College: A Step

HOLD ON TO THE MOMENT Single file and yet together, We have shared our greatest days. And we carry common memories In different ways.

Though we don't know where we're going. We will cherish where we've been. I want to cry. I want to shout ... Want to let this feeling out.

Hold on to the moment. Let the feelings show. Hold on to the moment. Never let it go.

In Time

I can picture us together

Before it ends.

There was laughter.

There were tears.

With my arms around my friends. I'll hold on to this moment,

Through these four golden years. — Unknown

The deaf education program is an integral part of Western Maryland. There are several deaf students attending WMC. Although they cannot hear, they are able to express their emotions with words...

NOONE KNOWS ....

Noone knows ... Why the eagles soar Or the sun shines Why the ocean is wicked And dangerous Yet beautiful and abundant ... Why we are witness the changing of the seasons Of man's neverending questioning To the 'why's' of life ...

Noone knows ... Why we are so different Our souls holding mysteries known only to the beholder Why we can never really know each other Why we are capable of love Of hate Of pain and suffering And of knowing happiness.

Noone knows ... Why I am T And you are 'you' And why we are not each other Instead. Why I am hard of hearing And you are not.

Why you don't understand this Nor seek to understand. But then How could you? You are hearing And You, over there, are deaf. I am neither. But I long for the same understanding The same acceptance That your two worlds have For yourselves, And for each other.

Your speech, And your signs, Are your identity, Your life. Black and white. Nothing can be simpler. But Have you forgotten Those subtle shades of grey That lie between? Have you forgotten That I too have an identity? That I have grown tired of making those endless explanations Of what I can and cannot hear. Of being who I am not. I listen to your tapes of Bill Cosby Your records, and radios. I laugh when you laugh But I have no idea of what was so funny. You explain You turn up your radios You raise your voice But it is too late. The spontaneity of the moment is lost As the sounds that come to my ears Are lost in distortion. And I become deaf Angry Frustraded ... My needs Washed by the tides of misunderstanding And I question 'why'?

Your signs And Your speech. Between two worlds And no answer to the 'why'....

The doors leading to Decker College Center lead us into a building housing several business offices. Many of us take for granted the amount of work done in this building.

The people in these offices are probably the most overlooked. Their work load is never broadcasted — they just do the work that needs to be done. Along with working, many of them enroll in classes that are offered at the college plus raising a family. Although sometimes these people go unnoticed, the students know that they are there to help them in any way possible.

Students will always reflect on their experiences at Western Maryland College.

CROSSROADS

The 1988 Crossroads staff would like to thank everyone who contributed to the production of this year's yearbook. Though the staff was small, their hard work and determination should not be overlooked. The staff put in many, many hours of work in order to put this book together. Thanks to all of them.

Special thanks is given to Coy Harris, Yearbook Representative from Herff Jones Yearbooks. Your help and assistance is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely, 1988 Crossroads Staff Tina Smith Cynthia Schrader Amanda Wanamaker Susan Scalley Debra Weber Shirley Lok Pamela Scharrer
