It was a quiet, pensive moment as if nature was holding its breath. The prevailing stillness seemed to herald another moment of drama to come.

Suddenly, I was aware of birdsong, the melody of a running stream, and Breezes humming through the trees.

It was a rhapsody of life.
I will... because

I can

The 1985-86 soccer team had a competitive season last fall. They finished with a record of 8 wins and 4 losses with 4 ties. The team made it to the Maryland State Tournament semi-finals before being eliminated by Johns Hopkins. Junior Steve Lutche led the team in scoring and was also selected as a member of the 1985 All-Maryland Soccer Team.
Brazil’s first round draft pick, WMC’s own Andy McGill, congratulated by teammates after tying the score with two minutes remaining.

Neil Gwynn, a junior transfer, led the Terrors in scoring and was voted “Rookie of the Year.”

Defensive mainstay Brian Nicholas steals the ball from a Gettysburg forward as Steve Lutche and Rich Metz back him up.
Freshman Shawn Young awaits the referees okay before going in for Karen Miles.

A forward line spiker chalks up another point for the Terrors.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

"Here, YOU take it," says Jeff Stampler quickly confusing the Shoreman nearby.

When Chris Lambertson blocks, he refuses to let anyone by.
Lisa Sullivan looks for an open person to pass on the ball, so her "eager" rival from Lebanon Valley doesn't steal it.

What raw courage it takes to go down fighting, but Elaine Joyce comes out a winner.

Freshman Molly Coberly gets out of third-year veteran Cindy Boyer's way so SHE can make the shot.

This winter a new tradition was born on the Hill. For the first time in the school’s history, WMC had an ice hockey team. The team was made up of players who had varying amounts of experience and talent. The team was forced to seek out sponsors from the community in order to survive, but nothing was going to stop these students from playing.

As many people are aware, there was no real CROSSROADS staff this year. The development of this book resulted from the undying determination of a small group of students. The editor would like to gratefully thank the following people for contributing artistic talent, typing fingers, photos, and — above all — their time:

Boo Ginter
Theresa Bernhardt
Debbie Suite
Nora Brattan
Mike Martinovich
Lee Holmes
Cat Becker
Toni Crea
Margaret Gemski

Melissa Durley
Debbie Dean
Todd MacMillan
Cindy Ebert
Rebecca Gagnon
Lori Hayman

Tina Pagliocchini

Also, many thanks go to George Welty and photographers at the Carroll County Times for supplying several photos when desperately needed. If it weren’t for the “little people” doing the “little things”, no one would be reading this memoir today.
Dave Douglas and Dan Pipes seem to have some problems with their dresses as the contestants line up for the judging.

"Oh, what a feeling . . ."
Who are these ravishing, beautiful men? They are the most talented, most lovely men at Western Maryland with the most shapely figures. Mr. WMC is an annual event sponsored by the Delta Sigma Kappa sorority. This year, the competition was rather tough. There were five men involved in the show. They were: Dan Pipes, Tom (Rinch) Reich, Bob Forsythe, Dave Douglas, and John Stonebraker. Each contestant competed in the evening gown and talent competitions. The overall winner of the show was Tom Reich with his imitation of Mick Jagger. Angie Tissue and Missy Arhos shared the role of Master of Ceremonies.
Americans have been especially interested in good health in the last few years and WMC participated in this move toward healthy living with Wellness Day, a spring time event. The forum was decorated with tables and booths that supplied information on topics such as blood pressure, alcohol, and hygiene. Various community groups, including Junction (a drug and alcohol abuse center) and the Carroll County Health Department participated to make the school and community more aware of health problems and to help people take an active role in maintaining their own health. Certain student groups participated when health awareness was appropriate to the goals of the organization. Students, faculty, and staff involved themselves in various types of health testing and picked up available brochures. The day was informative and fun for all who participated.

Once upon a time there used to be a tradition that the juniors would have a show mimicking the seniors and picking on the school. Well, last year the tradition faltered. This year, a very determined class president pulled together with a small group of class members. Working long hours, racking brains for creative ideas, and going crazy in the process, this very small and dedicated group pulled through and put on a fantastic show. The prime time line up included: Terror Shuffle, Dating Game, commercials, videos, This Is Your Life, a cafeteria scene, affinity housing, The Best of Carson, a special guest star, Family Feud, and the Emmy Awards.

In WMC's rendition of Family Feud, faculty participants consisted of Sue Singer, Mrs. Schmall, Kathy Dawkins, George Poling, and Paul Welliver

Beginning with early childhood, imitated by Dave Douglas, and resulting in a full-fledged Terror, complements of Darryl Curton, this was only one episode of This Is Your Life

As the group of dedicated juniors gather together for a last sentimental song, everyone still kept smiles on their faces.

Just the way you are
Don't go changin' to try to please us
You never let us down before
Don't imagine that once you leave here,
We won't see you anymore.

If you had left us in times of trouble
We never could have come this far
We had some good times, forgot the bad times
We love you just the way you are.

When you're out in your new position
We wish you all the luck out there
If you run into complication
Remember our class really cares.

We've had some friendly conversations
And it was you who pulled us through
We just needed someone who we could talk to
We love you just the way you are.

You need to know that you will always be the same old seniors that we know
Ah, what will we do without you by our side,
because we all believe in you.

Good luck class of '86
And this we promise from the heart
We'll always love you as our seniors
We love you just the way you are.

FOOD, GAMES, MUSIC . . . These words and many others can be used to describe this year's May Day. Occurring on the first weekend in May, May Day is traditionally a pre-exam, end of the year party. CAP Board sponsors the all-day party and this year, the event was organized by graduating seniors Nancy Sekira and Sharon Eimer.

This year's celebration was a great success. Entertainment was provided throughout the early afternoon by groups such as WMC's own performing group Sounds Of Silence and student singers Joel Tyberg and Nicolle Gaines. Comedian David Nash took center stage in the late afternoon. The popular Skip Castro Band provided music after a picnic dinner. The evening was capped off by a fireworks display at sunset.

Members of the school population, as well as the Westminster community, enjoyed the day's festivities.

This guy is definitely one to smile and "clown around"

Greek Day at WMC is traditionally the day when the school’s 350 or so Greeks forget their social rivalries and join together to have one big party. This year’s celebration, sponsored by the Inter-Greek Council, was no exception.

Many members of WMC’s eight fraternities and sororities attended the all-day party and, though the weather was not very cooperative, the clouds did not put a damper on the festivities.

The day was highlighted by a faculty vs. Greeks softball game. Several faculty members and two members of each Greek organization participated in the game, which was won by the faculty.

At the conclusion of the game, the band Crash Davenport provided music for the party and, later in the day, a picnic was provided by Marriott Food Services.

Above left: Whatever letters one may wear, Greek day was a time for everyone to join in on the fun.

Investiture and Honors Convocation, held on the fourth day of May, began with the graduating seniors marching into Baker Memorial Chapel. Choral presentations, sung by the college’s concert choir, followed. It is a tradition that the school’s president robes the class president, this year it was Sharon Eimer. The Superintendent of Baltimore City Schools, Alice Pinderhughes, came to give a few remarks to the audience who nearly filled the pews of the chapel. An honorary degree was awarded to Ms. Pinderhughes.

This is also a time when recipients of various awards are recognized whether they be academic, leadership, activity, faculty, or alumni awards.

Honors

"Which way do we go?"

Uh oh, you’ve got ring around the collar!
Convocation

"So, Brian, how many awards did you get this year?"

Angie Tissue fixes the collar of Linda Strandberg's gown mumbling under her breath.
Graduation

May 25, 1986 was a memorable day for the WMC community as well as for the graduating class of 1986. After much controversy over the date and time of the occasion, graduation was finally held on Sunday afternoon following final exam week. The day was bright and sunny as were the festivities. Many seniors were honored with Phi Beta Kappa, departmental honors, and many other awards. Several seniors competed for the distinction of graduating top of the class. Honorary degrees were awarded to: Alice Pinderhughes, Cabell Calloway, Roderick J. MacDonald, and Thomas Howard Eaton.

Graduate students also receive degrees at this time. This student worked for a Masters degree in deaf education.

The long parade of faculty and graduates is led by marshalls to the front of the gym to begin the commencement exercises.
