Passages is the title that we on the Yearbook Staff feel best represents the theme of the 1978-79 school year. This year has been one of drastic change for the college community. With the addition of a new college center and a new center for performing arts it is a time of great opportunity for the Western Maryland Student. But it is also a time of stress as exemplified by the sometimes violent occurrences on campus. Passages does not attempt to explain these changes, but instead documents and describes these transitions that transform both the student and the campus.

The concept of passage is as complex as one's individual journey. Through the following pages we will attempt to characterize the idea, and elaborate on both the people and the place that together form Western Maryland College.

One manner of passage is the passage through the physical world. This course from place to place requires a variety of tools to facilitate and ease one's individual odyssey.

Physical passage is accomplished in a variety of ways, but the result is always the same: one arrives at a new point.

Passage can also be made through time. This traverse also requires tools to guide and shape one's journey.

Time passage may be the single most significant concept for those passing through WMC. Time touches all people on the Hill, and they travel with it in many diverse ways.

Time passage not only touches the people of WMC, but also affects the physical campus. Change has obviously come to the Hill in the form of the new college center, and the renovated Alumni Hall. More subtle change has also come to the seemingly timeless Little Baker Chapel and the Arch. Only a few years ago the cross of Christianity topped the spire of Little Baker, its removal completed the transition of WMC from a Methodist to an independent college; only a few decades ago the Arch graced the center of campus, its move marked a dramatic change in the campus following the destruction of Old Main.

CAMPUS LIFE

The Humanities And

The school year 1978-79 was designed to explore and celebrate the broad aspects of liberal learning through special emphasis on the humanities. Using the renovated Alumni Hall as a performing arts center, WMC executed a varied and extensive program of lectures and performances. Pictured are the dedication of the Decker College Center, Dr. Heggemeier's recital, assisted by Barbar (alias Bill Tribby), the Maryland Ballet, the Frostbite 15 race, Dick Jregory, and the rededication of Alumni Hall — just a few of the many activities on campus during this, WMC's most diversified year ever.

This year's Homecoming events mixed tradition with innovation to create one of the most successful Homecomings ever. Friday night, October 6, the campus started its weekend festivities with a Talent Show and a spirit raising bonfire. The traditional school parade down Main Street in Westminster was attended by throngs of students, faculty and townspeople. It was marked by the unusual collection of cars, floats, bands and the Homecoming Court.

The Alumni Association sponsored their "Oktoberfest" during the game; the largest ever WMC alumni crowd appreciated the mouth watering German food. This large crowd was able to mark the dedication of the new Decker Student Center, which was held the day of the game.

This year's Homecoming game was against the Moravian Greyhounds. Going into the game, the Terrors were undefeated, and by the end of the day, they put another impressive victory on their record. The second half of the game was played in excellence. The Terrors put 28 points on the board while the Greyhounds remained scoreless. The final score was 35-0, in our college's favor. This victory moved the Terrors one more step closer to a MAC championship.

A major highlight of each school year is the announcement of Homecoming Queen and King and their court. A senior girl and guy chosen by their class reign over the festivities of the Homecoming weekend. They are attended by representatives from each class. The crowning touch to this year's game was bestowed on seniors Sue Sullivan and Jack Kendall. The court consisted of juniors Barb Brazis and Mitchell Alexander; sophomores Connie Thompson and Ralph Preisendorfer; and freshmen Rose Walsh and Gary Wingate.

Birth and After Birth

On the 17th, 18th and 19th of November, WMC's Department of Dramatic Art presented Birth and After Birth by Tina Howe. The play centered around the fourth birthday party of Nicky Apple, played by Ed Schleper, a sophomore from Millers. Birth and After Birth dealt with the absurdities of family relationships. Bill Apple, Nicky's father, was played by David Foley, a freshman from Chevy Chase. Bill was the epitome of the little league coach. Sandy Apple, played by freshman Teresa Baker from Gaithersburg, was a typical housewife mother. She was losing not only her mind but also her hair, her teeth, and her stuffing. In the second act the Apples were visited by Jeffrey and Mia Freed, two anthropologists played by freshman John Chriest of Dundalk and Susan Gwaltney, a sophomore from Bowie. This production was directed by Max Dixon. Christian Wittwer and the technical production class developed and executed the set. The show was made easily available to all students by reducing the ticket prices to nothing for campus.

Experience the distinctive beat of the DIRT BAND

Western Maryland College had the privilege of hearing the Dirt Band LIVE!

It was a "good olde time" Wednesday, November 8 – The Dirt Band (formerly the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band) played to an enthusiastic crowd in Gill Gymnasium at 8 p.m. The high point of the night occurred about halfway through the concert. Hand-clapping, foot-stomping, – dancing – music happened with the Band's rendition of "Rocky Top," followed by "Mr. Bojangles."

The Dirt Band – Western Maryland country music at its best.

He captivates the audience with his song.

Unique instruments with a totally unique sound.

These musician's talents mesmerize an audience.

Plimpton and Poussaint

Dr. Poussaint gives his attention to a question dealing with his lecture.

The Lecture — Concert Committee brought two noted professionals to WMC — author, intrigant George Plimpton and author, psychiatrist Alvin Poussaint. Both men spoke about personal opinions and experiences concerning their forestated avocations.

Plimpton, a participatory journalist, fascinated his audience with stories of his unique involvements in the arts as well as in sports. To give his readers personal experiences instead of just sportswriter observations, he has actively participated in football, ice hockey, boxing, and orchestra, a movie, a trapeze show ... his resume is endless. He stated that concentration is what makes a champion, and as deeply as he focuses his attention and whole self in his profession, one can't help but feel that he is a champion.

Dr. Poussaint lectured on "Psychiatry and the Cultural Bias". He spoke of psychiatry today as supporting the status quo. According to Dr. Poussaint, it is no longer the new field breaking through with new ideas, but instead the basis of judgement on what is health and what is illness defined by the culture. The speaker commented on such subjects as racism, the womens' movement, and homosexuality, and the problems encountered in these areas concerning cultural biasness.

STUDENT RESPONSES TO THE LECTURES PLIMPTON

"The man is a great reconnoiterer!"

"George Plimpton is a great speaker and man."

"He is nothing but a charlatan!"

DR. POUSSAINT

"This man possesses a penetrating insight."

"Dr. Poussaint was very informative."

"I had trouble following because of his vagueness."

We Never Let Our Schooling Interfere With Our Education

A student's education can come from sources other than by lessons taught within classroom walls; the Concert-Lecture Committee planned some excellent presentations this year that exemplify this statement. These presentations were learning experiences that students enjoyed partaking in.

Mime Keith Berger appeared on campus and entertained his way into everybody's heart. He surprised quite a few students with his unscheduled antics in the cafeteria, and delighted others who were interested in miming by conducting a mime workshop the afternoon before his performance. By evening, the sell-out crowd was psyched for his show. Keith displayed amazing athletic, dramatic and mimicking skills in his one-man show. His performance was excellent, and he, himself, appeared as great a person as an artist.

Another exciting event was a piano concert given by Cecile Licad, a seventeen year-old native of the Philippines. Cecile's tremendous abilities with the keyboard instilled a deeper appreciation for music and talent into everyone that heard her. Her talents lulled the audience one moment and jarred them the next. She appeared to put everything she possessed into her music, and the result awarded her with a standing ovation. Cecile is certainly a prodigy in music, she's also a welcome visitor to this campus anytime.

Hypnotist James Mapes was another special personality who shared his talents with WMC's students. Mapes delighted his audience by giving them all a number of exercises to do. He also worked with individuals in the audience throughout his performance; this fascinated everyone. Mapes illustrated such work as through: the powers of imagination, the power of persuasion, and age regression. His show delighted everybody.

So, when books close, students are not ending their learning for the day, but just beginning it in a different manner. Students never allow their schooling to interfere with their education.

Cecile's aura is present with her even when she's not at the piano.

Mapes delights the audience with his power of suggestion.

National Players Perform Romeo and Juliet Taming of the Shrew

January 9th and 10th, Western Maryland College was enlightened by the National Players with their reditions of "Romeo and Juliet" and "The Taming of the Shrew." The plays, sponsored by College Activities as part of the Concert and Lecture Series, marked the opening of the remodeled Alumni Hall. Students as well as the general public were present at the events. Both nights were a great success; the large audiences were pleased with Alumni Hall's facelift and delighted by the performances given by the talented actors and actresses of the theatrical group.

The fall of '78 saw a new addition to the WMC campus — the long-awaited Decker College Center. Our new student center provides additional office space as well as many new facilities. Unfortunately, much of this student center is still incomplete, and beset with problems — leaking roofs, student vandalism, and back-ordered kitchen appliances for the Grille. Still, none of this has prevented us from enjoying our meals on the Dining Porch, lounging in the comfortable furniture, and relaxing with a beer in the Pub!

The Grand Opening of the Pub

Monday, April 2, remains an important date in the social history of Western Maryland College. The opening of the Pub established a legal and permanent outlet for the socializing of students and faculty alike. The decision to open the Pub occurred soon after Spring Break when the administration decided to overlook the fact that only the "Pub" of the Pub and Grille complex would be open until next fall. Currently, the Pub offers patrons with a choice of beer, wines, sodas, and prepackaged food. Hours are 7-11 weekday evenings, and 7-1 weekends. The Pub offers many possibilities; students can enjoy a few beers, a study break, a game of backgammon, meeting a faculty member, or just relaxing.

The Maryland Ballet Graces Western Maryland Stage

On February 9th Western Maryland received a performance from the Maryland Ballet. The ballet Company was founded in 1961 and represents the regions oldest professional company. The program, presented in the newly renovated Alumni Hall, consisted of five ballets including portions of the famous "Nutcracker". Also included in the evenings program were other traditional works, such as "Don Quiote" and more contemporary dances, such as the "Three Preludes".

While the troupe performed well as a whole the show was stolen by their lead dancer Sylvester Campbell. Truly, the Maryland Ballet was a unique and entertaining event for all in attendance.

Jan Term '79 was nothing short of a wild time at WMC, allowing students to take unique classes not available during the year, including Chain Saw Art (shown), Oceanography, Bicycling, and many interesting study tours. In addition to classes, intramural basketball teams enjoyed stiff competition. January also brought the greatest offering of Second Spring courses ever. Disco Dancing was the most popular of the Second Spring courses, setting the flavor for the mood of Jan Term. Indeed, Jan Term '79 was the best ever.

January Term: Imagination Runs Wild

Dr. Herlocker recalls the distance traveled.

A slippery start at the Frostbite 15.

On January 21st Western Maryland held its first open road races, the Frostbite 5 and 15. The races of 5 and 15 kilometers were run in spite of the freezing rain and fog that plagued the morning of the races. The Frostbite represented a course requirement for those taking Dr. Case's and Dr. Herlocker's "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Running . . ." The students didn't run in the race but administered the race instead.

Approximately 200 runners reported for the races which were both won by visiting runners. The 15 kilometer winner was Mark Stevenson (51:42), and the 5 kilometer winner was Steve Gimore (17:40). Western Maryland did have two top ten finishers in the 5 kilometer with Jim Greenwood (18:54) and Jon Isaacs (20:03).

Snow

Snow is no fun unless you really get into it.

Exclusive Westminster Coverage

Sometimes just walking is a chore.

Snow covered the Western Maryland campus during most of the 1978-79 winter months. Movement around campus was never easily accomplished, and for the first time in many, many years a day of school was cancelled.

Going to classes was often a true challenge. Sleepy students trudging to 8 a.m. classes found plowing their way through the snow an aggravating experience, trying to maintain balance on sidewalks was even more difficult.

The snow provided lots of entertainment as well as frustration. Students "trayed" on the golf course, played tackle-frisbee, threw snowballs and generally had a great time.

Ten Nights in a Bar Room

Old-fashioned melodrama came to WMC this March 16 through 18 in the form of one town's ordeal with the evils of drinking. It was the beginning of temperance for a town whose respectability was restored only with the resurrection of moral courage. The play included outstanding performances by Don Harris, Ed Schleper, and Rick Powell as Simon Slade, Joe Morgan, and Sample Switchell respectively. Highlights of the play included amusing and unexpected appearances by alumni Don Harris and Kathy Chandler, and by Professor Bob Sapora and Registrar Hugh Dawkins.

Follies — the traditional time for members of the Junior Class to let loose and have fun — sometimes at the expense of faculty and other students, but always for the benefit of the Juniors involved. The format of Follies at WMC this year originated from NBC's Saturday Nite Live Live TV show — complete with skits, music, "Point and Counterpoint," and "Weekend Update." It was Live from the Forum for three wild nights of full houses that weekend of April 19, 1979.

Dual Spring Concert

TOM CHAPIN

This year, two smaller concerts replaced the usual single annual big name band concert.

Tom Chapin played on Good Friday to a small but receptive audience. Talking and joking between numbers, he easily established great rapport with his listeners, even asking for audience participation in some of his songs. Chapin played mostly original material, but for the closing number of his performance, he sang the ever popular "All My Life's a Circle," written by his brother Harry Chapin.

Freewater, a local country rock and roll band, played on May 3rd. This unique second concert was organized by three students: Barry Sacks, Robert Becker and Hunter Stedby. Freewater gave the audience a great bargain for their entertainment dollar; they played late into the night, featuring songs by the Grateful Dead as well as original compositions. The lead and rhythm guitarists and pianist highlighted the concert, impressing their listeners with their technical abilities and dynamic individual performances.

Spring Weekend – May Day. Both names are synonymous with the traditional time each Spring at Western Maryland reserved for a special kind of fun. The annual carnival on the Hill only highlights a weekend of events; this year's Quad Party was rained out Friday evening and held in the Forum, but High School Visitation and the ensuing Carnival on Saturday, May 5, were both successful events. Highlights at the May Carnival included a balloon ascension, a performance in sign language by the "Sounds of Silence" group, a glass blowing demonstration, performances by a mime troupe, a juried art show, and accompaniment by the WMC Band. Much enthusiasm greeted the student body involved in the activities from Western Maryland faculty and staff, and from the many residents of Westminster who attended the festivities.

Spring: the temperature finally breaks 70 degrees, and suddenly WMC students emerge from their dorms, never to study inside for 2 successive hours again! The "games" program at Western Maryland is renowned to be among the best at colleges on the East Coast. Majors are offered in applied frisbee and softball as well as commercial pinball. Special studies are arranged by the students individually and can encompass specialization in jogging, recreational swimming, pre-professional kite flying and applied sunbathing. WMC students spend long arduous hours perfecting one maneuver on the skateboard, that special flip of the wrist in the frisbee throw, the tennis dink, and the softball grand slam — hopefully not into the first floor window of the Preacher section! THEBES:

Thebes, written by student Joe Gainer, was presented at WMC during the weekend of May 12, 1979. The play is an adaptation of an ancient Greek tragedy, and was presented in the newly renovated Alumni Hall Understage. Understage is uniquely suited for small audiences, allowing a more personal and direct relationship with the performers.

The cast consisted of Joe Gainer, Don and Elane Harris, and much of the literary and dramatic community at Western Maryland. The costumes were designed by Maureen Sullivan, the set and lighting were designed by Christian Wittwer, and the play was most successfully directed by Bill Tribby.

Investiture and Honors Convocation

On May 6th Western Maryland held its annual Investiture and Honors Convocation. Included in the program was the presentation of academic, activity, and leadership awards. In addition the annual Distinguished Teaching Award was conferred. This years recipient was Dr. Melvin Delmar Palmer.

On May 17th the WMC ROTC Department presented the President's Review. This, the 59th annual Review allows ROTC students the opportunity to demonstrate the marching skills that they have practiced all year long. In addition to the field display twenty-six awards were presented. Representatives of the VFW, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Daughter of the American Revolution, the Sojourners, the American Legion, the Military Order of the World Wars, the Association of the U.S. Army, and the Reserve Officers Organization were present to confer the individual awards.

Other activities included a performance by the Western Maryland College Band, and the main attraction, parachute jumps by five Maryland National Guard parachutists.

Julia Logan must have gotten the room she wanted!

This Spring's final exam week was long and tedious for most students, including not only finals but also the nerve-racking event of room drawing for the coming year. While students with low lottery numbers picked first, those with poor numbers sweated it out, hoping no one before them would choose their preferred rooms. Many students felt the ordeal was more frustrating than an exam! The blackout caused by a tornado which hit Westminster only three blocks from campus added to the exam week confusion. The blackout lasted about four hours; students who had final exams the next day lined the stairways of the newer buildings on campus and also Alumni Hall, the only places on campus with auxiliary lights. Somehow, we all survived this chaotic exam week!

Freshmen anxiously await their turn at room drawing.

Graduation

The one hundred ninth commencement of Western Maryland College was an event of great splendor. In addition to the awarding of degrees, the graduates to be were entertained by the WMC Band and Choir. The speaker for this year's graduation was the Honorable Harry Hughes, Governor of Maryland. Mr. Hughes deviated from his planned speech about private high education, and instead spoke about energy conservation and responsible citizenship. While his address was short, it was timely, for Mr. Hughes proposed a much needed gasoline rationing plan only a few weeks later.

At right an excited Mike DeHoff receives the Argonaut Award for the highest college GPA. On the facing page appears the graduation line up with honors.

SPORTS

Volleyball

In the midst of today's intercollegiate sports scene it is unusual but refreshing to find a small good team that is successful. The women of Western Maryland College proved this to be true. The 1978 Volleyball team showed that with a little more brains and a little less brawn, success can be reached. With an average height of 5'5" Western Maryland time after time beat teams who were physically superior to our girls.

Supposedly in a rebuilding year, our women consistently out-hustled and out-thought their opponents. On their way to their third consecutive Middle Atlantic Championship, and a unprecedented third place in the Eastern Region for small colleges, many weekends found the volleyball team away from the campus spending their time on the volleyball court. The girls were rewarded by taking home the Princeton Invitational Tournament trophy. They accomplished this by beating Immaculata College, Fairleigh-Dickenson, Ithica College, State University of New York and East Stroudsburg. Losing only to York College, the women posted a regular season record of 15-1 and a final season record of 30-5. The enthusiastic cheering and singing of the second and third teams often enabled the Terrors to pull out victory after victory. In the Princeton Tournament, Western Maryland was behind in the second game of the match 6-14. With expert play from the subs and enthusiastic cheering from the bench, the women were able to pull out a victory 16-14.

The 1978 Western Maryland Volleyball Team truly had a remarkable season. Along with proving their athletic proficiency, the team proved that if you want something badly enough and are willing to sacrifice time working toward a goal, practically anything can be accomplished.

Football

The story couldn't have been done better if it was produced in Hollywood. As the state's Cinderella team, the football Terrors rose from a 2-6-1 record to their best in 15 years with a 7-1-1 mark.

On the field, the Terrors season was impressive. The offense clicked together under the leadership of senior quarterback Joe Damiano and junior running back Glenn Cameron. Joe completed 25 of 73 passes and ran 84 times for 164 yards. Glenn had 430 yards in 116 attempts.

When the offense got stalled, Craig Walker came in and booted the Terrors out of trouble. Walker has 17 fieldgoals including a 48 yarder which set a WMC record and tied the MAC record.

The Terror defense was their strong point. The Terrors ranked second in total defense and first in rushing defense in the nation. The team was named the Maryland College Team of the Year. Individually, selected by MAC for their achievements were coach Jim Hindman, and players Wayne Lowman, Jerry Fisher, Eric DeGross, Craig Walker, Ricci Bonnaccorsy, Randy Halsey, Tom Baugher, Bruce England, Glenn Cameron, Joe Menendez and Mike Sanders. Also coach Hindman was selected for the "Timmy Award" from the D.C. Touchdown Club and end Ricci Bonnaccorsy was selected a Kodak All-American.

The team finished second in the Southern division of the MAC behind Widner. The Terrors were nationally ranked for most of the season. WMC finished ninth in the Lambert Bowl, a poll which signifies supremacy of the east coast schools.

Tri-Captains: Doug Barnes, Ron Rhodes and John Patrick.

This year's Terror soccer team was the last to be led by Homer Earll, who retired after 15 years of coaching. The team completed a 3-10 regular season and took third place in the Sixth Annual Towson State University Invitational Tournament.

Senior tri-captain Doug Barnes was the leading soccer scorer with ten goals. Doug inspired the team throughout the season despite injuries received in the season. Albert Mensah, a freshman from Ghana, West Africa, followed Barnes in scoring. Mensah used speed and agility to get up the field on every shot. Guarding the cage for the Terrors was sophomore Bob Kline. Senior Ron Rhodes and John Patrick also captained the team.

The Thrill of Victory

The Field Hockey team ended a 12 game season 6-4-2 with an impressive third place finish in the Maryland State College Field Hockey Tournament. Their game against second-place Frostburg ended in a tie with the Terror women losing by penalty strokes.

This year 35 women competed for spots on the Varsity and Junior-Varsity squads. Head Coach Joan Weyers and assistant Karen Merkle had strong new talent combined with 14 returning players.

A strong newcomer for the Terror Hockey team was freshman Mary Lally. Mary playing an aggressive forward striker, lead the team with 13 goals. Senior co-captain Linda Sorrentino followed with 5 goals. Co-captain Julie Vaughn, a senior, wound up the scoring with 2 goals.

Standing tough in the goal was senior Pam Hudson. Pam has 63 saves for the Terrors this year. When Pam was unable to play, sophomore Becky Cassilly backed her up.

The wrestling squad finished the season with a 6-10 dual meet record and 7th place in the 20-team Middle Atlantic Conference Tournament. Heavyweight grappler John Koontz finished the season with a 17-4-1 record and took a third place in the MAC Tournament. These accomplishments earned John the Western Maryland College "Wrestler of the Year" Award for the second time in his four year career.

Mike Marchese finished the season 12-2 and earned fourth place in the MAC at 177 lbs. Vince Bohn finished with a 11-4 and fifth place in the MAC 150 lb. class. Steve Anuszewski finished at 10-8-3 and sixth in the MAC at 142 lbs. Rip Jamison posted an 8-1 dual meet mark but was sidelined from the MAC Tournament with a knee injury.

The Terrors opened the dual meet season well, posting wins over Johns Hopkins, Juniata, and Lebanon Valley. However, a rough January schedule which included Division I and II teams left the Terrors at 5-7. The wrestling squad ended the season by crushing Loyola (46-8).

Cross Country

After two years of winless seasons, the cross country team finished this year with a 5-9-1 record. Under the guidance and direction of new head coach Dr. Sam Case, the co-ed Terrors improved their times to set several new personal records.

Leading the team for the Terrors was junior co-captain Doug Renner. Renner held a 35:45 min. time on the 10,000 meter or 6.2 mile WMC rolling terrain course as his best record. Many of the runners participated in independent races and marathons held along the east coast, including Coach Case who ran the 26.2 mile New York marathon. Bob Holcombe also co-captained the team.

Ann Hardebecker and Karen Griest finishing in the top ten of the Middle Atlantic Conference womens Cross Country Championship also improved their seasonal best. Ann finished eighth with a time of 21:16 and Karen tenth with a time of 21:25 in the 3 mile run.

Basketball

The 1978-79 Varsity Basketball team finished its most successful campaign in five season with an impressive 14-11 record.

Coaches Alex Over and Nick Zoulas did a fine job of putting together a scrappy group of hustling ball players. Led by Co-Captains Lester Wallace and Vince Wesley, leading scorers and rebounders Rich Braver, Steve Farley and Rob Lardner, the Terrors defeated arch rival Gettysburg twice, Moravin and Muhlenburg. In the most exciting game of the season, they clinched a play-off spot by slipping past Dickinson 53-52. The appearance of the squad in the MAC Play-Offs marks the first time for WMC since the 1974-75 season.

A key to the superb season was the play of the bench, people like Bernie Jankowski, Scott Peters, Al Fultz, Mike Walters, Mike Hart, Pete Randall and Kevin McLaughlin. They all did outstanding jobs in important situations.

With the return of All MAC and Third Team All Maryland player, Lester Wallace, and Honorable Mention All Maryland player, Rich Braver, the enthusiastic WMC basketball fans should have a lot to cheer about next season.

Basketball

The 1978-79 Women's Basketball team had a very successful season although the over all record (8 wins and 9 loses) may not reflect this statement. The success was counted in terms of many individual and team accomplishments that kept the Terrors within twelve points of the Naval Academy and sent them into two overtime games with York College and Franklin and Marshall College.

The Women Terrors played outstanding defense all season, keeping high-powered Elizabethtown to 73 points and keeping other teams out of their offense by stealing balls and causing turnovers.

The offense was led by junior, Becky Martin, who was named to the Middle Atlantic Conference — First team. Martin led the team with 316 points and 145 rebounds followed by senior co-captain Sue "Phane" Sullivan and sophomore "Crazy" Jean Elliott. Sullivan scored 111 points and had 130 rebounds while Elliot added 110 points and grabbed 80 rebounds. The starting team was rounded out by senior co-captain Ellen "Elbow" Scroggs and sophomore Maggie Mules.

Coach Fritz is looking ahead to next year's season with much optimism. The newly named co-captains for next year will be junior, Barbara Brazis and Becky Martain.

As with all Western Maryland teams there is a second team to which the starting team owes much of it's success. This year the team was led by junior, Cheryl Stonfer, sophomore defensive expert, Moureen Noonan and three outstanding freshmen, Jayne Kernan, Nancy Held and Mary Lally.

This was a good season but we are looking forward to really great things from this team next year as only two seniors will be lost to graduation.

Swimming and Diving

1979 was a memorable year for the WMC swim teams, boasting their best records and first winning season ever. Strong with returning starters and versatile first year swimmers, both men's and women's teams placed 6th in the MAC championships. Freshman Larry Gallagher set new records in the 100, 200, and 500 freestyles, the 200 individual medley, and both the freestyle and medley relays. Missy Sullivan became the first WMC woman to break the one minute mark in the 100 yard freestyle, and Kate Boadway gave consistently winning performances on the diving board. Other team members made strong showings through out the season. The team's confidence increased as they surprised themselves and their coach with very close competitive meets, which were often decided only by a touch in the last relay. The team accomplished more points in the MAC Championships than in the two previous years combined, surpassing teams to which they had lost during the regular season. The Terrors are proud of their 1979 season, and confidently hope to better these records in the coming year.

Sam Mitchell strains to make the height.

The 1979 Track and field team had a successful year finishing with a 8-2 record. The men's team received constant performances from Tom Knieriem in the triple jump, Harry Peoples in the Javelin throw, and Elliot Runyon in the 440 dash. Also doing quite well during the season was the mile relay team. The relay team, Jon Isaacs, Kirby Light, Fred Smyth, and Elliot Runyon turned in fine performances, including breaking a 70-70 tie against Dickinson to give the Terrors the victory in the last event.

The Terror team entered the Messiah Invitational Meet and did very well. The Terrors represented the school well with many finishers gaining medals for their achievements.

The Women's team running for the first time ever, was successful. Led by sprinter Phyllis Landry the team did well against their women opponents or were respectable against the men.

In the Women's MAC Championship, Phyllis Landry came home with a gold medal in the 100 yard dash.

At the seasons end, Phyllis Landry and Elliott Runyon were named outstanding female and male track performers for 1979.

Baseball

Western Maryland College baseball brought excitement to "the hill" as the 13-8 Terrors had their best year in several years. Behind the bats of co-captains Kevin Zawacki (.291) and Andy Weber (.290), Dennis Hanratty (.383) and freshman MVP Brian Bain (.463), the Terrors surged to second place in the southeastern division of the MAC. It was a year that boasted such freshmen standouts such as Bain, John Leibel, and pitchers Dave Lesch (3-3) and Mike Gosnell who won the pitching MVP by going 5-1 with a 2.27 E.R.A. It was pitching like this that led sophomore Bruce Frick to a 4-1 mark while Lesch led the staff in strikeouts. Along with great speed and defense and a strong bullpen hosting Leon Brooke, the Terrors swept four double headers including the final two against rival Johns Hopkins. Next year's team returns completely with the exception of Jim Boyer Award Winner Andy Weber who will most likely be replaced with 1980 co-captain Craig Walker.

Under new head coach Dan Meyers and senior captain Jay Buckley, this year's Terrors finished the season with an impressive 9-3 record. Although they lost four players from the '78 squad, they still had four returning lettermen, seniors Steve Dyer and Jay Buckley and sophomores Craig Rae and Bob Kaplan. The remaining three spots were filled by seniors Vince Wesley and John Cochran and a promising freshmen, Bill Morley. With the loss of five players due to graduation and transfer, next year looks to a rebuilding year under the two returning lettermen, Rae and Morley. Although the terrors failed to defend their MAC championship title of 1978, Steve Dyer managed to finish sixth in individual competition.

Men's Tennis

This year's men's tennis team under the leadership of Coach Ron Jones finished the season with a record of 7 wins and 5 losses. The team bettered last year's record of 7 wins and 7 losses. Returning players Dave Zauche, Tim Hackerman and co-captains Jim Slack and Fran McCullin formed a strong nucleus for this year's team. Freshmen Scott Smith, Ward Street and Richard Haskett made their presence felt as they preformed very well in their first season of collegiate tennis.

This team, while being very young, proved to be very skillful as all the players boasted individual records of better than .500. Fran McCullin compiled the best record on the team at 16-8 and was voted player of the year by his teammates. The number one doubles team of Jim Slack and Tim Hackerman proved to be consistent winners as they won 70 percent of their doubles matches. Talented freshmen Scott Smith and Richard Haskett showed they could win on the college level by posting records over .500.

Coach Jones and the team look towards next season with optimism as the team loses just one player, Jay Gardiner, to graduation. The team will be looking to surpass this year's record of 7-5 next season.

Women's Lacrosse

The Lady Terrors finished their 1979 season with a good 6-2-1 record. But their record doesn't show the remarkable three shutouts that the women registered this year.

Co-Captain senior Pam Hudson was the goalie and made saves on 81 percent of the shots taken at her. The team only allowed 2.4 goal per game. The defense was anchored by co-captain senior Ruth Seaman. The team used a zone defense which slowed down many offenses.

The offense had the sister duo of Brenda and Pat Donovan. Brenda, a senior co-captain, had sixteen goals and freshman Pat had eleven. The team finished their season with a second place finish in the Penn-Mar Conference. They ended the season with a tie with Franklin and Marshall. But the outlook is even better with an undefeated Junior Varsity.

Men's Lacrosse

With an MAC record of 8 wins and 0 losses and a 9-2 overall record, the Terror's Men Lacrosse team won their second straight MAC title. Depleted by the graduation of two attackmen and two midfielders, the team was able to fill the gaps with the arrival of many capable freshmen and some key position changes to make the team as strong as last year's championship team.

Some of the season's highlights included an action-packed, hard hitting game against Franklin and Marshall. The Terrors defeated the F&M Diplomats for the second straight year and clinched the MAC title with a 12-10 victory on Hoffa Field.

In order to keep their league record perfect, the Lacrosse team had to beat a good Gettysburg team in the last contest of the season. The defense proved to be the decisive factor in this game as the Terrors pulled out a thrilling 6-4 victory in front of an excited WMC crowd. This was the first time in four years that the Terrors defeated the Bullets.

Even with this year's graduation of John Little and co-captain Wayne Birely and Jack Kendal, the team looks to be just as strong next year led by captains Charlie Brown, Rob Bowman and John Patrick.

The Women's Tennis Team got off to a great start in 1979. Without a senior, the squad did a fine job. Coach Joan Weyers had her women out to a 5-2 record before they ran into tough times and finished the year with six wins and five losses. Captains Lee McIntere and Linda Piccirelli lead the team with their play.

Highlights were varied. Against a powerful Franklin and Marshall team, Louise Herrera and Linda Piccirelli managed a victory in the doubles, the only WMC point.

In the MAC's, Linda Piccirelli, Diane Vebars and Sue Garman won their opening round before falling to tough opponents. Debbie Taylor reached the quarter-finals before biting the dust. Losing no one to graduation, the team should be strong next year.

The Art Department offers basic courses in "Drawing," "Design," and "History of Art" as well as electives in crafts, ceramics, sculpture, painting, and elements of commercial art. Activities other than classes allow students to visit many galleries, work on student publications, accomplish campus art projects, or tutor aspiring young artists in the popular Saturday morning art classes for children of the community.

The range of activities of the Biology Department extend from promoting practical projects such as building blue-bird houses to doing fundamental research on fish development. The faculty, cooperating with the active campus chapter of the national honorary biological society, Beta-Beta-Beta, have sponsored student research programs emphasizing vocational opportunities in biologically related professions, and a series of special lectures featuring both off-campus and on-campus speakers. The curriculum is integrated, one which emphasizes principles but at the same time offers excellent training in specialized areas insuring success in a variety of fields, including health sciences, forestry, genetics, and ecology.

In a curriculum approved by the American Chemistry Society, the chemistry department offers a flexible program which bends toward an individual's abilities and objectives. It provides the essential background for graduate study, government & industrial work, and secondary education. Often this leads to dual majors in combinations with a concentration in mathematics, economics, education, physics, or biology. This may qualify students for admission into medical, dental, veterinary and optical graduate programs as well as other related fields.

The dramatic arts program is a comprehensive study of theatres, performances, dramatic literature and criticism. It is also the development of acting ability and production "know-how." The department emphasizes learning theatre by doing theatre. Campus productions this year included "Birth and Afterbirth," and "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room." In addition to the theatre activity on campus, our faculty participates in and encourages involvement in the several nearby community theatre groups. With this background many dramatic art majors continue their studies at graduate or professional schools.

The Educational Department had an exciting year in 1978-1979. Dr. Mary Gail Biebel and Ms. Paula Ottinger were welcomed as new faculty members specializing in and deaf education, respectively. WMC's very fine programs in elementary and secondary education were in evidence as 71 teacher candidates finished their undergraduate programs in 1979. Dr. Francis Fennell also reports a record 33 elementary education seniors. Many education students have an interest in WMC's deaf education program, and sign language classes continue to be popular among undergraduate students. State and national involvement related to publishing, speaking, and consulting were reported by several faculty members. Continued interest in teacher preparation at WMC is expected.

The English department has a very special relationship with the Class of 1979. The entire class was baptized with the first offering of the interdisciplinary "IDS" program. No doubt expecting a traditional freshmen English sequence, they were somewhat shaken with the heady mixture of science, writing, economics, history, and the arts that faced them in a high-powered, high-speed, 3-hour course. The 28 English majors in the Class of 1979 also arrived in time to begin an entirely new sequence of courses in their own department. This class has feasted from a Chinese menu of courses. We trust they were substantial, we know they were varied and fresh, we hope, paradoxically, that you'll be hungry 2 hours later.

Majors experience their chosen language through the study of literature, writing, and conversation. Some students have come in contact directly with the language by going to study for a year in Europe. Even at the elementary level one learns about the culture of the country, its major historical figures and its great works of art. Along with language courses, the department offers literature courses and culture courses which are conducted in English.

Dr. Austin spent some weeks in China this summer, observing city and countryside. Dr. T. Evergates guided a group through Greece and its Isles during the January Term. New courses introduced were "American Labor History" and "Early European Society". Dr. Darcy particularly enjoyed developing the January Term. "Modern Ireland". Dr. Donna Evergates, whose field is Anthropology, is now giving the course in Greek and Roman history.

Most of the officers are ROTC graduates themselves. In addition to their normal classroom activities, they plan and conduct a variety of weekend activities such as white-water rafting, hiking, canoeing, mountain climbing, and other outdoor adventures activities. These trips are designed to develop leadership skills in the upperclass ROTC cadets while providing healthy outdoor fun. The faculty and staff members also serve as volunteer physical education instructors in Karate and rappelling and assist in coaching several varsity sports.

Accredited by the Nat'l Association of Schools of Music and the Maryland State Dept. of Education, the Music Department prepares majors for graduate study and teaching in public schools. Specialized areas of study include a Basic Major, Applied Music, Music History & Literature, and various levels of Instrumental and Vocal Education. There is a close cooperation with the Dramatic Art Dept. in the production of musicals of all kinds, West Side Story to Gilbert & Sullivan. The campus performing ensembles, Concert Choir, Concert Band, The Choristers, College Singers, Brass Quintet and String Quartet all are available to those interested and qualified to continue making music together. Perhaps the most popular ensemble is the Jazz Ensemble which has been very successful in its undertakings.

The Department of Philosophy and Religious Studies offers a combination major or a separate major in either discipline. Philosophical studies cover the history of philosophy from early Greek to contemporary thought, the nature of knowledge and truth, the meaning of justice, the ethical issues of our time, Western and Asian philosophy. By exposing students to a variety of religious expressions and beliefs, the department encourages students to develop their own attitudes while gaining an appreciation for the meaning of religion in the lives of people throughout the ages. New areas of interest added this year include black religions, American Indian religions, existentialism, philosophy in literature, and mysticism. The newly formed Philosophy Club meets monthly.

Yedinak, acting head while Achor is on sabbatical, continues his interests in auto mechanics, meteorology, and medical physics. Achor's sabbatical at Penn State is going well, and will result in a new Jan-Term course in acoustics. Nach assists the physics dept. first term but spends full time with computer science second term. Makosky is still wowing them in Energy and Astronomy, and still growing great grapes and making wine. He is trying to save the Monocacy (River, not Drive-In) and his home by defeating the dam.

The political science department provides students with an education in the workings of the world's governments. Using both current events and study of the history of government and leadership, the department seeks to help the student discover more about how and why our system works, and to prepare majors for careers in law, government, public service, and many other professions. Experiences in the department may include internships in Washington or Annapolis, membership in the social science honor society Pi Gamma Mu or the International Relations Club, or a fun afternoon at the biannual Political Science picnics.

ORGANIZATIONS

Argonauts

The Argonauts is the honor society of Western Maryland College. It has three purposes: (1) to promote scholarship on the Hill, (2) to recognize those who attain high scholastic standing, and (3) to bring about a fellowship of the scholars of the various departments. Members are selected by the society's five faculty advisors from a group that includes the upper 10% of the junior class and the upper 15% of the senior class.

Keith Lawson, Jeff Gates, Beth Lengyel, Pat Holt, Nancy Maitland, Pam Hudson, Steve Kousouris, Amy Turner, Peter Agoris, Scott Beam.

Art Club

The Art Club helps support the fine arts at WMC by helping to set up and coordinate campus art shows through its Gallery Committee. Members may also join the Saturday morning Youth College Arts Club. In addition, the club holds social activities, such as picnics, and helps present the ever-popular Haunted House at Halloween.

Tri-Beta

"Not only to live but to know living." Tri-Beta enjoyed a wide variety of guest lecturers this year. A main project for the year was building a Blue Bird Path and special houses to help reestablish the threatened Blue Bird population. Highlighted social events were the second annual wine and cheese party at Christmas, featuring the now infamous Wassail, and the spring picnic, headlined by the Faculty-Student softball game.

Concert Band

It was a good year for the concert band. We played four good concerts and the audiences are getting bigger and better too. We also played for the ROTC President's Review, May Day, Decker Student Center and Alumni Hall Dedications, and Graduation. At the football games there was the good old Pep Band in their gold jackets, armed with show tunes, marches, and bad cheers. It takes the band to win the game!

Black Student Union

The Black Student Union is a group of student who are interested in providing experiences for WMC and the community in the Black culture. This year, the BSU sponsored several dances, Forum Parties and lectures. This fall they organized Black History Week, a multi-faceted, campus-wide presentation of many different aspects of the Black culture.

Catholic Campus Ministry Council

The Catholic Campus Ministry Council was newly formed in 1978. CCMC was formed to be a visible witness to all people of the message and service of Christ. The Council provided a worshipping community for the Catholics on campus in the form of weekly Masses, Catholic Bible Study, and a Discussion Group. A number of students were trained to be lectors, and two became Eucharistic Ministers. CCMC also sponsored a picnic, Cartoon Festival, and a Halloween Party for UNICEF.

Chapel Committee

The Chapel Committee enjoys the responsibility for the organization, preparation and leadership of the weekly and special Chapel services. By also sponsoring guest lecturers, seminars, retreats, and Chapel Choir, the Committee hopes to provide fertile ground for growth in the knowledge of God. Chapel services and Committee meetings are open to all.

Cheerleaders

The WMC Terror Cheerleaders are always a welcome addition to home football and basketball games. Their abundance of spirit and confidence help to bring a winning attitude to both players and spectators.

ΠΓΜ

Pi Gamma Mu is the national honor society for social science students and faculty. The purpose of the society is to improve scholarship in the social sciences, to inspire social service to humanity, and to engender sympathy towards others with differing opinions. Membership is open to juniors and seniors in the upper 35 percent of their class who have a B average in the social sciences with at least 20 hours.

Residence Hall Staff

The Residence Hall Staff does all those little jobs we need to have done: hand out keys, lock up dorms and unlock students' rooms, call maintenance staff to fix broken windows, bathrooms, and radiators, and replace light bulbs, and answer unanswerable questions. All this and study too!

Pom-Poms

This year's pom-pom squad consisted of 28 girls, led by captain Terry Mott. The squad provided half-time entertainment at home football games. The excellence of the Green Terror football team, combined with enthusiastic spectator support helped in leading the pom-poms to their most successful season yet. This year's squad included 9 seniors, 8 juniors, 6 sophomores, and 5 freshmen. The squad thanks Gayle Annis and Dawn Lunceford for their aid in choreography, and Mr. Carl Dietrich for all his time and help. Also, thanks to the WMC Pep Band and their leader Yvette Odell for providing music at the games, as well as for their dedication at rehearsals!

Spanish Club

El Club Espanol welcomes all students and faculty members who are interested in the Spanish language and Culture. Weekly "tertulias" are held as an attempt to become better acquainted. Regular meetings are held monthly. The club's various activities include slides and talks by students and professors who have visited Spanish-speaking countries, Hispanic dinners, films, selling tacos at the May Carnival, and "fiestas."

Dr. Tom Deveny, Carolyn Kelly, Dr. Isabel Valiela, Donna Gurfolino, Sue Hevener, Scott Beam, Scott Sheridan.

Ski Club

The WMC Ski Club is a relatively new organization on campus. The club received formal recognition in 1977. The club has continued under the direction of Richard Desser. The purpose of the club is to introduce the sport of skiing to as many individuals as possible and to provide a number of inexpensive ski trips to the students of WMC. The club rarely holds formal meetings, preferring to spend the time on the slopes. This year, the ski club ran day trips to local areas over Jan Term and second semester. The season was highlighted by the 3rd annual trip to Sugarbush, Vermont.

Varsity Club

The Varsity Club was formed by Pam Hudson this year as the first coed organization of its kind. Requirements for entrance are a 2.0 GPA and participation in 2 seasons of Varsity sports. The Club recognizes and promotes achievement in athletics for both men and women. Its advisors are Kim Easterday and Dr. Sam Case.

Writer's Union

The Writer's Union of WMC is a group of persons from the College community interested in the contemporary events in writing. The Union serves as a source for guides to small presses and suggests other publishing options to interested persons. Members share ideas on contemporary works through poetry readings by students and published off-campus poets and through critical essays. There is a close working relationship between the Writer's Union and staff members of the literary magazine Contrast.

WWMC

WWMC was founded last fall with the intention of starting a radio station on the WMC campus. The group has worked all year to start a radio station by doing research, pricing equipment, establishing the need for a radio station on campus, and raising money from the campus community. The group has been working hard to realize the dream they have all shared: a real, progressive college radio station at WMC. They are confident they will see their dream come true in the near future.

ATT

Alpha Gamma Tau's fifty-fifth year was marked by continued participation and leadership in campus activities both as a fraternity and as individuals. Under the leadership of Alpha's Vince Wesley and Jim Mariner, Alpha Gamma Tau remained active and influential in many aspects of college life. Highlights included The Purple Bull, sponsored by ATT and ΦAM once each semester, which brought a nightclub atmosphere to WMC, the Christmas Dance, and the Spring Dance. And, of course, Homecoming and Pledge Party were tremendous successes. Despite the loss of 15 members due to graduation, all indications are that the Bachelors will remain strong into the 80's.

Phi Delta Theta began this year with the traditional Kazoo Band on Homecoming Day. This annual tradition dates back to the founding of Phi Delta Theta at Western Maryland College, in 1971. Along with the usual closed parties, and the modified section parties, the Phi Deltas also sponsored the Valentines Day Dance. Phi Delta Theta's annual community service projects included Christmas caroling at the Westminster Convalescent Home and spending a day at the Paradise School for Juvenile Boys. The Brotherhood of Phi Delta Theta was the largest fraternity on campus this year and will remain that way in '79-'80, with the largest fraternity pledge class this year. The twenty-three new brothers are sure to carry on the proud 131 year tradition of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

The colors red and white mean one thing at WMC; the spirited sisters of Delta Sigma Kappa. The Delts live up to their nickname of "pixies" by being extremely (and enthusiastically!) busy all year. The Delts are famous for their flea markets, barbershops, Pixie Pubs, Forum parties and balloon ascensions. This year they added a turn-around Halloween Dance and the selling of homemade birthday cakes to their achievements. The Delts also work with various charities. They never forget about themselves, though, and squeeze in cocktail parties, closed parties and banquets. "No matter what, no matter where, things look up when Delts are there!"

ΣΣΤ

One of the three sororities on campus, usually found in the colors scarlet and silver, is Sigma Sigma Tau. ΣΣΤ is a group of 44 women involved in the social life on campus as well as service to the community. Their newest project is that of sewing or mending clothing for residents in a nearby convalescent center. The Sigmas have several social activities, including car washes, open parties and alumni functions. The highlight of this year was the Spring Formal, held at Martin's Westminster in April. Concluding the year with "Sigma Superstars" competition at May Day, the Sigmas finish up an active year and are looking forward to an even better one in 1980.

ΦAM

This year the Phi Alphas had a very busy year with various old and new experiences. Annual events and services included sandwich sales during Monday night football, a birthday party for Senior Citizens, selling Avon, and an exceptional Christmas Banquet at the Havilah Inn. The Purple Cows enjoyed new experiences as they rounded themselves up for a Toga Party and co-sponsored the successful Purple Bull. In the spring, the Phi Alphas sponsored their 2nd annual Irish Turn-Around Dance, and their formal at Martin's. The Phi Alph colors of purple and white were proudly paraded throughout the campus upon the arrival of an enormous new pledge class, and the Phi Alph motto still rings true — "the best sorority on the hill."

The Intersorority Council seeks to bring about and preserve a sisterly spirit and to insure cooperation among sororities. The Council makes and enforces all rules regulating rushing. This year's President was Bev Miles.

PASSAGES 1979

Putting together a yearbook is very hard work but it is also very rewarding. To know that your carefulness is finding out someone's name or including a good photograph will be appreciated for years to come gives a staff member the feeling that his or her time was spent well. This year the staff has given their all, staying up late to meet deadlines and helping each other out in many ways. We of the Yearbook staff are very proud of our work, and we feel that we have put out a better book than WMC has seen in a long time. It is our hope that in Passages we have remembered 1978-79 as you would like to have remembered it yourselves.

Transition

Memories and the chance to glance back. Memories filter through these pages — more lasting than just a glance. Take the time to remember your experiences here — time well spent with friends, time spent alone. Academics — the first reason for our being here, but not the last. Remember that final exam in the Spring holding you back from your summer? Hours of reading. Time passed dreaming away classes: dreams unspoken and dreams undone. The year in review — a time to remember.

Retrospection

Our lives are entwined for only a precious instant at Western Maryland. We try many new things these brief four years — new ways of being, new faces. All ways of discovering ourselves in others. We need to remember the essence of the school — the people, their dreams, their accomplishments. All our lives are passage-filled. Buildings echo meaning and reminiscence — a picture, a moment in a special song, the thought we read about that becomes our own. All representing transition-motion in time and place. Memories of change — fleeting, yet all the more precious for their transience.

Occurrence

The source of our being, our future endlessly being rediscovered, given new meaning by our encounters with others. Here are recorded memories — of change and of changelessness. We find new possibilities in our adventures at WMC — many directions from which to choose our futures. Time spent here is both an entranceway for understanding our meaning, but it is also a point at which we are in the midst of change; transition. It is the people here we will remember. Dreams remain unforgotten.

Recently I was asked by a perspective freshman, "What's Western Maryland College like?" The question was familiar. In fact, I have answered that question so often that I was prepared to pull out the standard, "private, liberal arts college, located at the foothills of the Catoctins," answer. However, just before I turned on my speech, I decided to get heavy with this unsuspecting youngster. After ten minutes of impassioned, oratorical genius, I realized that this person had no idea of what I was talking about. So, I down-shifted, and gave him the information he needed to hear. Please allow me to try again.

College is about change. We all quickly learn that lesson when we arrive. What were once considered universal truths, leading to a well behaved future, begin to slip through our fingers. High school sweethearts quickly fade into the distance, majors change, and jobs emerge where we never dreamed they would. The changes are inevitable. The variables are each individual's ability to be receptive of the need for change when it arises and then, to adjust with all the implications of the change. The adjustment is an uncomfortable process at best, and is often fairly painful.

Perhaps it is our responsibility, as students, to maneuver through these transitions. . . .

... Certainly, most of the responsibility rests on our shoulders. But the environment in which we make these crucial decisions is extremely important. We must be stimulated to think critically about ourselves and our environment to make decisions that will relate the two in a healthy way. WMC has been fertile ground for me in this respect. In the class room I have been encouraged to adopt and support opposing viewpoints to those supplied in texts and lectures. In the area of extra-curricular activities I have been encouraged not only to participate, but to formulate, manage and evaluate. I would not have had all these opportunities elsewhere.

Western Maryland College, by adopting an active, dialogical style of education will always provide the potential for critical self-evaluation. The charge to students, professors and administrators is to insist that this potential is realized. If we accept anything less than total involvement in all areas of campus life by each of these groups we will rob ourselves of the capacity for personal and community growth. Let us accept the inevitability of change and use the environment we have created to explore its potential.

I. I picked a flower today. It reminded me of days past and times not yet heard of. I wish for them no solitude, no time apart from anything but job, happiness, beauty and the fragrance of a rose.

II. If I had my life to live over,
 I would relax more.
 I wouldn't take so many things
 so seriously.
 I would take more chances.
 I would climb more mountains,
 and swim more rivers . . .
 Next time
 I'd start barefooted
 earlier in the spring and stay that way
 later in the fall.
 I wouldn't make such good grades,
 unless I enjoyed working for them.
 I'd go to more dances.
 I'd ride more merry-go-rounds.
 I'd pick more daisies.

The other evening, I had the pleasure of joining a group of seniors in the Pub for a little beer and a lot of conversation. The topic was basically the same as this essay's: Reflections on WMC. Thus, I write not only my ideas, but some of the ideas as expressed by that small group of soon-to-be alumni.

Western Maryland College is people — dynamic people. It is people who are having thoughts and ideas presented to them in such a way as to necessitate a change in the individual. It is my belief that this is the single most important facet of a liberal arts education. One must learn, not only knowledge, but how to think. More specifically, a college student should learn how to integrate knowledge from many areas and apply it to him/herself and to the surrounding world.

Western Maryland has done all of this and more for me. And yet, as I look around and speak with other students, I can see where there are many who have not become active in this process of self-change. For these people, WMC will be nothing but a series of final examinations. Looking at this from the perspective of the college community as a whole, the college is losing out on the potential inherent in these students...

... The point of this is that, in order to grow as a student at this college, the individual must actively participate in that growth. He or she must constantly ask (or be asked) questions like, "What do you think?" Involvement in this institution, as a dynamic institution, is necessary if the potential of each student and the college as a whole is to be realized.

All of this is not to say that WMC is a stagnant institution. On the contrary, I feel this college has aided my personal growth, through knowledge and social interaction, in ways not possible anywhere else. I have no regrets. I merely wish to express my concern that this college has a potential to be a powerful aid in every student's self-realization — a potential that is not being lived up to. Thus, the college community loses as a whole. To the administrators and faculty that may read this, since you are the continuity of the college, I would ask that you ask the question, "What do you think?" Ask it in and out of the classroom. Ask it until you get an answer. Be a catalyst. Some already fit this description, most do not. To the presently attending and to future students: Ask the same question of yourself and to future students. Then let your answers be known. In sum, each member of this college should be involved and, just as importantly, should promote involvement in all aspects of this community. In this way, 100% of the college can become a pushing force in what is already a dynamic, growing institution. In this way, WMC can realize its fullest potential.

My thanks to all those who have contributed to my experience, growth, and learning.

As I look back at the past four years, I must ask myself – what have I learned and what will I remember? I feel that my learning extends to a point that is far beyond that reached by any college textbook. I have had to learn bigger and tougher lessons than my professors ever assigned. My freshman year was a time of learning to be away from my family and to live with new people whom I had never seen before. During my sophomore year I finally started to establish my own little place on campus with all the securities of being accepted and needed. My junior year told me to expand my horizons and open my eyes – I became involved in campus wide activities and was searching for a voice in the way the world around me was run. It was up to our class to set an example for the rest of the campus and this was perhaps the biggest challenge placed before us. I had to first learn my role and then how to fulfill it.

My memories of WMC will always be with me as I have come to love the "Hill" very deeply. The times to be remembered are as various and colorful as the people who made them. To take a back campus stroll . . .

... and watch the sunset on the Cotoctin Mountains. To carry on like a bunch of juveniles by having water battles and "racks". The loneliness of late night studying in the basement of Big Baker. The feeling of success when you pass that first econ test. The anticipation of a weekend party with the Bachelors. The thrill of getting a date with that certain special girl. The excitement of a big Saturday afternoon football game. The sadness of your friends graduating and leaving campus. The elation when they return and tell of their accomplishments.

Western Maryland, I hope that you will not change but that you will continue to change people like me. This change I talk about is not physical but spiritual as you have instilled in me and my friends what I consider to be a WMC spirit. This WMC spirit surfaces in honesty and sincerity and in that present and yet so simple "hello" with a smile that everyone greeted me with during my first week of college four years ago.

Only nine days until fall break! Tonight I was studying on 3rd floor Whiteford when someone shouted "EXERCISES" and everyone jumped up and ran into the hall. I couldn't believe it. There were about fifteen women in pajamas doing exercises in unison. Then on thing led to another and pretty soon we were doing the Virginia Reel, stomping feet and clapping hands to the music in our heads . . . Then the Phi Delts serenaded.

I went for a ride in an old green pick up with West Virginia fags. There were seventeen people in the back, huddled together 'cause the cold wind kept tearing at us, seventeen people laughing and carrying on. We drove and drove and drove. Then we rolled up our pants and stood in the warm tub. Someone opened champagne and poured it in. Black Orphans over and over, jazz, African tribal, American Indian and Wagnerian Opera in one, over and over, louder and louder. Someone started backrubs and seventeen people took turns kneading and being kneaded. I fixed someone's bicycle.

Lunch time and there are still more people in the street than cars, after $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 feet of powdery snow which I trudged through earlier in pursuit of fencing. People see us as symbols of a new humanity — if we are truly free. This what I have learned from WMC in a nutshell.

We come to college with hope of being different by the time we leave, but the process of change is frightening. Sometimes we are more afraid of what our new person might mean, in relationship to others, than of what bondage to our old selves means. It is so easy to slip into neat niches — like ECON MAJOR or SORORITY SISTER — and grow only so far as these roles can expand. We may think we are being different from the rest of the middle-class society by doing “new things” but is the process really different, are we meeting the liberal arts ideal of the universal person?

I think we can. But we must be wary of easy self-assurance that we are “together”; we must be wary of professors professing to have THE truth; we must be wary of administrators administering blindly. Then we have a ray of hope to work with.

Far from being pessimistic, I believe the potential for greatness is within every student, professor, and administrator's reach at WMC. We must push each other into being respectors of truth, honesty, and human decency ...

... If you come to college with your defenses up to anything new and controversial, so that you can duck when the punches of stress and questioning come your way, then you are the loser. We must act decisively to reach out and grasp freedom. Not a freedom to do our "own thing" recklessly, but rather, a freedom to be seekers of a better world. If we are honest, the truth may reveal some shocking things, as it has for me. It may reveal that our culture, our wealth, and our minds have imprisoned us in ways in which we are not aware.

The keys to all those locks are here — if we want them. We need to take a large number of courses outside our major, willingly. We need to order and reorder our priorities and goals. Speak out when we feel something is wrong. No professor, no staffer, and no student is above constructive criticism.

We are here to learn how to build bridges. The most important bridge to build is within ourselves; there must be integrity between what we do and say and who we are. Building bridges must become our priority. With bridges there is not one person or thing that we cannot reach.

And so it ends. Four years of work and play culminate not only in one day, one ceremony, but should culminate finally in some degree of self-knowledge and awareness. Four years, and in the least we have gotten a college education, and at best we have come to know ourselves a little better.

To me, college represents a time of possibilities — a time to enjoy many things and many kinds of people. It is in this sense an attitude and a challenge; a chance for self-fulfillment in many directions. College is a way of life. Here we grow and learn about ourselves and the world — where we will belong in it.

Memories are important to me because of the people I find there, and the change in myself that they helped to catalyze. I remember a person who confronted me with an opinion that helped me see a situation from a new perspective; I remember someone who invited me to become part of their club, where I found much satisfaction; I remember the Professor who commended my work — I remember the teacher who influenced me to major in the department I did . . .

Subtle changes occurred there, but they are college-related changes I will never experience in that way again. We learn and acquire certain ways of thinking and ways of dealing and being with people from our college experience. This happens in what some look so dreadfully forward to — in the 'real world' — in a different and less personal way.

I would hope then that we learn enough about ourselves to know when change is necessary and possible; that we can fully enjoy ourselves and find challenge in post-graduate life. That we have learned means we have lived; I hope I have extended myself enough in trying to outreach my former grasp of life. I have done my best — guided myself by what I am, looking for what I can be, allowing myself to be influenced by people important to me.

It is this I would wish for you also — treasure your experiences here and in their memory find fulfillment, but also find the challenge for greater fulfillment in the future.

Memories of the four years spent at Western Maryland generally recur in a hodgepodge fashion. Looking back, events tend to exist as a hazy background until brought into relief by memories of the people who were involved in them. Through class, living arrangements, and activities, working and dealing with people stands out as one of the most important learning experiences I had at Western Maryland.

As Editor of Contrast, I have become more aware of the attitudes and feelings of the campus community. It also leads to understanding the common bonds we share as humans. Perhaps one of the most important aspects of this process we make in our four years at Western Maryland, the personal progress made in writing is measured by growth and change in style. Hopefully, the movement is positive and results in a better expression of the writer's intention. Working with both the creative and technical aspects of a literary magazine has been an important experience for me.

By our senior year, we are ready to leave the protected atmosphere of the college campus. We take with us what we have learned and the friends we have made. The relationships I have developed with the people at Western Maryland have been my best experiences at school. Not all of these experiences were happy ones, but they all helped me grow. At Western Maryland, I feel that I have been educated in the broadest sense of the word and my gratitude extends to the administration, the faculty, and the students.

A WMC professor once told me that a liberal arts education meant developing a good crap-detector. It is an important achievement to understand the origins of different schools of thought and the motivations that lead people (especially professors) to say what they say. Learn to look behind the prepared statement and to read between the lines of a publication and ask this question: is it humanistically oriented? If it does not help people in society to become more fully human then it does not agree with the goals espoused at WMC nor with the proper aim of all education.

That brings up another question. Why do you do the things you do? Do you have an ultimate purpose in your life, something greater than yourself, something that will stay with you in spirit when everything around you is in a state of flux? Is the job you are doing or are the courses you are studying not a part of "the solution" and therefore part of "the problem"? ...

Is the school you are going to part of the solution to your internal journey? If not, start searching harder or look elsewhere because you will never find contentment until you do.

Do I sound like I know all the answers? I shouldn't because I don't feel as though I do. The answers are always different for each individual and ever changing as we grow; for myself this has been true. I only know that my experiences here at WMC has been a beautiful, although very stressful, one for my own inquiry and search. I feel like I have run the gauntlet between the different departments' courses, pushed myself at times into the widest variety of experiences, and studied many alternative methodologies for looking at the world. I have been rewarded both in the process and in the final product by making many friends. So many people here have so much honest warmth to give if you only ask for it. I would wish it upon any fellow human being to have as valuable an experience as I have had, but I think that only comes about by continually "becoming," searching, and questioning. That includes questioning this essay.

While the 1978-79 was a year of great promise, it also contained much sadness.

The Western Maryland College Community lost four of its members. They were (clockwise from top left): Patty Stoner, Jim Hendon, Mark Helfrich and Smokey (Louis Sadler).

Patty was well known for her academic achievements and much liked by both students and faculty. Mark was a day student from Westminster with an intense interest in Art History. He also busied himself with photography and with a part-time job at Sears. Jim was best known for his love of music, particularly brass. He was easy going and persistent in his dedication to become a better musician. Smokey, while never a student at WMC, was unquestionably a member of the college community. He had a nickname for nearly everyone on campus and was the Hill's greatest sports fan.

These people will be sorely missed and all of us at Western Maryland mourn their passing.

At the end of one passage is the beginning of another. Passage has occurred here in the physical collection of words and pictures, but it remains to the individual to be affected by this journey in a personal sense. Your passage through Western Maryland College may or may not be complete at the close of this 1979 Passages; we hope you will find and enjoy the challenge of meeting those new passages which are open to you because of your experience here.

Random Notes

The last copy is fitted, and the last picture cropped. Now, 304 pages of toil are left to the printer's hands. It is only fitting that I take this final page to thank those responsible for putting together this yearbook. We worked with a small staff this year and it required much labor from those few who did stick it out through the last deadlines.

Thanks and recognition should be extended to all those who acted as Section Editors: Julie Ashby, Glen Barlow, Terry Dom, and Jenny Filbey. Special thanks are due Sue Quinn who served as both the Photography Editor, and as a Section Editor. I recognize that you all had to work very hard – harder than you should have been expected to work – but without that work there would be no 1979 Yearbook.

Thanks should be extended to those who were not even on the staff but helped in many ways: Sue's family (for indexing), Laura Polk (for typing), Bob Hale (for photography), Nancy Heinbaugh (for the beautiful cover), and last but far from least Marcia (for helping me keep my sanity, and a little of everything).

Editing Passages was the most difficult project I have ever undertaken, and I hope that the results of that work will be well received. I learned much about assuming responsibility for something in which you really believe. I made many new friends, and while I would never want to repeat the experience, I'm glad I was the Editor for 1978-79.

Sincerely,

Dave Meyer

P.S. Editors never seem to get the recognition they deserve – thanx Dave!
