; and smooth shady drives. The latest acquisition to our steadily growing school was several acres of land behind the golf course, conveniently bisected by a brand-new, modern highway.

Western Maryland College is noted for its friendly environment. Sliding down to the Grille, many people will give you the big WMC "Hi!" The Grille itself is the epitome of Western Maryland's friendliness. Here students gather for light refreshment and dark conversation. "With the dancing area which has been provided in the Grille, this is easily the most popular center of student activity."² Above the Grille is located the student lounge. Spacious and restful, with a view to the mountains, the room was planned to give you a quiet room for reading, relaxing, and entertaining visitors.³

Last, and most certainly least, Western Maryland College establishes and maintains an "optimum climate of learning."⁴ The challenge of academic excellence is presented to the student through stimulating lectures, intellectual conversation, and an examination schedule arranged with you in mind. Emphasis is not on the "grade" here, but rather on individual and personal mental growth.

An appropriate closing would be one of the official college yells, which strikes a warm note to a Western Marylander and reminds him of all the swell times he had up here.

It's Nice We're Having Weather

If there's one particular thing Western Maryland College is noted for, it's the beautiful weather. The snows set in early up here on the Hill, and we are blessed with this beautiful, brisk, stimulating, whiteness until the middle of March. Credit is now being given for skiing—a sport in which every WMC-ER is already adept. We have a very efficient snow removal program, however, which makes traveling about on campus pleasurable and safe. As soon as the first flake is sighted, the removal team is on the job, moving in the heavy equipment—two elderly gentlemen with brooms. In the spirit of fun, the last walk to be cleared is that from the girls' dorms to Memorial Hall. The girls and the house directors get their daily exercise by bodily pulling themselves up the hill, from tree to tree.

The Monsoons begin along about Ground Hog's Day and last until May first. But for some reason, when spring does finally arrive, the snows, icy winds and dreary rains are forgotten. Sun-bathers spring up with the flowers, tennis games last til dark and the golf course is actually covered with golfers. And except for the dark cloud of comprehensives and finals hanging over, Western Maryland takes on the air of a country club.

"Far Surpassing Wealth Unspoken . . ."

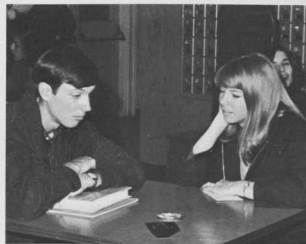

Many activities are open to an enterprising young student as he enters the portals of this venerable institution. Besides those listed in the catalog, he may find himself drawn to the worthy, old WMC tradition of Grille-table-roosting. This activity has been limited, because of the considerable time which is required, to those who are caught up in their work and have attained an index of, at most, 1.3, over two semesters.

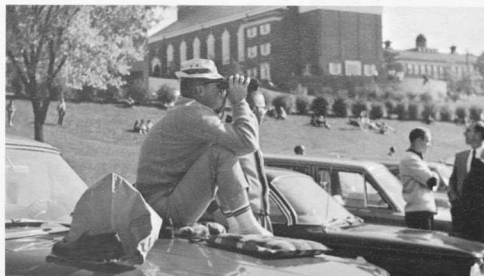

Another popular and stimulating sport may be found in the Billiards Parlor. This game, the highest attainment of a cultured, young man, is pursued with the dedication its fine old reputation deserves.

The individual may also find culturally enlightening activities right in his own room. Impromptu concerts are very popular, especially with one's neighbors, who are grateful for the melodious strains which come drifting thru the air, diverting the mind from cumbersome studies.

Also to be enjoyed in the privacy of one's room is a sport which requires extreme skill, much practice, a deadly aim and great daring. This activity, while not recorded on official records, has the highest rate of participation on campus (in season). This is, of course, the traditional sport of hydro-plastic bombardment.

One may sometime accidentally stumble across a formal, organized program, too. He might even see a group of students from a school for the deaf, performing skillful, beautifully executed dances. Please note, however, that attendance at such functions is only permitted after requirements in the above activities have been met.

The Female of The Species Is More Deadly . . .

Western Maryland College has always protected its animal life. We are blessed with many species. The amorous aardvark is the most prevalent. It can be distinguished by its dewy eyes, the loud "smacking" noise it makes and can always be found in two's. These animals are commonly found in dorm lobbies, fraternity clubrooms, car seats and dark grassy areas. They are considered dangerous only when aroused.

The campus also abounds in gobblers. Not having particularly fussy eating habits, it is found most often in the dining hall, where it can be recognized by the sounds it makes, "slurp, glub, guzzle."

A third species is known by its scientific name, Biologia Majorum. This vicious animal prowls the dark burrows of Lewis Hall in search of its prey. It feeds liberally on mice, cats, and baby pigs.

The human animal is sighted upon occasion, too. Traveling usually in two's or three's, they come in swarms to watch the destruction of their fellows.

Western Maryland College has more squirrels than any other college in Maryland.

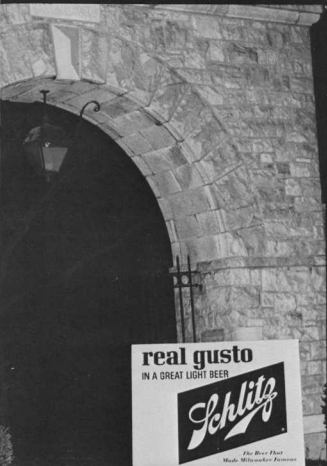

Drinking

"The College assumes that persons enrolling will respect the traditions and regulations of the school which prohibit the possession or use of alcoholic beverages on the campus or being under the influence of them at any time. Infractions of these regulations will be dealt with as individual cases; and penalties, even to the point of expulsion from college, will be given according to the seriousness of the offense."

The 1966-67 Student Handbook, page 37.

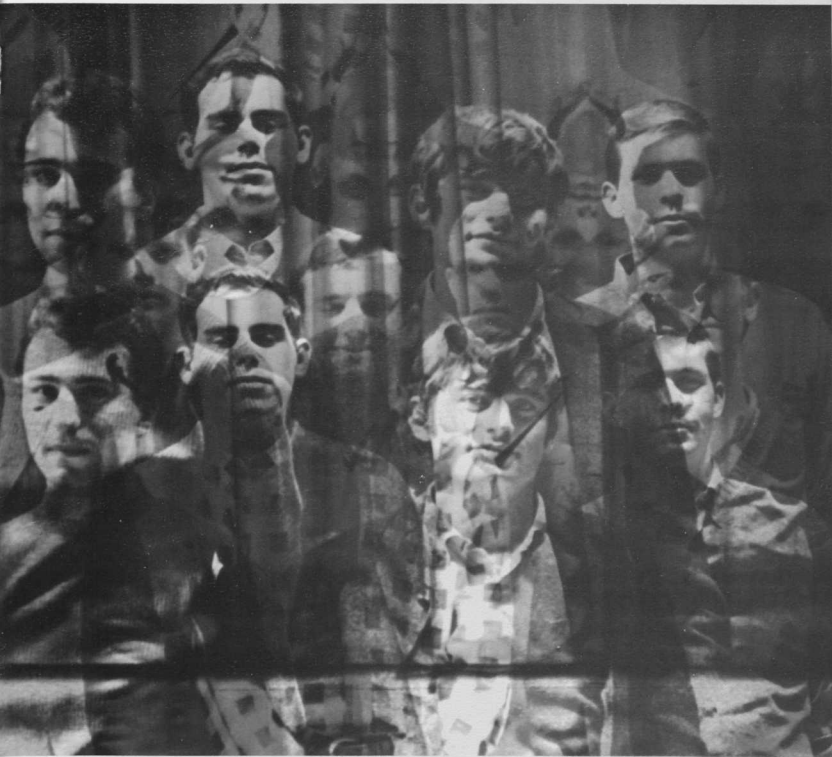

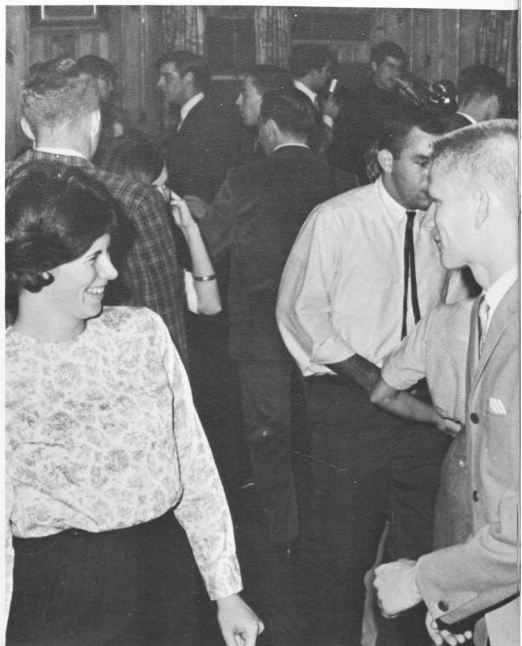

College Objectives:

To prepare men and women to be healthy, well adjusted members of society.

To develop men and women of reason, taste, and vision who will assume positions of leadership in their local communities, the nation, and the world.

1966-67 Western Maryland College Catalog, p. 4.

"It's A Tradition!"

Western Maryland College, about to celebrate its centennial, abounds (naturally) in many traditions. One of the oldest, and most popular is the WMC "Hi!" This is used most by professors as they welcome you back—year after year. Sometimes it is modified to, "You here again?"

The campus is characterized by its easy-going nature, free of stifling rules and regulations. Visitors, students and staff find parking a pleasure. The convenience of having a car right on campus is greatly appreciated and has always been a much revered tradition.

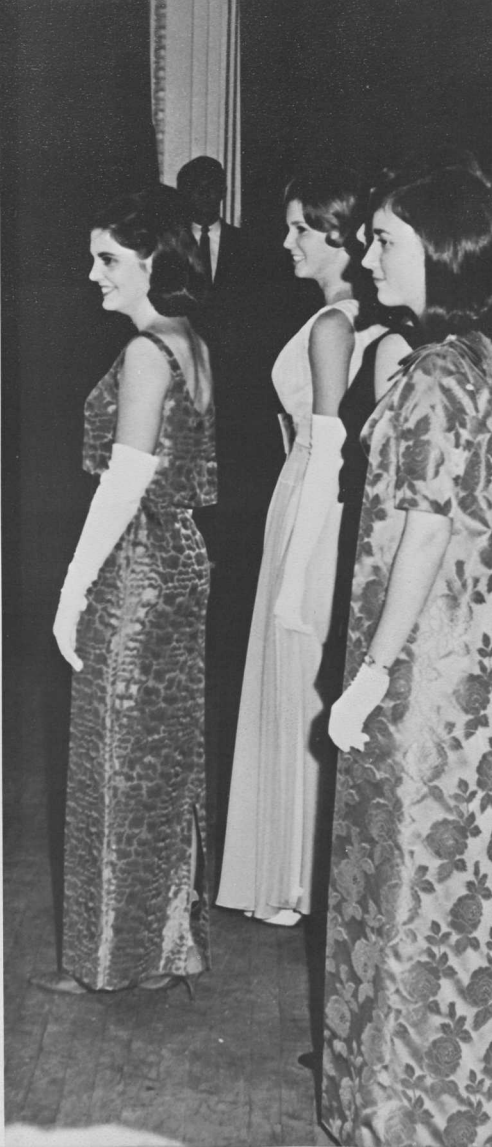

Many of the courses offered at this school are also traditions. Chief among the customs of freshmen is taking biology, flunking biology, taking biology. This particular course has long been lauded in song, tale, and hmmm, . . . what's the word?

Conviviality, too, is a tradition. Friendliness is fostered through the numerous activities offered to the student body each year. Prominent among these are the parties held in off-campus establishments, where much gaiety, eating and intellectual conversation takes place. Often these are fancy dress occasions for which students display their finery. Each one is careful to be on his best behavior in order to preserve the image of the school.

FOOTBALL 1966

"Wait until next year!", is the cry of all Western Maryland football fans. Even though the Terrors improved on their record by one game over last year's effort, the team was hurt by inexperience. Losing only four seniors this year, Coach Jones and his staff are looking forward to an outstanding year in 1967.

The Terrors' season started off on a successful note by beating a highly rated Wagner team, 19-13. However, even in this game one glaring weakness was evident. The team seemed to tire in the latter parts of the game due to a lack of depth and the limited substitution.

Several bright spots appeared this year. Freshman Bruce Bozman emerged as the capable quarterback Western Maryland has been seeking. Jerry Borga had another fine season, and it looked as if Dana Huseman has finally come into his own. John Heritage has established himself as the best blocker and linebacker on the squad.

The Terrors wound up the season with their highest scoring display by smashing arch foe Hopkins, 33-7.

"Ira, can you get ahold of Yahweh?"

As is tradition with Western Maryland College football, the annual awards banquet was held at the conclusion of the season. By the vote of his fellow players, Co-captain Jay Sybert was elected the most valuable player on the squad.

John Heritage became the first player at W.M.C. to ever win both the Offensive and Defensive Lineman of the Year Awards. Due to their fine performances and outstanding leadership, Don Stout and John Heritage were chosen as co-captains for next year.

It only takes four big men to stop little Vinnie Festa!

A typical W.M.C. reception!

There's Always Next Year

Would you believe that on any given day, this intrepid team can tie any team in the Mason-Dixon Conference? Or else lose? The 1966 soccer season brought with it many heartaches in the form of many losses—8 to be exact. However, each defeat was encountered without disgrace and each opponent was encountered wholeheartedly and convincingly.

There were times when freshman Bob Tawes and Larry Anderson were within inches of scoring, but couldn't; there were times when seniors Alain Derasse and Raphael Mayamona kept the opponents baffled with their footwork and linguistics; and there were times when senior co-captain Mike Waghelstein's long kicks soared goal-ward . . . from all over the field.

Sophomores Ken Nibali and Norm Sartorius played consistent defense for the Terrors—and they were consistently on defense! Seniors John Daily and Frank Winter also played well on defense—as a matter of fact, there were times when we all played on defense at once.

There were times when Jim Resau and Bob Speth couldn't hang onto the ball with their feet; and times when goalie co-captain Rick Coburn couldn't hang onto the ball no matter what he used!

But the measure of inches and games won fails to equal the measure of sportsmanship and ambition displayed by these ever-determined athletes. The trusty spectators know they tried . . . and tried . . . and tried.

Big Mike Kroe grabs another.

Each year when basketball season rolls around, the team and its fans are filled with high hopes of an exciting and a winning season. The season started as hoped for with the hoopsters dominating Washington College to the tune of 107-84. The Terrors then climbed to a 4-3 mark before the Christmas vacation. During the holidays the team traveled to New Bedford, Mass. and won the Seafood Tournament.

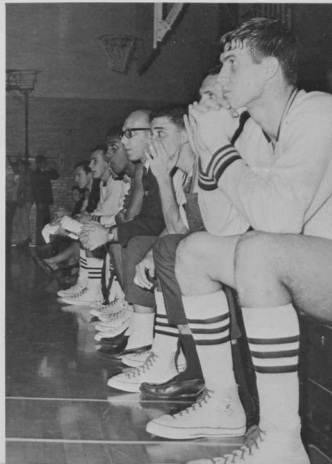

After the holidays the team hit a slump and managed to win only 3 of the last 14 games to wind up the season with a 7-14 record. Although not a winning season it was an exciting one. Who can forget the triple overtime game with Towson which ended with coach Clower's exciting play with 2 seconds left in the game; or the come from behind victory over Franklin and Marshall.

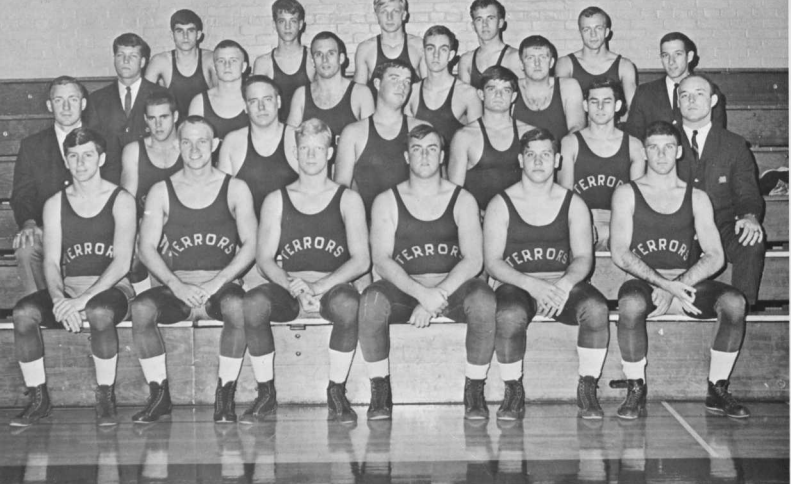

The team was led by the scoring and playmaking of captain Gary Fass who received most valuable player awards at the Seafood Tournament and the Civic Center doubleheader against B.U. He was also selected as honorable-mention on the all Mason-Dixon team.

Another scoring leader was Larry Suder who found his shooting eye during the second half of the season. The leading rebounder was Mike Kroe who was aided by Joe Smothers and Greg Getty.

Mat Monsters

Although the Green Terror Mat Monsters did not have the most impressive record this year, considerable advances were made in the experience department. Coach Sam Case did a fine job developing the freshmen and continuing the improvement of the veterans.

As co-captains, Jim King and Jim Hvidding had the difficult task of keeping team morale at a peak. Their persistence paid off, however, as the Terrors entered every match with a win! attitude. This is sometimes very hard to do, as the members of the soccer team well know.

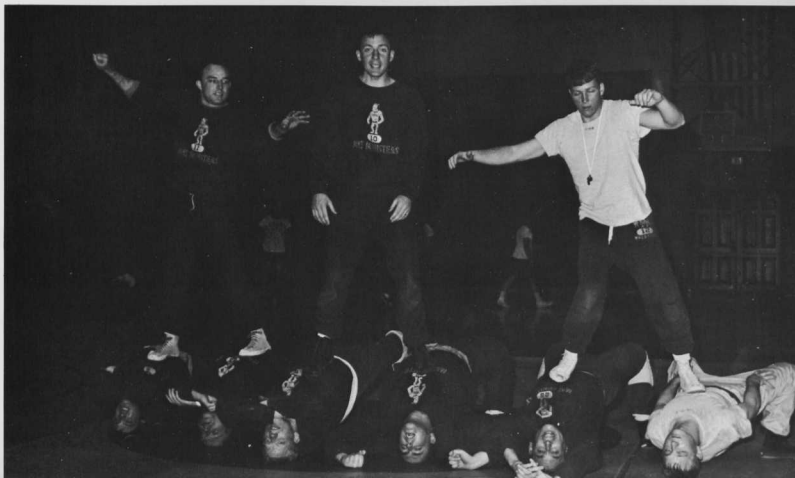

Individual standouts this year included Rick Schmertzler who won ten regular season matches and was voted Most Valuable Wrestler. Freshman Terry Conover was also impressive as he stepped into a starting position. Jim Hvidding, in his last year of wrestling was another standout for the team. In post-season action, Hvidding, Schmertzler, and Conover took third places in the Mason-Dixon Championships and Schmertzler finished seventh in the National Small College Championships.

Golf Team

The 1967 edition of the Green Terror golf team has once again proven that the golf course is used for other things beside night maneuvers.

Led by head coach Dean Jim Robinson and assistant coaches Bob Erb and Captain Holder, the core of this year's team came from returning lettermen, co-captains Les Carlson and Tom Chenoweth, and Steve Jones.

Although the golf team, affectionately nicknamed "Little Houston" by Coach Robinson, has experienced difficulties, this year's team looked good.

Lacrosse

Lacrosse is a hard, fast game adopted from the North American Indians. The players are equipped with sticks that have a net at one end. The object of the game is to throw, scoop, or kick a small rubber ball into the opposing team's goal. Opposing players may block each other. The game, with its goals, sticks, manner of play, and penalty system closely resembles ice hockey.

It has been a long time since WMC has fielded a lacrosse team. This is the start of what we hope will be a perennial spring sport here. With only two seniors on the team—starting defensemen Dave Doss and Mike Preston—the chances of this happening appear good. The experience the team gets this year will greatly pay off in the near future.

The starting lineup consisted of attackmen Carey Wolfson, Joel Smith, Will Davis; midfielders Bill Gibson, Joel Goldblatt, Carol Yingling or Dan Gottlieb; defensemen Dave Doss, Mike Preston, Jim Resau; and goalie Al Kemske.

ACTIVITIES

Yes, We Had Homecoming Again This Year

It was Friday evening; the crowd was beginning to assemble; the majorettes and pom pom girls were lining up; the cheerleaders were having a last-minute practice; the band was warming up; and with four short blasts of a whistle, the parade began and Homecoming weekend was off to a roaring start.

The huge pile of wood behind the stadium was ready to burn and by the time the parade reached the sight of the pep rally, the fire was beginning to smolder. It smoldered throughout the majorettes performance; it smoldered throughout the pom poms' performance; it smoldered while the cheerleaders led the spectators in cheers; and it smoldered while the captains of the football team spoke. Late that evening, long after the pep rally ended, the bonfire was producing glorious flames which lit up the whole back campus, only to be squelched by the Westminster Fire Department.

Saturday, with the Homecoming parade up Main Street, the festivities of the day began. The floats were beautiful, in fact, all four of them won a prize. As the parade reached campus, excitement filled the air and the tension of the coming football game was beginning to mount. Old familiar faces were everywhere as the alumni gathered on the famous 'hill' to watch the Terrors meet Hampden-Sydney in battle. As the game progressed, the alumni spent more time in the trunks of their cars and less watching the game.

School Spirit smolders on!

And then all I told her was that it had a nicer body than she does . . .

I see, you see — we all see!

Zoo parade!

Are you kidding me?

I guess you're wondering why I called this meeting.

Irregularity causing a problem?

Ode To A Wilted Mum

Every year during football season dawns the Saturday morning, always bright and breezy, that is designated as "Parents Day." It's a day unlike any other Saturday here at W.M.C. Parents are met by their offspring, who proudly present Mommy with a traditional yellow mum. Susie's folks are formally introduced to Dave's, and vice-versa. Everyone partakes of Mr. Rice's extravagant menu for luncheon. Then, off to the massacre of the pigskin!

The stands go wild, and the people just sit there. The cheerleaders scream their lungs out, the pom pom girls wave their green and gold shakers, and the majorettes twirl with fire to keep their knees warm. As the car horns blare, the band serenades the sleeping countryside to proclaim a Terror T.D.

Shortly after 4 P.M., the stadium is bare and silent. Families, tired and bedraggled, wait forever in line for a good dinner at Benny's of Baugher's. Goodbye's and "write soon's" echo through the dorms with a sigh of relief from the kiddies as they return to their momentarily interrupted RUTS.

Where's the nearest ladies room?

I knew this school was Victorian, but a witch burning?

Sure I know it looks silly, but can you think of a better place to hide a bottle?

Mr. John Akar

John Akar, African nationalist, playwright and actor and director of the Sierra Leone Broadcasting Service, spoke in Alumni Hall on September 28, 1966.

Mr. Akar's lecture was entitled "America Through an African's Eyes." The speaker praised what he termed "the great American experiment" but lamented the fact that our original goals had been supplanted by those of wealth and power. While stating that he was on the side of Democracy, Mr. Akar also presented the weaknesses that the African sees in the United States.

The speaker urged students to behave "in a spirit of brotherhood."

Dr. Arthur Schlesinger

Dr. Arthur Schlesinger, the historian who had been called "among the foremost in the new generation of vigorous social thinkers," was the guest lecturer here on January 11, 1967.

"The World We Want—and How to Get It" was the topic of his lecture. He emphasized that the survival of the world depends on events occurring far from the borders of the United States.

Dr. Schlesinger also expressed his opinions on the questions of Red Chinese admission to the United Nations, the plight of underdeveloped nations, and the consequence of bombings on North Vietnam.

Happy?!!

A Taste of Controversy

George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi Party, arrived on Western Maryland College campus at 3:45 p.m., November 28. Mr. Rockwell was sponsored by the Student Government Association and spoke to a capacity crowd in Alumni Hall. Students, faculty, and administrators attended. Several members of the faculty picketed the building, came inside to listen and then returned to their posts.

George Lincoln Rockwell left the campus at 5 p.m.

"... and did you know

Everybody loves a parade!

Let me introduce myself . . .

What a ruse!

Let's Have A Walkout!

Exercising extreme orderliness and courtesy, we wait for the dining hall doors to open.

A few narrow minded students eat it!

Crushing only two people to death, we walked into Barney's Place.

stayed to

Other narrow minded students thought it was carry-out night.

The majority of students walked out, it was the thing to do

Calm, cool, and uncollected, Barney waved, Get out!, but not in those exact words.

It's What's Happening Baby!

The Avant Garde is influencing modern man in his culture. Part of this movement is happening in the Arts and Religion. In order to become more informed cultural men and women, W.M.C. had a Happening.

Ortmyer and Summerlin descended on the campus and, with the help of a few hard core students, built, produced, and directed an Artie Happening which consisted of one Chinese movie shown backwards, one drummer, five people reading poetry simultaneously, one set of slides, a sculpture of junk, and one man covered in aluminum foil with one saxophone in a cage full of marbles and balloons. After we all sucked up that culture we sojournd to the chapel (some of us anyway).

Dangling conversation, flying paper plates, disjointed readings, a jazz band, a collage, a sax solo, one prayer, and a few student nuts, Ortmyer and Summerlin and God made for a smashing success and those fortunate enough to attend walked away believers (in what is not quite clear).

At any rate, the men and women of W.M.C. found out what is happening in the world (a place that makes even less sense than WMcCee) and all we had to do was clean up Gill Gym afterwards.

Christmas 1966

Trumpeters Herald "O Tannenbaum"

Twas the Night before the Christmas Banquet and all through the Art Building, not a creature was stirring—except five weary Trumpeters. O Tannenbaum, O Tannenbaum, how dismal are thy many, many pages! God Rest Ye Merry Westminster for rust in the water pipes. Merry Christmas and a Happy Halloween—to those who got orange pumpkins instead of green trees on their ice cream.

It Came Upon a Five A. M. Alarm to Hark the Herald seniors rouse O Little Town of Westminster, but the Silent Night was not disturbed by the noise of pouring hot chocolate, for the juniors were nestled all snug in their warm little beds, while visions of revenge danced in the seniors' heads! What a Traffic Jam is This that laid to rest the Hill on Saturday morning, as the Christmas season here drew to a close a week before anyone else's had started. Then there was Peace on Earth, Goodwill on the Hill. O Holy Two Weeks before it was O Come All Ye Vacationers—back to campus for a new year of resolutions and role-playing.

"Western what?"

The Shadow knows!

Happiness is a "Johnny-on-the-Spot"!

"Peace on earth . . ."

DRAMATIC ART

"The Sound of Silence"

You say you went to Alumni Hall expecting to see a dignified program and were confronted by a girl who thought she was a parking meter? A group of people rushed onto an elevator and knocked a little old lady down? (There's no elevator in Alumni Hall!) You saw a wall-flower bloom? A Kangaroo hopped across the stage followed by a showdown between two vicious gun-slingers? You saw a man try to commit suicide and the Crusades re-enacted? Richard Burris ran the mile? (I didn't know the stage was that big!?) An Unidentified Flying Object landed on the stage!!! Miss W.M.C. is really a machine? You say you saw Isacc Newton, Ben Franklin and Alexander Graham Bell and nobody made a sound?

Tell me now, friend, was this before or after exams?

We can't go on meeting this way!

Reality or Illusion__?

"'RIGHT YOU ARE, IF YOU THINK YOU ARE!'" is a statement of Pirandello's 'relativism' in this play, pre-eminently, we see the struggle for life in its inner essence, life in the private depths. The struggle is caused, or exacerbated, by the desire of other people to know the truth about a certain family. Pirandello maintains, we are told, that truth is relative and subjective, the joke being that people know the truth already since whatever seems to each of them so is so. One would think the play philosophical, and the philosophy cynical, but what is this love of truth that Pirandello condemns? It is no Socratic dedication, it is Mrs. Grundy's nosiness, it is the idle curiosity of Ciuzza, Luzza, and Nela which has gained in malignancy as it has risen in social station. This love of truth is the pseudo-religion of the bureaucratic fact, on the altars of which men are sacrificed to paper and typewriters."

—Eric Bentley

Only "The Truth" will satisfy this group of cats surrounding the helpless canary.

"They live in their own world in a fullness of love . . . a completeness of devotion . . . into which no other person must ever be allowed to enter."

Reflecting on the chameleon qualities of truth, Laudisi stands in a typical pose as the spectator-character-spokesman of the play.

Nazareth: A Ritual Play

"This simple showing that ye see of Love at Nazareth . . ."

Nazareth: a Ritual Play, by Laurence Houseman, was presented by the Dramatic Art Department in co-operation with the College Singers at the Christmas Vesper Service.

"And through long years it put forth leaf, and grew in beauty till man came and slew."

A rich blending of music, ritual and dialogue hallmarked the powerful presentation of an early period in Jesus' life, and a prophecy of what was to follow.

"Love in man's form took life from wind and sun . . ." A deeply moving experience for both actors and audience.

This Christmas service was dedicated to the memory of Lillian Smith . . .

"Teach us to listen

To sounds larger than our own heartbeat . . ."

Understage

"The freedom and excitement which a small intimate theatre such as understage allows will, produce an atmosphere in which old formulas are tested in new ways, and in which new approaches are given the necessary artistic right to fail."

The failure or success of Brecht's The Measures Taken and Terry's Keep Tightly Closed in a Cool, Dry Place is left to those who saw them. But all must agree that Understage presented a new approach which left an atmosphere of free interpretation and opportunity to experience experimental drama. The acting, which was excellent, the scenery and curtains, which were simple but effective, are not the most important aspects. More important is Mr. Solomon and Mr. Tribby's and Miss Smith's attempt to bring to W.M.C. the excitement of the freedom of experimental drama.

The Measure Taken-Brecht

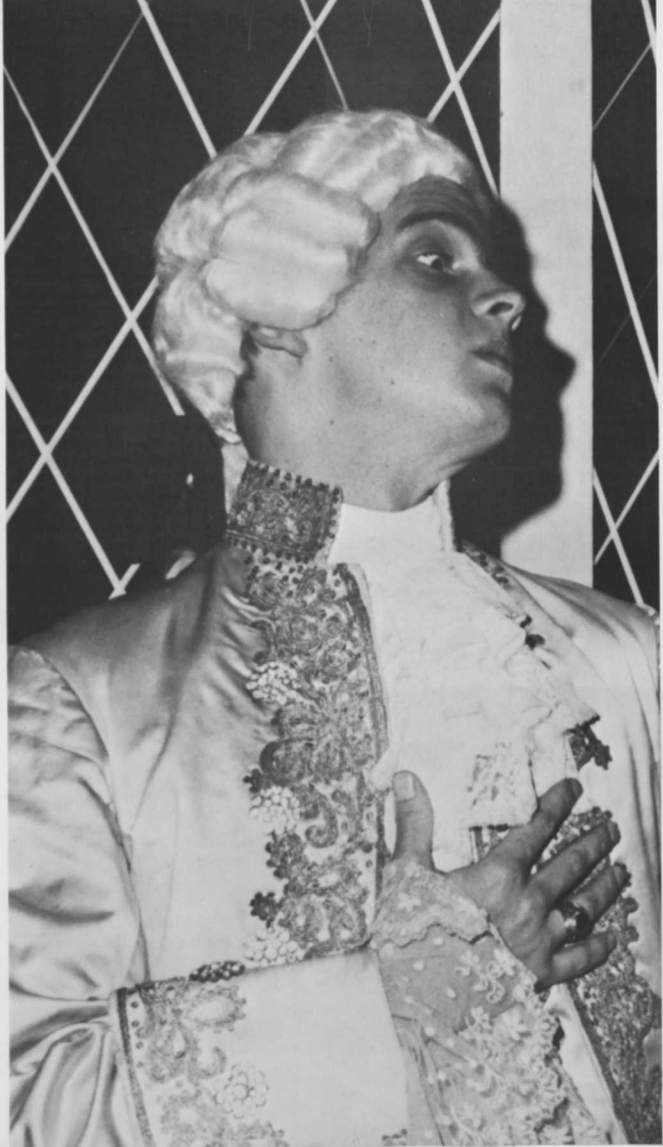

Brecht's teaching play is a demonstration of his technique of alienation which is the fundamental requisite to the "epic" response of the theatrical experience. In order to call the attention of the audience to the fact that the play is a demonstration of man and his environment in rational and intelligent terms, he used songs, projection, and detached actors.

Keep Tightly Closed in a Cool, Dry Place-Terry

Terry's play is a sharp illustration of its composition—Improvisation. The idea of this is founded by Chiskin's Open Theatre which is indebted, in part, to Brecht. The actors are given a scenario and from these are free to improvise under the direction of the director. We have on the realistic level commentary on underlying social conditions and institutions, but it is the combination of this surface reality and the ritual, dreams, phantoms, clowns, and monsters improvised by the actors that give us a powerful surrealistic play.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Sir Peter Teazel: "I was never mistaken in my life."

Joseph Surface: "I am never so successful as when I am a little merry.—At least I never feel my losses, which is exactly the same thing."

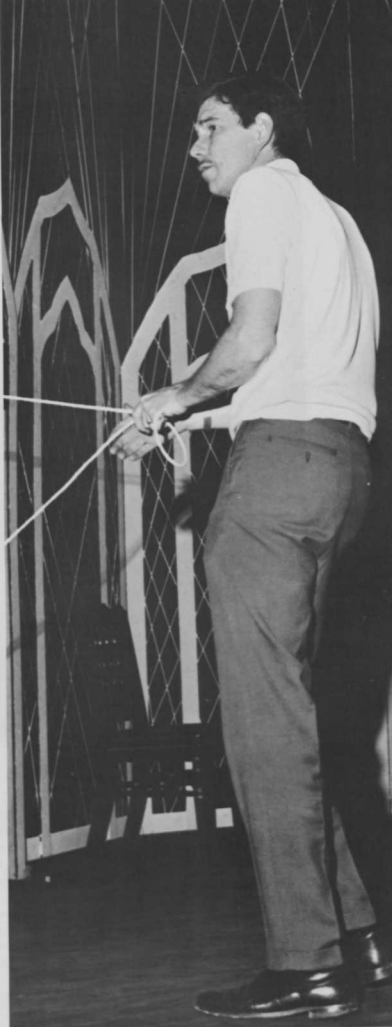

Charles Surface: (spoken while trying to seduce Lady Teazel) "Heaven forbid I should persuade you to do anything you thought wrong. No, no, I have too much honor to desire it."

Sir Oliver Surface: "I hate to see prudence clinging to the green suckers of youth; tis like ivy round a sapling and spoils the growth of the tree."

Mr. Crabtree: (said of him) "His conversation is a perpetual libel on all his acquaintance."

Sir Benjamin Backbite: (one of his verses):
"Sure never was seen two such beautiful ponies;
Other horses are clowns, but these macaronies!"

Snake: "You paid me extremely liberally for the lie in question, but I unfortunately have been offered double to speak the truth."

Montage: An Evening of Readings

Esther Smith
Jerry Solomon
William Tribby

Five poems by e.e. cummings, arranged for three voices, strikes your senses in a staccato fashion, then blends into a smooth flowing verse and you realize the evening is going to be more than a "reading." Of this fact you are convinced when Miss Smith reads of man's suicide without death from T. S. Eliot, Herman Melville, and Tennessee Williams. You watch, you listen, and you're absorbed. Then, once the trio has your emotional being, they hit you in the head with it by Billy and Jerry bounding about on the stage in a satire on Camille. To send you home with that "good-all-over" feeling, Winnie-the-Pooh is done in such a warm, gentle style that you feel you're six again. What can you say?

"It was, well, it was . . . Great!"

ORGANIZATIONS

The New Image of the S.G.A.

The S.G.A. has developed a New Image. Behind the shield of pipe smoke sits president Ron, with Kaye, the efficient recording secretary, by his side. Harry devised sundry methods of increasing revenue. His motto is "with a Jewish president, we should be rich."

The idea of the year has been to create a better relationship between the student body and the administration. Such a task involved emergency meetings and sleepless nights . . . and a few midnight beer parties for those special problems. The results showed.

Rockwell spoke with no lasting evil effects, and the campus took the radicalism in its stride. The students boycotted the dining hall for a number of reasons. Movies (of artistic value?) were shown on Friday nights and Homecoming was graced by music from drums and bugles.

The year was an active one. The new image may be here to stay.

Madness with a method . . . or maybe without it. At any rate, madness, and plenty of it goes into producing the bi-monthly journalistic extravaganza known as the Gold Bug—er, Bug. Every Monday and Thursday night, the little office comes alive with the noise of typewriters, crumpled papers, a variety of language, and an occasional joke.

"Who has some copy they can give us? We're twenty inches short!"

Miraculously, out of the confusion, "Big Dave" Carrasco and his editorial crew manage to pull together enough loose ends to present the campus with a newspaper—on time, even.

Assuming the position in February was the new editor-in-chief, Walt Michael. Walt and his managing editor, Paulette Arnold, hope to inspire their staff to carry on in an even better tradition in 1967-68.

Oh, how much more fine and rare and sterling!

The College Choir

The College Choir began rehearsals during Freshman Orientation Week in September, 1966. Many freshman were added to the choir, and this was their first contact with many upperclassmen and Dr. de-Long. They quickly learned to come in a half beat late, or else they found themselves singing an unassigned solo. There was the usual work load. Two anthems for each chapel service and a Christmas program had to be familiarized. The first program was the Christmas Carol Program. Several instruments were used to obtain the added interest in the pieces.

After semester break, the choir began to really concentrate on the Mass by Charles Gounod. The mass featured a trio and solos performed by Pat Meyers, Sonny Euker, and Harry Loates. At the same time performances for the mass were taking place, the choir had to prepare a secular Spring Concert.

The Choir rounded out a full year in June by singing at Commencement.

With the acquisition of new blazers, the band performed at all home football games and many pep rallies. The compositions performed this year ranged from Bach to the Tijuana Brass. The year has seen a much improved and more appreciated Western Maryland College Band.

ROTC

"Hey, Doc, do I get a lollipop?"

The ROTC Department acquired a new look this year. The new PMS, Colonel Ross and his staff, along with the cadet battalion staff, completely restructured the general format of drill. Now, nobody knows where anybody is or should be. The freshmen and sophomores were completely lost, as usual; the juniors were always doing something different; and the seniors only added to the confusion. While Major Fogler, Captain Holder and Sgt. Major Lancaster bewildered everyone in class, the seniors, led by Waghelstein and Sybert, managed to function equally well on Hoffa Field. Gundy and Carter told everyone where to go, while Moler and Riker wandered aimlessly through the battlefield records of Chippong-Ni and the discarded history notes of a certain discarded individual.

But despite the confusion, a greater interest prevailed in the ROTC program, a greater understanding of the role of the military evolved, and a greater appreciation of educated leaders and their responsibilities as officers began to emerge.

For Everyone: Student Opportunities Service

Yes, SOS is still very much a part of Western Maryland College, or better still; yes, Western Maryland College is still very much a part of SOS. Either way, the Student Opportunities Service is growing bigger and better each new year, as it constantly renews, reorganizes, and replenishes itself.

The SOS program this year extended from four small communities in Puerto Rico to a tiny patch of Appalachia in Panther, West Virginia. The largest team ever sent on an SOS summer venture (21) encountered its share of problems: lack of suitable arrangements for homes, garbage, burned-out brakes, obstinance and confusion, garbage, no money, garbage, conflicts, and of course, garbage. Now this may sound like a lot of garbage, but it isn't. For SOS is so many more important things, too: a labor day jubilee, community organization, an effective leadership program, and even adopted sons and daughters. Yes, SOS is everything from rats to rainbows and much, much more.

Estha's Honies are spreading out; They're becoming Bill's Babies and Jerry's Jokers. The D.A. department has taken on a new color—Blush Red. Understage is more than a name, it's more than a movement, it's more than a—than a—What's the word? The infamous-uh, famous College Players have progressed from being pebbles on a beach to being a little bolder on the stage. They step-together-step-pointed and hoo-hooed their way to the top. "But Casey, when you've played in the balcony—how much higher can you go?" Those senior dramatic art students really take their work seriously. After their last final, Larry had a cracked jaw and Carolyn had a broken head. Bill was the Great Culture Leader for this troupe, but Richard was definitely the most versatile actor. His performance of Berte, the maid, was—moving. Longer hours, harder work and more fun than any other department

Brotherhood?

With the passing of time, all institutions acquire individual traditions. Western Maryland is certainly no exception. The traditional aspects of our college have their value, but there is a danger when tradition is blindly accepted, followed, and its basis and relevance unquestioned.

Since their establishment, the fraternities and sororities have existed in an atmosphere of relatively settled security. This is not to say they have remained unchanged through the years, but their position, once established, had never been severely threatened. Within the past year, however, these organizations have been asked to justify their relevance and continued existence. A President's Committee was appointed to make an objective appraisal of the total situation.

The original movement that precipitated the investigation hoped for a decision on fraternity-sorority abolition by January 1. This proved impossible; a fact which was not indicative of lack of effort, but evidence that the original issue had expanded greatly. It has become increasingly obvious that the results of any decisions will be extremely far-reaching, and much time required for the final assimilation of all factors. What began as an honest examination of one facet of student life has developed into an in depth probe of many areas.

Those who are sincerely concerned have shown their interest in directed action. It must be stressed that these actions are not the result of a conflict between hostile factions, but groups expressing every viewpoint, who have as their common goal a mutually acceptable system. The extent and depth of the investigation into the components of student life make it virtually certain that some areas will experience definite reform.

The final product cannot now be determined, but it cannot be denied that this movement has already shown positive value. The majority of the students are now more aware of the situation and the value of progressive change for social growth. And the sororities and fraternities are now attempting objective self-examination, fully aware that if they are to remain relevant, responsible organizations, change must be initiated from within.

Delta Sigma Kappa

Dear Bruce Catton,

Inspired by your interest in Civil War history, we feel that it is important that you be informed of a significant series of events having a direct bearing on the outcome of that internal strife.

In the turmoil of the Fall of 1966, word was out that the valiant Delt Regiment was looking for new recruits. Taking up the call to arms came twenty-five spirited souls who marched into camp, joining the battle weary veterans. They took up their positions, reinforcing the stalwart Bachelor line.

A dress parade through the streets of Westminster resulted in the occupation of a nearly deserted theater. Look-outs were posted to guard against assassins. The recruits later received their first taste of the horrors of war on an evening thereafter known as Hell Night.

Next on their battle plan was a badly needed refurbishing of their stronghold with paint, paneling and plush carpeting. A new mascot further bolstered their esprit de corps. Even in the fever pitch of battle, the leprechaun legions kept the reserves informed of their progress. The elfin regiment graphically demonstrated their prowess in a minor skirmish on Hoffa Battle Field as they stampeded an inferior but unaccountably overconfident force.

While less valorous fighting forces were languishing in winter quarters, the tempestuous thirty were making history in the one night battle of Gettysburg and the immortal Pixie's Charge. The Deltas were active on another front, too, sending S.O.S. fruitcake to soldiers in Vietnam.

For outstanding valor in the face of continual harassment, Pixie Lin Lin Chen received a purple heart. But they owed their success not only to individual courage but to the able leadership and unswerving devotion of their officers; General Stonewall Lentz, Brigadier General Pursue 'em Ayres, Colonel Type-it-up Tibbetts, and Major Balance-on-hand Eyler (a skilled acrobat).

This, Mr. Catton, is the true saga of the intrepid thirty. And all according to Hoyle.

Very Truly Yours,
Delta Sigma Kappa

Bluebeard the Pirate Sisters of the Sabre

Your Pirateship:

Launched with a watermelon over the prow, the galleon Iota Gamma Chi embarked on a voyage to recruit a new crew. A brawl started in the local tavern, when Mary began to sing. Above the crooning of a barber shop quartet, Elaine, trusty steward, commanded: "Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rootbeer," which immediately quelled the disturbance.

Boarding the S.S. Showboat, we shanghied a full crew. Jo, soprano emcee, sang out their names to the tune of "Five-foot Two." Hell night took place as we crossed the equator into strange waters, with Captain Cathy at the helm. There was no mutiny among the lubbers, even when Boatswain Sharon put the pledges through unusual antics at the Christmas party, held amidships.

A final examination revealed that a squall had driven the ship off the first semester course and a new tack was taken with the election of new officers. More crew, along with other supplies were taken aboard during a stop at a friendly island, and all were invited by Chief Maggie to attend the annual formal rain dance. The Iota Gamma Chi is now on course and expects smooth sailing and Iote fellowship all the way.

Dear Hugh Hefner,

We would like to offer a few suggestions which we think would increase the circulation of your magazine. There are many girls in our sorority in whom your readers would be interested. For instance: our dedicated student teachers Pat, Lamoop, No-No, Snod, and Debbie; Barbe, our Best-Dressed Coed; Mother Jane and her Pepto-Bismol; Little Wilk, who finally got her ring; Mase, the brain behind the Goldbug; Robbie the janitor; "frosty" Andy; Jacque and Lynn, who terrorized the pledges; the "Hungry Mothers," who thrilled the dining hall with their singing ad for the Open Party; Gail, Duby, and Orph, our sexy majorettes; Janie, our personal war correspondent; Filbie, Dotty, and Zimmie, the purple and white segment of the FAC; Inky and the dress she almost didn't get into for the Formal; Fergie, who under pressure, finally got her ears pierced; and, of course, the celebrated Lady Godiva.

For your science fiction department, we enclose an article entitled, "The Night the Purple Lizard Invaded David House." Since your magazine is famous for its cocktail ideas, we send the recipe for our famous (and lethal) Phi Alph Punch. We also send pictures of our ravishingly beautiful pledges. Now you can see why the Purple Cows are High on the Hill.

Sincerely,
The Phi Alphas

"We pledge love and loyalty"

Dearest Will,

We haven't changed much since seeing you last. "What a piece of work is a [Sigma]," "a poor virgin, sir, an ill-favored thing . . . but [our] own." "Though [we] look old, yet [we are] strong and lusty; for in [our] youth [we] never did apply hot and rebellious liquors in [our] blood."

The new rushing system "be madness, yet there is method in it." However, "something is rotten in the state of [sisterhood]," and we have learned that "there's daggers in men's smiles," but we too, may "smile and smile and be a villain," for "sweet are the uses of adversity." The bidding sessions went on "For ever and a day," and we discovered that we were "more than kin and less than kind." "The devil hath power to assume a pleasing shape"—the blackball; and "some of us will smart for it."

Acceptances brought a wonderful pledge class; "for this relief, much thanks." Oh, acceptances, "how much better it is to weep at joy than to joy at weeping."

We know how much you enjoyed our ski-weekends in the past, but at present, we have "not one [social event] to throw at a dog." "To be or not to be, that is the question," while the President's Committee treads "the primrose path of dalliance."

"Let us make an honorable retreat" now, for "brevity is the soul of wit."

Unity of Mind and Purpose

Dear Santa Claus,

How the hell are you? Things have been quiet since you were here last year, except for the crowd in the infirmary due to the casualties suffered in the new cadet bayonet course. Anyway, we've been pretty good boys this year, so we're writing early.

Bro. Cute wants a portable oil well. Bro. Carter would like a new milking stool. For Bro. Smothers, autographed campaign pictures of George Wallace and Lester Maddox would be nice. Bro. Flash needs a new plunger. Bro. Wilson wants a new jar of Vaseline. Please bring Bro. Clark a new haircut. Bro. Ellenberger wants the same spelling book you gave Bro. Winter last year (Bro. Winter needs a new one too, since he lost the other one). Bros. Festa and Fanning want a copy of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Bro. Behnke wants another all-day sucker. Bro. Johnson wants a new tractor. Bro. Gentry wants a neon "Quiet Hours" sign so he doesn't have to yell.

Bro. Doss wants a new mirror. Bro. Duck would like a pond of his own. Bro. Carlson would like to beat the Dean just once. Bro. Yingling would like another Shipwreck Party. Bro. Kroe wants "permission" to go to Florida. Bro. Fisher would like a new roommate next year and so would Bro. Fowler. Bro. Michael wants a razor tough enough to handle his beard. Bro. Wolf needs an aquarium for his room. Bros. Moler, Hutchinson, and Evler would just like to be Bachelors again. Bros. Matza, Fass, Smith, Baker, Blum, Feigelson, Wool, Waghelstein, and Hatton don't believe in you, Santa, and don't want anything. And thanks for all the little pixies you put in our stockings last year. Please bring us some more.

"Got to talk to the Dean about these on-campus jobs!"

Dear Woodrow Fazool,

Since we haven't seen you in several months, I thought I'd fill you in on the latest that has happened to your brothers here at Delta Pi Alpha.

We started off the year by seeing two of our brothers—Mike Beach and Jay Sybert—get elected as co-captains of the 1966 Green Terrors. We all celebrated by throwing a good drunk.

Good tidings once again visited the Beachs as we honored Joanne as our new 1966-1967 sweetheart. Picture that—a smiling sweetheart and a dissipated ogre of a football captain.

We were lucky this year to receive two fine pledge classes for the price of one. And every one of them seems destined to carry on the same "good old preacher name."

Once again the gang took off for Daytona to spread the name of Western What far & wide. We should receive a bill for repairs shortly.

Several of our brothers have succeeded at their snake hunts and gotten pinned or engaged. For a classified list, please consult our newsletter for this year.

To end this letter on a happy note, I can only say that the prognosis for the future looks like the preachers will keep their lasting image and remain "individuals" yet "brothers" for many years to come.

Faternally yours,

... Brothers ...

Dear Troll,

Thought you would be so interested in what has been going on up on the "Hill" since last fall.

All the brothers are busy this Spring planning the Second Annual Blue Ball. Richard is busy laying pipe from the Homestead to his room. Larry is sending prayers of thanksgiving for Mama H. Bob is learning how to fly so he can join Tom in some of those famous maneuvers in the sky. Fred has stacked his room so full of orange juice cans, neither he nor Al can get in. Joel is becoming very lonely without his roommate, and the whole room is quite Bear without J. O.

Harry hates to think he has to reform to fall in love, but Jim showed us what good clean living will do for you. Mike is fleeing the country this summer because of his books. John has made a big move up, and since his loss of hearing it might do him good. Dennis is commuting to Greenbelt, and Ken and Ira are just commuting. Miles gave up the books and went back to five-cent cigars. Mazz has finally started to take English lessons. The Hungry Mother perplexed Larry and Greg since they weren't quite sure what a "Hungry Mother" was. Charlie is quite upset since he won't be able to swab the decks much longer, but the Third Floor Hall Football Team is just as happy. Dave has given a spark to the meetings with his committee report and Rick hasn't been the same since.

That's about all for now. Hope to see you this spring.

Yours most sincerely,

Pi Alpha

Alpha

Dear Dr. Makosky,

This year, Pi Alpha Alpha's theme was "giving of ourselves." The pledges elected to spend a day ridding Westminster of unsightly scrap lumber. When, however, upon the mountain of logs rising behind the section, fence posts, and barn siding began to appear, we started to question whether this could still be called "giving of ourselves."

Again in the spirit of giving, the pledges gave pledgemaster Ferguson an expense-paid tour of scenic Harrisburg by moonlight.

This year at our annual Christmas Party for underprivileged children Bro. Riker played Old Granddad. The kids all had fun lining up to sit on his lap and smell his breath.

We've had some pretty good parties this year. Some of the brothers never fail to drink too much, but the more sober ones always volunteer to make sure the others crawl back safely—something like the blind leading the blind.

The high spot of the year was our new pledge class. Next week they begin learning the fine ideals that all Black and Whites have taken as their own. To update our pledging, we no longer treat them as "unenlightened equals," but as "subservient little nuds." We feel that we'll have much better results with this approach.

Fraternally yours,

The President

LOWELL SKINNER ENSOR

You may see him walking across the campus. He'll tip his hat and call you by name. You may see him cheering at a football game, or you may see him in the audience at Alumni Hall. He's Dr. Lowell Skinner Ensor, our President. A man of great responsibility and many duties, yet he still finds time to attend campus functions.

Having a sincere interest in the students, his office is always open to them. Individuals or groups may call upon him with their problems and he will offer his assistance. A dignified, capable man, Dr. Ensor well represents Western Maryland College.

Before we adjourn, I'd like to remind you to throw away your trash and empty the ash trays.

The AAUP, professor-sized version of the SNEA, is active in areas of campus interest, ranging from academic affairs and college policy to items of particular interest such as salaries and fringe benefits. Almost three-fourths of the faculty attend the chapter meetings held every other Thursday in the Davis Room of the library. A few of the programs presented at recent meetings were:

- Dean Zepp on his trip to Selma
- Report on the St. John's conflict
- Color-blindness on campus
- Proposed Carroll County Community College
- Three term program for WMC
- Focusing on Admissions Policy
- Foreign Students: Future expansion

This year's officers are Raymond C. Phillips, president; William R. David, vice-president; Robert E. Coleberd, secretary-treasurer.

The Centennial Expansion Program

The ground-breaking for the addition to Lewis Hall (first step in the expansion program) took place in the fall of 1964. It was attended by (l. to r.) Mr. John Cunningham (Board of Trustees), Dr. Lowell Ensor (Pres. of W.M.C.), Dr. Harwell Sturdevant (Head of the Biology Department), and Mr. F. Kale Mathias (Board of Trustees). The wing was completed and opened for use in the fall of 1966, giving the four science departments adequate laboratory facilities for the increasing student enrollment.

The pride and joy of the entire college is the air-conditioned Decker Lecture Hall, equipped with the most modern audio-visual aides. It was named after Alonzo G. Decker, member of the W.M.C. Board of Trustees and President of Black and Decker, Inc. The old wing of Lewis Hall was not forgotten as it underwent an entire refurbishing to make Lewis the most modern classroom facility on campus.

Science Dedication Week: Science in a Liberal Education

Western Maryland alumni, guest speakers, faculty members, parents, and students took a good look at Lewis Hall during the Science Dedication Week held in the fall. All scientific and mathematical organizations participated in getting guest speakers for each evening. Six of the guest speakers were WMC graduates who spoke on topics ranging from "Virus-Cancer Complex" to "Dielectrics."

All during the actual day of Convocation, tours were given through Lewis Hall and demonstrations were performed by various students. Dr. H. Bentley Glass, the Convocation speaker, climaxed the week with his talk on the topic "Science and a Liberal Education." Thirty-eight representatives from colleges, universities, and learned institutions of the Middle Atlantic States were present to commemorate this day.

"October 15, 1966 — You were there!"

Dr. H. Bentely Glass was the inspiring speaker at the Convocation exercises in honor of the Lewis Hall Wing Dedication.

Left: The opening assembly was on Monday, Oct. 10; Dr. Eugene Cronin speaking on "Science in a Liberal Education."

Lower left: Tuesday night Mr. Rodger Eyler, sponsored by the Chemistry Department spoke on "Operations Research."

Lower center: Dr. Chirigos, sponsored by Tri-Beta, spoke on Wednesday evening.

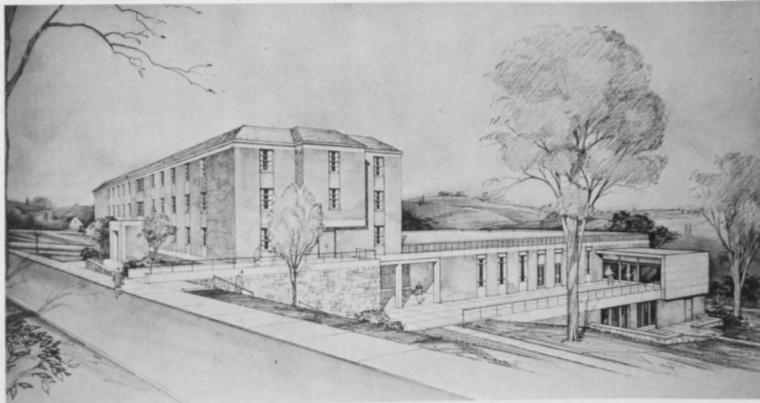

Lower rt.: Dr. John Witherspoon spoke on "Plant Ecology."

Opposite page: Dr. Harwell Sturdevant, Head of the Bio. Dept., gives a sigh of relief as "the day" comes to a close.

There Once Were Some Rats On The Hill

And then the rains came—right down on the class of 1970 on September 14. “Only one more trip and I think everything will be in.” Three trips later, the same confident statement. Fourth floor fathers swore each trip was their last. PICTURES!? “I can’t possibly have my picture taken today! Look how (circle one: curly, straight, pretty) my hair is!” But the pictures were snapped anyway. All the girls were boy-searching and all the boys were traveling incognito. “Oh, but I can’t possibly go out with him. Johnny and I agreed not to date others!” And the $64,000 question was, “Who will remain loyal to the home front the longest?”

At the first two mixers, the freshman boys made an honest effort, but when the upperclassmen returned, the freshmen found they were fighting a losing battle. But anyway, they had already decided that the girls did, in fact, have to pass an ugly test to enter this academy of higher learning.

And the GRILLE! Everybody and his grandmother “fraternizes” at the Grille. But later they learned that it was only, after all, a Procrastinator’s Paradise.

And then one day, a cloud of gloom was lowered upon the Hill—classes. After a few weeks, a cry arose: “This place would be great if it weren’t for classes!” But then, every cloud doesn’t have a silver lining.

Rat Week was not as ratty as the big cheeses had promised. Instead of bio., everyone was studying “I’m just a poor Bachelor. . . .” But it was all in vain, for nobody cared to hear from the freshmen. However, after that week, a huge sigh of relief was heaved by all freshmen, for now they could end all this foolishness and wander down the collegiate path (without a railing) that they were destined to trod.

Downstairs Behind The Poles

Having survived the freshman flunk-out, we have now surged into the legendary sophomore slump. The class of 1969 has taken to the hills of Harvey Stone Park to escape the clutches of Econ and American Lit. After a year of intensive evaluation of courses, the most popular major has undoubtedly become the Grille. United in the spirit of procrastination, the sophomore class indulges in over-sleeping, underattending, and a spirit of good-natured fun. Parties are preferred over Poly Sci, games over genetics, and the Homestead over history, but let's look at the good side of life. Good grief! Just think, now we can sit downstairs behind the poles in Alumni Hall. At last we know what territories belong to whom in the Grille! The girls have jumped from 2 to 4 late leaves and the guys are twice as happy.

Second down, two years to score, goal to go!

Since the girls' curfew on Saturday night was so graciously extended this year, the boys' curfew was also graciously changed—to sundown. To cope with the new hours, the group above is shown using the old Indian rope ladder trick in an effort to hold an impromptu cabinet meeting.

Where, Oh Where . . .

In '68 we'll graduate. We're near the final stage. One more count, and we'll blast off into For the moment, though, we're juniors—a fraction of the whole. A versatile, talented class, growing to know more of ourselves through each other. Out of "sophomore slump," but upperclassmen? Us?

Part of the Baby Boom; we've got quality and quantity. Growing—and assuming responsibility: Parents' Day, the Follies (Mom, Dad, and Marybelle), the Junior-Senior Banquet, and a rose to those who are leaving us behind.

Involvement is the key . . . and interaction. We're a class of athletes, of musicians, of artists, of scientists. We're a class of big talkers, party people, big actors, big reactionaries, and bearded ones. We're rough drafts, soon to become high on the Hill.

In '68 we'll graduate, but that year is getting impossible close. Will we make the fourth? It's been known to happen, and there's no doubt—we will make it! What in the world are we going to do? Yes, that's it—what in the world?

In an effort to maintain the superb aesthetic quality of the old campus, no railing was ever placed along the walk to the grille. The students above, carried away by the beauty of the surrounding scene, formed the extemporaneous living tableau entitled, "Hymn to Intellectual Beauty and Physical Disability."

It's Come At Last, At Last It's Come, The Day We Knew Would Come At Last Has Come At Last

The history of any class at WMC proceeds through many of the same activities and traditions as any other, but the individuals in the class of '67 have made these past four years all our own. As bright-eyed, bushy tailed freshmen, we were all for setting the campus afire with enthusiasm—some preferred starting with the biology department. "Unity" was our byword,—and all of six or seven braved the icy wind and snow to create "Snoopy," who captured first prize at the first and last annual Snow Carnival. For the Freshmen girls, spring cleaning started in the men's dorms and ended in the men's dorms, all in about four exhausting hours. But with spring bursting forth, young women's fancies turned to the Sadie Hawkins Dance, one of the most successful dances that year, a perfect idea to keep as a class project every year—but we never did. That was the year of the Preacher army spilling over their corner of the grille, while the girls were packing away cookies and slurping punch on Wednesday afternoons. The year wound up with extra crepe paper on the lanterns to keep the candles from blowing out—but it didn't help. The fall of 1964 brought rash promises by sophomores that "sororities won't split us up," and the strength of those vows was evidenced by the overwhelming number who sacrificed sorority-fraternity floats to develop "Jason and The Golden Fleece"—yes, that was the sophomore class homecoming float! 1964-65 was also a very good year for class meeting attendance—they could easily have been held in the grille phone booth. Due to mammoth resources in our class (or at least we'd like to think that was a good reason), the Freshmen Advisory Council was opened to Juniors in 1965-66. Our grand and glorious junior year was fraught with friendly Follies fights. After five or six rounds of tradition versus Broadway show, we proved to everyone, including ourselves, how successful a "horrendous" show can be! But even before tryouts had been held, four or five brave souls had served that 5 a.m. breakfast to the senior class that morning before Christmas vacation! Springtime brought new ODK members, Trumpeters, and the 1st off-campus Jr.-Sr. Banquet. Rosecup ceremonies disguised the notorious "trench" for a couple of hours at least. The end of the year caught some of us holding our breath counting quality points to see if investiture meant we were really seniors. Then it was the fall of 1966 and will the real 96th graduating class of Western Maryland College please step forward? Now it's our turn to student teach, to take GRE's and comprehensives, to apply for jobs, to count credits, and to cry a lot. And now it's all over!

The class of 1967 would like to pay tribute to the members of their year who were nominated and chosen for Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. Throughout the senior section are the leaders who have emerged during the past four years, the friends we have worked with, and the leaders we are proud to acknowledge.

CENSORED

Bye Bye "Tradition"

"Well, this is horrendous! What is a director supposed to say when a show is bad?" Well, John Balderson, director of the 1966 Junior Class Folies, "Bye Bye Birdie", summed it up with those words. If "Birdie could only sing—if Dotty just had the routines worked out—if anybody had acted before—if nothing! If we had waited to work out all the "ifs", Birdie would never have gotten to Sweet Apple! If we were daring enough to break the "established tradition" of Folies satire on WMC, then we were just crazy enough to put together a great show. In spite of Nancy's having to work with monotones and Sinatras, Joyce's having to remember everybody's lines, and John's having to cuss alot, the final week rolled around. With a minimum number of flunk outs and nervous breakdowns, the show picked up. Maybe it was Conrad's gold suit, or the pink courthouse, but whatever, it was a class at Western Maryland College working together without worrying about what Greek letters anybody else wore. "Well, we've got a show on our hands, even with the Shriner's dance cut!" Then the final chorus of "A Lotta Livin'" faded into the on-stage dressing rooms. The makeup came off and left the same familiar ruts, but others kept the enthusiasm created in those months. The Senior Class now is the combination of both.

"Of course, I use the touch system—whenever possible!"

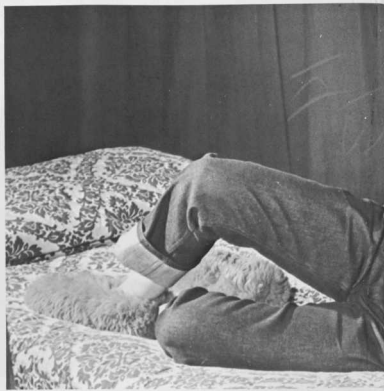

"Mr. Birdie, what are you doing?"

"Albert remembers everything but the hot lunches and these!"

The Year of the Happening at Wimsee College

The Executive Staff sponsored a "Come-As-You-Would-Like-To-Be" Happening. The Editor-in-Chief played Napoleon (or is he Hefner) leading his "playmates of the month," Anne, Carolyn, Lynn, Jackie, and Linda. Tom couldn't smile—he was playing the "other side" of a Crest commercial. (His side had 56% more cavities.) Fish played Fish. Unfortunately, frostbite began to overcome parts of the girls' anatomies and they ran home, which precluded a true Happening. It only managed to leave Larry out in the cold.

As Seen Through The Eyes of the 1967 Aloha Staff

This staff sponsored an "Out-of-Your-Tree" Happening. It was doomed from the beginning. Col. Willis had the tree signed up with the SGA office for his own "Make-Way-For-The-Dorm" Happening. The staff didn't have a chance.

It's What's "Happening" at Wimsee, Baby!

or

"Aloha" From Your Unpoly- nesian-Type ALOHA Staff

The staff decided to hold a "Vigil For Peace" Happening but couldn't think of a place to hold it—the Homestead was too small. Meanwhile, they sat down to ponder the situation until Kathy recovered from her attack of jungle rot. Filbert forgot the red lights for her uniform (tinfoil is the latest fashion) and Jo Anne forgot the paper plates. Being plagued with such a lack of response, this happening folded early, too.

"But things like that don't happen today!"

Mike Psaris, following Wimsee tradition, wanted a [money] tree at his Happening. The best he could get was a lamp post. It didn't exactly accomplish his purpose but did drag in a few curious passers-by. It turned out to be a "Come-As-You-Are" Happening and did last longer than the other due to the conformists involved.

Joyce Ferguson sponsored a "So-Sew" Happening for her staff. It turned out to be a hen party and with all the girls present there wasn't much to talk about except Linda Berry's frostbite. (Was it really the frostbite?) Anyway, it was a short subject for these ladies and the Happening fell apart at the seams.

Editor's Epitaph

The 1967 Aloha was a friend named—

Tom with a camera

Lynn with a smile

Fish with a grin

Carolyn with a word of encouragement

Jackie with responsibility

Anne with beauty

Linda with rare greatness

Mike with money to spare

Aldie with needed talent

Mrs. Earll with understanding

Dr. Royer with qualities that I worship

and—a staff that just wouldn't stop!

These people I thank for providing Western Maryland and me with the talent and time to produce the type of yearbook that WMC needs.
These are the people to whom I dedicate the 1967 Aloha!

Larry
