WHAT'S ALL THE COMMOTION?

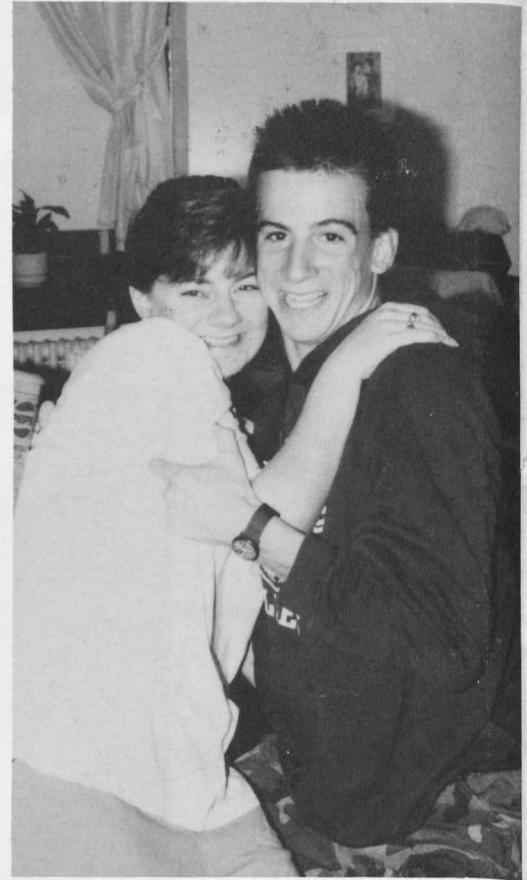

This year had an atmosphere of change and improvement. It seemed like everywhere there were sign of significant happenings. That's not to say significant things don't happen every year; of course they do. This year they just seemed more prevalent.

With ground being broken in April 1989, the extensive renovation and refurbishment of the Hoover Library began. Inside, the library continued adding resources in the form of computer CDs featuring humanities, social science, and education indexes. Meanwhile, other buildings and structures on campus got face-lifts: the gazebo between Whiteford and McDaniel, the brick wall behind Big Baker, and the basement of Memorial to name a few. There was also the reconstruction of the first floor of Blanche Ward after a summer fire caused extensive damage.

The campus media groups felt the waves of change, too. The Phoenix found a new editor-in-chief in Mary Baschoff. The college radio station, WMCR, continued developing towards a more organized and professional broadcasting style with notable improvements. And the yearbook office was moved from Blanche Ward to a more central location in the basement of Daniel McLea.

Of course, there were many other changes happening: too many to list here. Read on then and see how Fall 1988 and Spring 1989 stood out. Find out what other changes took place as we try to answer the question, "What's all the commotion?"

It's Thursday night, and Mary-Beth Craig and John Olsh can barely contain themselves.

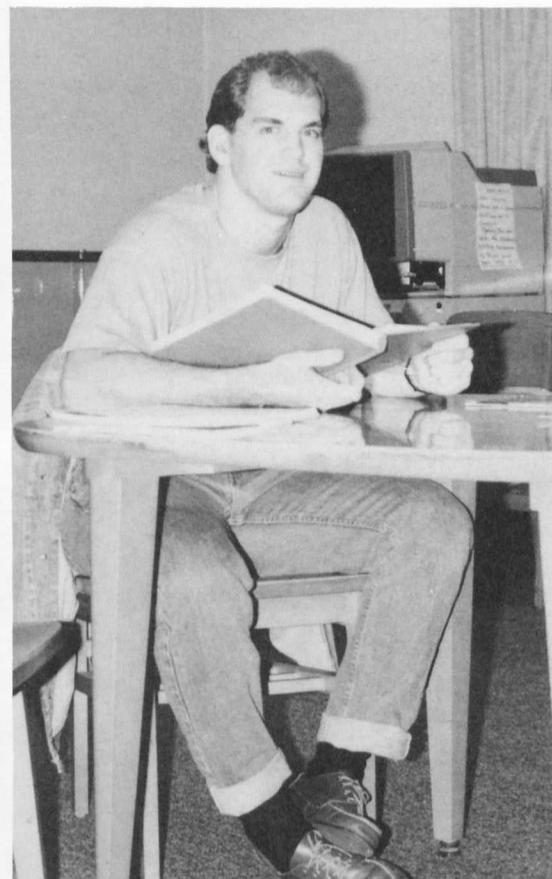

The new reference librarian, Mark Collier, fails to keep Michele Sampson's attention.

Suffering from the effects of weather, the gazebo received a face-lift this year.

Beth Yingling squeezes in a couple of minutes studying in Decker.

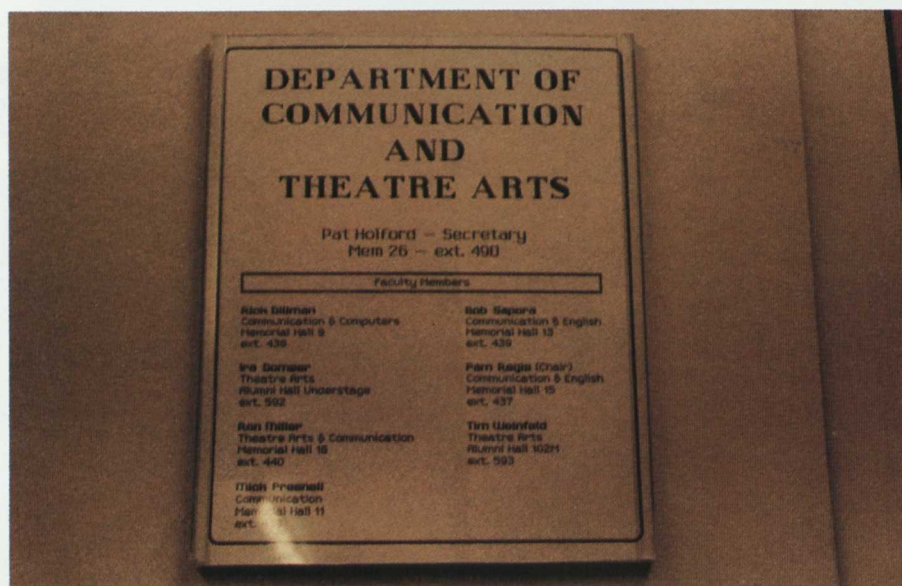

Chris Madden takes time out from studying genetics to smile for the Crossroads camera.

Take a good look, soon the Hoover Library will have a whole new look.

Decker center still provides a lounge for commuters.

The merging of Communications and Theatre Arts officially settles in.

Lea Stanley, Libby Bieling, Dan Schecter, and Sarah Biggs are happy to have their picture taken.

The basement of Memorial recently got remodelled, creating a neater, more open atmosphere.

"Make sure I'm in the picture," George Sterling advises as he, Pat Stokes, Jackson Taylor, and Carrie Arbaugh grab a bite in the pub.

The new Assistant Director of College Activities, Cindy Zeiher, is busy at work ... as usual.

Jason Plummer may look like he's doing nothing, but he's got his eye on the youngster he occasionally babysits.

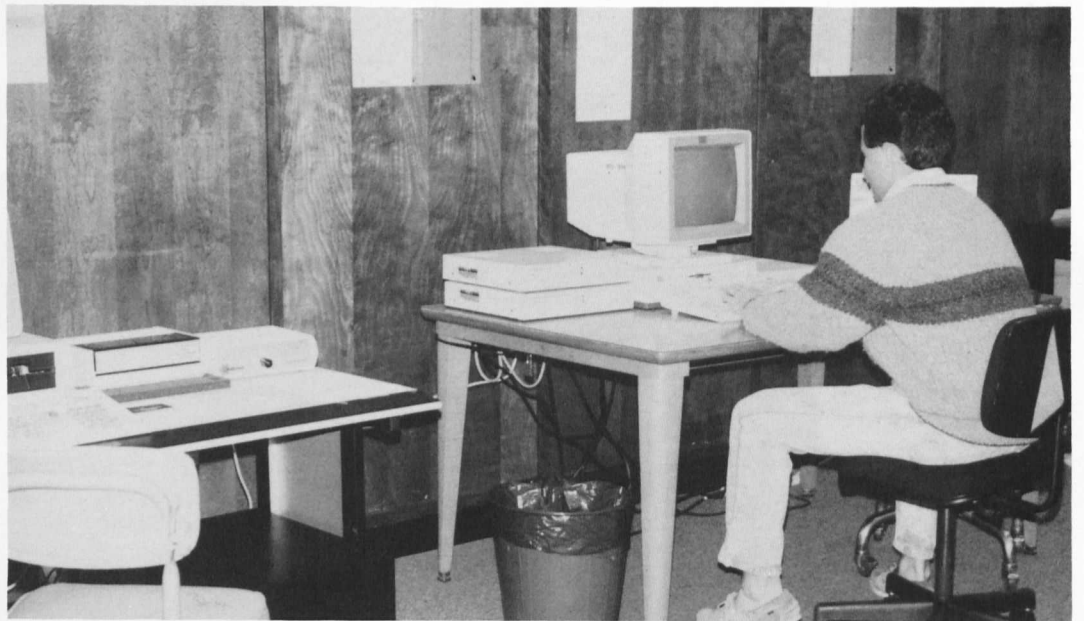

Matt Levy takes care of some WMCR business by phone.

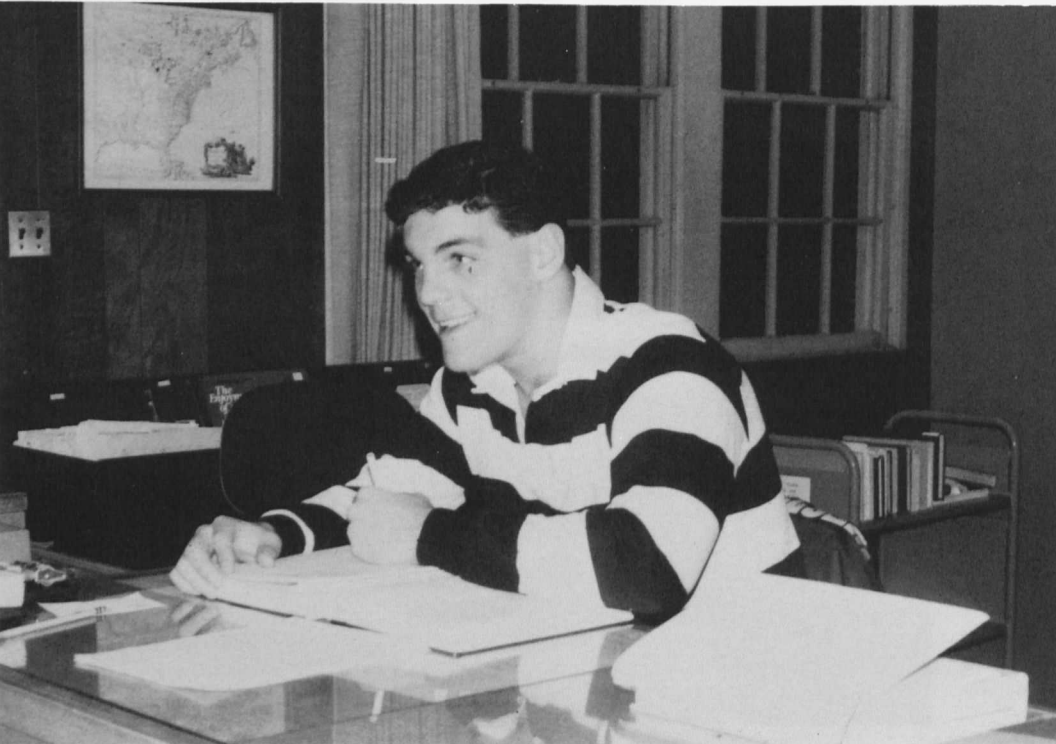

Eric Wagner refuses to be distracted; he's one of the disc jockeys on the revitalized campus station, WMCR.

Keith Swain takes advantage of the latest addition to the library's computer resources.

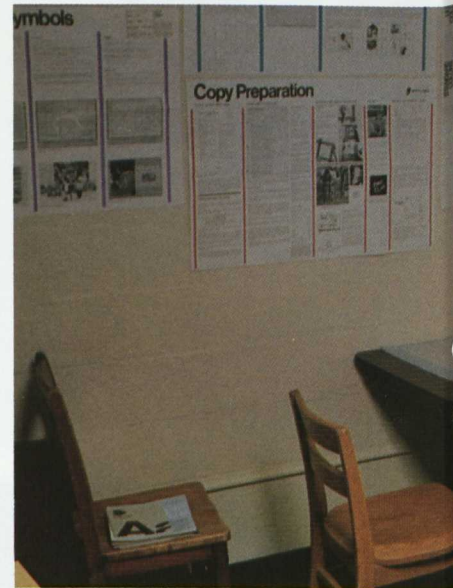

It's Thursday at 9 pm and, surprise, Ken Evans isn't swamped with people checking out library materials.

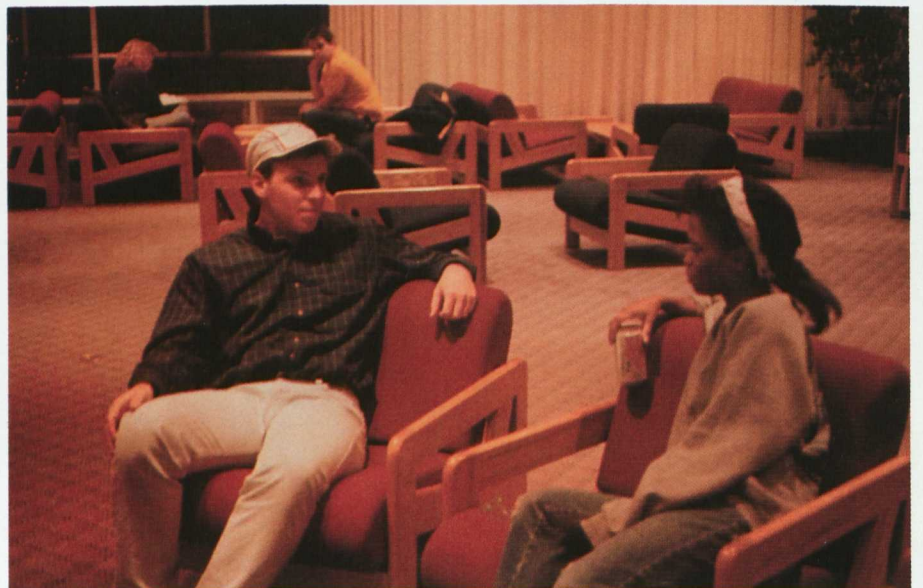

Kristine Meislohn and Robin Askins study for finals in the pub.

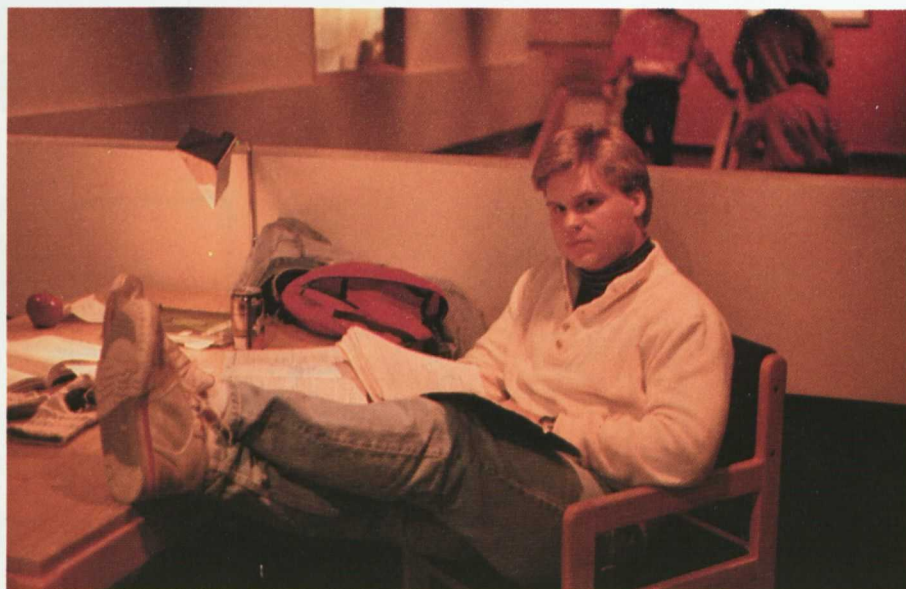

Wendy Ruderman and Mary Baschoff, the new Phoenix editor, pick an unusual (and dangerous) place for a talk.

Michela Patterson and Alex Adamopoulos exchange some words before he leaves for winter break.

Ross Suter wishes finals were over.

The 1988 Homecoming court featuring Kim Lohmann and Jim Cardea as the Queen and her escort.

Did anyone ever see Roxanne Benjovsky outside the writing center? Of course ... she had to eat!

Saturday, May 20, 1989 marked Western Maryland College's 119th commencement ceremony, and approximately 355 Master's and Bachelor's degrees were awarded. With greetings from James Cardea, class president; James P. Gallagher, President of the Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science; and Christianna Nichols, Assistant Professor of Political Science, the ceremony lasted just over two hours. Timothy Whitney received the Argonaut award for graduating at the top of his class with a 3.9+ G.P.A. Five honorary degrees were awarded. Julian A. Tavenner, Chaplain Administrator of Asbury Village in Gaithersburg, MD, was named honorary Doctor of Divinity, and William Bevard Dulany, a college trustee, received a Doctor of Laws degree. Dolores Cauwels Snyder, President of WMC Development Corporation, received a Doctor of Humane Letters degree as did W. James Hindman, President of Jiffy Lub International, Inc., and William Sloane Coffin, Jr., President of E/FREEZE, the nation's largest peace organization. The ceremony was held in the cool confines of PELC while the reception afterwards took place in the Quad.

"Of course we can."

We're your neighbors with the know-how. So, when you need financial help — long-term savings and investments or fast approvals on flexible credit plans with competitive rates, remember, you're not alone. You have neighbors who want to help.

There's one more reason to say, "Of course we can." We're a member of Mercantile Bankshares Corporation, a group of 17 leading community banks. We have our own local Board of Directors and management teams, so all our lending decisions are made right here. You benefit from our commitment to this community as well as from the resources and safety of Mercantile Bankshares Corporation, one of the most financially sound banking organizations in the nation.
